Simple Way to Get Rid of Blackheads
There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dirt and dust and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

SIR THOMAS WHITE TELLS OF AFFAIRS

Cheque Was Received in egular Course of His Professional Business

TORONTO, May 6 (Canadian Press). — Sir Thomas White, former Minister of Finance, to-day issued a statement in connection with the story that he had received $1,500 from the Home Bank of Canada for services rendered as special adviser a few days before that institution closed its doors, in which he told of his efforts to have the bank taken over by other institutions. When these efforts failed he advised the directors of the bank as to the necessary steps to close the institution and appoint a curator.

"The cheque referred to this morning," said Sir Thomas, "was received by me last August in the usual course of my professional business."

Early in August he had been called from his Muskoka home to Toronto to advise the directors of the bank on its condition. After reviewing the report of Mr. Calvert, acting general manager, he advised that the directors would not be justified upon the situation disclosed in continuing the business of the bank as a going concern. He advised further that they should interview the Minister of Finance and the Canadian Bankers' Association. When efforts for relief in thest directions failed the bank closed its doors.

Sir Thomas said the cheque was made out in his own name, and was deposited in his own bank in the usual course of business, and put through the clearing house in the usual way.

He further stated that at no time previous to last August had he had any business or professional transactions with the Home Bank. As a matter of fact, he had never been inside its doors. Last August he had seen only Casey Wood, who was a director and solicitor of the bank, and Mr. Calvert. He saw none of the other directors.

Sir Thomas White stated that he had desired to testify in his recent evidence at Ottawa as to the advice he gave the bank, but was unable to do so because of the rule which prohibits a lawyer from testifying as to the advice he gives the client. He had mentioned the matter to Mr. Lafleur, K.C., Government counsel, who had concurred in his view.

Sir Thomas stated that he would at once apply to the liquidator, and if necessary to the Court for permission to testify as to the advice he gave the bank and the circumstances under which it was given. He added that he believed it could have been saved last summer had there been co-operation between the Government and the Bankers' Association.

PREFERENCE ON SUGAR PROVED SUBSIDY FOR WEST INDIAN PLANTER

Chancellor Snowden's Budget Avoided Four Amendments on Foodstuffs—Preference On Sugar Had Disastrous Effect of Reducing the Production Within the Empire While Taxpayer Provided Extra Profit For Planters — Danger of United States Dumping Emphasized.

IMPLEMENTING PEOPLE'S VOTE.

LONDON, May 7 (Canadian Press). — Labour's first Budget remained unchanged last night after the House of Commons had voted four times on amendments to alter its provisions for reduced duties on tea, cocoa, coffee, chicory, and sugar. The bitterest debates were on the sweetest subject—sugar.

The Conservatives, harping on their rejected schemes for Imperial preference, proposed a ten-year preference for sugar from British West Indies and other possessions. If that were not acceptable, their speaktrs argued that at the very least the status quo of a litle over four shillings preference per hundredweight ought to be maintained, instead of Chancellor Snowden's proposed preference of a little under two shillings.

The House, however, supported the Chancellor, rejecting an amendment offered by Sir Wm. Mitchell-Thomson, to stabilise the preference on sugar at 4s 3½d, by 243 votes to 182.

The Government, with the support of the Liberals, had a slightly larger majority in defeating the other amendments. One of them was for a reduction in the duty on Empire tea to 2d per pound, another to eliminate all duty on Empire cocoa.

Dump U. S. Surplus

The bugaboo of United States dumping so eloquently used by toseh who forsee a flood of automobiles entering England when the McKenna duties are lifted, was likewise utilized in the debate on sugar. William Ormsby-Gore asserted that a combination of traders in the United States was being formed in order to market surplus sugar in Europe, and that Chancellor Snowden was placing consumers in Great Britain under the heel of sugar export corporations of United States at the very moment when he had a chance to increase enormously British source of spply. Furthermore, Mr. Snowden, was repudiating a bargain made with the colonies at the Imperial Conference.

In reply, the Chancellor presented figures to show that the West Indies under preference had been producing less sugar than before and, so far as breaking faith was concerned the speaker again reminded the Conservatives that they had asked the country for a verdict on protection, and the country had turned them down. He declared that the sugar amendment was proposed in the interests of the West Indies planters and at the expense of the consumers in Great Britain, and that every penny of the West Indian preference in the past five years had gone to increase the planter's profits.

Make Costs More

Sir Phillip Lloyd-Greame, former president of the Board of Trade, contended that if the Chancellor of the Exchequer made Great Britain more dependent upon American sources of supply, he was taking the surest course of make food costs more. The great American sugar development had been entirely built upon preference.

Sir William Ormsby-Gore declared that the budget was "riveting upon the country dependence upon American trusts and combines."

Defending his position, Chancellor Snowden counter-attacked the Conservative arguments. He said that Empire production of sugar had increased only 100,00 otons under five years of protection. In the West Indies production fell from 191,000 tons in 1919 to 159,000 last year.

Planters Got Benefit

"Every penny of preference," he continued, "has gone to increased profits for the West Indian planter. It was simply a subsidy given by the taxpayer of this country, for the West Indian plantation has not achieved the purpose for which it was intended. If figures mean anything at all, it has had the disastrous effect of reducing the production of Empire sugar by 25 per cent.'

Mr. Snowden told the members of the House they might take it for granted in all future debts on an amendment for the reduction of taxation that if concessions were given he might find compensation by not repealing the McKenna duties. He said that an agreement on that point would save wearisome reiteration of arguments. This followed a remark by Sir Phillip Lloyd-Greame that a concession on the duty on tea could be made if the McKnna duties were retained.

Border Protected Montreal Masher

MONTREAL, May 7 (Canadian Press). — James Chowles, 32, of no address, had an ingenious way of evading the law against "mashing." He would lie in wait for his prey at the confines of Montreal and Westmount, and would accost women just on the border, so that when the Montreal police hove in sight he could slip across where they have no jurisdiction.

A number of complaints were received, and the Montreal and the Westmount police acted in conjunction.

They succeeded in landing James, and in the Recorder's Court yesterday he was sentenced to six months in jail, without the option of a fine.

DIVORCE LAST YEAR DECLINED

Cases in Canada 39 Less Than In 1922 But Total of 505 Is Still Far In Excess of 57 Granted In 1916.

OTTAWA, May 7.— (Canadian Press.)— Figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show a slight decrease in the number of divorces granted in Canada in 1923. Whereas in 1922, 544 divorces were granted in the Dominion, the second largest number on record, the figure for 1923 shows a decrease of 39, or 7.2 per cent. to 505.

In explanation of the surprising increase from the 67 divorces granted in 1916 to 548 in 1921, emphasis is laid on two main causes:

(1) The unsettling psychological effects of the war period, combined with the long separations, and (2) the provision of new facilities for divorce resulting from a decision of the Imperial Privy Council in 1918 which enabled the courts of the prairie provinces to grant divorces where previously an act of parliament had been necessary.

The slight decrease in divorces granted in 1922 from the previous year, followed by the more marked decline during 1923, may indicate that the wave of divorce due to the war has passed its crest.

The number of divorces granted in 1923 by provinces (exclusive of Prince Edward Island) was 139 in British Columbia; 105 in Ontario; 87 in Alberta; 81 in Manitoba; 41 in Saskatchewan; 22 in Nova Scotia; 19 in New Brunswick and 11 in Quebec. Increases during the year being evident in Ontario, Quebec, Saskatchewan, New Brunswick and British Columbia, offset by rather marked decrease in Alberta, Manitoba and Nova Scotia.

PETITION FROM WOMEN AGAINST UNION MEASURE

Rev. Stuart Parker of Toronto Pleaded Against Church Bill On Behalf of Many Women 'Heart and Soul Opposed to It'—The Amendment Rejected By Unionists.

HEARING NOT ENDED.

OTTAWA, May 7. — (Canadian Press).—A refusal to accept the church union bill, coupled with an amendment that it should go into force on a sixty per cent. vote of the Presbyterian Church members or adherents was made by F. H. Chrysler K.C., counsel for the opponents of the bill, during the proceedings on the bill in the Commons' Private Bills Committee Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Chrysler said that he spoke only for himself, but said that he had no authority to accept such an amendment. He added his personal opinion that such an amendment would be dangerous. He expressed the view that the issue before the committee should not be settled by Parliament. It involved a large amount of property held under certain trusts, and should be left to the courts for settlement.

Plea From Women

Mr. Chrysler's statement and cross examination occupied most of the day. In the latter part of the afternoon however, Rev. Stuart Parker of Toronto, made a plea against the bill on behalf of "a large number of women heart and soul opposed" to it. Mr. Parker, who is one of the ministers at New St. Andrew's, Toronto, asserted that the Unionists were "standing ruthlessly on a technicality." The bill, he said, would take away both the name and property of the Presbyterian Church in Canada and would defraud the anti-unionists of their connection with their church.

Mr. Parker, who had not concluded when the ommittee rose, asserted on the authority of a specialist on Presbyterian Church law that the Barrier Act gave no power to change the constitution of the church.

Mr. Brethen's Question

G. A. Brethen of Peterborough, called Mr. Chrysters' attention to the vote in Methodist Conferences over the Union of 1884. There were, he said, 364 votes for union and 284 against in the conferences of one Methodist church; and in the General Conference of that body 123 for and 38 against. In the face of these facts what did Mr. Chrysler mean by saying that there was unanimity in the Methodist Churches over union.

Mr. Chrysler replied by asking whether the opponents of union came to Parliament to oppose the bill. That was the real question, he maintained. W. A. Boys of Simcoe, said it was desirable to "get the warring factors together" and with that in view asked Mr. Chrysler whether he would be prepared to accept an amendment providing that the bill should come into force on a majority vote of the Presbyterian church members or adherents.

"I have no authority to accept an amendment," was the reply. "Personally I think that would be a dangerous thing to agree to."

"Would you be willing to accept a sixty per cent. vote," pursued Mr. Boys.

Trusts Involved

"No," answered Mr. Chrysler, "I would not work along this line. Personally I would not let a vote determine it." He explained that there was a legal question of trusts involved. Moreover the General Assembly had no power to compel members of the Presbyterian Church to come into the union church.

"If those against the bill are absolutely inflexible," commented Mr. Boys, "and those for it will not accept a vote, then we will have to take our stand and let the chips fall where they may."

In reply to a further inquiry from Harold Putnam of Colchester, Mr. Chrysler said that the question was not one which should be settled by Parliament at all. There was a large amount of property involved, and the matter should go to the courts.

Rev. Mr. Parker Heard

At this point Mr. Chrysler was temporarily relieved and Rev. Stuart Parker of Toronto, was called upon.

He began by stating that he represented a large body of women who "are opposed heart and soul to this bill."

"We are humiliated," he said, "that we have to come before a committee of the Parliament of this Dominion to plead for the life of our church The dice are heavily loaded against us. If your judgment goes against us we have no church. The advocates of this bill are playing the ancient and safe game of 'heads I win, tails you lose'."

Another Sacrifice to Anthracite

One hundred and fourteen men are believed to have been killed in a gas explosion in the Benwood Mine of the Wheeling Steel Corporation at Benwood, W. Va. The blast occurred soon after the men had gone down to begin their day's work. This picture shows a Bureau of Mines rescue squad from Pittsburgh entering the shaft.

WOMEN CAN ONLY WAIT AND HOPE

Hundreds of men, women, and children stood for hours at the entrance of the Benwood mine. The girl at the right waited for hours for news of her sweetheart, who was in the mine when the explosion occurred.

POINCARE FINDS GRAVE REASONS FOR VIGILANCE

German Offensive Against the Franc and Nationalist Gains in Sunday Elections Regarded As Warning—Will Recall Troops When Reparations Are Paid.

Thanks Business Men.

PARIS, May 7 (Canadian Press). — Premier Poincare announced at a banquet of the French Chambers of Commerce last night that France was perfectly ready to restore Germany's economic unity whenever the Reich put into execution the experts' programme, but not before.

Germany's recent offensive against the franc and the outcome of Sunday's elections in Germany, he said, showed clearly that France must more than ever be on her guard.

He reiterated that the French troops would be withdrawn from the Ruhr only in proportion to the reparations paid.

Saved the Franc.

The Premier's speech was devoted for the most part to internal affairs. He expressed appreciation of the French business men's support in the recent taxation measures, which, he declared, played a great role in saving the franc. Regarding the experts' report, M. Poincare went on:

"We have said and repeated that France would accept with good grace and absolutely spontaneously the conclusions of the experts, as outlined by the Reparation Commission. We have said, and repeated, that we would re-establish the economic unity of the Reich as soon as Germany put into execution the programme established by the Commission.

Ask Rights in Peace.

"But we do not yet know when or how Germany will carry out this programme, or even if she will carry it out, and neither the attempts she has made in the past few weeks against our exchange, her efforts to throw upon us the responsibility for delay, nor the results of the Reichstag elections, are likely to inspire confidence. We are then obliged to preserve vigilance and firmness and we remain resolved not to take our troops out of the Ruhr except in proportion to the payments made.

"We ask only our rights in peace, but we will not accept that any of these rights shall be taken from us."

FARMERS' LOSS IS PREVENTED

Bondholders In Defunct Company Will Be Refunded Amount of Their Investment—New Start For Farmers.

QUEBEC, May 7 (Canadian Press). — Amounts varying between $1,500 and $20,000 which had been invested by labourers, farmers or estates in bonds of the defunct Machine Agricole De Montmagny, and which under an agreement have to be reimbursed by La Banque D'Hochelaga, which has absorbed the Banque Nationale, will bring back a measure of prosperity to some and at least a number of farmers, who had sold their farms, to start anew.

Hon. L. G. Belley, K.C., president of the Bondholderss' Protective Committee, initiated on Tuesday the first proceedings which is to bring the refund of some $680,000, plus interest, amounting to about $50,000, to some four hundred investors, 90 per cent. of whom reside in the counties of Moutmorency, Montmagny, Bellechasse, Kamouraska, and Levis.

Claims are sent direct to the Banque D'Hochelaga, which institution transmits them to the public service commission.

The latter will give a notice to the effect that the claims will be considered after two weeks' time, and at a special session to be held in this city under the presidency of Adrien Beaudry and the two other commissioners, F. C. Laberge and Macalister, each case will be taken up.

After the claims have been studied the Banque D'Hochelaga will comply with the instructions issued by the Commission and pay to the bonafide bondholders the claims allowed.

Already some fifty claims have been forwarded.

SCHOOL ASSOCIATION HELD A GOOD MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the King George Home and School Association was held in the school last evening, with an attendance of about one hundred people. The president, Mr. James Ellis, occupied the chair. The feature of the evening was a fine address, entitled, "The Tragedy of Childhood," given by Mr. L. J. Petit, of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute staff. This was an exceptionaly interesting address, and was listened to with keen attention by those present. Mr. Petit took for his subject the consideration of the child whose natural instincts with regard to a vocation in life are thwarted by parents with contrary desires. He instanced the case of a boy who had an inclination for photography, and was compelled by his father to be a business man, because the parent had made a success of business. He also said that children whose natural bent was toward athletics rather than study should not be considered as failures and discouraged. Parents, as well as teachers, often failed in this regard, said the speaker.

During the business session, it was decided to hold a paper collection week. At the conclusion, refreshments were served, and a social hour spent. A musical programme given during the evening included a vocal duet by Lillie Ellis and Margaret Bethune; a vocal solo by Mrs. E. Kitney; two instrumental quartettes by the Messrs. D. Anderson J. Parkins, W. Taggart and S. Parkins; an instrumental selection by Mrs. W. Smith; vocal solos by Mrs. L. Brooks and Mr. F. Pratt, a reading by Miss C. Puffer, and a vocal duet by Mabel Bettes and Jimmie Ellis. At the conclusion of the evening, the assisting artists were entertained at her home by Mrs. F. Milliken, convenor of the musical programme.

IRISH BOUNDARY NOT POLITICAL

Sir James Craig Declares It a Matter of Life and Death to Ulster — Of Imperial Importance.

LONDON, May 7. — "Between now and the next step taken by the British Government, there may be some little fluttering on the political horizon," the Press Association's Belfast correspondent quotes Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, as having said in the Ulster parliament Tuesday afternoon when discussing the Irish boundary question.

"It is obvious," Sir James continued, "that a question which has engaged the attention of the governments of Lloyd George, Bonar Law, Baldwin and MacDonald, is one of first class imperial importance. We must maintain the attitude toward all British Governments, that this is not a political subject, but a matter of life and death to the people of Ulster."

Sir James assured the House that it need not despair that the contribution promised by the late British Government toward assisting the special constabulary had been turned down by the MacDonald Government. He still was hopeful the pledge would be fulfilled, but he had no hesitation in saying that whether it was carried out or not Ulster would see that her special constabulary was maintained in the highest state of efficiency, even if Ulster had to pay every shilling of the cost herself.

Sir James added that if permanent good feeling among the people of Ireland was desired, then the settlement of pacts and agreements would have to be entered in their hearts and not upon paper.

Temporarily Terminating Trade Relations With Germany Pending Satisfaction From German Government—Five Held In Jail.

Berlin, May 7. —Satisfaction not having yet been given by the German Government for the police raid on the quarters of the Russian Commercial Delegation here, the Russian Embassy has announced that it is temporarily putting an end to all commercial relations with Germany, in addition to closing the commercial office in Berlin.

Branches in Hamburg and Leipsig have also been closed, and it is proposed not to establish the Koenigsburg branch as had been intended. The Russians will also abstain from participation in the Cologne Fair and have cancelled the proposed auction of Russian furs and bristles at Leipsig.

M. Krestinsky, head of the Russian Delegation, has postponed his departure for Moscow, to await the arrival from London of M. Stomaniakow, Chief of the Russian Commercial Delegation in Germany.

Five of those arrested by the police in Saturday's raid are still in jail.

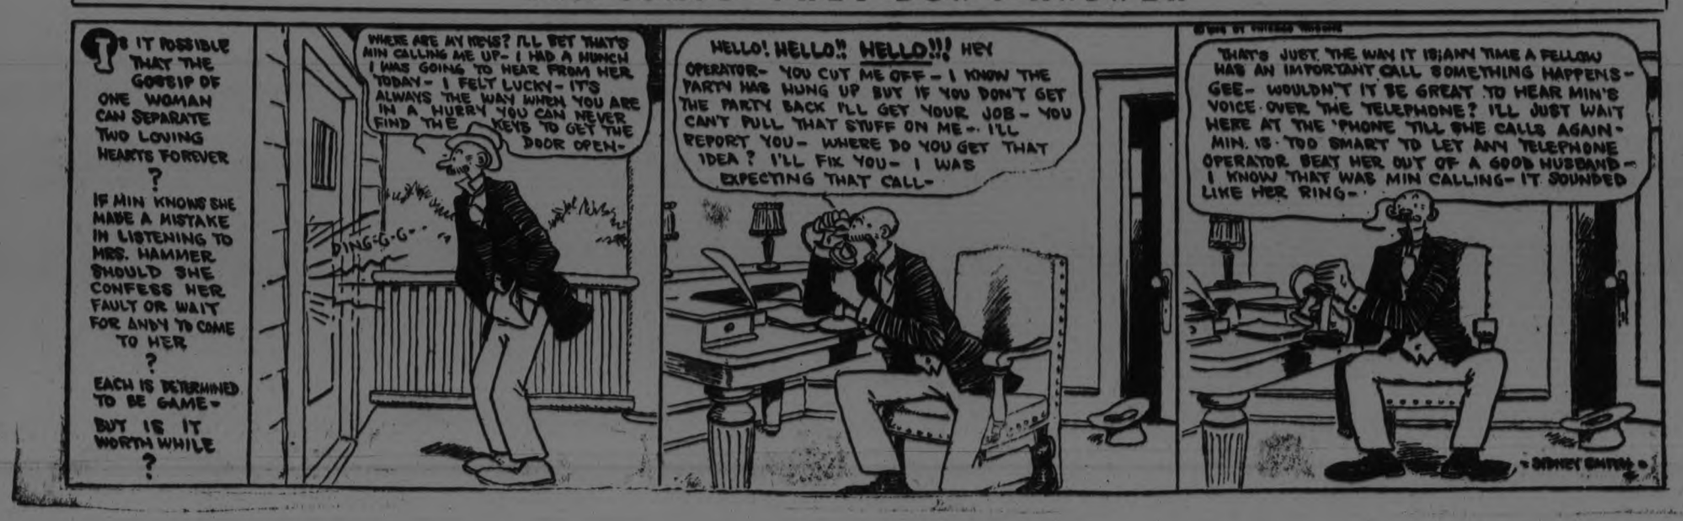
THE GUMPS—THEY DON'T ANSWER



CAMPBELLFORD STOCK YARDS TO BE IMPRO''ED

Town to Install Separate Scales For Use of Drovers and C. N. R. Will Be Requested to Erect an Additional Pen—Cheese Board Meets.

CAMPPBELLFORD, May 7. — In accordance with the decision reached at their meeting on Monday night, the members of the Town Council went to the stock yards yesterday morning in response to the request of the dealers for improvements here. It was found that conditions were practically as represented by the delegation that brought the matter to the attention of the Council.

The scales are over 100 yards from the loading chute, and after animals intended for shipment are weighed, they must be driven for that distance to the waiting car. Any person who has ever undertaken to drive a number of pigs through an open space can imagine the difficulty that the shippers meet with, especially if the ground is icy. It is nothing unusual in the winter season to ship from here a car load which contains half a dozen pigs with broken legs, and this means a decrease of 2 cents a pound on the market price of the crippled animals.

The councillors decided that to move the present scales would be an injustice to the coal dealers and the farmers who use it. A new set of scales will be put up near the loading chutes on land belonging to the town.

The stock dealers will write the officials of the C.N.R., asking that in summer water service be installed. This can be connected with a town main about 180 feet away so that the expense will be light. They will also ask that another yard—there are three now—be built on the north side of the chutes, so as to prevent confusion when more than three dealers are shipping on the same day, that one of the yards be covered and another furnished with a cement floor.

Conditions at the yards were becoming so serious that the Nelson Brothers of Dartford were talking of transferring their business to Hastings.

Cheese Brings 13 7-8c.

If, as so many predict, the cheese board is to pass out of existence this year then its dissolution appears to be a slow process. A meeting was held on Monday morning when 76 boxes were offered for sale, the Empire factory sending 41 and that at Kimberley 35. These were purchased by Cooke of Belleville.

At the opening sale a year ago the highest bid was 16 15-16c, and last week the highest price offered on the Belleville board was 14 1-8c.

Whether the local cheese board survives or not the output of cheese in this district for 1924 is likely to be above the average to judge from the number of cows that have changed hands at fancy prices

Grant to Fair.

At the meeting of the Seymour Township Council, President John Locke, Secretary J. Nelson Stone, ex-President Alex. Hume and Director T. J. Horkins of the Seymour Agricultural Society, appeared as a delegation to ask for the annual grant. Every member of the delegation addressed the council, calling attention to the growth of the fair within the past few ytars and the consequent heavier expense to maintain it. Director Horkins laid particular stress upon the benefit of the fair to the farmers of the community.

Reeve Van Volkenburg and Councillor Peake moved that the society be given a grant of $200, after an attempt to make the amount $250, equal to the grant from the town, had failed.

Councillors McKelvie and Milne moved in amendment that the grant be $150, the same as last year, and with the support of Deputy Reeve Nelson, the amendment passed by 3 to 2.

A bylaw was passed transferring the property of Wilson Vance from S. S. No. 3 to S. S. No. 10.

William Fisher complained of the condition of part of the roadway on the boundary line between the townships of Percy and Symour, nd the council promised to look into the matter.

Classes in Nursing.

A series of ten classes will be given by Miss K. E. Osborne, Public Health Nurse of the Provincial Board of Health, May 12th to May 23rd; in the Public Library, from 3 to 4 p.m., daily. No classes will be held on Saturday.

The aim of the course is to give instruction of practical value. The woman who wishes to protect her family from preventible diseases and who is anxious to fit herself, in the absence of a trained nurse, to give intelligent care to those who are sick will find in the classes a splendid opportunity. Since the above is government service there is of course no fees in connection with the course.

Lady Commoners Leave Hats Off

LONDON. May 7 (Canadian Press). — Lady Astor and Mrs. Margaret Wintringham, members of Parliament, last night for the first time appeared in the House without hats.

The six other women members established the precedent of going without their hats on the first day of the present session of Parliament.

Lady Astor and Mrs. Wintringham, however, failed to follow their example until yesterday. .....

Last evening Lady Astor adopted the masculine practice of carrying her hat in her hand while walking down the floor of the Chamber, and putting it on her head after taking her seat.

WOMEN'S VOTERS PRESIDENT QUITS.

Mrs. Maud Wood Park Says She Will Now Try to Get In Touch With the Actual Voters and Not the Organizers.

By MRS. MAUD WOOD PARK.

After four years as an officer of the National League of Women Voters I am retiring to a position I have long coveted—that of private in the ranks.

I have enjoyed the privilege of directing this organization during the first four years of its life, but I welcome the opportunity again to become an active worker with the chance not only to plan but to work out my own plans.

I intend to go into some part of the country where the League of Women Voters has never been heard of—and there are such places in spite of our efforts—and organize one from the ground up.

I want to be a block or street chairman and get in actual touch with the voters, not the organizers and leaders. I want to see the other side of the picture for a while.

All during my years of social work and in the suffrage fight, I worked without the privileges of the vote, and without the group and organization facilities we now have. I am anxious to find out for myself just what the difference in public work is for women in general, now that they have the ballot to work with.

Particularly I am interested in studying just how we can most effectively give the old and young, men and women of this and the next generation a good chance at civic education.

Once in a while I hear an old suffrage worker say the glory has departed from our work now the vote is won and that working for one thing, as we worked in the suffrage campaign, was vastly more interesting than working for many things as conscientious voters must do. Such an attitude is hard to understand.

When we worked for suffrage I doubt that many of us believed there was anything wonderful in being able to put some marks on a piece of paper and drop it into a box three or four times a year.

We thought of the ballot as a tool with which great things could be done. We had to have the tool and were willing to let other causes go in order to work for it.

To my mind, however, there is no comparison between the interest in working for a tool, the means to an end, and working with the tool for the end itself. We are now working for ends and that is a glorious thing to be doing.

There is no part of the work of the League of Women Voters that is small or unimportant. I welcome the opportunity to try again what every woman has a chance to do—work in the ranks.

LADY PHYSICIANS PAID LOWER WAGE.

Women Have Now Been In the Profession For More Than Fifty Years.

By MILTON BRONNER.

LONDON, May 7.—Slowly but surely, and greatly aided by the war, women physicians of Great Britain and Europe generally are winning their way to a plane of absolute equality with men.

This was the impression I got from an interview with Lady Florence Barrett, considered the greatest woman physician in England.

Wife of a famous psysicist, she is herself Fellow of the Royal Society of Medicine, President of the Medical Women's Federation, obstetric and gynecological surgeon at the Royal Free Hospital and lecturer in various important medical schools.

Here is how she sums up the position of women in medicine:

"Women have now been in the profession for more than 50 years. At first there was no school that would admit them—no examining body that would grant them diplomas. The difficulty, however, was overcome by our pioneers.

Founds School.

"Mrs. Garrett Anderson founded the London School of Medicine for Women and in the United Kingdom Dublin was the first to grant medical qualifications to women. The great difficulty was to obtain clinical experience for women students. Mrs. Anderson worked unremittingly and in the end the Royal Free Hospital opened its doors to women internes.

"Two large London hospitals have been founded by women and are staffed entirely by women physicians and surgeons. In the Ministry of Health women hold important positions.

"Dr. Janet Campbell stands next to Sir George Newman, chief medical officer. In scientific work women are quietly contributing their share. Among others, Dr. Harriett Chick's work on vitamines is known all over the world and the clinical work of Dr. Helen Mackay is also of great importance.

"Dr. Helen Chambers has for years been working under the Medical Research Committee with regard to radiation in cancer. There are now in Great Britain about 2000 women practicing as physicians and surgeons.

New Danger.

"A new danger is arising at the moment. It is the same subtle attack which is being made against women in all the professions and trades—an attempt to pay women less than men. In England, equal pay for medical men and women doing the same work has been taken for granted and maintained through all these years.

"At the present time, however, a most concentrated attack is being made by public health bodies to pay women at a lower rate. We are fighting it, for if this inequality of payment should become effective, one of two things will result: either all the positions will be gradually staffed by women for the sake of economy, or else man applying for the jobs will also have to accept smaller remuneration.

"I have never been to America, but I believe the work that will be done in the future by the medical women in Great Britain and America probably will help women all over the world."

RADIO BEACON FOR FOGS

Safer passage across San Francisco Bay in foggy weather could be effected through use of the cross-coil radio beacon, developed at the Bureau of Standards in Washington, bureau engineers believe.

This beacon marks out a line in the ether and a boat equipped with an ordinary receiving set can be directed safely to its destination by keeping in touch with that "line."

The beacon consists of two coil antennae crossing at 135 degrees. Its strongest signal is heard on a line bisecting this angle, so that a boat off this line would hear a signal from one coil stronger than that from the other, and would know it is off the directional line.

23 BROTHERS AND SISTERS!

BOY WHIRLED AROUND SHAFT

Raymond Darcy, Aged 5, of Lakefield, Instantly Killed In Brown's Canoe Factory at Lakefield.

LAKEFIELD, May 7. — Straying with several little companions into Brown's canoe factory late on Tuesday afternoon, Raymond Darcy ,the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Roland Darcy, was caught in the pulley of a machine and instantly killed.

An eye-witness of the tragedy that has shocked the village was Miss Helen Watson, who on casually glancing toward the factory from a window of her home on the opposite side of Queen Street, saw through an open door the body whirling about the shaft.

The little fellow's clothing had caught in the pulley, and death was instantaneous.

Raymond would have been five years old next Saturday.

He is survived by his parents and four sisters and one brother.

The father has been employed in Toronto for a considerable time, and during his absence Mrs. Darcy has been a devoted mother to her young family.

The deepest sympathy of the whole community is extended to the bereaved family.

RUNAWAY TEAM PULLED FARMER UNDER HARROW

William Fitzpatrick of Emily Suffered Painful Accident While Tilling Field — Vernon Scully Hurt By Explosion of Gasoline Engine.

KING'S WHARF, May 6.—Mr. William Fitzpatrick met with a very painful accident on Saturday while working in the fields. The horses became frightened, running away with the heavy iron harrow, throwing Mr. Fitzpatrick to the ground where he was dragged for several yards, the harrow passing over his head and body. His head and face were deeply cut, requiring several stitches, while his side was also badly hurt. Dr. Blanchard, of Lindsay, was immediately called and dressed the wounds. Mr. Fitzpatrick was removed to his home, and at time of writing was as well as could be expected.

Engine Exploded.

What might have been a serious accident was narrowly averted last week when Vernon Scully, who is employed with Mr. Joseph Guiry here, while working at a gasoline engine, it exploded, and striking Vernon in the face it burned his hair, eyebrows and face, and one eye was badly injured. It was thought at first he might lose the sight of one eye, but it is expected to be all right. Dr. Earle, of Omemee, was speedily called and attended to the wounds. There was no gasoline in the engine at the time, only the fumes as it had not been in use all winter. Had there been gasoline the accident would have been more serious.

Seeding is Delayed.

A few farmers have started work, but the weather is so cold not many are doing much seeding. The grass has not grown any and the people still have to keep their cattle in and feed hay out of the barn. It was such a long and cold winter, feed is getting very scarce, as the people expected to put cattle on their ranches before this.

Competition for Cream.

On Thursday, May 1st, the East Emily Cheese Factory sent a truck through here for cream; also the same day Flavelle's, from Lindsay, was on the road, and the day before the Omemee Creamery was out. It looks as if this is quite a dairying country, and yet we can't get milk enough to open up our own cheese factory—the Maple Leaf.

On Friday evening last the friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. William Powers, who is about to leave this community for Rochester, and other American cities, and presented him with a leather club-bag, a purse of gold, and the following address was read by Angus Twomey, while Emmet Herlihey made the presentation:—

"Dear Will,—Knowing that you are soon to leave this locality we have assembled here this evening to spend a few social hours with you before saying good-bye. During your stay amongst us you and your venerable old father have endeared yourselves to the whole community by the honest and unselfish trend of both your lives. As a friend and neighbor, you are unsurpassed, being ever ready to lend a helping hand to anyone in need of assistance.

"Therefore we take this opportunity to express to you how much we appreciate your friendship and how to admire your sterling qualities, and we earnestly hope that this friendship which has grown up between us and has strengthened with the years, may not be severed but remain throughout the future also.

"Now, we ask you to kindly accept this club-bag and purse as a slight token of remembrance from your friends in this parish. In closing, we wish you every success and happiness in your new sphere of life. Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors.

ANGUS TWOMEY.
EMMET HERLIHEY."

Mr. Powers thanked the people for their thoughtfulness, and was indeed sorry to leave the community in which he had gained so many kind friends, and said he would always remember his friends and the kindness shown him by the people of King's Wharf.

Speeches were then made by several others, and all regretted losing another citizen from the parish.

Dainty refreshments were then served, after which a very enjoyable evening was spent by both old and young in dancing and card playing. Everyone left for their homes after singing "For he's a jolly good fellow."

Mr. Powers left for Rochester, N.Y., on Thursday morning, accompanied by the good wishes of a large circle of friends.

WEST AND MARITIMES WERE NOT HELPED BY THE NATIONAL POLICY

Hon. E. J. McMurray Contended That Conservative Policy Was Therefore Not National — Gen. Ross of Kingston Says the Old Liberal Ship Was Scuttled By Government.

DEBATE ON BUDGET.

OTTAWA, May 7.—(By Canadian Press). —Resuming the debate on the budget in the House of Commons Tuesday, General A. E. Ross (Conservative, Kingston), said that the acting finance minister, in introducing his budget, had been "the messenger of surrender from the once great liberal party." That party had put up a fight for national policy, but when some of its stalwarts were removed from the fight by illness, the government in short order had "hoisted the white flag of surrender" to the Progressives. Or perhaps it would be better to say that just before the black flag of mutiny had been hoisted within Liberal ranks, the government had scuttled the old Liberal ship, shipped a new crew of progressives, and embarked on a new voyage.

He argued that protection and progress had always gone hand in hand.

The Laurier-Fielding tariff, with its policy of stability and no tariff reduction has brought prosperity. The Government had let all that go by.

The French treaty meant money going out and none coming in. Wines and spirits were entering Canada in large quantities competing against the Canadian product. It was typical of the Government's habit of "jumping without looking where it was going." A French treaty was made, a fisheries treaty was made and a hotel was bought in Paris without foresight.

Budget is Divisive.

The surplus claimed by the government in the Budget could be considered a myth. It was a Budget of "wait and see." It created a policy that divided Canada into classes. The Budget was not for the benefit of Canada as a whole but for the political advantage of the government. Low tariff countries had always been cheap labor countries. It was not in the interests of Canada to lower tariff and consequently lower the standard of living.

Could Retaliate.

Owing to the lowering of water in the harbors of the Great Lakes by the Chicago Drainage Canal, ships coming down the lakes at the present time were compelled to carry ten to twenty thousand bushels less than their capacity loads. General Ross drew the attention of the government to the possibilities of retaliation in the event of the American government declining to take action to prevent the diversion of water from the Great Lakes. Canada had natural products such as felspar, mica, asbestos and wood pulp that were in considerable demand in the United States. These might be used as a means to prevent the lowering of the waters in General Rose endorsed the proposal for a tariff board which would gather fiscal information for the guidance of the Government and all Canadians. But he was opposed to the formation of a board which would take from the Government the responsibility for fiscal measures which properly belonged to it.

Build Up Industries.

Hon. E. J. McMurray, Solicitor-General, said the Budget was a practical measure of relief from heavy taxation in Canada. The Government had no intention of interfering with manufacturers. Its general policy was to build up the basic industries.

There had been no bargain between the Government and the Progressives. Reduction in duties was in line with the Liberal platform.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen asked why that policy had not been inaugurated earlier.

Mr. McMurray said that "Rome was not built in a day." The Liberal Government had gradually put into effect its fundamental policy as soon as it could see its way to do so.

Mr. Meighen asked if it could be expected that there would be still further reductions in tariff.

Mr. McMurray replied that he was not announcing Budget policies, but he could say that the Government's policy would aim at the continued decrease in the cost of living.

Protection Hurt Worker.

Protection had always been bad for the working man. It protected his employer but while the doors of immigration stood open, it did not protect the worker.

Mr. Meighen asked if protection was an injustice, why ever tolerate it at all? Why, for instance, has this Government brought in increased taxation on raw silk a year ago?

Mr. McMurray retorted that he did not think the working man wore much silk. He thought that the cities of western Canada had been built up by the flow of commodities through these centres. Even such a city as Montreal had grown powerful in spite of protection, through interchange of commodities, rather than through protected industry.

The "national" policy of the Conservatives was not national because it gave nothing to the west and very little to the Maritime provinces. Mr. McMurray traced the commercial history of Canada under the respective policies of the Conservatives and Liberals. Under the latter he argued the country had enjoyed its greatest prosperity.

Prosperity of West

The Conservative policy had failed to build up the Canadian West. It was the Liberal policy on Immigration which made the west prosperous.

Edmund Bristol (Conservative, Centre Toronto) asked if the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway under Conservative regime had not had something to do with building up the west.

Mr. McMurray replied that it had but he advised Mr. Bristol not to go too deeply into the methods by which the Conservative party had helped to build the C.P.R.

Mr. McMurray stated that there were many manufacturing industries able to stand on thier feet without protection. The West had never benefitted by protection. When Mr. Meighen was in the west last summer he had prescribed high protection as the only remedy for the ills of the west.

Mr. Meighen denied having made such statements.

The Budget, continued Mr. McMurray was a start towards cheaper living conditions in Canada. It would benefit the basic industries of the country, it would not injure manufacturing industries and would bring great relief to the consuming public.

PHYSIC FRAUDS COME UNDER BAN OF THE GERMAN AUTHORITIES

BERLIN, May 7.—(Associated Press).—The German Ministry of Public Welfare has ordered state authorities and municipal authorities, especially physicians in public service, to give special attention to all advertisements of demonstrations of hypnosis, magnetism and suggestion, and to report them promptly to the police who have been instructed to prohibit exhibitions and lectures of a doubtful character.

The writer says much damage has recently been done by questionable demonstrations of this nature, and end them.

Speedier Cables.

"Permalloy," a new kind of alloy, is going to be used to speed up the oceanic cables in competition with radio. It is an alloy of nickel and iron, very sensitive to magnetic changes and therefore more responsive to the touch of the telegrapher's key.

SUNDAY BATHING.

Every year at this time the argument arises in the City Council as to whether or not the civic swimming beaches should be kept open on Sunday.

The question simply resolves itself into this, that whether the civic beaches are open or not on Sunday a large number of people will bathe there anyway, and it might just as well be done under supervision and with an attendant in charge, thus giving some protection against accident.

There is no reason why the man who is unable to spend the week-end at a lake or river resort where bathing is indulged in without any comment should be deprived of the pleasure of a cooling dip on a hot summer Sunday, and each year the majority of the Council have seen the matter in that light and voted accordingly.

If Peterborough has no more to complain of than a number of people bathing at the civic beaches under proper control on Sunday there is nothing very materially wrong with the morals of the community.

UP TO THE FARMERS.

The significance of the statement issued by the Massey-Harris Company, especially of that paragraph which stresses the desirability of the Canadian farmer purchasing Canadian-made machinery, should not be lost sight of by those to whom it is especially addressed.

The company announces its decision to give the consumer the benefit of the lowering of duties and the abolition of the Sales Tax by a corresponding reduction in the price of implements.

That puts the issue squarely up to the farmers of Canada.

Their clamour for a lower tariff on farm machinery has at last been answered, in the face of protests from manufacturers who fear the effect of other possible tariff changes.

The implement manufacturers have to a large extent been deprived of tariff protection, and they are meeting the situation thus created by giving the consumer the advantage of the saving affected by the remission of the Sales Tax and the lessened duty on raw materials, in the hope that the sense of fairness of the Canadian farmer will cause them to purchase Canadian-made machinery and thus stimulate Canadian industry.

It is the duty of the farmers of this country to do what they can to support the Canadian manufacturers, as the Premier pointed out in his message yesterday, and their conduct in this respect will be watched with close attention.

THE TRIP TO DENMARK.

The visit to Denmark this summer of Hon. J. S. Martin, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, and Dr. Merchant, Director of Education in Ontario, should be productive of considerable benefit to this Province, particularly as the Minister and Dr. Merchant will study what is being done by the Danes to prevent the exodus from the farms to the cities, a problem that is causing considerable concern in Ontario.

That Denmark has made vast strides in developing her trade in dairy products cannot be denied.

The fact is that the Danes have, as one paper puts it, chased Canadian butter so hard that it only occupies a small corner in the world market.

Forty-four years ago the quantity of butter exported from Canada amounted to 18,535,362 pounds.

What do you think the total was in 1922?

Not many thousand pounds more, but, on the contrary, less than half of the former figures, or, to be exact, 8,430,591 pounds.

Denmark forty-four years ago exported 27,057,726 pounds of butter, while two years ago the figure had grown to 199,584,863.

In other words, while Canada's export trade was falling from 18 to 8 millions, the Danes advanced their exports from 27 to 199 millions.

Ontario should be interested in knowing how it was done, and Hon. Mr. Martin and Dr. Merchant should find a study of Danish methods a profitable field for investigation.

It may be that some, at least, of the secrets of Denmark's success can be effectively transplanted in Ontario.

The Minister of Agriculture is a keen business man and a successful farmer.

He is likely to find in Denmark some pointers that can be made of much use in advancing the cause of agriculture in this Province.

HUMAN BEINGS AND PIGS.

A strong case is made by the Public Health Journal against the suggested reduction of the Federal grant for the purpose of combating venereal diseases in Canada, and the facts adduced by the official organ of the Canadian Public Health Association, the Examiner believes, should receive the earnest attention of members of the Government.

The economic side of this question should not be forgotten.

The proposed reduction of $50,000 in the grant was, of course, based on the correct assumption that the people of Canada expect their representatives to retrench wherever possible and to effect economics whenever an opening presents itself.

It is open to question, however, whether an apparent gain of $50,000 may not in the long run develop into a loss of many times that sum.

The loss of man-power as a result of the spread of venereal disease is enormous.

Over 28,000 new cases were reported in 1923, and the actual number was probably much greater than that.

The proper treatment of these 28,000 cases alone would make an appreciable increase in the man-power of this country.

The Health Journal puts the case very pointedly when it says: "Suppose, instead of 28,000 human beings being attacked by disease it had been the case of 28,000 pigs which had been so attacked, would not the whole Dominion be alarmed, and would it not insist that every means should be taken to combat the disease which so attacked our pigs, part of our material resources?

"Are human beings not of greater value than pigs?"

There is another matter worthy of consideration.

Canada is straining every effort to bring in immigrants.

All proper means of stimulating immigration are being employed and at a great expense; no pains are considered too great to cause the influx of immigrants into Canada.

But these immigrants are carefully examined for disease, and when found to be suffering from contagious diseases they are ruthlessly excluded from the country.

That is immigration by way of the steamship.

There is another immigration of as great, and even greater importance—immigration by way of the cradle.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

There is no doubt at all that "Daylight Saving" is a very real form of "life saving" for workers who are confined to their factories, shops and offices during set hours, says the Montreal Star. It is idle to tell these men that they can get up an hour earlier if they want to, without meddling with the clock. They can; but they cannot get away from their work an hour earlier except by some such common agreement as is incorporated in daylight saving. The whole community is bound together in the matter of time. We can only do business with other people in the hours when they will do business with us.

No more extraordinary notion is abroad than that Daylight Saving is a device for the pleasing of the rich and idle. The rich and idle—of whom there are very few in this young country—are precisely the people who do not need it. They command their own time. They can get up an hour earlier if they so choose and spend the time gained on the links, the road or the river. Lucky men with short office hours are in much the same position. They get plenty of sunlight anyway. So do the owners of great enterprises if they choose to take it.

It is "the slave of the clock" who must be rescued from his "dark dungeon" by some such concerted action as Daylight Saving. He must wait until the hour-hand reaches the magic figures which set him free. So if a benevolent giant like the City Council, slips into his office and pushes the tyrannous hour-hand ahead by sixty golden minutes, it gives him sixty minutes more of sunshine in which—literally—to recreate himself.

A PLAGUE OF PACIFISM.

Six years ago this month, we were all wondering with anxious hearts whether the Allies would be able to find soldiers fast enough to stop the terrible gaps that Ludendorff's reinforcements from the Russian front were tearing in our sagging lines.

We had faith in our sacred cause; but it looked for a time as if "the heavier battalions" might be against us. We did not know then how rapidly the British reserves were being poured into the breach or how gallantly the newly assembled American army would plunge into the fray.

That was only six years ago. Then any one who talked about the wickedness of "preparing" for war and tried to pledge our young men never, never to take up arms, was quite likely to find himself in prison—and prison was about the safest place for him.

But already, while there are men still serving sentences in American prisons for discouraging recruiting, other men are organizing "pacifist" demonstrations on the campuses of colleges and wherever splendid but susceptible youth, full of idealism and hope, is to be found, in which these brightest and often bravest among the rising generation are committed to the coward's code of refusing in advance to prepare to defend their native land against aggression, outrage and invasion.

It is the most contemptible sort of "confidence game" that is ever played upon generous young men. They are appealed to in the holy name of religion, in the compelling language of moral progress, to prove themselves to be true Christians by "opposing" so un-Christian, so barbarous and reactionary an evil as war.

As if we were not all opposed to war. Never were men alive who hated and loathed war as did the young men who rallied to the call of patriotic duty and faced the German onslaught on civilization. These young heroes did not fight for the love of it. They fought for love of country, love of that very Christian civilization in whose name they are now being asked to tie their hands behind their backs with the manacles of a misled conscience, so that never again can they defend it, should again a Teuton or a Tartar horde attack it.

This epidemic of "pacifism" is appearing everywhere. Everywhere our youth are being led astray. In war-time, the community quite clearly senses its danger and has a rough-and-ready way of dealing with its apostles. But amidst the serene atmosphere of peace, most of us imagine that it does not matter. Like the Englishman's little wife who took a stick to his huge bulk, it "pleases 'er and it doesn't 'urt I."

But it may hurt some day. Then bad judgment along one line is apt to develop along others. There is, for example, the case of Miss Agnes MacPhail, M.P., who thinks that our school text-books are poisonous fountains of bellicose propaganda. She holds that they ought to be "disarmed." This is simply silly when she talks about it up here where we all know the truth. But she goes down to Washington to tell our next-door neighbors—to try to make their flesh greep!

Suppose—just suppose—the Americans believed her! They would want to know about whom we were "arming" the minds of our school boys. Her silly nonsense might then become very dangerous ond irritating anti-American misrepresentation. Our peaceful neighbors might begin to look askance at Canada—and wonder.

But a trick like that—the selection of Washington as a place to accuse Canada of malevolent militarism—is precisely the sort of thing that a "pacifist" would be expected to do.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

A meeting of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom in Washington almost broke up in a riot. It was ever thus.

Three people were hit by automobiles in Toronto over the week-end, and two drivers were arrested. Drive carefully—it pays.

The City Council has placed itself upon record as favouring the permanent addition of the present bonus to the pensions of Canada's wounded veterans and the dependents of the men who did not come back. Public opinion everywhere takes the same view.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, May 6.—Exporters bought at steady prices, but butchers claimed to have paid 15 to 25 cents a cwt. higher than a week ago.

One load of steers, not choice, cost $7.75 a cwt. Some cows for export were taken up to $6.50 a cwt. and cows generally are better by 15 to 25 cents a cwt. than they were last week. Bulls are not quite so strong, but even these have a steady firm market. The top price for heavy steers was $9 a cwt. on Monday, and these were evenly the best load on the market this year. For these $8.50 a cwt. was bid in the stable, and this was figured to have been equal to that received here.

Choice medium weight butchers ran good handy weights around $7. Neil Coutts took a loss on a load of 750 lb. stockers this morning. These were sold at $5.50 a cwt freight paid. Feeders have been costing too high and the specialists are inclined to lower their bids for the present.

New York is up $2 a cwt. on common veal, and this caused a flurry in this market, for the common calves. Most of today's were spoken for and yesterday's advance of a dollar a cwt. was easily held. Choice calves where to be had at 11 cents up, and good mediums 9 cents. Best common calves are 7 cents.

The lamb and sheep market is consistently firm. Choice sheep are 11 to 12 cents a pound, and spring lambs $14 to $15 each for the good ones.

Monday saw an advance of 25 cents a cwt. in hogs, and no change in downward direction was looked for to-day. The market is now $7.50 a cwt. f.o.b., and $8.40 a cwt. off cars long haul.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, May 6.—It is reported that receipts of eggs are slightly smaller, due, it is believed, to many eggs being used for hatching purposes. Ontario country shippers are paying extras 28, firsts 20, seconds 16, and report having made sales extras 28, firsts 26, seconds 20, in export cases, f.o.b. The movement of eggs into the storage is now very heavy.

Toronto extras and firsts are firmer and seconds weaker. Jobbing specials 30, extras 28, firsts 26, seconds 23.

Montreal firm. Jobbing specials 32, extras 29, firsts 26.

Ottawa market firm. Jobbing extras 30, firsts 27.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, May 6. — Prices ruled firm on the local cash grain market to-day. Indications are that flour prices will be marked up in the near future. There was no change in milifeed and local trade in rolled oats was quiet. A moderate business is passing in baled hay. Trade in eggs is active. The tone of the potato market is easy and volume of business small in the butter market. Prices for cheese were unchanged.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, May 6.— Sterling exchange rates were quoted here to-day:

Demand 4.4575,
Cables 4.4613.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, May 6.—Cattle and calf receipts 580. Due to the light receipts the cattle market held fairly steady and with quality of killing classes good, trading was fairly brisk. Stockers and feeders continued in fair demand at firm prices.

Hog receipts 630. The market remained unchanged with thick smooths at $7 and select bacon $7.70.

There was no trading on the sheep and lamb market owing to lack of receipts.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 6.—A large accumulation of orders over the week end and to-day, together wth higher Liverpool cables, gave the wheat market early strength to-day and prices continued to advance, the close showing a net gain of 3-4c. for May, 5-8c. for July and 7-8c. for October. At the high point of the day, May touched $1.03 5-8 and July $1.04 3-4, the spread between the two months narrowing to 1 1-8c. Shippers and exporters were keen buyers, indicating that considerable business had been worked with the seaboard. Throughout the session the market displayed a good undertone and was fairly active all the way, with a large volume of business handled.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 6.— Cold and wet weather in the Canadian northwest, causing delay to seeding, had a share to-day in bringing about higher prices here for wheat. The market closed firm at 3-8c. to 3-4c. net advance, May $1.04 5-8 and $1.04 3-4, and July $1.06 7-8 to $1.07. Corn finished unchanged to 1-8c. off, oats at a shade to 3-8c. gain, and provisions varying from 2c. lower to a rise of 7c.

Enlarged trading here accompanied the rise of values in the wheat market, and especailly during the last part of the day there was considerable buying in Chicago against selling at Winnipeg. Talk of a probable ten per cent. decrease of the wheat acreage of Saskatchewan had some bullish effect, and so, too, did gossip about likelihood that the Argentine strike would be prolonged, and that Europe would require liberal supplies of wheat before harvest. Besides, the wheat market at Winnipeg has gained on the Chicago market recently so that the two markets were less than one cent apart.

ENGLAND HAS AN ACTIVE VOLCANO.

LONDON, May 7. — (United Press)—England at last has an active volcano. And Londoners and others are cheerfully paying 1 shilling 6 pence to witness it in eruption.

The volcano is one of the exhibits of the New Zealand section of the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley Park, and is an extraordinarily faithful reproduction of the Rotorna Volcano in that Dominion.

Three or four eruptions daily delight spectators, and there are continuous pools of boiling mud, clouds of steam and a geyser hissing never-ending columns into the air.

Demonstrations are given how one can cook food in the boiling pools, boil eggs for breakfast and wash clothes without having to pay a gas bill.

380 GEORGE STREET

DIFFERENT BOBS FOR EVERY HEAD.

Within the Next Month 100,000 New Recruits Will Be Added to New York's Army of 240,000 of Bobbed Heads.

NEW YORK, May 7.—There are no less than 57 varieties of bobbed hair.

So declares Charles, fashionable barber of the Ritz-Carlton here.

Charles shears the heads of the 400, and he ought to know.

Within the next month, predicts this connoisseur of feminine hair styles, 100,000 new recruits will be added to the army of 240,000 bobbed heads already mobilized in Greater New York.

"The thing," declares Charles, "is the individual style. In the old days the Egyptians, Aztec, Mexican or Hottentot princess who wore her hair short followed one general pattern. The long and the short, the broad and the thin heads followed the same general sliced-off line.

"Today a woman figures out her type, tries several barbers and several bobs usually, before she settles upon the one that is particularly her own style.

"There's the Dutch bob, ideal for the round-faced little-girl type with straight hair and lots of pep; there's the baby doll bob, the pineapple bob for the girl with curls who wants the suggestion of much hair; there's the boy bob and any number of other styles, each one different, each one suited to a peculiar type."

Selection of a type of bob, says Charles, is as important to the woman who would enhance her charm to the utmost as the selection of the color or cut of a gown. And any bob, just so it is interesting and distinctive, is bound to be in style.

Loyalty Above Trade Tarifts

WELLINGTON. New Zealand, May 7 (Canadian Press via Reuters). — "What is happening now with regard to Empire preference will not in the slightest affect our loyalty to the Empire," Premier W. F. Massey said on Tuesday in an interview.

"British we are and British we intend to remain. I hope that some day our fellow-citizens in Great Britain will learn to look on such matters as Imperial preference in an Empire spirit rather than the narrower outlook which suits some particular section of the community."

Premier Massey said he thought the time had come to seriously consider the question of having free trade throughout the Empire in foodstuffs and raw materials.

People With Hearty Hellow's Liked Best.

The world likes the man with the hearty hello; the fellow who greets you with pep. For he spreads the spirit that's likely to grow and get everybody in step.

There's something that's real in the slap on the back (that is, if the slap's not too hard). The man who can do it—well, he's got the knack and he'll never from friendship be barred.

We all have our troubles and sorrows in life, but why should we constantly chatter 'bout things that are really our personal strife, and to all other people don't matter.

It's easy to play just the optimist's part when you're talking with people that greet you. Let cheery words come and the sad ones depart and they'll always be tickled to meet you.

If you are a grouch there's a tonic you need. Just follow the tip given here: In things optimistic step into the lead and forever be spreadin' good cheer.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Oddfellows Paraded to Anglican Church—The Cadet Corps.

MILLBROOK, May 6. -- The Independent Order of Oddfellows Lodge, No. 308, headed by the Millbrook band, under the leadership of Mr. G. A. Duncan, paraded to St. Thomas' church, on Sunday evening, about 50 members being in attendance. The front pe s were reserved for the order, and the remainder of the chuch was comfortably filled.

The rector, Rev. Canon Allen, preached from Luke 10:29, "And who is my neighbor?" stating that he had chosen these words designedly, because of the emphasis placed upon brotherhood by the Order of Oddfellowship.

After warmly welcoming the visiting brethern, as well as those from other churches who had joined with his congregation for the evening worship, Mr. Allen used the various points of the parable of the Good Samaritan as typical of our lives.

The rocky, danger-infested road, is the journey of life itself, and if the upward path be difficult, as some maintain, the downward road is not all rose-strewn, since the Word says, "The way of the transgressor is hard."

The unfortunate victim, attacked upon the journey, typifies inful humanity stripped of the robe righteous ness and in dire need of a Saiour.The priest and the Levite sho the futility of the law to save, and the selfishness of a mere formal religion. The Samaritan may be likened to our Saviour, who covers with the robe of His righteousness, and makes provision for all time, for need here and hereafter.

The wayside inn exemplifies the Church of God, which is a place of safety and refuge, and to which an invitation is extended to all to come and be spiritually refreshed.

The church has always been in the world from the time of the patriarchal days, then the Jewish church and finally the Christian institution.

Christ has shown in the parable that it is the duty of all His followers to bring their brother men under the influence of such spiritual blessings and advantages as the church alone can give, thus making it easier for them to live the Christian life, too. Burdens shared and sacrifices mutually borne will make the road easier and safer for fellow travellers toward the Eternal City.

Putting aside our own convenience then and responding to the call to be neighbor to those of whatever color, creed or race who require help, we shall fid growth in Christian character the result, because wi. ever men dwell hungry hearts and troubled lives constitute a claim upon those who have the gospel to enrich their lives.

The Cadet Corps.

The local Cadet Corps, under Lieut E. E. Doxsee, attended divine service at Grace Presbyterian church on Sunday morning, about 40 of the boys answering to the roll call.

The pastor, Rev. G. S. Gervan, preached from Paul's admonition to Timothy as found in 7 Timothy 4:12, "Let no man despise thy youth, but be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in faith, in purity,' the text being a most appropriate one in view of the 'teen age boys whom he was especially addressing. The temptations and opportunities of young lie were emphasized, for "if the spring puts forth no blossoms, in summer there will be no beauty, and in autumn no fruit. So if youth be trifled away without improvement, manhood will be contemptible, and old age miserable."

The choir chose as their special number "Stand up, stand up, for Jesus," as arranged by Ira B. Wilson, the martial words inspiring to loyal, Christian warfare, being suitable to the occasion.

PETITION

The bill proposed, he went on, to take both the name and the property of the Presbyterian church in Canada.

"Speaking for myself," he said, "you may keep the property, I want the name and lineage." They were offered the right to use the name Presbyterian. "No power on earth or in heaven could keep us from that." The Unionists want our title and estate, while we are being defrauded of our connection. They will give us back some of our property, if they cannot avoid it, and they will have a thrill of generosity, a cheaply purchased thrill.

Stand on Technicality

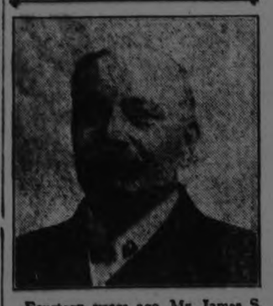
Mr. Parker described the attitude of demanding the passage of the bill because the General Assembly had voted for it as "standing ruthlessly on "a technicality" the criterion of religion was not numbers but right and wrong.

It was intended in the Presbyterian practice that everything should be done in brotherliness. There was no absolute authority in the majority of a Presbyterian court. The authority rested with consonance with the word of God as reflected by the conscience of the believer.

At this point McBride of British Columbia objected that the speaker was giving a sermon. Chairman McGiverin, however, pointed out that the Unionists had been given wide latitude, and Mr. Parker was allowed to proceed.

It was not sufficient, Mr. Parker argued, that the General Assembly had proceeded in a Presbyterian way. The point was whether a Presbyterian result had been secured.

Health Restored by The Fruit Treatment



Fourteen years ago, Mr. James S. Delgaty, of Gilbert Plains, Man., was a nervous wreck. His system was shattered by Nervous Prostration, and he was reduced in weight from 170 to 113 pounds.

He wrote on May 15th, 1917, "Every medicine I tried proved useless until a friend induced me to take 'Fruit-a-tives.' I began to mend at once. After using this fruit medicine for three months, I was back to normal. I have never had such good health as I have enjoyed the past six years. We are never without a box of 'Fruit-a-tives' in the house."

Writing again on September 27th, 1923, Mr. Delgaty says, "I stand by my letter to you in 1917—I still recommend 'Fruit-a-tives'."

"Fruit-a-tives" is a complete fruit treatment—being made of the juices of fresh ripe fruits and tonics.

25c. and 50c. a box—6 for $2.50—at druggists or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

CLAIMS CARAVAN HIS AND NOT MRS. FORBES'

Ahmed Hassanein Bey, Companion of Famous Woman Explorer to Kufara Honored by Geographical Society

MRS. ROSITA FORBES may have belittled the share of Ahmed Hassanein Bey in her famous trip to Kufara, the forbidden city of the Libyan desert, but the Royal Geographical Society and Egypt, cognizant of all the facts, have given him their highest honors.

News of the action of the Royal Geographical Society's award of its highest gift, the Founder's Great Gold Medal, to Hassanein Bey for his remarkable services in the cause of geographical science, serves to call attention to the presence of this particularly bold and resourceful explorer at Washington, where he is chief secretary and counselor of the newly established legation of the Egyptian government.

When Mrs. Forbes with Ahmed Hassanein Bey came out of the Libyan desert in 1921, she was the heroine of the hour. She had made a wonderful trip in disguise across 400 miles of desert to the mysterious and sacred city of Kufara, the headquarters of the great religious sect of the Senussi. Until her visit no European traveler had ever entered the city, still less a European woman.

In her story of the adventurous trip, as well as in her book, she gave the impression that it was her expedition, and spoke only occasionally of her interpreter and secretary, Ahmed Hassanein Bey. The impression was current that he was a clever servant of the ordinary Dragoman kind, a blend between a courier and a domestic servant.

It was after Mrs. Forbes' account of her trip to the Royal Geographical Society that the high position of Hassanein Bey began to be clearly understood. "I am sure that Mrs. Forbes would like me to include in our congratulations her companion Ahmed Hassanein Bey, whom I knew fairly well during the war, and of whom I have a very high opinion," said Dr. C. G. Hogarth, director of the Ashmolean Museum at Oxford and authority on things Arabian, in seconding a vote of thanks to Mrs. Forbes.

Mrs. Forbes, during her address, had explained the presence of Hassanein Bey as one who accompanied her. "Hassanein Bey," she said, "kindly consented to accompany my expedition, and his knowledge of the religion, language and customs was invaluable to me, as also his original friendship with the Sayeds (chiefs)."

In the controversy that followed Hassanein Bey made only one statement, in a letter to the Scotsman. Not only did he state that the caravan was his and did not cost Mrs. Forbes a cent, but that he had planned the trip as far back as 1916. It was proved, by documentary evidence, that the expedition had only been possible on account of his friendship with the emir and the Senussi princes on a previous visit to the sacred city as a special envoy of the British government during the war.

Dr. Hogarth called attention to the high rank of Ahmed Hassanein Bey. He is bey of the first class, or high caste Egyptian government official, a cultured gentleman with a rank equivalent to that of colonel in the British army. He is the son of a very celebrated Moslem divine. He was educated in England, taking high honors at Oxford, where he was a Balliol man. During the war he was attached to the staff of the British commander-in-chief, with the rank of colonel, and was a member of the British headquarters mess. Entrusted on several occasions with difficult and delicate missions by the British government, including his trip to Kufura, he carried them all out successfully with advantageous bearing upon the ultimate issue.

Later, confidential reports were made by Ahmed Hassanein Bey to the Royal Geographical Society, covering especially the scientific results of the trip with Mrs. Forbes.

Last year he made a second, a camel trek of 2,200 miles, back to Kufara, and on into a hitherto unexplored section of the southern part of the Libyan desert, discovering two unknown oases on the way to Darfur.

The Kufara people encouraged Hassanein's expedition, principally because they thought that he would never come back, and there would be no more visits to the sacred city. After eleven days of exhaustive trekking, some of the camels having died, his expedition reached the unexplored oasis of Ouenat, where an interesting discovery was made. A collection of inscriptions of animals was made from the rocks. There were drawings of giraffes, ostriches, lions, gazelles and other animals, but none of the camel. And yet Ouenat cannot be reached in modern times by any other means than by the camel.

Another lap of 430 kilometres followed, without any wells. A heat wave again affected the camels and the water supply of the caravan. Only night traveling was possible, and the weary guides often lost all direction. Hassanein and his followers were reduced to rags and in the last stage of exhaustion when they finally reached the upper reaches of the Nile with their eighteen tired camels. The journey, which altogether occupied six months of last year, extended from the Mediterranean through Kufara across the entire length of the Libyan desert and thence to Khartoum and was a valuable survey of the trade route.

FROM THE CANON'S MOUTH

ONE ambition of Canon Hay Aitken, vice-dean of Norwich Cathedral, is to beat John Wesley's record of preaching 27,000 sermons. But Father Time may intervene. The canon is eighty-two; and, starting when he was seventeen, he has now delivered 22,000 sermons.

He has never preached from a written one, and as it is stated that Wesley made one sermon serve many times it is possible that the Canon has already delivered more original discourses than the great Nonconformist.

SOLVED THE PROBLEM

AT literary banquets the art is to talk of the guest of honor as if you had read all his books. On one occasion Mr. Thomas Nelson Page, the American, had to introduce Sir Hall Caine at a certain function. Just before the toasts began a guest passed his menu card with the request that Sir Hall Caine would sign it.

"That's a great idea," said Mr. Page. "I must do that, too. I have to introduce him in a few minutes, and I want to be able to say I have read something he has written."

This Poor Little Lamb

"IT'S hard," said the sentimental landlady at the dinner table, "to think that this poor little lamb should be destroyed in his youth just to satisfy our appetites."

"Yes," replied the smart boarder, struggling with his portion, "it is tough."—Tit-Bits.

Be Wiser and Funnier Than Others Says Chauncey Depew, Now 90

And Live to Be a Hundred—Worked All Day and Talked All Night, and Was As Fit As a Fiddle Next Day—"Stick, Dig, Save," His Advice to Young Men

Chauncey M. Depew on His Ninetieth Birthday

"IF I have lived longer than others," said Chauncey M. Depew to P. W. Wilson on the eve of his ninetieth birthday last week, "it has been because I had the will to be wiser than others. Take eating. Most people eat what they like. I only eat what likes me. There are many things that I like which I don't touch. And the result is that the machine works without my thinking of it."

"But at banquets?"

"Pass the rich stuff that will only do you harm."

For years Mr. Depew has touched neither alcohol nor tobacco. He is thus an auto-prohibitionist.

"Recreations?"

"There again—when Commodore Vanderbilt asked me to join him in 1866, there were only 30,000 miles of railroad in the United States and about 160 miles on what has become the New York Central. We have now 10,000 miles on the New York Central and 300,000 miles in the United States. This has meant a stiff day's work for all concerned, and not least for me when I was president of a railroad employing 150,000 men. Now, many of my colleagues carried their work with them day and night, and came to the office in the morning still tired with the fatigue of the previous day. That was not my practice. Naturally, I felt the stress and strain of dealing with so immense a mass of workers and of serving the public while satisfying the stockholders who owned the railroad. But at five in the afternoon I left all these things behind. I went home and took a nap for ten minutes—to which habit I had trained myself—and then I turned to quite another interest in life."

"Which was——"

Always Arrived Late for Speeches

"PUBLIC speaking. I enjoyed it, and would dine out five nights a week. I had an excellent reference library. And I would walk up and down gathering ideas and allusions to the topic of the evening. Usually I arrived at the table late, and they used to say that I did this to get the applause. But the real reason was that I had to have my speech in hand. I insisted on being called on early in the program—even if it was not my turn—and so I got home by eleven. Next morning when I reached the office I was as fit as a fiddle. You see, I had used a different set of intellectual muscles. And the brain that I needed for business was thus rested."

That the speeches were a success was indicated by the fact that hundreds of requests came from persons who wanted Mr. Depew to prepare their speeches as well as his own.

It is to his humorous way of looking on life, as well as to his rules about eating, that Mr. Depew attributes his long life, according to Mr. Wilson, in the New York Times.

"My grandfather," explained Mr. Depew, "died of worry, and my father died of worry, and I was dying of worry when I decided to take up humor—to see the genial and amusing side of life. And I found that the mind controls the body. It was humor that saved my health

Gave Up Tobacco, Bought House

"IF a young man were starting life, what would be your advice to him?"

"Three words," came the prompt rejoinder—"stick, dig, save."

"I can understand sticking; I can understand saving; but what do you mean by digging?"

"I mean this," Mr. Depew said. "Let us suppose that a man is employed in a great organization. He should be ready to help all around him. The more willing he is, the likeller he is of promotion. It is the ready man who is wanted.

"So with sticking. A man may not be wholly satisfied with the career he has chosen, but he can adapt himself to it. And by 'saving'—my third word—he will find that nothing promotes independence so surely as does a balance at the bank."

Mr. Depew once boasted that he bought Surgeon-General Hammond's house in Fifty-fourth street out of what he saved on giving up tobacco.

To this day you will find Chauncey M. Depew in his office of a morning at 10.30 o'clock to the minute. When I saw him there in the afternoon, he had been actively shopping in a department store. True, he carries a stick, but the tap-tap of that stick on the corridor is as sharp and prompt as a ticker or an automobile signal.

For many years Mr. Depew acted as a kind of unofficial ambassador to Britain. Everybody—King Edward, Gladstone, Rosebery, Salisbury—was glad to be his host, and what he said about the United States was received as gospel. Indeed, he knew Gladstone better at the dinner table than on the platform, and his admiration for that great man is not untinged by a hint of criticism.

"Gladstone was a monologist—except when he met you first. Then he would proceed with marvelous skill to draw from you in one hour all the special information of your business which it had taken you a lifetime to acquire. When next you met him you would be interested to hear the great man retail what you had told him as if the knowledge were entirely his own."

As a matter of fact Mr. Depew resembles Gladstone, and was once photographed in London as Gladstone's double.

Sitting in his chair, complacent, comfortable and contented Mr. Depew thus took from his memory, one by one, the puppets of history and again the once omnipotent marionets were vitalized. After all, Gladstone may have been four times prime minister, and King Edward ("whom I knew since he was a boy") may have ruled an empire, but neither of them lived to be 90—that's the point!

EARNED HIS TIP

THE wife of the new first lord of the admiralty, Viscountess Chelmsford, tells an amusing story of the time when her husband was viceroy of India.

A party of English ladies, friends of hers, were being conducted by a native attendant over that wonderful mausoleum, the Taj Mahal.

When they had seen everything, and were about to take their departure, the leader of the party hesitated a moment, and then turned to the guide and said:

"I see that by the rules tips are forbidden."

"Most honorable mem-sahib," replied the native, salaaming low, "what you say is true. Tips are forbidden, but so also, they tell me, were apples in the Garden of Eden."

Anathema

"MRS. JONES, why does Mr. Jones call you Amelia?"

"Because that is my name, child."

"But mummy says your name is anathema to everybody who knows you."—Tit-Bits.

NO DRESS SUITS

THE well-known newspaper proprietor, Sir William Ewart Berry, tells a good story concerning a friend of his who was bidden to the annual press dinner at Liverpool given by the lord mayor.

To his annoyance, when about to dress at his hotel for the function, he discovered that his evening clothes had not been sent on.

In this dilemma he had recourse to a shop—recommended by the hotel porter—where he was assured that dress suits of all sizes could be hired.

But here a disappointment awaited him. The proprietor's whole stock of evening clothes, it transpired, had already been hired out.

"How is that?" he asked.

The shopman shrugged his shoulders apologetically.

"Well, sir," he explained, "it always happens here when a dinner is given by the lord mayor to the gentlemen of the press."

THE PARSON AND THE PIG

FAMOUS as the author of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," the late Rev. S. Baring-Gould, told a quaint story of an old Cornish woman who was worried about the health of her favorite pig, and asked him to say a prayer over it.

He suggested that it might be as well if she brought a "vet" to the animal, but she had such faith that he went to the pig-sty and thus addressed the porker:

"O pig, if thou livest thou livest; but, O pig, if thou diest thou diest."

The animal got well and strong, and the old lady believed that it was the parson who cured it!

INTERPRETING HER

A DELIGHTFUL story, reminiscent possibly of his own schooldays, was told recently by General Sir Ian Hamilton.

It concerned a lady who drove up in a beautifully-appointed motor-car to the entrance of the football field of a certain big public school.

Alighting from her car she called to one of the boys, and said, "Will you tell the Hon. Algernon de Montmorency that his mother, Lady Fitzwalter, wishes to see him?"

A moment later the boy was heard shouting, "Stinker, your mater's landed?"

Marriage No Joke

"MY dear," said Mrs. Henpeck, "I'm sure our boy is thinking seriously of matrimony."

"Well, I hope so," returned her husband, with unusual spirit. "I wouldn't want any boy of mine to be so foolish as to regard it as a joke."—Tit-Bits.

"Light at Eventide"—The Lord Chancellor's Mother at Ninety-Nine.

SO old and yet so alert is she that she still writes daily to the Lord Chancellor, her son, Viscount Haldane. Mrs. Haldane, indeed, is so vigorous that she can read without glasses, her son's compactly-thought-out book on Relativity, which she is seen holding in this charming portrait by Olive Edis, F.R.P.S. Interested in everything going on around her, not the least in politics, she still reads and writes French with the greatest ease. Her character is so strong that someone once said she would make a splendid judge. Indeed, people who come to be nice to her, end by telling her all their troubles and getting her advice. She is full of courage not only for herself, but for others. That is why her room has most fitly been called the Chamber of Peace. Of this beautiful old lady, with white hair and wonderful eyes, it has been finely said that "her face is a thanksgiving for a former life and a love-letter to all mankind."

South Perth Electors Know Irvine's Record

Saying of His Mother Proved True—Governor-General Wrote on Her 92nd Birthday

McCAUSLAND IRVINE, M.P.P. for South Perth, is one of a family of twelve children, all of whom are still living. His mother was that noted old lady whom the governor-general honored by sending her this personal letter during the war which ran as follows:

Feb. 2nd, 1916.

Dear Madam:

The Governor-General has heard that tomorrow, February 3rd, is your ninety-second birthday, and desires me to send you his congratulations and best wishes.

His Royal Highness has heard with much interest of the large number of socks you have been able to knit for the soldiers and also of your four grandsons who are now serving in the Canadian forces.

I am dear madame yours faithfully,

Arthur F. Sladin, private secretary.

Mrs. Irvine, R. R. 1, St. Mary's, Ont.

Of this family, several won distinction but Mac, as he is familiarly called, remained on the old homestead, and cared for his aged mother, until she died at Easter time, 1919.

This devout old lady prayed earnestly for her children, but the boy at home was always her richest blessing.

A gathering of women at a social afternoon tea were discussing the clever points of their families, but Mrs. Irvine remained silent. One lady turning to her said: "Have you nothing to say in favor of your family?" she calmly answered, "They'll speak for themselves."

This saying proved true in McCausland's life when he was honored by electors of South Perth as their choice for member of Parliament.

BOOTH EXPLAINS SON'S GENEROSITY WITH TIPS

Veteran Lumber King Gave Only the Regulation Fee to the Hotel Stable Boy

MR. J. R. Booth, the veteran Ottawa lumber king whose granddaughter recently became Prince Erik's bride was in the habit of leaving his horse and buggy in charge of the stable boy at one of Ottawa's hostelries. Twenty-five cents was the stable boy's regular tip.

Mr. Booth's son, Mr. J. Fred Booth, on the other hand, usually gave the boy fifty cents. The boy decided that a gentle hint to J. R. might be profitable. So on receipt of his next quarter he said, "Your son usually gives me fifty, sir!"

"Ah," said Mr. Booth, smiling, "but he has a wealthy father."

HOW HE KNEW THIS SHIP

SCOTSMEN tell stories against one another with gusto but it has been reserved for no less a personage than the Marquess of Aberdeen to start broadcasting them.

Here, for instance, is one and to an Aberdeen audience, too!

An old pilot at a certain port of entry professed to be able to tell the home port of any incoming vessel within a reasonable distance by what seamen still call "the cut of her jib," meaning thereby her general appearance, and did so.

To test his powers still further, however, an onlooker called his attention to one in the far distance.

The pilot gazed long and earnestly, and eventually pronounced her to be an Aberdeen boat.

He proved to be right, and a chorus of surprised voices inquired how he knew.

"No seagulls following her!" was his terse reply.

Another Good Man Gone Wrong

"I MET Jones to-day and he told me he is engaged."

"Glad to hear it—and yet I don't know why I should be; he never did me any harm."—Tit-Bits.

She Knocks the Men Cold

NOT even bobbed hair is good enough for Mary S. Allen, the commandant of the Women's Auxiliary Police of London, who is now visiting this continent, to study American police methods. She had to have a real man's cut. She is proud of her mannish appearance. She added the rakish cap and the monocle to make sure of the effect.

AGE OF GREAT MEN PAST SAYS WELLS TO A JAP

Celebrated English Author Writes Something More Than His Signature in Japanese Duster's Autograph Book

H. G. WELLS has his hero-worshipers. Sinclair Lewis, the celebrated author of "Main Street" and "Babbit," crossed the Atlantic as a young man on purpose to see Wells. Lacking the courage in the disreputable state of his clothes to knock at the author's door, he contented himself with gazing at him through the library window. But the Japanese Gentleman With a Duster went right in by appointment. His naive portraits of distinguished Englishmen now compose one of the best sellers of the season in Japan. The author is a son-in-law of Baron Goto, who lately visited England.

"With a thrilling heart I went up in the lift to the apartment of H. G. Wells," he says. "I found the great writer had just come in. 'Good morning, come in,' he hailed me. He looked at least ten years younger than his age, with keen blue eyes and light hair. His well-marked eyebrows and unstrained looks gave me a pleasant first impression.

H. G. Wells

"'I thank you for giving me part of your time just before leaving for Russia,' I began. 'Though it may be disagreeable to you, I am a hero worshiper, and one of the greatest attractions of my visit to England was the hope of seeing you personally, as I have long been an ardent reader of your works.'

"'Thanks,' he replied. 'I admire Japan from the points of view of both peace and war. Japan did not fight for 300 years. Finding, however, the necessity of taking arms in self-defense, she rose and showed admirably excellent talent. Just as you came here in European clothes, Japan defended herself with western armament against China and Russia. If Japan had failed to do so, she would have had the fate of India.'

"Cordial words flowed from his lips and the courtesy and simplicity forming the groundwork of genius seemed to create quietness in the room. I did not forget to present my autograph book.

"'I shall be glad if you will write something besides your signature.'

"'With pleasure, but it is difficult to get an inspiration at once.' Saying this, he smiled and, moving round, wrote, 'All educated men are citizens of one State—the Republic of Mankind. H. G. Wells, Sept. 16, 1920,' in beautiful writing.

"'I wonder,' I said, 'how could we retain the aristocracy, which, I believe, is indispensable to make human life noble. In this respect I am with Matthew Arnold, and I want to hear your valuable opinions on this.'

"'Have you read my "Research Magnificent"?'

"'No, I have not,' I replied. Then Mr. Wells wrote the title of the book on a slip of paper, and, turning again to me, said: 'The age of great men is past.' These words impressed me very deeply: I repeated it in my mind. He continued:

"'Generally, men have been looking on human greatness with exaggerated respect. Shakespeare was thought to possess 150 times as much brain as ordinary men only because his literary works were so grand. But I think people are mistaken in this. The difference of human ability is not so great. Shakespeare may have had perhaps a 50 per cent. better brain than the average. The idea that a great man is necessary to lead and guide the world is a conception found only among uneducated people; it has no significance to-day. As history shows, the ancient times and the Middle Ages were the times of Emperors, great statesmen and powerful soldiers. But the history of modern times should be one of the people.'

"'Then what will control society?'

"'The people themselves.'" . . .

HER PROPERTY

LADY WARWICK can tell many good electioneering stories. As everybody knows, her sympathies are with the Labor cause, and in the past she has often canvassed for Labor candidates.

Once, when thus engaged, she knocked at the door of a house in a mean street. Her knock was answered by a severe-looking matron, who stood with arms akimbo regarding her in no friendly spirit.

"May I see Mr. Blank?" she asked.

"You can't," replied the matron.

"But I want to see what party he belongs to," pleaded Lady Warwick."

"Well, take a good look at me," retorted the matron. I'm the party what he belongs to!"

MADE THE PRINCE LAUGH

AT a luncheon recently at which the Prince of Wales was present, the new colonial secretary, Mr. Thomas, told a story that made H.R.H. laugh heartily.

"On my first visit to the colonial office," declared Mr. Thomas, "I presented myself in all humility at the main entrance.

The porter asked me whom I wanted to see, and I replied that I wanted to see my office; adding, by way of explanation, 'I am the colonial secretary.'

"He loked at me, and then, turning an another porter, said, but in a voice audible to me, 'Oh, another shell-shock patient!'".

ACCORDING to Mr. George Bernard Shaw, vegetarians are the most ferocious beings in human society. The way they glare before savagely pouncing upon a nut cutlet is said to remind one of the wild west.—Punch.

Life without its ideal is nothing but stagnation.—Mrs. Stanley Baldwin.

Life would be intolerable if it were not for its reconciliations.—Lord Birkenhead.

Whatever would our grandmothers say if they knew that women had clubs as well as men?—Lady Leconfield.

SERVICES AT THE CATHEDRAL

Last evening, before another large and very attentive audience, Rev. Father A. McCann, C.S.S.R., delivered a very eloquent and practical instruction on "The Christian Family," and during his discourse made a very forceful plea for sanctity, love and filial obedience in the Christian home.

Taking the text, "As for me and my house we will serve the Lord," Joshua xxiv., 15, he spoke in part as follows:

The Catholic Church has always recognized the Christian family to be the all-important unit of society in both Church and State. If the homes are Christian, happy and well ordered, society will be Christian, happy and well ordered, and peace and prosperity will flourish in the Church and State. Therefore the Church throughout her long history has many times opposed wilful, sinful rulers to preserve the bond and tie of matrimony which is the very foundation of unity and sanctity of every home.

The Christian home is attacked bitterly and insidiously to-day by so-called emancipators, who advocate almost universal divorce, the divorce of authority from parents, the divorce of religion from education, from science and from art; the divorce of man from his wife. Such propaganda will divorce happiness from the human heart and submerge the soul in despair. The Church appeals to-day to Christian women to stand fast against these forces which attack society in its very stronghold, the Christian family. Every Christian woman, learned or unlettered, rich or poor, if she desires happiness in time and in eternity, must be faithful to the duties and obligations of her state in life. If she disregard these duties her happiness is lost, because God's laws are sustained by Divine sanction. Therefore good Christian women beware of the diabolical teaching of the unchristian fanatics of to-day, for their doctrine strikes at the very heart of the Christian home and destroys all happiness.

Make good use of prayer and the sacraments, for they are the God-given means to acquire peace. But practice also the domestic virtues of kindness, patience and silence. Do not broadcast your little troubles among your neighbors, for you only multiply your difficulties. If you persevere in doing quietly your part God will shower down blessings and happiness on your home.

The Church has ever been the champion of woman's cause. It raised her out of the state of pagan servitude, and made her the queen and helpmate of the Christian home. God has placed the good mother in a position where her influence for good is immeasurable. On her devolves the sacred duty of moulding the minds of her children in their tender years when the little minds are as impressionable as wax, yet as retentive as marble. As the twig is bent the tree is inclined. Children are great imitators, hence there is need constantly of good example by word and deed.

There is great need of family prayer in this day. Would to God that we had the prudent, prayful, careful mothers of the generation past. Human nature is such that every child needs watching, and parental vigilance is always well repaid. The number of fondly, foolish parents seems to be increasing rapidly, and children in their irresponsible teens are allowed too much freedom and soon become wayward and incorrigible.

Maintain parental authority with gentleness and firmness, but maintain it at all costs. Discipline and respect for authority is the crying need of to-day. Modern science is producing new luxuries daily, and these luxuries are begetting new appetites which are only new tyrants to rule the erring child. Simplicity in dress, food and amusements is the best natural safeguard of virtue. We need prudent, vigilant parents in these days of complex temptation.

Matrimony was raised by God Himself to the dignity of a sacrament, and He will bless and sustain all who approach His altar with the proper intentions and disposition. Young people should possess themselves of the tremendous importance of the holy union they are about to make, a union that will profoundly influence their whole lives.

Here the reverend missionary dwelt at length on the great necessity of young people considering seriously their vocations in life. The eternal salvation of the soul often depends on proper choice, hence the great necessity of prayer and of confidence in God's providence. Do not on any account enter upon a mixed marriage! I always give the same advice to non-Catholics, Marry a person of your own persuasion and thus avoid the occasion of many contentions.

In conclusion, the preacher urged parents and children to strive on to keep God's Fourth Commandment.

Disease Germs Doomed

Many have lost terrors for the Scientist

The progress of recent years in medical research is little short of marvellous. Daily, science kills germs by the million. Daily, new ones are being discovered, isolated and exterminated by the march of medicine.

Science is winning. What were once regarded as serious diseases are now laughed out of countenance by the doctors. Fearlessly they plunge naked hands into swarms of them, their only precaution being to rinse their hands afterwards with a reliable germicidal preparation. We are witnessing the birth of an era when the world will have little to fear from microbes.

Absorbine Jr., besides being the all-purpose liniment that removes pain and soreness, and hastens healing, is a powerful antiseptic that is death to the microbe world.

Absorbine Jr., is just what is needed in the house in case of accidents and to correct the many little household hurts that constantly occur. $1.25, at your druggist.

JAPAN CHERRY BLOSSOM SEASON RUINED BY FIRE AND EARTHQUAKE

TOKIO, May 7 (Associated Press). —Cherry-blossom time in Tokio, with a reputation as one of the most beautiful sights in the world, will be a comparatively drab season this year. The great fire of last September is the reason.

Before the disaster there were about 90,000 cherry trees in Tokio. Fully a third of these were destroyed in the fire and many more were so badly damaged that it will be years before their former glory returns. The central and eastern wards of the city, the once-famous cherry districts, will be dreary this spring.

Tokio's cherry season comes the latter part of April.

THE ULSTER BOUNDARY.

LONDON, May 7. — In view of Ulster's attitude to the boundary commission, the British government, according to political writers, is considering asking the Duke of Abercorn, governor of Northern Ireland, and the supreme authority in Ulster, to nominate a representative. This action depends upon the interpretation of the Anglo-Irish treaty.

Ulster, it is pointed out, is neither a Dominion nor a free state, and is therefore in a different position to the Dublin government.

SOUTH CENTRAL ABANDONED FOR TECHNICAL USE

Adverse Report of the Advisory Vocational Committee Adopted By the Board of Education—E. G. Patterson Resigned From the Committee.

POLLING PLACES.

Last night's meeting of the Board of Education dealt largely with routine matters, but an interesting item was the report of the Vocational Committee presented by Mrs. Morris, in which the project to use South Central School after repairs had been made as a vocational training centre is rejected. The committee recommended that the plan be abandoned, and Chairman J. M. Greene remarked that the adoption of the report would bind only this year's Board of Education, since a committee report could not affect future boards.

Following the adoption of the report and the hearing of Mr. A. Mowat, School Inspector, who said there is congestion in Central School to an extent that precludes the admission of young pupils from a section south of Charlotte street and east of Aylmer, the Chairman remarked that now is the time to repair South Central for use as a Public School. Children of seven years, it appears, are compelled now to walk from George street to the Prince of Wales School, and it is planned to make provision for them elsewhere. On motion of Messrs. Fowler and McKone, the Property Committee was directed to attend to the repairing and altering of South Central School.

Use Schools for Polling.

The City Council requested information as to whether in the event of legislative sanction being obtained the Board of Education would allow the use of city schools as polling places. After discussion the question was left to the Supervision Committee to investigate and report..

A. A. Fowler: "I think that's a good idea—the schools are the proper places."

The Chairman: "If these elections were all held on holidays it would be alright."

E. B. Fowler: "I don't think the teaching should be interfered with."

Mrs. Morris: "Who's going to pay the janitor for cleaning up?"

Association Praised.

On receipt of a report of the work of Queen Alexandra Home and School Association, Mrs. Morris moved a vote of thanks for the good work the association is doing.

E. G. Patterson Resigned.

On account of pressure of business, E. G. Patterson tendered his resignation from the Advisory Vocational Committee. It was accepted with regret.

Advisory Committee.

Mrs. K. Morris reported two meetings of the Advisory Vocational Committee. The first, held on February 12, reviewed the February, 1923, and February, 1924, reports of the Collegiate Inspector, Mr. Houston, referred to the Vocational Committee by the board on February 5th. In these reports Inspector Houston stressed the need of increasing the accommodation at the Collegiate Institute to provide for manual training, household science, commercial classes, gymnasia and vocational courses for those students wishing and requiring to enter industrial life.

At this meeting a suggestion was received that the South Central School might be suitably altered for vocational purposes. Mr. W. Blackwell was authorized to prepare plans showing the possibilities of this South Central property, and a deputation met the Minister of Education and the department heads to explain the plans and to request information as to available grants. Dr. Merchant, Superintendent of Education, promised to request Mr. F. P. Gavin, Director of Technical Education, to inspect the South Central School in the near future.

Mr. Gavin and an architect of the Board of Public Works have since examined the South Central School and Mr. Blackwell's plans.

A comprehensive report has since been received from Mr. Gavin.

Turn Down South Central.

On Friday, May 2nd, the Advisory Vocational Committee met again to deal with unfinished business of the former meeting. Mr. Gavin reported that the South Central proposition did not provide adequately for the vocational needs of Peterborough and pointed out five important defects. In view of the inadequacy of the plan and its temporary nature, he considered it would be unwise on the part of the board to spend the amount of $50,000 necessary to alter this building. The department was willing, however, if the Advisory Vocational Committee and the board desired to go on with the proposition to permit the use of this building for five years, and to give the usual grants for maintenance and equipment, but nothing towards the building.

In view of the facts presented, the committee unanimously agreed to take no action on the South Central proposition, it being regarded as not feasible.

Reviewing again the Inspector's reports re additional courses in the Collegiate Institute for those who must enter industry, the following resolution was passed:

"That this Advisory Vocational Committee approve the accommodation for vocational classes as provided in the sketch plans for a composite Collegiate extension as prepared by Mr. Blackwell, architect, and recommend the vocational portion of this plan to the Board of Education for its approval, when they see fit to extend the Collegiate accommodation."

At this meeting the report of Mr. Sorsoleil and Miss McKim on the work of the night classes was received. Both Inspectors report that the organization, teachers, classes and attendance are satisfactory. The report says: "The careful and constant supervision of the Principal, Mr. Hagerman, is an important factor in the effectiveness of the night classes."

Director's Report.

The plans for providing temporary accommodation for vocational classes by making changes in and additions to the South Central School have been examined. In making this examination the school building and site have been visited.

The representations made by your architect regarding the state of the present building appear to be correct.

The proposed scheme does not provide adequately the accommodation required to establish a vocational school that would meet satisfactorily the needs of Peterborough. Attention is directed to the following defects in the scheme:

1. No accommodation is provided for either day or evening classes in cookery, sewing, dressmaking or millinery for girls and women.

2. No accommodation is provided for teaching science or art.

3. The class-room accommodation provided is barely sufficient to meet the immediate needs of the commercial classes and the proposed technical classes.

4. No playground space will be available for the use of the pupils.

5. No gymnasium, library or assembly hall is provided.

The last two defects are more serious factors in the probable success of the school than may appear at first sight. Prospective pupils and their parents will be influenced in their selection of the school to be entered by a comparison of the accommodation, of the facilities for social and recreational life and of the general environment of the technical school, with those of the Collegiate Institute.

It was stated by representatives of the board that the proposed scheme is not intended to be of a permanent nature, but is to be used temporarily for a vocational school with the expectation that when adequate provision is made elsewhere for vocational education the South Central School will again be used for Public School purposes.

In view of the temporary nature of the scheme, and of the inadequacy of the accommodation provided, it does not seem wise to expend on this building the amount estimated, $50,000, as necessary to make the proposed changes.

Approved Conditionally.

If, however, the Advisory Vocational Committee and the Board of Education are of the opinion that the proposed scheme will enable them to provide temporarily for industrial and technical classes and to maintain a satisfactory attendance in the classes, I shall recommend to the Minister that

1. approval of the establishment of the classes be given;

2. approval of the use for five years of the proposed accommodation be given;

3. the commercial classes be accepted as vocational classes;

4. the usual grants for equipment and for maintenance, as provided for in the regulations, be paid.

If the committee and the board proceed with the scheme certain suggestions regarding minor changes in plans made by the architect of the Public Works Department should be considered and the revised plans submitted for approval.

If the scheme is proceeded with the steps to be taken are as follows:

1. Consideration of the scheme by the Advisory Committee.

2. Formal report to the board, containing the recommendation of the Advisory Committee, and adoption of this report by the board.

3. Completion of the plans and specifications by the architect, and submission of these to the Minister for approval.

4. Making of agreement between the Advisory Committee and the board and the Minister respecting the maintenance of the school and the payments of grants on the cost of equipment.

STEAM BOATS AT LAKEFIELD

Whistles Afford Reminder of the Approach of New Season On the Lakes — Railways to Run 'Bus Lines.

LAKEFIELD, May 7—The sound of the steamers whistling as they come down the lake is a signal that, in spite of the backward spring that summer is coming and this season should be an outstanding one for the lakes as the transportation facilities were never as promising. The C.P.R. will run two bus lines this year, one, as last year, to McCracken's Landing and the other to Kawartha Park and Burleigh Falls. The C.N.R. expect also to run a bus line and trains will connect closely with the morning and noon train to Toronto from Peterboro.

AN OLD RESIDENT HAS PASSED AWAY.

Omemee Mourns Passing of Mrs. William Doran—Seventeen Grandchildren and Sixteen Great-Grandchildren Survive.

OMEMEE, May 7.—Death claimed another old and esteemed resident of Omemee on Saturday in the person of Mrs. Wm. Doran. The deceased had reached the ripe old age of eighty-seven years and would have celebrated another birthday had she lived until the 23rd of May. She was born a short distance west of Omemee, on the Laidlay homestead, and had resided here practically all her life. Her health was of the best until about a year and a half ago, when she suffered from a severe illness and since then, although bright and cheerful she had been confined to her room, and not until about ten days ago was she stricken with a weakness from which her life gradually ebbed out.

The late Mrs. Dorah had been twice married, first to Wm. Fee and from this union five daughters and one son had been, and afterward to Wm. Doran, who still survives her.

The funeral was held from her late residence on Sturgeon street on Monday afternoon, with interment at Emily cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. E. W. Rowland pastor of the Methodist Church, assisted by Rev. J. A. Black pastor of the Presbyterian Church.

Left to mourn her loss besides her husband, of the immediate relatives are four daughters, Mrs. Wallace of Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. Sherin of Des Moines, Ohio; Mrs. B. McQuade of Toronto, and Mrs. William Rehill of Omemee, and one son, Mr. Wm. Fee of East Emily. Another daughter, Mrs. John Sherin, predeceased her some years ago. There remain also two sisters, Mrs. Morrow of Toronto and Mrs. Walker of Peterborough. Seventeen grandchildren and sixteen great grandchildren.

Those from a distance who attended the funeral were: Mrs. Morrow and Mrs. H. Foster of Toronto; Miss Ida Laidley of Dunsford; Mrs. Walker of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Laidley of Oshawa and Mrs. G. Balfour and Master Osborne Rehill of Lindsay.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. R. Poast, R. J. Grandy, Geo. English, I. H. Fee, J. Sherin and A. Laidley.

UNITED EFFORTS WILL MAKE PEACE

Statesmen, Educationalists and Journalists Throughout the World Must Co-operate to Create World Peace,

CLEVELAND, Ohio., May 7. — (Canadian Press)—Only by the united efforts of business men, statesmen, educationists and journalists throughout the world to "create and produce the will to peace" can there be achieved recovery and reconstruction of a thorough and abiding kind, Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador, told the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in an address last night at its annotual convention.

To the sae cnd they must work, al so, the Ambassador declared, to "remove the desire for revenge on the one hand and the fear of revenge on the other and to show that, while accepting the ordinary competition of trade, which is a part of the natural order of things, no nation desires to take any unfair and improper advantage of the other."

The subject of influence of International co-operation on trade, Sir Eme said, is one to which, "too little attention is perhaps paid by those who give up their time mainly to business."

International trade, which, he said has been too often the provocation of war, should henceforth be pursued along lines which would make it rather an influence for peace.

Referring to economic future of Russia the Ambassador declared the great question at present is who is going to help Russia to recover . In asking this question he said, "I do not purpose to refer ot any particular political action on the part of any government. But here is a case where international co-operation is urgently required if one of the gravest problems o fthe world is to be satisfactorily soluved.

THE CHURCH UNION BILL WAS AMENDED

It is Expected That a Conference of the Two Houses Will Be Held.

HALIFAX, N.S., May 7.—(Canadian Press).—The Church Union Bill, which was reported back to the Legislative Assembly from the Council with four amendments yesterday afternoon was immediately taken under consideration by the Committee on Law Amendments, which after a few minutes of deliberation reported back to the House with a recommendation that none of the amendments be concurred in.

It is expected a conference of the two Houses will follow shortly. The amendments provided that adherents as well as communicants could vote on the question at congregational meetings; that non-concurring congregations would not be legislated into union, but could vote themselves in; that the Presbyterian College and its property be exempted from the provisions of the Act and that before the bill is made effective, a vote be taken by every congregation involved.

Mrs. A. C. Brown, Oromocto, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with my liver for a few years back and was so bad I did not feel able to do my work.

I had severe pains in my stomach so bad I could hardly stand them at times; coated tongue; bad taste in the mouth, especially in the morning, and had a yellow and sallow complexion.

The former record of 4,990 meters (16,367.20 feet) was established by Jean Casale, June 1, 1923.

NATIONALIST TO FORM CABINET

Deputy Hergt Pledges Party's Support to Dawes-Young Plan, With Reservations.

(By Carl D. Groat—United Press Staff Correspondent).

BERLIN, May 7.—Deputy Hergt, Nationalist leader, who within a fortnight will be invited by President Ebert to attempt the formation of the next German Cabinet, to-day pledged his party's support to the Dawes-Young plan, "with some reservations."

In an interview with the United Press, Herr Hergt, a former Prussion Minister of the Interior, who recently rose to the leadership of the powerful Nationalist group, declared his followers would make only such concessions as it was "physically possible to meet." Certain reservations, he added, were "unrenounceable."

The sum and substance of Herr Hergt's statement was that the Nationalists will not sabotage the experts' report.

Such a declaration was a prerequisite to obtaining the necessary centrists and Folks Party consent to co-operate in a Cabinet headed by Hergt.

If the Nationalist leader fails to form a Cabinet, the old coalition will be tried.

EIGHT PERSONS KILLED WHEN TRAIN STRUCK CAR

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., May 7. — (Canadian Press).—Eight persons were killed, six of them outright, when the first section of the Twentieth Century Limited westbound on the New York Central tracks struck an automobile on Degraff's Crossing, a mile east of this city, last night. The dead are: John M. S. Acee, 45, Amsterdam, clothing merchant, his wife Emeline, 39, his sons Thomas, 5, and Joseph, 10 months, his daughter Julia, 14; Mrs. Schahanda Harb, 26, of Utica, sister of Mrs. Acee, her daughter Mary, 3; David Spirono, 40, Amsterdam, millworker. The automobile, an enclosed car, virtually had cleared the track when the locomotive caught it, before Gen. Williams, commissioner of Ontario police, in his capacity as justice of the peace, declared that both Hart and Ross are material witnesses. Hart took the stand at Public Accounts committee on March 20 and was questioned respecting succession duty free bonds, he had sold to province during the time of the Drury government. Hart said he had been told that Assistant Treasurer Charles A. Matthews had received a "split" on $11,500 profits Hart and Ross had made on the sale. Ross corroborated Hart's story.

BLACKLEG

Leading druggists throughout Ontario inform us that already a great many farmers are buying Blackleg-oids preparatory to vaccinating their cattle this spring. There is no question but that this is a good move: something that every owner of cattle ought to attend to before it is too late. Veterinarians are agreed that there is little use trying to treat a case of Blackleg. It is almost invariably fatal and a single case is likely to so inoculate the soil with germs that the infection will linger for years to come.

Since it is a well established fact that vaccination will protect against the disease no one ought to neglect this precaution. The next time you have an opportunity go to Lynch's Drug Store, 168 Hunter street, where you will get booklets and full instructions on how to use Blackleg Vaccine.

PILOT WARNED FOR RECENT STRANDING.

Mishap In St. Lawrence to S.S. Cornishman Jaused By Error In Judgment

OTTAWA, May 7. — (Canadian Press). — "Unexpected and unforseen effect of tide," and "error of judgment on the part of the pilot," are the causes given for the stranding of S.S. Cornishman, in the St. Lawrence River on April 23, by the Court of Inquiry. The finding of the court was announced by the Department of Marine and Fisheries here Tuesday.

The report of L. A. Demers, Dominion Wreck Commissioner, states that Captain Calvert, of the Cornishman is entirely exonerated from blame. Evidence produced showed that every precaution had been taken by the navigators of the ship. The license of the pilot was returned by the court with a warning. The lightship which was usually in place near the spot where the ship went aground was not there, due to ice conditions, according to the report submitted by the Wreck Commissioner.

Canada Was Neutral On Singapore Base.

OTTAWA, May 7. — (Canadian Press).—Canada's attitude to the proposal to establish a British naval base at Singapore, previous to the present British Government's decision not to proceed with it, was one of neutrality. Correspondence between the two Governments tabled Tuesday shows that the Canadian Government last February cabled the British Colonial Secretary, stating that "realizing that we are not in a position to offer any advice regarding the necessity of establishing a base at Singapore, the Canadian Cabinet does not feel that the matter calls for any comment from its members."

MRS. MORRIS REPORTS TRUSTEE CONVENTION

The annual meeting of the Ontario Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association opened on Monday, April 21st, in the Central Technical School. The urban and the secondary trustees sections met together on Monday and Tuesday afternoons, the rural trustees section meeting at the same time in another part of the building. On Tuesday morning and on Wednesday morning and afternoon all sections of the O.T.R.A. were in session together in the auditorium of the Technical School.

One thousand and fifty delegates were registered in attendance. The President of the urban trustees section, Mr. F. B. Edmonds, L.L.B., was chairman of the meetings of that section. The President of the secondary school trustees section, Mr. A. W. Baines, St. Thomas, presided at the meetings of that section, and Mr. W. J. Goodfellow, Stroud, President, presided at the meetings of the rural trustees section. Mr. E. T. Howe, Windsor, presided at the meetings of the general association when all trustees met together.

The item of main importance at the first session of the urban and secondary school trustees was a paper on "The Education of the Urban School Trustee" by Dr. S. Silcox, Principal of the Normam School, Stratford. Dr. Silcox predicted that the time would come when a certain standard of education would be required of all candidates for the school board. He suggested that the standard might be two or three years' experience at high school or the equivalent of junior matriculation standing. From the ranks of citizens who had only a public school course a satisfactory school board might be secured provided that such citizens were willing to continue indefinitely their education after leaving school. "The education of the urban school trustees who takes his position seriously must be continuous. He should view expenditures on education as investments rather than as expenses. He must keep in touch with modern movements in the educational field."

Following Dr. Silcox's address, a round table conference on "Problems of Urban Boards" was held. The value of advisory committees to the board was discussed, and Mr. F. B. Edmonds explained the difficulties and advantages the Toronto board had experienced with advisory committees.

On Tuesday afternoon these two sections met again and listened to an admirable address by Mr. H. B. Beal, Principal of London Technical High School, on "Vocational and Industrial Classes." These classes have been established in London long enough to have proved their value to the individual and the community. The demand for these students in the factories exceeds the supply, even in periods of depression. All adolescents who come under the part time section of the Act have come willingly into the vocational classes. Dr. Beal said: "In twenty-five years' teaching I have never seen so large a class of students so sorely in need of care as these part time students." In the five years since London opened a suitable vocational and technical school, 37 per cent. of high school entrance pupils have entered the technical school, in spite of the fact that London has one central and two branch high schools. Mr. Beal says: "No modern community considers its accommodation for secondary education complete unless it has opportunities for vocational training—over 80 per cent. of the secondary school population enter industry. Less than 10 per cent. who go to Collegiate enter the occupations for which these schools prepare."

Major J. P. Cowles, Provincial Attendance Officer, followed with a paper on "Part Time Classes." These classes have proved their value and are a means of guidance for young people going into industry.

The delegates were then personally conducted through the Technical School. The opportunities offered to the children and adults of Toronto through this school, the variety of training processes and the work accomplished proved an eye-opener to many out-of-town trustees.

The rural trustees section heard a number of fine papers during their two afternoon sessions. Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P., in her usual interesting and vigorous style gave an address on "The Needs of Rural Education," which was enthusiastically received.

"The Township School Board," a plea for a larger administrative unit, with a few competent trustees doing the work now handled by many indifferent ones, was advocated by Mr. Malcolm McBeth, editor of one of the brightest Ontario dailies.

Miss J. M. Galbraith, R.N., Brampton, spoke on "The Health of the Rural Child."

"Advanced Rural Education for Young People," by W. G. Marritt, Hamilton, brought out some practical and attractive ideas.

Discussion of these papers, a debate on consolidation and numerous resolutions made these sessions profitable and interesting.

At the joint sessions of all sections of the O.T.R.A. routine business was transacted, resolutions were received and discussed and a number of fine addresses were heard.

Many Addresses.

"Health Education," by Dr. E. H. Wickware, Smith Falls; "The Highest Purpose of Education," by Arthur W. Beal, M.A., Whitby, was a powerful appeal for the instruction of children in vital things at the right time and place; "The Teacher and Community," by Major C. R. Newcombe, Principal of a Collegiate Institute, Winnipeg, an able paper, well delivered; address by Dr. Clarke Hetherington, Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York; "Adult Education," by Principal W. L. Grant, Upper Canada College, Toronto.

An address by Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, was particularly interesting. Mr. Martin, under instructions from the Premier, accompanied by Dr. Merchant, Superintendent of Education, goes to Europe this summer to look into the methods of vocational training in rural districts, particularly the Swedish schools and methods. Hon. Mr. Martin regarded as most desirable and necessary the Government support being given to vocational training in urban districts and feels that it will be equally beneficial to rural communities and that they are equally entitled to it.

At these sessions, interspersed between addresses and regular business, three fine school choirs entertained the delegates. This is always one of the most delightful and refreshing experiences, and Miss Mae Skilling, with the Columbia Graphonola demonstration, provides another refresher.

Three evening sessions were held. I will refer only to the outstanding speakers at these sessions. On Monday Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Prime Minister of the Province of Quebec, made a plea for a better understanding between the peoples of Ontario and Quebec, through a knowledge of each other's language, asking that the vexed problem of bi-lingualism be considered in a spirit of forbearance by both races. This fine address, with all other important ones, will appear in the School Board Journal, and is well worth reading.

The Practical Side of Education.

The more practical side of educational work was stressed by A. R. Crawford, B.Sc., Director of Technical Education for Canada, who spoke on "The Place of Vocational Schools in an Educational System." Mr. Crawford emphasized the fact that the present system did not retain the interest of pupils after they reached the first year or two of adolescence, with the result that more than 80 per cent. of children did not complete a secondary school education, and were thus compelled to face the business of life with stunted mental development.

Vocational schools, he said, were designed to help those who could not or would not go to college. Some of the high school subjects were replaced by shopwork, mechanical drawing in the case of the men, or home economics for the girls. Thus the schooling of boys and girls was related to their occupations, and the interests and advantages of education to future life were stressed.

The history of the vocational school, said Mr. Crawford, did not go back very far. In Canada this type was a development of the last ten or fifteen years. Steady, but gradual development had taken place, until at the present time the enrolment exceeded 70,000. This was due largely to the aid given the Provinces by the Dominion Government, which in 1919 voted $10,000,000 to be used during the ten years between 1919 and 1929 for vocational training work. Although at first the technical school had tended to draw away from the purely academic, for the last four or five years the two classes has been coming together. This condition was evident, said Mr. Crawford, from the attention that was being paid to vocational work at the present convention of the O.E.A.

The Composite High School.

One of the most promising educational developments was the composite high school, which offered commercial, industrial and other vocational courses, as well as work leading to matriculation and other purely academic examinations. As far as it went, the vocational system of Canada, claimed the speaker, was second to none, but it should be carried still further, until the complete educational system developed to the highest extent the character and talent of every Canadian boy and girl.

Rev. Principal Gandier, Knox College, and Major W. W. Hiltz, Mayor of Toronto, also spoke.

On Tuesday evening, the speakers were Rev. Chancellor Bowles, of Victoria College, Sir Robert Falconer, President University of Toronto; Mr Martin Kerr, Hamilton, President O. E.A., and Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Prime Minister of Ontario, who gave the addess of the evening, followed by Mr. Frank Cody, Superintendent of Schools, Detroit. The Hon G. Howard Ferguson's address was fully reported in the newspapers. It will be interesting to watch the working out of some educational changes proposed by the Minister.

On Wednesday evening addresses were given by Major C. R. Newcombe, Principal of a Collegiate Institute, Winnipeg, and by Dr. Clarke Hetherington, Columbia University, New York.

Mrs. Morris is President.

In connection with the Trustees' and Ratepayers' Department, the following officers were elected: Hon. President, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson; President, Mrs. W. R. Morris, Peterboro; Vice-President, Dr. A. J. Morrow, of Maxville; Secretary, W. M. Morris, Toronto. Legislative Committee, Judge J. H. Scott, Perth, E. H. Wickware, Smith's Falls; J. G. CANADA'S NEWEST CITIZENS

These sturdy youngsters are four of Canada's very newest citizens by virtue of their recent arrival at Montreal on the Canadian Pacific S.S. Minnedosa. They made the journey from various parts of England unattended, and at all times radiated a true pioneer spirit of cheerful optimism. The young man with the heavy sense of responsibility unravelling the mysteries of a Canadian Pacific Railway time-table to the rest of the group is Harry Andrews, from Ipswich, who is destined along with his brother Edward, second from the right, for Toronto. They will join their parents who have been in Canada for the last year. Harry is 14, and Edward 10 years of age. CROP REPORTS

The following is a summary of the returns made by the agricultural representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Wet weather this spring has delayed seeding in most sections and the season is now considered to be nearly two weeks later than usual. In a few favoured localities some fields of oats have been got in and are showing up. The general opinion, however, is that despite the tardy start a full acreage of spring crops will yet be sown.

Fall wheat has come through the winter and the more trying spring weather in remarkably good condition, and the prospects are for a good yield of Ontario's favourite wheat crop.

Clover has also entered the growing season in promising form, and with abundant spring rains has received a fair start despite the rather cool weather prevailing.

Alfalfa is receiving more special attention than any other fodder crop. Farmers both east and west are extending their acreage of this legume, and in most cases are treating with nitro-culture. The Peel representative states that out of 82 cultures in stock he has already sold 71. The use of cultures for clovers are also on the increase, as well as the treating of grain for smut and of potatoes for scab.

More attention is being given to the pruning of fruit trees this spring than in recent years—more so, relatively, than to spraying, which, however, is not being neglected.

There is less corn for sale in Essex than at the same date in recent years.

Kent: There is a decided increase in the acreage of sugar beets, the Dominion Sugar Company here having a contracted acreage of 31,000 acres.

Prince Edward: On the early loamy soils early potatoes have been planted, many of which are allowed to grow sprouts. Canning and seed peas seem to be the crops that will have the most noticeable increase in acreage.

Middlesex: There is a revival of interest in apple growing. More pruning has been done. Some spraying has already been done. In one township twelve new power outfits have been sold this spring. Considerable strawberries have been planted already.

Frontenac: Cheese factories are running full capacity where they have opened for business. Condensory at Sydenham, conducted by Farmers' Creamery Co., are getting more milk than any time during their management. Butter fat is only worth from 28c to 30c per pound. Cheese is worth 12c per pound.

Grade cows are selling at from $60.00 to $80.00 in the county of Dundas.

Prince Edward: Farmers are anything but enthusiastic when they contemplate the expected prices of dairy products. Dairy cows selling for $45.00 to $80.00; veals, 4 to 7 cents; hogs, $7.50. A carload of cows left the county to-day, netting farmers $47.50 each.

Elgin: Buyers are beginning to look up export cattle and are offering around 7c per pound. Many steers, however, will be turned on the grass before sending to market.

South Simcoe: This week at a local auction sale good grade ewes sold for as high as $22.00 each; fair grade cows up to $80.00 each. Some 15 horses were shipped out of Alliston to-day, these were mostly agricultural and general purpose horses. They ranged in price from $100 to $175 each.

Bruce: There will not be as many hogs fed during the coming summer as it is difficult to show a profit when one considers the present market price. A car load of 100 hogs shipped from Elmwood recently graded 60 per cent. selects, 20 per cent thick smooths, 20 per cent. shops. Heavy finished cattle weighing from 1,300 to 1,400 pounds have been marketed during the week from $8.00 to $8.25 per cwt. Grass cattle weighing from 1,100 to 1,200 pounds have been bought from $6.00 to $6.50 per cwt.

Kent: The Danes who recently came out are proving to be excellent farm labourers. Their chief difficulty is speaking the language.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN WORLD

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Reds—I.W.W.'s—not mere radicals in the sense the word's ordinarily used in this country just like Lenin and Trotzky—are responsible for the investigations in Washington.

Their plan is to tear down our republican form of government and set up soviet rule in America.

The international, once established in Russia, wanted to extend its power to the United States. So some senators, like Wheeler and Brookhart, were summoned to Moscow to plan a revolution.

The investigations are the first step in this plot.

* * *

Do You Believe It?

Do you believe that yarn?

Well, ex-Attorney General Daugherty tells it—tells it seriously, as a fact, not a mere crazy rumor or theory.

According to Daugherty, the Justice Department files are full of evidence about it. That, he says, is why the conspirators were so anxious to get hold of the files; that's why he wouldn't give them up—resigned first.

Frank Vanderlip, adds Daugherty, is financing the plot.

* * *

More Evidence.

It wasn't the Justice Department alone that had files others were anxious to get possession of.

Gaston Means, international sleuth and star witness for the Daugherty investigating committee, had several suitcasesful. But Means' evidence was not against communists; his was against suspected grafters.

Two men, posing as Senate sergeants-at-arms, called on Means and demanded this evidence on an order ostensibly signed by Wheeler and Brookhart. Means surrendered it. Now it proves that Wheeler's and Brookhart's names were forged. Thus vanished a lot of evidence against suspected officials.

* * *

Pretty Poor Case.

The charge that Wheeler used his senatorial influence before General Land Office Commissioner Spry to help Gordon Campbell, a Montana oil claimant, is falling very flat. Campbell denies it. On the contrary, Wheeler refused to appear for him. Spry, who ought to know, says Wheeler didn't appear.

* * *

Soldiers' Bonus.

The Senate passed the soldiers' bonus bill on an insurance basis. The House must act yet, but it's so nearly in agreement with the Senate no hitch is likely. Authorities differ as to what the bonus will cost, but it will be a lot.

* * *

Arms Limitation.

President Coolidge has declared in favour of another international meeting to limit armaments some more. However, this is based on the theory that the German reparations question has been settled. This doesn't seem so certain as it did.

* * *

Up to America.

To be sure, the interested countries did agree to the Dawes committee's reparations settlement plan, but now Premier Poincare of France reneges on giving up military control in Germany unless France gets some sort of a financial guarantee. Nobody but the United States can give such a guarantee, and it's been proved over and over again that the United States isn't going to.

* * *

Murphy's Death.

Democratic politicians are all excited over the death of Boss Murphy of Tammany. Republicans are at least interested. The consensus of opinion is that Al Smith's presidential candidacy gets a heavy setback—not that he loses any basic strength, but Tammany, representing his real nucleus of supporters, is temporarily disorganized. Who'll profit by it? Politicians aren't certain yet. Ralston maybe. Not McAdoo. But it's too soon to say.

* * *

Revolution.

Honduras' revolution is reported to have resulted in the killing of several American marines, ashore guarding United States lives and property. Though presumably it was by accident, Washington officials are wondering if a good deal more interference, perhaps lasting a good while, mayn't be necessary.

Policies against theft, fire, and even depreciation of radio sets are being issued in England.

Service with Sincerity

To Manufacturers
Longing For Normal Times:

"IF normal times would only come." We hear—and you hear—that statement time and again.

We have asked many people what would make times normal and have received numerous answers such as:

Times will become normal when:—

1. The tariff is increased;
2. Farmers get higher prices for things they sell and pay less for what they buy;
3. When labor costs are lowered;
4. When business and income taxes are abolished;
5. When heavy sales taxes are reduced and business is freed from other complicated imposts;
6. When Governments and consumers learn to economize;
7. When immigration is speeded up.

Thinking things over, it occurs to us that it would be some hefty job to bring business back to the normal for which we are all longing.

We, ourselves, wonder if the years of critical readjustment are not practically ended and if we have not, unaware to ourselves, now entered upon a new normal period—a normal period that will be somewhat different from any previous one in the experience of present day business men.

Looking several years ahead, it strikes us that this new normal period might likely be distinguished by:

1. The strongest competition we have ever had in the Canadian market by domestic industries, British industries, U.S. industries, European and other foreign manufacturers.
2. A gradual lowering of production costs and prices to the trade.
3. A gradual lowering of retail costs and prices to the consumer.
4. Cautious buying by retailers. Orders for smaller quantities. Smaller stocks in stores. Smaller orders booked ahead. More frequent calling on the trade by manufacturers' representatives.

We are not saying that we want these things to happen. We are merely stating they are probabilities. And, we believe, the only safe way to conduct business to-day is to assume we have entered this period of changed characteristics, and be prepared to carry on.

The manufacturer who can push his business ahead in a highly competitive period, such as the new normal one promises to be, will be certain to cash in big when the market changes again with everybody prosperous and buying freely.

We would like to discuss with determined manufacturers ways and means of driving business ahead during this new normal period.

We are convinced that Advertising will be an increasingly important factor in this new period.

Goods must sell. That is imperative.

New outlets, new consumers, more frequent turnovers, must be secured.

The right kind of Advertising will help to secure them.

The advertising must be strong, convincing, creative. It must move the consumer to buy and thus speed up the business machinery. In a highly competitive period it is essential that a product shall move quickly from factory to dealer to consumer, if a manufacturer is to get a fair price for it and to make any money.

If our view of the situation appeals to you as sound, wouldn't it be good business for us to get together? We are certain our advertising organization can be of assistance at the present time to almost any aggressive manufacturer of a worthy product.

Conditions are infinitely better in Canada than in Europe and most other parts of the world. With all our vast natural resources, nothing can keep our country from eventually becoming great and prosperous. Canada is a good country to live in, to work in and to do business in—especially good for those who are determined to succeed.

Let's get together.

Prudence Page, a pretty country girl has awakened from a brief and unhappy love affair with unreliable

Bert Traymore, a dfascinating philanderer, guest at the home of Mrs. Vansittart, wealthy women who owns Winston Towers. Another of her guests is

Virginia Dale, a blase beauty who has brought about a forced engagement between herself and

Peter Armstrong, brilliant young inventor, much attracted to Prudence, who, for her part, loves him deeply.

Virginia dreams of a wealthy future. And is furious when she hears that Peter has been meeting Prudence.

CHAPTER LXIII

His 'Blind' Happiness'

The bees were humming drowsily among the blossom of the apple orchard, and Prudence Page—an enchanting picture in her gingham frock of faded blue—was lying in a hammock slung between two trees when Virginia—hot with wrath—came at a brisk pace down the road and sighted what she called the 'little disturber.'

"Sly little cat! S'pose she thinks Peter'll come along and see her? Posing, that's what she is!"

Prudence, however, was doing nothing of the sort. She was struggling to read a book of Victor Hugo's in the original, with a view to improving her knowledge of the French tongue.

For——

Now that her mother was so much better, Prudence cherished hopes of 'getting a job' somewhere, and that for a threefold reason.

First, to get out of the radius of Peter Armstrong's vision. It was torturing to run the risk of meetings him.

Secondly, work was the great panacea for all woes, and the one possible way of forgetfulness.

Thirdly, she did so want to make herself 'worth-while'. Having known (and loved) a man like Peter Armstrong, wasn't it up to her to be all the better for it, instead of bitter and narrow and 'disappointed'?

Virginia looked over the hedge, and seeing the sweetness and beauty of the younger girl, hated her with all her heart—if Virginia possessed such a disturbing organ, which is doubtful.

A big blossom fell on Prudence's face. Its pink-and-cream was no clearer than the girl's complexion, and the latter was entirely guiltless of rouge or creams or powder.

Prudence swept the fallen blossom off, and as she did so, her book fell to the ground, and she sat up, yawning a little.

Virginia passed on to the garden gate, and went through it to another, larger gate, which led into the apple orchard.

It wasn't till she was within a few yards of Prudence, coming up behind, that the latter turned around and perceived the newcomer.

"Good afternoon!" snapped Virginia, conscious that the peaceful setting of the place was no fit spot for the letting loose of her own terrific temper, but torn with jealous rage. "I've come on rather an unpleasant mission, so I won't beat about the bush."

Prudence eyed her with disarming composure. Odd how this unexpected attack should so misfire?

But it was unexpected? The child must have a guilty conscience!

"Well, what is it?" Prudence vouchsafed no further greeting. She did not even move from the hammock, but sat there—apparently entire mistress of herself—gazing at her heated assailant with a wide-eyed candour that was peculiarly disconcerting.

Virginia moved nearer. She touched the fallen book with the toe of her smart shoe, and, with a sneer, remarked:

"Reading French novels on the sly, eh? Sweet, innocent little country maid not quite as angelic as she makes the men believe she is? Or perhaps they could tell a tale . . ?"

Not for a moment did Prudence take her candid eyes from off the speaker's face, as gravely she replied:

"I thought that everyone who had been to school knew that Victor Hugo's novels are classics? Or haven't you ever leaned French?"

That was a 'facer'

"Don't be impertinent!" Virginia bit her petulant underlip, and dug her parasol viciously into a little clumps of flowers, as though she'd like to murder everything that was lovely, and cool, and dignified, she being none of these three things at the moment.

Prudence did not answer. Instead, she slid out of the hammock, picked up the fallen book, and—as though Virginia weren't there at all—turned her back on her and set off for the house.

"Here! Listen! Wait a minute!" Virginia caught up with her.

Prudence turned, still with the expression of dignified gravity on her face.

"What do you wish to say?"

Virginia swallowed for a moment, then she blurted out:

"Don't dare to poach on my preserves! Keep your hands off Peter Armstrong!"

Prudence's gaze widened. Queer how this 'society' girl could be as common as any fish-wife!

"You mean that you imagine I'm trying to take him away from you?"

"Yes. Not that there's the least chance of your succeeding, for men in Peter's class would never think seriously of a—a farm girl, a dairymaid—"

Prudence's outward tranquility did not fail her.

"Then why come to me at all? Why not let the matter be?"

Another 'poser'! This impudent chit had all her wits about her! thought Virginia furiously.

"I come to you because I don't choose to have gossip circulating about the man I'm going to marry," she rapped out. "He's mine . . . in love with me . . ."

"That being so," said Prudence calmly, "He couldn't possibly be interested in me! So set your mind at rest."

Pride triumped over pain. She was a 'thorough-bred'.

"What d'you mean?"

"You say you are engaged to him. You say that he's in love with you. That being the case, how can you think he's even interested in me, or what I do?"

Virginia snorted.

"Don't play the innocent babe! Don't dare deny you met him the other evening in the moonlight!"

Before Prudence could reply to that, she hurried on, angrily:

"Men in Peter's class only amuse themselves with girls like you. Look how Bert Traymore played with you, and then threw you over. Bert's been in love with me for years. He's proposed to me a hundred times. You tried to get him and you failed. And now you're trying to get the other."

"You are totally mistaken." Prudence held her young head high. "But—since you talk so frankly——let me tell you something. I only do it because the man who are going to marry is so superior to yourself, so immeasurebly above you in every way, that I fear for his happiness. And so I ask you not to smash his ideals, but let him keep his—his illusions about you—let him have his blind happiness as long as may be possible."

LONDON SETS LATE FASHION FOR MEN

Savile Row Dictates the Styles For Even New York

LONDON, May 7 (United Press).—Men as they will be dressed in 1924!

At no time has the control of London over men's fashions in dress been more definitely established, and at no other time is that control likely to be of more importance than this spring, declared one of London's leading Savile Row clothes builders.

It is almost certain that the number of men from all over the world who will visit London this year in connection with the British Empire Exhibition will be greater than ever before, and practically every one of them, London tailors hope, will make an attempt, more or less complete, to bring himself in line with the latest London standard of the well-dressed man.

"Although New York has developed a line of its own in men's styles, most Americans have settled back definitely into an adherence to the Savile Row standards," this London style expert said.

"Men from the Dominions have always followed the English fashions. When our visitors come to replenish their wardrobes in London they will find lots of changes.

"For one thing, they will find patent shoes are now very fashionable for day wear as well as evening wear.

"In the matter of collars, there has been a definite change. The white linen double collar has again been established as almost the only 'real' collar.

"Soft collars to match shirts have almost disappeared for town wear with smartly dressed men, although still worn in the country. The reason given for this being that the soft collar failed to maintain its appearance of smartness after an hour or two.

"Regarding head-gear: the light fawn soft hat, with band to match, with slightly wider well-rolled brim, has taken the place of the grey hat with the black band.

"In lounge suits, the gradual tendency is towards brighter colors, noticeable since the war, but the colors will be mostly blues and browns, with a few "freak" shades of purple or red or green.

"A fashion that has been growing for a year or so is the double-breasted jacket, and many of the fashionable suits are being made in this style The waistline will still be definitely accentuated.

REGULATION OF MEDICAL STAFF LOCAL SCHOOLS

The Board of Education Adopted Committee's Report That Is Expected to Render Work of the Doctor, Nurse and Dentist More Effective.

REGULAR SCHEDULE

At last night's meeting of the board of education the supervision committee recommended that in order to render the departmental regulations governing the school medical and dental staffs more effective, the appended recommendations be adopted by the board and a copy forwarded to the school medical officer, the school nurse and the dental officer. The report was presented by Dr. F. C. Neal, chairman.

That the school medical officer report and make recommendations to the board regarding serious cases where the parents neglect or are unable to give medical attention to their children.

That the hours of the school nurse be the same as those of the public school teachers except in certain cases of home visiting where the parents are not available until after school hours. These visits shall be made after school hours and on Saturdays.

The school nurse shall keep a written record of all visits to pupil's homes and shall report promptly and fully in regard to them to the principal and the school medical officer.

Once every year the school dental officer shall make an examination of the teeth of all the pupils attending the school or schools.

The hours of the school dental officer shall be from 9.15 a.m. to 12 a.m. each school day. The hours of the dental clerk shall be from 9 a.m. to 12 a.m. each day. She shall be under the direction of the school dental officer.

The school dental officer shall inform the inspector when he changes from one school to work in another, and he shall also notify the inspector if, through sickness or any other cause, he is unable to report for duty on any occasion.

AFTER BABY COMES

Strength Often Returns Slowly

Mothers May Depend Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Restore a Normal Condition

Many, many letters similar to the following recommend the Vegetable Compound as a wonderful medicine for bringing the mother back to normal health and strength.

It is an excellent restorative, contains no harmful drugs and may be taken in safety by a nursing mother.

Thousands of mothers who have regained their strength by taking it are its best recommendation. Why not take it yourself?

Could Not Gain Strength

Bury, Quebec.—"I have had great help from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am a different woman now. I was very sickly before my first child was born. I did not get my strength back afterwards, and he did not stay with us long. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for three months before my second child was born, and have taken it occasionally ever since. My doctor had said that medicine would not do me much good, but my nurse wished me to try the Vegetable Compound, so I did. I do not go without having it in the house now and I am looking well and feeling fine. I do all my work, sewing and all."—Mrs. JOHN SIMPSON, Box 555, Bury, Quebec.

Oshawa, Ont.—"After my second child was born I was sick and tired all the time so I could not do my own housework. I picked up one of your little books and read it and then I tried some of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It seemed to help me quite a bit and I felt much better after I had taken the Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I thank you for your help and I am taking your medicines right along. If any woman wants to write to me I will tell her the same."—Mrs. J. MCGINN, 300 Courcelletta Avenue, Oshawa, Ontario.

Before My Baby Came

Vancouver, B. C.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my baby came as I was suffering from neuralgia pains. I had not been taking anything for these pains because I thought there was nothing I could do, but when I read about the Vegetable Compound in the 'Vancouver Daily Province' I began taking it; and of two things I am sure—that I had an easier time when the baby came and that it is the best medicine ever. I recommend it to all my friends who suffer as I did, and you can use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. JOSEPH BLACKMAN, 222 9th St. West, Vancouver, B. C.

Perfidious savages

IN THE Torres Straits Islands in the East Indies, there are no trees suitable for canoe building. So the natives, a cruel, treacherous race, import their canoes from the Fly River Delta in New Guinea—another place with an unenviable reputation. The distance between these two places is over four hundred miles, and no native in that region travels even one-quarter of that distance.

The word is simply passed on from tribe to tribe. On the strength of this vague order a canoe is built. Then it is relayed back. Each tribe of bloodthirsty cannibals tests and discusses it before passing it on. Finally the payment, shell necklaces, spear points, arm bands, makes its way to the canoe builders in the same leisurely fashion.

There is reason for this honesty in savages to whom perfidy is natural. If any of the parties in this complicated transaction were to risk being dishonest, their credit would be ruined. And though these natives may kill and eat each other, they hold barter inviolate.

Even savages understand that in commerce it pays to be honest, and to let the world realize your honesty! So in modern business. Advertising must be honest and it is a proof of honesty. A product's advertising is the best guarantee of its quality, usefulness and value.

The man who advertises is inviting your inspection. He is letting his goods stand on their own merit. He can't afford to deceive you. You can depend on him That's why it pays to read advertising and to buy advertised goods.

Anyone can spend money—the reader of advertisements spends wisely

FARM LIFE AND ITS PROBLEMS

Market Problem Is Not Solved By Tariff Adjustments Alone

(By ALEX. McGREGOR)

"It is a move in the right direction," appears to be the general opinion of the farmers of the district with regard to the new tariff regulations as applied to agricultural machinery of all kinds. Farmer , ike men in all other walks of life, forget political differences when the question at issue is one which, on its face, at least, is a friendly measure designed to reduce their operating or living expenses.

But there are always two sides to a problem. Cheaper binders, plows, waggons and mowers and the like may benefit the farmer to a greater or lesser degree, according to the extent of his operations, but this may be more than offset by conditions which this very reduction may create. The fact is that the position in which the farmer finds himself today is not due to the high cost of his binder and other implements so much as to the market for his produce. What does it profit a farmer that he can purchase a binder or a waggon for a few dollars less than present prices if he continues to sell the wheat and other grains gathered by that machine or the vegetables and similar produce which he carries to town on his cheaper vehicle and figures which allow him little or nothing for his labor? A binder, given good care, will last the average farmer half his working days, a waggon all his life, but the market problem is one that confronts him every month in the year.

The home market is the farmer's main hope, and the more local it is the better. The urban population must be fed and the greater the number of dwellers in the cities and towns, the better for the farmer. Not only so but the greater his income from these people where the latter are working full time at good wages. The farmer who thinks for himself finds himself wondering how his position will be affected if there is anything in this calculation that the proposed new tariff is likely to demoralize the working forces in the centres of industry.

The politicians need not deceive themselves; the farmer is not mocked any longer by these platitudes on patriotism. He is faithful to his Empire but realizes that his first duty is to his growing family and himself. He knows that an embargo —or protection under another name—was maintained for years by a professedly free trade people who were given, as a quixotic return, a preference on their manufactured goods imported by this country. In a commercial sense, Canada, smitten on one cheek, made all possible haste to offer the other for similar treatment.

Under the new tariff, binders and some other farm machinery in common use, if imported from Britain are to be admitted duty free, the old preferential rate being from 7½ to 10 per cent. If brought from any country not in the Imperial family, the custom duty is to be from 6 to 7½ per cent., according to the class of machine. This means a reduction of from four to five per cent.

The farmer sees little relief from this quarter. His machines do not, if imported, come from across the Atlantic, so that the extension of the preference will be of no benefit to him. And as to the other reduction, what is it likely to amount to? The duty on binders was reduced, at the urgent call of the Western farmers, from 17½ to 12½ per cent. by the former Government, when Hon. Thomas White was Finance Minister. In spite of this these machines increased in price until today they cost more than they did under the higher tariff. All depends upon the valuation placed upon them by the officials at the port of entry. But even conceding that the farmer will be benefitted to the full amount of the reduced tariff on his mowers and binders, on a $200 machine he will save $8, and this on an implement he is not likely to purchase more than twice in his lifetime.

At a recent auction sale on a farm near Campbellford, a three-piece iron harrow, purchased new about 10 years ago for $12, sold for $30, and was considered a bargain at that. The same implement today would cost $60 at any dealer's. And yet the duty on harrows when this one was purchased was higher than at present, while the price of the grain the harrow is used to plant is lower in nearly the same ratio.

A farmer takes a bushel of wheat to the fall fairs in his locality and if he is lucky enough to receive first prize gets more than if he sold the grain on the market at the prevailing rate. Unfortunately for him, his opportunities to make money in this way are limited. There may be an element of gamble in it, too, but not more so than in his conflict with the different forces of Nature in producing the wheat. All of which tends to show that what the farmer really needs is not another tariff gold brick but a better market for what he has to sell.

Major J. F. B. Belford, M.L.A., for East Northumberland, speaking at the meeting of Anglican clergymen at Millbrook the other day—the major was an outstanding member of the clerical profession himself before his friends forced him into politics—referred to the question of rural depopulation, the disappearance of the country church, once the nursery of spiritual life, and to other matters which showed live, intimate knowledge of rural problems. The major seldom deals with an economic ailment without prescribing an effective remedy. But in this case he appeared to be at a loss. Just how to improve the lot of the farmer so as to make the old home more attractive for the rising generation, still remains one of the outstanding problems of the day.

WHEAT AND CHAFF

Could you buy gasoline if you did not sell eggs, milk or cream?

In spite of the fact that men don't like to milk, the dairy business is thatching. In your township ten years ago hardly one farmer in ten sold milk or cream. Today there is hardly one in ten who is not in the business.

Scrub cows are like old maids in a boarding house: they never do a lick of work, they eat a lot and sit around all day chewing their cuds.

It ought to help us understand why so many people use "oleo" when we see some of the butter sold at our country stores.

While we are planning for the good things we want this year, let's fix up around the house. A little paint, a few trees and shrubs won't cost much and will help mightily with the looks of things.

Who is going to discover how to adjust milk production to the demand for milk?

MOST PERFECT OF ALL FOODS

It has always been known that milk and other dairy products were very healthful and economical foods, but these facts were not fully realized until scientists made their startling discoveries, within recent years, concerning those mysterious substances known as vitamines, which are contained in milk, butter, etc., and which are absolutely essential to the growth and health of old as well as the young. Milk and other dairy products are the most perfect of all foods, and the dairy cow is the most economical producer of such food.

CO-OPERATION

Our present-day civilization has taught us the value of co-operation. The poet has expressed it in these words:

"It ain't the guns nor armament,
Nor the funds that they can pay,
But the close co-operation
That makes them win the day.
It ain't the individuals,
Nor the army as a whole,
But the everlasting team-work
Of every bloomin' soul."

Baby Chix

The opportunities in the poultry business to-day are amazing. You can start with a small investment and your profits will enable you to grow quickly. Try it and be convinced.

A good disinfectant is very important at this time of the year.

The old song, "Every Day Will Be Sunday Bye and Bye," might be reversed to "Every Day Is Easter Now," judging from the daily consumption of eggs throughout the country. Anyhow, the old rooster has grounds upon which to crow these days.

If you have money to invest, invest some of it in poultry and watch your money grow.

Don't forget that the stomach of a chick is very delicate and is easily "upset" by the wrong food, which very often results in the death of the chick. Play safe. Feed a properly balanced food and have healthy, growing, money-making chicks.

Never before has there been so many people interested in poultry raising, and the fact that hundreds are daily entering the game proves that the players who have been "playing" have been winning.

Helping Weak Chicks

Earlier hatched chicks that show a tendency to leg weakness may be strengthened by feeding them cod liver oil. Three pints to 100 poundl of mash is the best proportion. The oil should be thoroughly rubbed into the mash and only enough for ten days' use should be mixed.

Egg Season Now

April and May are the best months of the year for poultrymen, says R. E. Cray, poultry extension specialist of Ohio State University. "Higher egg production is obtained," he says; "eggs hatch better and the chicks grow faster and better."

WHY BUTTER WAS WHITE

"What makes the butter so white?" asked one city maiden, accustomed to the yellow kind from the creamery.

"Don't you know that?" said the other city girl wisely, "they left the eggs out of it."

The Spring Seeding Season As It Affects All Ontario

In Western Ontario the spring seeding season is now well under way, with its screech of unoiled discs and drills and the clank of harrows. This is accompanied by the usual good demand for seeds and fertilizers, and lack of interest in other commodities. Seed grain is being bought principally from other farmers of the same locality, while clovers and timothy seed are being secured principally from the trade, although in some localities farmers are buying from other farmers. Corn for seed continues to enjoy a ready market at steady prices. In Eastern and Northern Ontario, spring seeding has not yet commenced, but from a number of points hay and grain are being shipped. The demand for feeding stuffs is fair only, and is principally confined to the dairy sections. Those farmers who have already fed their own stock of feed grain are buying from other farmers in sufficient quantity to tide them over until pasturing time.

CREAM TEST IS UNFORTUNATELY VARYING STORY

Some of the Causes of Variation Explained--How to Get High Test

The variation in the test of cream is probably the cause of more misunderstanding between producers and creameries than any other one thing. The cause of cream test varying does not seem to be generally understood. This lack of understanding often turns confidence into doubt and distrust.

For every effect there is a cause.

There are four general divisions of the conditions which may cause variation in cream tests. Each of these divisions has within itself several influencing factors. The brief classification of these various factors given below should interest the cream producer. A careful study of this article may aid him in determining the cause of variation that may exist in his case:

1—Condition of Cow

Period of Lactation.—Generally the test of milk is lower at the beginning of the lactation period than in later stages. This is not always true. There are some conditions which may cause the test of the milk to be higher during the first few weeks of the lactation period.

Change of Feeds.—Any sudden change in the amount of feed or the condition of the feed will cause variation in the milk flow and a corresponding variation in the test of milk. Changes in feed that cause a rapid increase in the flow of milk decrease the test for a short time. Changes in feed that cause a decrease in the milk flow cause an increase in the test for a short time. These variations in the test of milk of cows cause corresponding variations in the test of cream.

Condition of Health.—An unhealthy condition of the cow has a tendency to vary both test and volume.

Change of Milkers.—The cow is very sensitive. Any change of keepers or milkers has a tendency to decrease both test and volume on account of the cow "holding up her milk." The richest milk is in the strippings. If the milker doesn't get the strippings the test of the milk will always be low.

Excitement.—The test of milk during periods of excitement has been known to vary to a considerable extent. One excited cow in the herd, or a dog chasing them, may cause sufficient excitement to result in a considerable variation in the milk test of the entire herd.

Flies.—Flies worry cows. They actually take blood from them. This retards the milk flow. Cows eat less during fly time. This all causes less fat production with corresponding variation in the test of cream.

Weather.—If the cow is exposed to the extremes of weather there will be a decrease in both the percentage of fat and the volume of milk.

Housing Conditions.—Insufficient air and sunshine cause a variation in tests since they affect the general health and vigor of the cow.

Water.—To give a large flow of milk the cow must consume a large amount of water. She will not drink a large amount of water in the winter time if the water is too cold. She will not drink a large amount of water in the summer time unless it is pure and fresh. Anything that causes her to decrease the consumption of water causes her to let up on her milk flow.

2—Condition of the Milk

Temperature.—The milk should be skimmed at the temperature it comes from the cow. Skimming cold milk causes a large loss of butterfat in the skim milk, although the test of the cream may be slightly increased.

Richness.—High testing milk produces high testing cream, and low testing milk produces the same amount of cream of a low test. If, for example, you put 100 pounds of milk testing 4 per cent. through a cream separator, which was set to turn 10 per cent. of the volume out of the cream spout, you would have 10 pounds of cream containing 4 pounds of butterfat. This cream would test 40 per cent. If the milk, instead of testing 4 per cent., had tested only 3 per cent., then you would still have ten pounds of cream, containing only 3 pounds of butterfat. The test of this cream would only be 30 per cent. In this case, a 1 per cent. variation in the test of milk caused a 10 per cent. variation in the test of the cream. The variation in the test of the milk is always greatly multiplied in the test of the cream from that milk.

Cleanliness of the Milk.—Milk should be strained into the separator supply tank. If particles of hay or straw should lodge in the separator bowl, they will not only cause a variation in the test of the cream, but are likely to cause a large loss of fat in the skim milk.

3—Condition of the Separator

Balance of the Separator Bowl.—If the separator bowl is not properly balanced the test of the cream is likely to vary on any or every can. A slightly bent spindle, a small nick in the side of the bowl, worn discs, or discs in the wrong order will throw the bowl out of balance. Unless the separator is securely bolted to some solid foundation, it will have a tendency to get out of balance, thus causing the cream tests to vary.

Condition of Separator Parts.—If the machine has undue play from worn parts or bearings, the cream tests will vary.

Rate of Milk Inflow.—Slow inflow of milk from the supply bowl causes a higher test than the normal inflow. After the separator is up to speed the valve on the supply tank should be turned wide open.

Speed.—There is a proper speed for every separator. The proper number of revolutions of the handle per minute is indicated on the handle. A lower speed than the indicated speed will result in a lower test of cream and a loss of fat in the skim milk. Turning faster than the regulated speed results in higher tests—but also undue wear on the separator. Extreme speed is dangerous. To insure correct speed the revolutions of the handle should be counted while holding a watch.

Amount of Flush Water Used.—The amount of water or skim milk used in flushing the bowl affects the test of cream. Of course, if a small amount of skim milk or flush water passes into the cream when there is only a small amount being skimmed, the test of the cream will be decreased more than if there was being skimmed a large quantity of cream. It is very difficult to control this exactly.

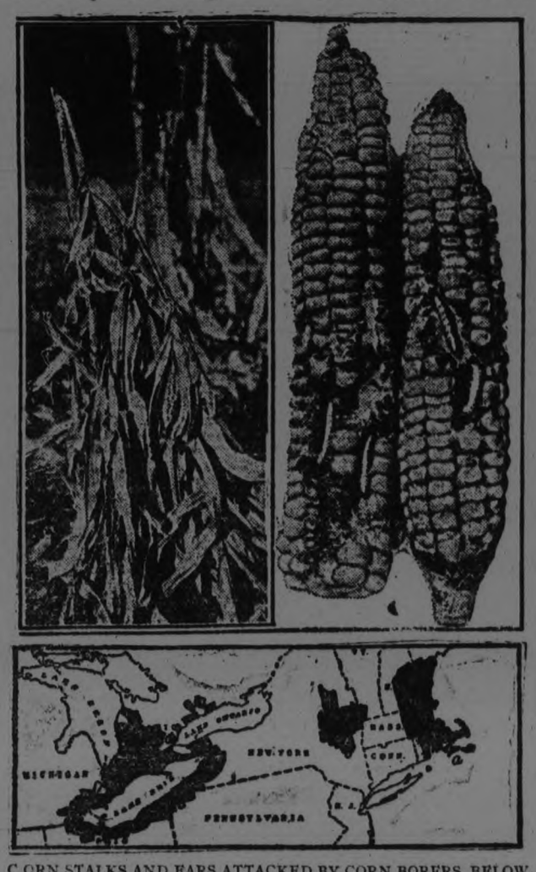
Regulation of Cream or Skim Milk—Screw.—All of the milk that goes into the separator must either come out the cream outlet or skim milk outlet. A change in the regulation of the cream screw or skim milk screw simply changes the proportion that comes out both outlets. A large proportion coming out of the cream outlet results in a lower test and a smaller proportion coming out of the cream outlet results in a higher test.

Cleanliness.—The separator should be washed each time it is used. Skimming with an unclean separator causes a large loss of fat in the skim milk. It is also liable to cause a variation in the test of the cream.

Age.—Very old, very sour cream is much more likely to vary in tests than is cream of fine quality.

Physical Condition of the Cream as It Affects Sampling.—Cream should be cooled and stirred immediately after it comes from the separator. Fresh cream should never be mixed with cream of previous skimmings until it is thoroughly cooled. Cream that is not well taken care of and is not well stirred is often lumpy. It is very difficult to get an accurate sample of this kind of cream. Cream that is very sour—cream that is old and has a leathery scum on the top of it, is very difficult to sample.

Government Imports Tiny Parasites to Stop Ravages of the Corn Borer



CORN STALKS AND EARS ATTACKED BY CORN BORERS. BELOW, MAP SHOWING THE AREAS UNDER QUARANTINE.

BOSTON, Mass., May 7.— A tiny wasp-like insect, transported from Europe, may be the salvation of the corn crop.

Since 1917 the United States and Canada have been battling a losing fight against the European corn borer. Year by year, this treacherous insect has eaten its way farther and farther into the corn belt, threatening this country's most valuable crop with destruction.

In Massachusetts alone, this insect has already done more than $1,000,000 damage, not only to corn but to vegetables and other plants in the infested areas.

Now scientists connected with the U. S. Bureau of Entomology believe they have discovered the corn borer's nemesis.

It it a parasitic wasp that feeds on the corn borer itself, destroys the insect and itself is harmless.

European Insect

Both corn borer and wasp come from Europe. The corn borer was first discovered here in 1917.

Broom corn, used for the manufacture of brooms, was being shipped to factories in Amsterdam, N.Y., and Everett, Mass., from Hungary and Italy. This, it is believed, was the way the corn borer got in.

Soon the insect was discovered in sweet corn and other forms of edible corn and forage. The area around Boston first was discovered infested, and quarantined. Then the area around Buffalo and Schenectady, N.Y., became infested, and by 1921, a strip almost entirely surrounding Lake Erie, including Canada, came under quarantine.

One-Tenth Infested

Now, some 7,500 square miles of corn land bordering Lake Erie on the United States side alone, are infested. The total area may very well reach to 15,000 square miles.

The fact that this is about 10 per cent. of the total acreage of corn land in the United States, points to the rapid spread of the corn borer since 1917.

Even today government men are scouting the quarantined and neighboring areas trying to prevent further spread of the insect. They are devoting themselves at this time to a general campaign of corn-stalk destruction and clean-up, before the first crop is planted. They are asking farmers to burn their old stalks, to plow the stubbles well under, burn all other growth nearby and generally clear up their fields of all signs of last year's corn.

Government entomologists, realizing the weakness of this campaign against the corn borer, have placed their faith on the insect's parasite. From an original importation of these wasps from France and Italy, the Bureau of Entomology has succeeded in breeding millions to be spread over the infested regions.

Results obtained from this means of battling the corn borer have been encouraging, say the entomologists. They have at least slowed up the advance of the devastating insect and promise in a few years to stop it altogether.

Odds at present are still in favor of the corn borer, for the parasites have succeeded in destroying only a small percentage of their enemy so far. Some 24 other kinds of parasites are being tried out to help in a more rapid destruction of the corn borer.

Commencing today the Examiner will run at regular intervals, pages dealing with subjects of interest to the farming community. Subjects of interest to the farmer's wife will also be given special consideration.

MONAGHAN HAS TROUBLE WITH DAMP WEATHER

Low Lying Land is Still Too Wet to Work and Some Farmers Are Held Up--Cream Men Have Started Rounds for Season.

BUTTER IS CHEAP

BAILIEBORO, May 7.—Seeding in South Monaghan is progressing very slowly this spring. There has been so much rain, and so many cold winds, that it is making the season very backward. Although there has been little good growing weather yet, still the majority of farmers have a considerable amount of their grain sowed, but nearly every farmer in this district has land on his farm that is flat, and holds the moisture for a long time in the spring of the year, and there has not been enough fine weather yet to dry up these boggy places in the fields to make it possible to prepare them properly for crop. Thus the farmers who are well advanced with their seeding are anxiously awaiting some fine dry weather to dry up these places that they may finish up their spring work.

Cream Men Out

May 1 found the men who gather the cream for the different butter factories back on their old routes once again. Although there are no factories in this immediate neighborhood, none nearer than Harwood, still there are several different trucks gathering the cream, The Lindsay Butter Factory, The Bowes Co. of Toronto, The Farmers' Co. of Harwood, as well as the Cobourg company, all have their routes in South Monaghan. On account of butter being such a low price in the town and city markets this spring, there are very few of the farm housewives who are going to continue making butter during the summer, so that the creameries will get much more cream.

FARM CONDITIONS ARE HEALTHY AT BETHANY

BETHANY, May 7.— A general report on farm conditions shows that in the majority of cases fall wheat and clover are both in a healthy condition and a few warm days are all that is necessary to bring them along. Sowing of all grains is well under way, except a few places which are situated on low ground. Eggs and butter are both plentiful with prices of 21 and 30 cents, respectively. A few farmers are sending their cream to the creamery in Omemee.

Spring Time Is Sing Time

MENIE FARMERS WANT TO GET ELECTRICITY

BURNBRAE, May 7.— The farmers around the village of Menie are anxious to receive electric power. A meeting was held at the home of Mr. William Rannie with a representative of the Hydro Commission.

Nearly all the farmers on the 5th concession expressed their willingness to use power if the line could be brought that way. They are waiting to hear the result of the meeting.

The seeding in this district is getting along nicely. The rain on Wednesday has arrested progress somewhat. A few good days will complete seeding in this district.

JOHN NEVINS TOOK HIS CATTLE BACK TO RANCH

NORWOOD, May 7.— Mr. John Nevins of the Hastings Road, took a drove of young cattle back to his ranch on the 10th line of Dummer. Some other farmers took theirs back about two weeks ago.

Small Cavan Calf Had the Appetite Of Baby Elephant

CAVAN, May 7.—Mr. William Pudsey sold a baby calf to Mr. S. S. Staples for the Easter market, which weighed 650 lbs. at seven months. The calf grew faster than any other which Mr. Pudsey has raised. It had the appetite of a two-year-old. Besides consuming three gallons of chop and four scoop shovelfuls of turnips daily, the calf ate a great deal of hay.

Seed oats are selling in this vicinity at 75c a bushel

Butter is selling for twenty-five cents a pound.

Eggs are still twenty cents a dozen.

Mr. Ernie Armstrong, Cavan, has purchased a new four-horse cultivator.

FARMER MAY HELP TO LOWER LIVING

He is Not Only Producer But Also Consumer--Cut the Food Bills.

Every farmer knows that the difference between what he gets and what the consumer pays for food products is much larger than it used to be. Economists must continue as long as freight rates and wages remain as high as they are now. But the farmer is a consumer also and the best way for him to beat the game is to produce more of his own food on the farm. Here milk and cream occupy first rank, both because they take the place of the most expensive food the farmer has to buy—meat and fats, and also because they are such healthful foods. There is nothing like plenty of milk and cream to make the children grow, keep the whole family healthy and cut down the doctor's bills.

The butter and cream farmer has a further advantage, for he has skim-milk for his calves, pigs and chickens. With present feed prices, the amount of home-produced feed makes a big difference in the cost of feeding the farm animals. Skim-milk takes the place of the most expensive part of the ration, the high protein concentrate. The farmer who has plenty of skim-milk has at hand the best and cheapest method of raising his dairy calves and also of producing pork, veal and poultry, both for sale and for home use, to cut further the food bills for his family.

CHICK'S FIRST DAYS ARE MOST IMPORTANT

At no other season of the year is the wide-awake poultry raiser more concerned than at hatching time. His success or his failure depends upon the results obtained from his hatches.

The first few days will decide whether or not they will be profitable. If you start your chicks right, everything is in your favor, hence particular attention should be paid to the feeding, which, after all is said, is the making of the chick.

Let us start with the first 36 to 48 hours after hatching. Feed nothing; instead, fine sand should be placed before the chicks, allowing them to pick at will. After the first 48 hours feed hard-boiled egg (boiled at least 10 minutes) ground to a meal and dried off with toast crumbs. Thence up to 10 days old keep chick mash before the chicks at all times. After 10 days a little green food, such as lettuce, cabbage, etc., chopped up, or sprouted oats or fresh green sod. Oyster shells, grit and charcoal, ground fine, are also very important. Of course, continue keeping chick mash in the hopper.

When the chicks reach three weeks old, two or three feedings of "scratch" or chick feed daily, in conjunction with the mash, is advisable. At six weeks old, change from the chick mash to a growing mash, also change from the chick "scratch" feed to a developing feed. This should be fed morning and evening. After eight weeks old, change from the latter to the regular hen feed, continuing to use the growing mash. At fourteen weeks old, change from the growing mash to the laying mash, continuing the hen feed or "scratch," making the evening feed of the latter the heaviest.

ROSENEATH FARMERS ARE WELL ON WITH SEEDING

ROSENEATH, May 7.—Despite the late season, the farmers on high land are fairly well advanced with their seeding, but owing to the recent heavy rainfalls, those on low-lying farms have little or no grain sown. The fall wheat and new seeding wintered remarkably well, but on account of the cold weather during April they have advanced slowly.

MARMORA CHEESE PLANTS ARE OPEN FOR BUSINESS

MARMORA, May 7.—The cheese factories in the vicinity are all opened now and the busy season of the farmer has started. Cheese prices are low but everything points to a big output. The factories for the most part are well equipped but there seems to be a tendency to try to be as economical as possible, especially until it is seen what the next few months bring. The farmers had a hard year last season and it is bringing to the front the farmer with a good knowledge of his business. In fact, as conditions are at present, the farmer has to be a good one in order to carry on at all.

LACK OF LABOR WILL DECREASE GRAIN ACREAGE

Millbrook Farmers Feel the Pinch of Short Help --Seeding is Two Weeks Behind But Some Farms Are Seeded Down

LOCAL PRICES

MILLBROOK, May 7.—The critical period for wintering crops such as fall wheat and clover is probably now well past, and both have come through the dormant season in excellent condition, according to Mr. T. .... Belch, 5th Line, Cavan. Although in some respects the season is backward, work on the land is progressing say a few farmers in this vicinity, H. Tate, 4th Line, Cavan, being one instance, having finished seeding. Mr. Belch states that while two years ago he began seeding on April 16th, last season and this it has been nearly two weeks later before he could get on the land. His crop is now about half in, the recent frequent rains and cold weather hindering the work considerably.

Soil conditions in different parts of the township, and even in different fields on the same farm, determine whether it is possible to begin plowing and seeding at an earlier or later date. The general opinion seems to be that the shortage of labor, which has been, and still is acutely felt, may lessen the acreage of spring grains.

Farm Sale

The recent sale of stock and farm implements on the farm lately occupied by Russell G. Smith turned out fairly successful, about $800 being realized. Mr. Smith, who is a returned soldier, took the farm under the Soldiers' Settlement Plan but, having experienced two successive years of poor crops, has decided to abandon agriculture, and moved to Mrs. F. Wallace's residence, west of the farm he was working.

This was an instance of a farm bought at peak prices, $6,500.00 being the amount paid Mr. J. Armstrong, the former owner. Being within the corporation limits, the taxes were higher than in the township about $135.00 per year being due on this count alone, and with interest to pay, and other discouraging features since, generally speaking, the economic conditions are most disheartening from the farmer's stand point, all contributed to make the experiment in this case, as in many others, a failure.

It seems unfortunate that, in such instances, apparently the amount already paid in ($2,500 in the present case) is a complete loss, the government retaining this, and the sum realized at the sale, only allowing the man moving off the farm to take with him such implements, stock, poultry, etc., as he may have brought in as personal property when taking up the land.

Mr. Smith is at present driving the egg wagon for Burnham Bros., and Mr. G. Howson is moving this week from the 9th Line, Cavan, to the farm in the village vacated by Mr. Smith.

Prices for local produce at present are: Butter 28 cents, eggs 20 cents, potatoes $1.25 per bag. Hay is $12.00 per ton, an occasional load being noted going through the village recently.

George Fallis and Frank Gibson have recently purchased new cultivators for their respective farms at Fallis Line, and Carmel. W. E. Ball was the sales agent in the first case, and H. Ingram in the second instance.

DURHAM COUNTY MAN IS GOING TO RAISE SHEEP

COBOURG, May 7.—Mr. W. A. Dryden, of Brooklin, is stated to have purchased some four hundred acres of land back of Enfield in Durham County, and intends to stock it with sheep. This will be the largest sheep farm in the district and no doubt quite a boom for that industry. Mr. Dryden is a well-known breeder who has achieved success raising Shorthorns, and it is to be expected that his new venture will prove equally as successful. The Enfield area is stated to be well adapted for sheep pasture.

LOW-LYING CAVAN LAND SUFFERS FROM SHOWERS

CAVAN, May 7.—The showery weather, while benefiting the grass and fall wheat, is retarding seeding, especially on the farms of those whose land is low. A few who are putting in their spring crop on high land are well on with their work.

Lambs Good

Mr. R. Matchett reports the lamb crop to be especially good around here He has eight ewes and twelve lambs.

Mr. T. A. Kelly has 25 lambs and 21 ewes. Mr. Kelly had the misfortune to lose a fine ewe lately. When the hired men came out in the morning, they found the ewe dead, lying on her back. She had been unable to rise on account of her wool.

PORTUGAL HELPS

Portugal is helping its farmers get the most out of their soil by modern intensive methods of cultivation. The government is supplying the farmers with implements and fertilizers and is teaching them how to use the material most effectively.

SPRAYING SAVES

The farm orchard needs just as much spraying as the commercial orchard. A good spray consists of one pound of lead arsenate and 1½ gallons of lime sulphur to 50 gallons of water.

STARTS CHICKS RIGHT

Remember when a chick hatches it has absorbed the yolk of the egg and therefore should not be fed for 36 to 48 hours after hatching. More chicks die from overfeeding than from lack of food.

C. O. CERTIFICATES TO BE EXAMINED MAY 17

Registration Committee Will Meet In Oshawa and Pass On Yellow Slips For the Opening Games — Oshawa Stand Gets the Finishing Touches.

OSHAWA, May 7.—At the annual meeting of the Central Ontario Amateur Baseball League held in Lindsay the following resolution was moved by M. J. Dedman and seconded by C. M. Anderson:—

"A registration committee of three to be appointed by the President will sit on or about May 18th to pass on certificates and monthly thereafter and Secretary be sanctioned to issue permits for players before each meeting."

The committee appointed by President M. P. Duff of Belleville will meet in Oshawa on Saturday afternoon, May 17th at two thirty o'clock when all yellow O.B.A.A. slips that are filed with the Secretary will be countersigned. Any certificate not in by that date will be held over to the next meeting of the committee to be held in the middle of June and as no player can take part in the opening games on Wednesday, May 21st when Oshawa goes to Kingston and Peterboro visits Belleville it is up to the different teams of the league to have players passports in Oshawa on or before Saturday, May 17th.

When the Strollers of Toronto Riverdale League appeared in Oshawa last Saturday, Hoose, catcher; Dillon, first base; Brackenbridge, pitcher; Lennon, short stop all of least year's Leaside Central Ontario League team appeared in uniforms of the "Dales" Oshawa's third sacker "Mickey" Murray, an old team mate of the four mentioned went after Hoose who was doing the receiving for the City chaps, when he first started to "yap" with the umpire.

Other Leaside players lined up with different teams in the amateur baseball openings in Toronto to as follows:—N. Curzon, centre fielder with Hillcrests; Tracey Shaw, utility boy with Hillcrests; Lefty Maguire the southpaw pitcher of Leaside is with the Royal Canadians; "Chuck" Allen two years ago with Lindsay turned in a couple of innings for the "Broadview Y" team in the Spalding Senior League; Sommerville the elongated right hand youth from Orono in last year's Durham and Ontario Intermediate League worked a couple of innings on the slab for St. Andrew's of the Hampton Park League.

Lindsay is finding no path of roses in their new connections with the Tri-County Intermediate League. "Burns from Beaverton" as the President of the northern league is known at the annual gatherings of the Ontario Association in Toronto seems to have struck a nest of thorns among his entries for this year.

Two weeks from Saturday umpires Boundy of Cobourg and Collings of Belleville will yell "play ball" in the opening game of the Central Ontario League at Peterboro with Kingston as the visiting team; while at Oshawa, Hallinan and Thorne of Toronto will perform the same stunt with the railroaders from Belleville as visitors to the motor town. This will be the first year of the league when Peterboro has opened at home on the 24th of May holiday and no doubt the Solomon-Swanston-Heckman combination will show the paper champions from the Limestone City what a real opening is like. In Oshawa the management are going to keep up with the "Baby City of Canada' 'status by having the City Council, Parks Commission, Amateur Athletic Association, Driving Club, President M. P. Duff of the Central Ontario League and other officials occupy box seats in front of the new grandstand, with the 34th Regimental Band adding music to the afternoons' doings.

President "Chick" Anderson of the Oshawa Club is going to see the leading batsman of the motor team wear a new Borsalino hat after the closing of the season in August. "Chick" things the league should donate one to J. J. Solomon for again taking over the manager's reins of the Liftlock City crew as he considers the Irishman one of the best drawing cards on the league's roster.

The final touches on the new grandstand at Alexandra Park will be put on this week and with a look over same on Monday of this week counting up the seating capacity it was found that 1,800 could squat their anatomy with comfort, while with standing room over 2,000 baseball fans can see all parts of the field. The motor town management are erecting a press box right behind home plate, safely screened, where the sporting writers from different towns in the league will be provided with plenty of elbow room.

RECORD SEASON FOR MERCANTILE

Mercantile League Should Have Big Season—Some Dope On the Teams.

The Mercantile League this season should have one its best in the history of that organization. With six teams entered, the competition should be very keen. Every team will be stronger than last year and the two new entries will have a good list of players to choose from.

The Lock Works, who were champions last year, will have practically the same team as last year, with a couple of new faces. They have from last year's team, Thorndyke, Moore, Connors, Jobbitt, Black, Huertz, Nichols and a good bunch of others who will try for positions this season.

The Bankers will be far stronger this year than last. They have in addition to "Jeff" Hardill, Frank Whitehouse who will help do duty on the mound. They have besides these two, "Hip" Hardill, McClarity, McQueen, Grosse, Williams, of last years' team, and a flock of new material that will try out this year.

The Western Clock will have a good aggreation again this season, with a couple of new face. Some of their players will be, Prossers, De Graw, Logan, Hensley, Lundy, and a few more good ones. They have some new faces on their team this year and expect to make a better showing than last season.

The Examiner team this year have a couple of new faces. Some of their men are, Taylor, Dugan, Franks, Dorrington, Grey, Baker, Scates, Chouinard, Sharpe, Collins, Holyman, McLean and a few others. They should also put up better ball than last season.

The Quakers Oats one of the new entries in the league will have a good bunch to pick from. Only a few of their players are so far known, but they will have Howard Kirn and Clayton Turner for the mound duty.

The C.G.E., the other new entry, have been keeping in the dark, but it is expected that they will have a good team in shape when the season opens.

The Mercantile League will use Riverside Park for their games, and arrangements are now being made to secure dates.

The league has a good live executive behind them and most of the teams have players who are capable of turning in a good brand of ball, so their is no reason why the brand of ball dished up by the different teams should not be of the best.

HOMER PIGEON RACING IN CITY

Local Fancier Has Obtained Good Results—Why Not a Club?

In mostly every country throughout the hemisphere, the pigeon is kept as a bird to satisfy a particular hobby which may be for fancy or racing purposes. Time has played an essential part in the development of the feathered race that came into such prominence during the world war in the delivery of special war messages from the trench to headquarters.

Considered A Necessity.

In 1914, the Allies never considered the pigeon a necessity but within a short period the cultivation and training of the "homer pigeon" was one of the greatest assets to the Allies on every war front. An excellent strain was obtained from various Homing Pigeon Associations that had covered long distances in the annual races each year.

Why Not Peterboro?

In Toronto, they have organized homing clubs which indulge in the pastime and there is no reason why Peterboro should lack behind in this respect, because, in the city, there are many enthusiasts who enjoy the sport in their own quiet way—then why not a club? A local man who has been flying pigeons from various points outside the city has obtained some good results.

Training Into Distance

Just last week, a great fancier of the feathered bird took out a number of young birds a distance of five miles or more in his car. He let them off. At once, they returned home and to his suprise never expected so early a return of the young birds, that had never been any distance before, arrive but a few minutes after his arrival back.

A Great Fascination.

There is nothing to hinder a race from Toronto or further, each year, if the fancier will train his birds in the direction to be covered. The air station at Vancouver participate in the great fascination for military purposes and have the best strain of birds in Canada which is under government auspices who make use of them as message carrier when the airplanc has failed to' function. The pilot writes his location and what happened to him, then puts it in a small container, so tied to the pigeon that it does not interfere with his flying. When it arrives at the pigeon-coop the caretaker immediately proceeds to render the necessary aid.

Please Communicate.

If any of the many fanciers who are interested in this splendid pastime would phone 1724J and try to organize an association, it would be an advantage to one and all.

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

By BILLY EVANS

QUESTIONS

1. It is possible for a batsman to reach first base on a foul fly ball that is caught?
2. Why doesn't the infield fly rule apply with a runner on first base only?
3. If for some reason a player fails to bat during an entire round of the batting order, what happens?

ANSWERS

1. Yes, a batsman can reach first on a foul fly that is caught, if while making such a hit the catcher interferes with him.
2. Because there is never a chance of making a double play, if the batsman will run out his hit as he is supposed to.
3. If for some reason he should fail to hit during an entire round, and the mistake is not properly discovered, the batsman simply takes his regular turn the next time around.

Timely Tips To Amateurs

SAYS CHARLES JAMIESON
Outfielder, Cleveland Indians

If a first you don't succeed, try, try again. It was a wise guy that pulled that one. In other words it means don't get discouraged and quit if you fail to get away to a good start.

I came to the majors as a pitcher and didn't meet with much success I was unable to get the ball over. Being fleet of foot enabled me to get a chance in the outfield.

I soon developed proficiency as a fielder, but couldn't hit, and the general opinion seemed to be that I never would.

Constant practice enabled me to do fairly well against the right handers, but I was very feeble against southpaw pitching.

Because of that fault, for a time I was allowed to play only when a right hander worked for the opposition. That didn't please me and I worked to overcome my weakness against left handers. It was a hard battle but I finally won out and now hit both styles of pitching fairly well.

My messages is, don't get discouraged. If at first you don't succeed, try, try again.

Yankees Refuse to Accept Referee

PARIS, May 7 (Canadian Press). — The deadlock between Samuel Goodman, manager of the American Olympic rugby football team, and Alan H. Muhr, representing the French Olympic Committee, over the question of a referee for the France-United States match on 16th May, continues, the United States players absolutely refusing to accept Admiral Percy Royds, of the British Tavy, whom they feel Muhr is trying to impose upon them.

In addition the relations between the United States team and Muhr is somewhat strained, owing to Muhr's refusal to allow the team a real rugby practice match before the game with Roumania next Sunday.

Broadcasting Hurts Theatre Attendance.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Keith circuit vaudeville performers hereafter will be forbidden to broadcast by radio.

This action has been decided upon after an investigation which proved to the satisfaction of the Keith officials that radio broadcasting was injuring attendance at their theatres.

One of the results of this decision is the enforced abandonment of music broadcast by the famous Vincent Lopez's drawing power was being deprominent stations. His radio contract was to expire about the first of May.

The Keith office has protested that Lopez's drawing power was being decreased for the theatres because people heard him so often through the air.

Broadcasters, however, make the counterclaim that radio "made" Lopez, that he would never have become nationally famous were it not for his broadcasting, which started with selections of his orchestra being put on the air direct from the Pennsylvania Hotel. And they add, it was fame as an orchestra broadcaster that won him his contract to appear in vaudeville.

THE POTATO CROP IN OMEMEE

OMEMEE, May 7.— The potato cdop in this vicinity last fall, was a failure in general as is now being evidenced by not only many villagers but farmers as well. Now that seeding time is approaching many inquiries are being made and unless a shipment comes from a distance the demand will exceed the supply. The retail price is from $1.75 to $2.00 per bag and $2.25 for seed in Omemee.

Manvers farmers have always been noted for raising both quality and quantity and several, who have conveyances, have purchased a supply at $1.50 per bag.

Apart from a few early potatoes and onions which a number of people have planted gardening has not commenced to any extent.

Sheep Unclipped

On account of the cold backward weather, many farmers have hesitated in clipping their sheep and thus far no flocks have been seen being driven to the pond for the annual dip ,but those who have offered wool for sale received the splendid price of 21 and 23 cents a lb., which is more than double the price paid last year.

Eggs have been on the downward trend for several weeks, the market price now being 22c per dozen with butter at 32c. per pound.

Invest What You Like in Tires But Invest in Goodyears

HOW much you keep invested in your car you must decide. As far as tires are concerned, Goodyear provides you with your choice. For those who demand the world's greatest mileage, the strongest road-grip, there is the All-Weather Cord. An actual survey of tire repairmen and automobile dealers shows that a large majority of these experts acknowledge the All-Weather Cord to excel the next best tire by over 25%. For those satisfied with a lesser road-grip, for those who want to make a smaller investment in tires, there is the Wingfoot Cord—heaping Goodyear value, exceeded in mileage and road-grip only by the All-Weather.

Goodyear resources and volume production make it possible to build more into a tire of any price class. Goodyear Selected Dealer method of distribution reduces selling cost. 10,000 tire dealers in Canada is far too many—too many profits, too much handling. Goodyear has cut the number of its dealers to 2,500—selecting in each place those best fitted to render you real service and to give you heaping value.

Let the Goodyear Selected Dealer serve you as he is so well able to do. His stock is fresh, good and fairly priced. His service is really and truly worthwhile.

CONFERENCE OF ALLIED POWERS

Will Be Held in London in June -- MacDonald and Poincare to Meet This Month.

(By Charles M. McCann—United News Staff Correspondent).

LONDON, May 7.—The conference of the Allied Powers to prepare the enforcement of the experts' report on reparations will be held in London in June, according to the present authoritative indications and the United States will be invited to attend. If America accepts the invitation to send representatives, the extent of their powers will depend on the decision of the Washington Government.

The conference probably will be held in the early part of the month. It is believed that this time was chosen when Premier Theunis of Belgium conferred here with Premier MacDonald.

Sometime before the conference, Premier MacDonald will meet Premier Poincare. Their meeting is expected to take place about May 18, when Premier Theunis and Premier Mussolini of Italy will be conferring.

The Belgians who have acted as peace-makers in the situation have reassured the British regarding the part the Reparations Commission will play in working out the plan and the British now believe that the French will co-operate in settling details of the report, leaving the Reparations Commission to act as a sort of body of stewards. They would supervise the execution of the scheme which will be largely automatic.

It is believed in authoritative circles that the question of inter-Allied debts will not come before the conference.

Britain refused to share the French pessimism over the German elections, believing that the Reichstag will approve the experts' report, despite the new Nationalist strength in that body. Informed observers here are arguing that the Nationalists must realize the tremendous responsibility which would be imposed on them by the rejection of the report, and point out that the Nationalists as well as other Germans, must see and appreciate the difference between the present financial stability in Germany and the still recent chaotic conditions there.

BENEFIT GAME FOR VETERANS

Petes Central League Team Will Clash With the K. and S. Team of Toronto.

The K. and S. team of Toronto, one of the strongest industrial ball clubs in the Queen City, and composed of former members of senior teams, will clash with the Peterboro Central Ontario League team at Riverside Park, on Saturday, and if the weather conditions show an improvement over last Saturday's brand the fans should see a warm argument.

The game is a benefit for the G.W.V.A. and the proceeds will be turned over to the Veterans. There will likely be a parade headed by the Rangers brass and bugle bands, and the former will provide music at the grounds, a feature that will be appreciated by the fans.

The K. and S. outfit, who made such a stir in hockey circles last winter, are out to set up a similar record in baseball, and they will trot out a team here on Saturday that will be fast enough to give any senior club in Toronto a terrific fight.

The Petes are not underestimating the prowess of the visitors, as Manager Solomon will have his whole squad in action Saturday. They have been practicing at every opportunity and are rounding into shape.

The Central League opens two weeks from to-day, when the Petes go into action at Belleville against their old rivals.

Saturday's game should be a big help in ironing out the rough spots in the Petes' play, and in view of the fact that the War Veterans will receive the gate receipts the attendance should be unusually large.

PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE HELD LAST EVENING

There was a good attendance in the G.W.V.A. hall last evening, for the progressive euchre party held under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary. Winners of the various pries were Mesdames McMillan, T. Skinner, R. J. Bolton and Miss Jean Horseld, several ladies taking the part of gentlemen in the card games, and winning the prizes. Consolation awards went to Mrs. P. Hully and Mr. E. Hotston. Prizes were donated by Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Devey, Mrs. Walter Hughes and Mrs. Austin. Ladies in charge of refreshments were Mesdames Clark, Austin and Scholey. The evening ended with an hour of dancing.

CLOSING MEETING OF SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

The closing meeting of the Queen Mary Home and School Association was held on Monday evening, when a brief business session was followed by a social hour. The president, Mrs. M. Breckenridge, occupied the chair, and addressed the meeting briefly. Reports were given by the secretary, Mrs. H. S. Huffman, and the treasurer, Mrs. D. Cameron. The musical programme included community singing, led by Mr. Alex. Dick, a reading by Mrs. H. E. Connolly, and vocal solos by Mrs. R. French and Miss Mabel Gardiner. The service of refreshments concluded the entertainment.

PUT MILLION DOLLARS IN THE HOME BANK TO BOLSTER UP DEPOSITS

Feature of Today's Proceedings of McKeown Commission—R. P. Gough Made the Request.

OTTAWA, May 7.— (Canadian Press.) — Examination of Major Graham Bell, Deputy Minister of Finance, and a director of Canadian National Railways in regard to the million dollar deposit which was made by the railway with the Home Bank of May 28, 1923, and drawn out on June 2nd featured today's sitting of the McKeown Commission. James A. Yates, general treasurer of the company ,also gave information in regard to the deposit.

Major Bell's story was that following the meeting of directors of railway on May 21, 1923, when he was vice-president of the Canadian National(he had been approached by R. P. Gough who asked if a deposit could be made with the Home Bank.

Major Bell said that he knew that Mr. Gough was director of the Home Bank, but he did not know that he was vice-president. He had told Mr. Gough that he would have to take the matter up with Sir Henry Thornton, who was also in the board room. Mr. Gough had walked over and spoken to Sir Henry about it.

"The President called me over and told me to look into the matter and arrange it if I saw fit," said Major Bell. "Mr. Gough suggested a deposit of a million dollars, explaining that the bank required some money immediately. But that shortly after the first of tne month more money was coming in. Major Bell understood that money was required for investment purposes, although he knew it was common practice for banks to try and build up their deposits at the end of the month.

He communicated with Mr. Yates, the general treasurer, and ascertained that a million dollars would be available for deposit on or about May 28.

Between the 21st and 25th of May, said Major Bell, he received information that Mr. Gough was vice-president of the Home Bank. "I thought we might be open to the criticism that we were favoring the Home Bank on that account," said Major Bell. He had determined, however, that the deposit should be made over the end of the month in view of the fact that he had promised Mr. Gough that it would be made, and he thought that the bank was relying on receipt of the money. Therefore he had given instructions that the deposit be made but that the money be withdrawn within four days.

Mr. Yates explained that he had received instructions to make the million dollar deposit, from Major Bell. He understood that the deposit was merely to be a "temporary account," and that the money would be put in and withdrawn on a certain fixed date. He produced a voucer showing that the deposit was referred to as a "temporary special deposit." Money was deposited May 28 and withdrawn June 2.

The first stage of the Home Bank inquiry and investigation of claim of depositors against government, is nearing a conclusion. Counsel for depositors announced at noon today just before adjournment until to-morow all their evidence was in and nothing remained but argument. To-morrow the commission will sit and counsel will discuss when and where argument will take place. Sir Thomas White, who is acting as his own counsel in the case, has expressed a desire to be present and argue his case. Suggestion made by T. A. Reid, counsel for some of the shareholders that the Prime Minister be asked to appear before the Commission to tell of efforts which were made at last minute to save the bank from failure, was not adopted by the Commissioner. He stated that, as only depositors' claim was being considered at present it seemed unnecessary to ask Mr. King to testify at this stage. He may be summoned later, however.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE CITY OF ALADDIN

Suddenly an enormous genie appeared in the air.

"Where to next?" asked Mister Muggs, as Nancy and Nick stepped into the magic automobile. They were going to have another adventure in Once-Upon-a-Time Land.

"Let's go to see Aladdin," said Nick.

"Aladdin!" cried Mister Muggs. "Why I had almost forgotten about him. We'll go to see him at once and ask him if he still has the wonderful lamp that he found in a cave."

So the little car came at last to a gorgeous Chinese city, where the houses had rubies for door knobs, emeralds for roof tiles and diamonds for window panes.

But before they had passed the first gate the little car stopped stony still and wouldn't move.

"Well, I declare!" said Mister Muggs as he pulled and tugged and hammered and shook the magic automobile. "This is the very first time I've had any trouble with this machine. Magic automobiles are supposed never to get out of order."

He looked in the radiator.

"Why, it's as dry as a bone!" he cried. "That's what's wrong."

"There's a trough," said Nick "and I see a queer crooked little kettle near it. I'll go and bring you some water."

Which he did.

He was just about to toss the queer little kettle of a thing away when Mister Muggs said quickly, "Here, let me see that thing."

Nick passed it over and the fairyman looked it over closely.

"If I'm not mistaken, this is magic," he remarked. And he gave it a rub with his coat sleeve.

Suddenly an enormous genie appeared in the air, about the ugliest creature you ever saw in your life.

"What is your wish? I am here to do your bidding, I and the other slaves of the lamp," he said in a thundering voice.

"The wicked magician from Africa came in the night and stole the lamp from Aladdin. But robbers attacked him as he left the city and took all he had. When they saw the lamp they thought it was worthless and threw it into you ditch. Whoever posses the lamp owns its slaves also. The boy who picked it up is now our master."

"Oh, I don't want you," stammered poor Nick. "I—I'm much obliged just the same."

"But we can make you king of the earth," said the genie, "and build you cities more magnificent than this."

"No—no, thank you," said Nick. "If you'll just give us a push, we will take the lamp back to Aladdin. You'd better stay with him. I'm too little to be a king anyway, and I wouldn't know what to do with a lot of cities."

Aladdin was overjoyed at the return of his precious lamp.

The three visitors spent the day with him and his princess and had a fine time.

SWIMMING AT "Y" NEXT WEEK TOO

Classes Are All Filled For Present Week — Boys Given Expert Instruction—Free to All.

There was one happy boy in our city last evening. One little fellow, at least, who could only with the greatest difficulty, contain all of his boyish joy and pride at a longed-for and at last mastered art. He had learned to swim and his world last night at last was full.

The swimming classes at the Y.M.C.A. pool are in full swing. As many pupils as can be safely handled have already booked for the whole week and new classes are being enrolled for next week. These classes are open to any boy in the city who cannot swim.

The boys are taking to the water like the proverbial duck, and it is expected that a whole flock of them will be swimming before the week is out. They are already overcoming their fear of the water, which is the main difficulty to be overcome.

Mr. Fred McNeely, the swimming instructor, when speaking about his newest convert said, "The joy of that boy when he found that he could really stay on the water without sinking was a treat. He swam the length of the pool before he left."

The boys are given land drill and full instructions before being allowed to enter the water and are always under close supervision.

LIGE CONLEY STARRED IN NEW MERMAID COMEDY

Lige Conley, supported by Lillian Hackett, Otto Fries and Jack Lloyd will be seen in "There He Goes," the latest Educational Mermaid Comedy, on the bill at the Royal Theatre, starting Thursday.

"There He Goes" is one of those hilarious fast action comedies produced under the supervision of Jack White and directed by Norman Taurog. It is a comedy of the Sunny South and centres around a comedy horse race, which, White claims, will be one of the funniest races ever seen on the screen.

NEW RAY PICTURE HAS UNIQUE STORY

Society is a diminutive island entirely surrounded by crooks. If you want further proof of the assertion ask Charles Ray. The star of comedy dramas has offered additional evidence to support his contention in "Alias Julius Caesar," his latest film offering, which is being distributed by First National and which will be shown at the Royal Theatre for three days, commencing Thursday. It is a sparkling gem of humor in which society at a fashionable country club is shown in the meshes of a pseudo second story thief who makes a special killing of matrons of the four hundred who succumb to his wiles.

To this extent only does the dramatic element enter into the villainy of Eddie Gribbon who supports the star as the society plunderer. The balance of the plot is worked out in deliciously humorous vein.

Clashes with the police and a riot of pursuits in the lure of romance are some of the ingredients that Richard Andres has woven into a splendid farce.

Ray upholds his individual honors and has able support from Eddie Gribbon and Barbara Bedford.

AT THE CAPITOL

"GIRL SHY" PROVES THE VERSATILITY OF LLOYD

Seen as Bashful Small Town Boy in His Latest Comedy

Variety is the spice of life, and it is also the secret of success in making good motion pictures. Many stars fall into a rut because they insist upon making the same line of pictures and using the same kinds of characterizations. They never change because they feel the public is used to seeing them in a certain type of picture.

Such is not the case, however, with Harold Lloyd, whose latest feature Pathe-comedy, "Girl Shy," will be seen Thursday, Friday Saturday at the Capitol Theatre. Harold has fortunately discovered that "mixing them up a bit" is the secret of success. He has never made two comedies even remotely alike, considering his big hits, "Dr. Jack," "Safety Last," "Why Worry?" and now "Girl Shy." He has jumped from small town situations to a South American revolution, from portraying a doctor to a ribbon clerk. Now in his latest, he has again striven for something different from anything he has ever made. He is seen in "Girl Shy" in an entirley novel characterization, as a bashful small town boy who is an apprentice to his uncle, a tailor. He makes a secret study of girls, although not a very accurate one, and the more he studies them, the more he fears them.

He has tried in "Girl Shy" to present a character who will instantly win the sympathy of his audience through his humanness. A really dramatic story has been built around this central figure of the boy and nothing has been sacrificed to make the picture true to life in every small detail. And it is attention to detail that helps largely to make the Lloyd Pathe comedies the big hits that they are.

The cast of "Girl Shy" include Jobyna Ralston, who plays opposite Lloyd. She made a big hit in her initial appearance with the comedians in "Why Worry?" which resulted in her being signed by Lloyd to a long term contract. Her excellent work in "Girl Shy" is said to be one of the contributing factors in its success. Others in the cast are Richard Daniels, who plays the role of Lloyd's uncle in the film, and Carlton Griffin, playing the part of a wealthy young idler. Fred Newmeyer and Sam Taylor, who co-directed "Why Worry?" also wielded the megaphone on this new mirth provoker, which was taken from a story by Taylor, Tommy Gray, Ted Wilde and Tim Whelan.

PET DOG TRAILED MASTER TO DEATH

BRANTFORD, May 7. The discovery of the body was made by the firemen through the frantic actions of the dog, which ran barking up and down the embankment at the spot where Workman jumped to his death. Workman was a brick manufacturer.

"After years of suffering from chronic rheumatism, I tried Lang's Mineral Wonder and, inside of six weeks, I was a well man. The rheumatism has never returned. What Lang's Mineral Wonder has done for me is worth a thousand dollars." This is the striking testimony given by a most prominent Toronto business man, whose name will be furnished upon request.

Even extremely severe cases yield to the great natural healing power of Lang's Mineral Wonder.

Not only rheumatism may be removed—but also Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles, Stomach and Blood disorders, Eczema, Lumbago, Piles and many Internal Complaints.

For Kidney and Bladder Trouble

I must express my surprise and pleasure at the work of your Mineral Wonder. It wrought surprisingly pleasant results in my condition. "AS A KIDNEY AND BLADDER CLEANSER IT IS KING." Since using this Mineral Wonder I am entirely free from the difficulty attached to evacuation of urine, and find a total elimination of albumen in the flow, as well as an entire absence of irritation of the bladder. I certainly commend your Mineral Wonder as a blood and kidney cleanser. I feel most thankful for the opportunity of using it.

MR. J. EVERS

Johnny Evers is now in the American League, bossing Mr. Comiskey's White Sox and Mr. Johnson's umpires, in the order named, with a strong, impartial bitterness.

Mr. Evers is known wherever the great national game is misplayed as the human crab, a title which fits him beautifully, except for the fact that even the crab has been known to have moments of joviality.

Mr. Evers' facial architecture runs mainly to chin, as does his general methods of procedure.

Having been taught that in baseball disputes there is much to be said on both sides, Mr. Evers never hesitates to say it for both.

They say the voicce with a smile wins but Mr. Evers prefers to string with the low gutteral threat and the high-powered, sulphuric expletive.

When Mr. Evers gives an umpire a piece of his mind he knows in advance that he can afford it. Mr. Rockfeller can spill oil on his plaid weskit and still pay dividends.

A smile will go a long, long way, as the mammy singers tell you, but Mr. Evers' system is to stand flat-footed and throw the 16-pound squawk to a new A.A.U. record, form and distance considered.

What makes Mr. Evers a personage instead of an irritation is that he uses brains instead of brogans in registering his kicks.

It doesn't take much to be a human sphinx. All that is asked of you is to know nothing and say less.

Being ambidexterous Mr. Evers is able to talk himself out of trouble quicker than most guys can talk themselves into trouble.

BASEBALL.

The Raybestos ball team will practice at the Exhibition grounds to-night, and again on Friday evening at six o'clock. All players wishing to try out will be welcome.

The Lakeviews and Crescents of the Junior City League have completed arrangements to open their League season at the Riverside park, on the morning of May 24th. There is keen rivalry between these two clubs, and the Crescents declare that last year's junior Ontario champions will have their hands full this season. With a fast junior game in the morning and the opening of the Central Ontario League with Kingston as the attraction in the afternoon, fans will not have to worry about their Victoria Day bill-of-fare.

PETERBORO BOYS AND GIRLS TO TAKE PART

This morning, some seventy of the boys and girls of the Separate schools of the city went to Toronto to take part in the International Convention of the Society of St. Gregory, a convention, the first of its kind ever held in Ontario, which has for its consideration Liturgical Music. This morning, the local children took part in a Pontifical High Mass in St. Michael's Cathedral, Toronto, when the Mass of the Blessed Virgin, Cum Jubilo, a Mass of the Twelfth Century from the Vatican Graduale, was rendered in the Gregorian Plain Chant by two thousand children in unison, coming from various parts of the province, also from Montreal, New York and Rochester.

The children, all under twelve years of age, and trained in the singing of the Plain Chant, are from the Schools of the Sacred Heart Parish, which sent 21 children, from St. Peter's school, sending 25, and from St. Mary's school for girls, sending 24 of its pupils. They were accompanied by Rev. J. J. O'Brien, pastor of the Sacred Heart school, Rev. J. Finn of St. Peter's Rectory, Rev. J. McAuley of Ennismore, and Rev. H. McHenry, of Parry Sound. Several of the parents of St. Peter's parish also accompanied them, including Mrs. N. Tobin, Mrs. J. Donoghue, Mrs. P. J. Scollard, Mrs. R. M. Glover, the Misses Archambault and Kathleen Burke, also Messrs. W. Scollard and J. E. Sullivan.

ORCHESTRA AND CHOIR TO GIVE A CONCERT

On Friday of next week, May 16th the citizens of Peterboro will have an opportunity of hearing in concert the various members and the soloists who went to Toronto last week and won honors at the second annual Ontario Competitive Musical Festival. In the Grand Opera House on that evening, the Peterboro Symphony Orchestra, the Peterboro Male Voice Choir, Mr. R. A. Browne and Mr. M. H. Park will give a musical Community Festival, in which it is anticipated that, among other selections, the test pieces at the recent Festival will be heard.

This concert, which is being put on in accordance with the expressed wishes of numerous citizens and also for the purpose of wiping out a deficit in the funds of both the Choir and the Orchestra, will be an example of the harmony and co-operative spirit existing between the two organizations, who will work together to make the occasion a success. It is hoped that the citizens generally will co-operate by postponing any other projected attractions for that evening, and by attending in large numbers. The prices of admission will be placed on a popular scale.

The concert will be a novel event, bringing together on one platform the performers, over a hundred in number, who upheld Peterboro's musical prestige so successfully in Toronto last week, bringing home four first prizes and five seconds as a vindication of the city's claim to be recognized in the forefront of musical centres of the Province. It will be a splendid opportunity for citizens to hear the music of the Festival, as it was played by successful contestants, and will undoubtedly be a music treat.

In charge of the concert are R. Gliddon and M. B. Chenhall, directors of the Symphony Orchestra and the Male Voice Choir, and the committee looking after arrangements, is composed of members from each organization; the two presidents, Mr. John Crane and Mr. W. F. Skitch, the secretaries; J. M. Greene and C. S. Thompson, the treasurer of the orchestra, Mr. W. E. Lech, and the vice president of the Choir, Mr. John Anderson.

LIBERAL POLICY IDENTICAL WITH FARMERS' IDEALS

"If We Carry Out Ours, We Carry Out Theirs," Declared Hon. W. R. Motherwell in Budget Debate — Premier King Repeats Fielding's Sympathy With the Budget Proposals.

HIS FULL APPROVAL.

OTTAWA, May 8 (Canadian Press). — "There has been no selling out," declared Hon. W. R. Motherwell in the House yesterday during the continued debate on the Budget.

Mr. Motherwell was referring to relations between Liberals and Progressives. He said the platforms of the two parties were identical.

"If we carry out ours, we carry out their's."

Mr. Motherwell charged that the real reason why Conservatives did not like the Budget was because "it had got them on the hip." The Budget was a real Liberal Budget; and the parties were lining up for a fight on the tariff issue.

Subsequent debate brought a further assurance from Premier King of Defence, added that Mr. Fielding (Minister of Finance, was in sympathy with the Budget proposals. After making his last statement on Mr. Fielding's attitude, said the Premier, 'I have had a conversation with Mr. Fielding and he requested me to repeat it again."

Hon. E. M. MacDonald, Minister of efence ,added that Mr. Fielding had said to him that the Budget had his full approval.

Col. Arthurs, Conservative, of Parry Sound, referred to immigration as one of the gravest problems Canada had to face. During the last fiscal year, 133,000 had entered Canada, while, in the same period, 183,000 left Canada. Calculating that the average labouring man earned $1,000 a year, Canada lost $183,000,000.

On the Budget Col. Arthurs remarked that it would satisfy the West, but the rest of the country would have to pay for it.

Replies to Meighen.

Mr. Motherwell quoted from the speeches made by Right Hon. Arthur Meighen last summer, in which the leader of the Opposition was reported as saying that the King Government had a record for political perfidy unequalled the world over, and that the name of the Government was "a stench in the West."

"Those were not nice things to say about the Government," said Mr. Motherwell. It was throwing distrust into the minds of a restless people. He doubted if the Conservatives themselves believed it all. The Conservatives had had the country believing that anything was liable to happen when the House re-assembled, but the Opposition has not yet recovered from the surprise they received in the Speech from the Throne.

The "blanched faces" of the Opposition, while they listened to the Speech from the Throne, indicated how hard hit they were, Mr. Motherwell continued. The estimates and the Budget had been further blows. The announcement from the implement manufacturers that they could get along very nicely under the new tariff was a final blow to the Opposition which was still trying frantically to represent industry as ruined by the tariff.

Hard on Conservatives.

They waited too long before putting in their amendment to the Budget. Meantime the fourth party in the House, two modest Labour men, Munificent Gift For Montreal Amusements.

MONTREAL, May 8.—(Canadian Press). — The City of Montreal, through the executive committee, accepted the offer by the estate of the late C. S. Campbell, K.C., who left some $175,000 to be used by the city for public parks and amusement to organize a series of some fifty public concerts in every section of the city.

Chicago's Farewell to Wanda Stopa!

Ten thousand morbidly curious men, women and children crowded into Chicago's "Little Poland" for the funeral of Wanda Stopa. Five thousand more waited three, four, even five hours at the cemetery just to catch a glimpse of the casket. Here is a section of the crowd that jammed the street in front of the Stopa apartment while the services were in progress. In the circle a police detail is seen keeping back the lines as the casket is being lifted into the hearse. A peanut vendor did a thriving business through the crowd. Old school chums served as pall-bearers and carried the floral offering that market friends' sympathy for the girl who ended her life after she had killed Henry Manning, caretaker at the suburban home of the man she loved, Y. Kenley Smith.

PARLIAMENT RIGHT TO PERMIT CHURCH UNION DENIED BY OPPONENTS

Eugene Lafleur, K.C., Contended That Methodists and Congregationalists Could Be Joined, But Only Those Presbyterians Who Desired to Do So — Another Vote Would Indicate Strength to Administer Church Trusts.

BEFOIE COURTS.

OTTAWA, May 8.— (Canadian Press.) — Te Dominion Parliament has no uthority to pass the church union bill, declared Eugene Lafleur, K.C., ounsel for the Presbyterian Church Association in the hearing on th Church Union Bill before the Commons' Private Bills Committee Wenesday afternoon.

Mr. Lafleur maintained that the bill invaded prrincial rights in regard to educatin and property and civil rights.

Further Mr. Lafleur declared that his clients did bt oppose "church union" in itself but were opposing "the destruction of our church and the erection o another on its ruins."

Mr. Lafleur wi asked his opinion of the effect of tking another vote. He replied that tother vote would show whether the minority was large enough to administer the trusts of the chuh. He added that he did not think the minority should be asked o recommend a breach of trust.

Departs Fro Doctrine.

Mr. Lafleur's stement and examination occupie practically the entire afternoon sing. The rest of the day was taken with the hearing of Rev. Stua Parker of Toronto who claimed that the basis of union included in he present bill departed from e Westminster Confession in regd to Calvinist theology, Governme solely by elders, equality of all resbyters, and ordination solely b Presbyteries.

Interest in the etence ran high during the day, an Chairman McGiverin had again a again to remind the spectators who crowded the committee room that no display of feeling or expresn of opinion was permissible.

Before Mr. Parker left the stand he was asked by J. Brown of Lisgar, whether the hurch courts could not speak for e Presbyterian church, as parliament spoke for the people of Canada.

"That is a good anagy," replied Mr. Parker. "If th parliament were to hand Canada over to some country you would ha the same situation as now in the esbyterian church."

After the laughter ich greeted this had died down, Mr. Brown asked whether he would not feel that union would mean entering into "a richer inheritance in the traditions of Knox, Wesley and John Milton?"

"No, sir, I would not feel that way," was Mr. Parker's response.

After being on the stand for four and a half hours Mr. Parker was then released and Mr. Lafleur was called.

Destruction of Church.

"We are not opposing union," said Mr. Lafleur, "we are opposing the destruction of our church and the erection of another on its ruins."

He said he appeared for the Presbyterian Church Association. That body now had 70,000 adherents, "though that does not by any means represent the number of those who are conscientiously opposed to this bill."

Mr. Lafleur argued that the bill would disfranchise dissenting ministers in regard to the keeping of marriage, birth and death registers.

He closed with an appeal on the subject of the independence of the spiritual power. The unionists claimed spiritual independence, but were at the same time asking for special powers from Parliament. He suggested that Parliament should maintain the independence of the spiritual power by refusing to ratify this bill.

Parliament or Court.

W. A. Boys, of Simcoe opened the examination of Mr. Lafleur and asked whether he thought Parliament should legislate on a matter that was before the courts.

Mr. Lafleur would not say it was wrong but might display temerity on the part of Parliament.

What would be the effect of the legislation, if the court decided in favor of the minority in this case, asked Mr. Boys.

Sales Tax Arrears Total 3,170 Cases

OTTAWA, May 8.—(Canadian Press.)— Including 431 retail bakers and confectioners, who have refused to pay the sales tax pending a decision on an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada, 3,170 persons and firms in Canada are in arrears with their sales tax. Of these 2,466 have been in arrears more than three months. The Government is corresponding with them, to obtain payments without resort to law if possible.

Most of the cases "require nurbing" says a Ministerial reply tabled in the House yesterday, because drastic action might result in financial failures.

STILL MORE PETITIONS.

OTTAWA, May 8. — (Canadian Press).—Another sheaf of petitions for and against Church Union were presented in the House of Commons Wednesday afternoon by members from all parts of the country. Their presentation occupied the first half-hour.

WALL STREET SEES DURANT FUTURE

Back Michigan Auto Manufacturer

Irate contradictions, explanations, and hastily prepared comment by automobile executives mainly purporting to show that there would be no curtailment in spring production was the big topic in Wall Street Saturday. Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors Corporation, in speaking of conditions as especially indicated by General Motors, is quoted as admitting that General Motors had about ten days' current production on hand unsold and that cars in dealers' hands are in excess of the corresponding time last year. He explained that this condition was sought in view of the fact that last year General Motors was unable to effect prompt deliveries, and lost business thereby.

C. W. Nash, president of the Nash Motors, says the automobile industry looks to the future with confidence but that the industry itself will grow through those manufacturers best qualified to serve the demands of the public. Nash says he sees a process of elimination in the automobile industry and that only the fittest will survive.

The real views of the so-called "wise ones" of Wall Street is that the master hand of W. C. Durant, president of Durant Motors Corporation, is seen virtually in control of this gigantic industry.

Wall Street has come to the realization that Durant has made good and that his companies are in a better position to-day to supply a line of cars designed to serve the most exacting demands in the transportation field than any others. It is pointed out that General Motors pays to W. C. Durant and his associates a profit on every car built.

It is well known that Durant holds large blocks of preferred and common stock in the General Motors Corporation, in Fisher Body, Hayes Wheel and other industrial concerns supplying products for the automotive industry. It has been discovered that every time Fisher builds a body Durant makes a profit; every time Hayes makes a wheel, Durant makes a profit; every time General Motors builds and sells a car Durant makes a profit. It has also been pointed out that every prediction regarding the automobile industry that Durant has made in the past twenty years has come true. Durant Motors annual financial statement will be given to the public in the near future and the company is known to have made money. The prospects for the future of Durant are considered in Wall Street to be better than any motor car manufacturer excepting Henry Ford and some of the smart traders are quietly picking up Durant securities.

MONTREAL ARRIVALS.

MONTREAL, May 8.—Arrived: Leopold L.D., Grangemouth; Canadian Forester, British West Indies.

Soviet Conference To Review Progress

LONDON, May 8 (Canadian Press). — Another plenary session of the Anglo-Russian conference, now being held here, is expected to be called some time next week, to review the work of the various committees during the past month, and British observers believe the session will be the first indication of whether the present MacDonald-Rakovsky parleys are likely to result in a new formal Anglo-Russian treaty re-establishing full relations, or whether the conference will break up without results.

According to British officials, there is no reason to take the latter view as one of the sub-committees, the one concerned with the revision of old treaties, has almost completed its work to the satisfaction of both sides.

The other committee, considering debts and claims, are encountering difficulties, which, however, were expected, and so far as is now known, there is no reason to believe they will be insurmountable.

BELAND MEETS DISABLED VETS

Pensions Plus Bonus Will Be Continued By the Government Was Virtually Definite Assurance.

OTTAWA, May 8. — Hon. Mr. H. S. Beland, Minister of Pensions, and Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, addressed the Amputations Association convention on Wednesday, and gave what was considered by them a virtual definite assurance that the present rate of pension plus bonus for disabled veterans will be continued by the government. "It is my personal hope that your wishes regarding the permanence of the rate of pension and bonus now existing may be granted," he said.

In opening his speech, Mr. Beland said:

"I appreciate the opportunity of meeting you and of expressing my sincere admiration for your organization."

He referred jokingly to his own experience in the war, and said that he had not had the chance to do very much, because after working with hospital servi in Belgium he was taken to Berlin to remain a boarder of His Imperial Majesty, Emperor William, for three years.

Testimony of Bravery.

"You are a living demonstration of what war effects upon humanity and a testimony of human bravery, endurance and service, and you remind us of what should be the effort at the head of the nations to prevent the repetition of what happened in 1914," Mr. Bland said.

He extended a welcome to the delegates at the convention in the name of the Canadian government. "You have in all political parties many admirers and friends," he said, and went on to express his hope that the request for the permanence of the present rate of pensions would be granted.

Promise In Toronto.

"During a recent visit to Toronto I took it upon myself to assure some of your comrades, who asked me for a specific statement, that it was the wish of the government that the pension rate be extended," he said.

Previous to Dr. Beland's visit to the convention, Major-Gen. J. H. McBrien expressed the hope for success of the convention's aims.

"In life it is the spirit that counts," he said, "and those of us who came through the war with very little injury, if any, feel we owe you a great deal for your sacrifices."

MARITIME UNION.

HALIFAX, N.S., May 8.—(Canadian Press).—It is suggested that the three Maritime Premiers may meet here on the occasion of Dalhousie University's convocation next week and discuss the New Brunswick Legislature's resolution advocating a non-partisan union of the Maritime Federal members of Parliament.

AMENDMENT TO INDUSTRIAL ACT BEFORE SENATE

Penalty On Employer For Changing Wages or Conditions Pending Arbitration Decision Is One of New Proposals In Legislation to Avoid Strikes.

REJECTED LAST YEAR.

OTTAWA, May 8. — (Canadian Press).—Amendments to the industrial Disputes Act which were rejected in the second chamber last year and which have passed the House of Commons again this year were considered in the Senate yesterday.

Senator Dandurand in introducing the bill traced the history of the Industrial Disputes Act from 1907 until the recent time. He pointed out that in 580 disputes investigated in that time, 544 had been amicably settled, and only 36 strikes had ensued.

The bill desired to bring about an equality of treatment between employer and employee. The important changes desired are that if an employer refuses a conference with employee, this refusal shall be considered a fulfilling the requirements of the Act, which at present makes it necessary for all negotiations to have failed before a conciliation board can be asked for. The other important amendment fixes a penalty on employers for making any change in wages, hours or conditions between the time a board is asked for and a decision is reached. Under the law at present any such change is forbidden either employer or employee, but there is no penalty imposed on employers to make this restriction effective.

Public Utilities

Hon. W B Ross brought up the question of the constitutionality of the Industrial Disputes Act as applied to Public Utilities.

Senator Dandurand said that the judgment of the Ontario Court of Appeal had made it unnecessary for the Senate to consider the constitutionality of the measure before them.

Senator Ross contended that there was still a grave doubt as to constitutionality particularly in view of the amendments proposed, which seemed to conflict with the control of civil rights by Provincial authorities. He instances the case of the Federal Government and the eight hour a day law which had been considered to be under provincial, not federal jurisdiction.

Senator Belcourt felt that the Act having stood the test of the Ontario Court of Appeal might be considered constitutional, and also held that it did not infringe on provincial jurisdiction over civil rights.

Penalty Clause

Senator Robertson instanced the necessity for this penalty clause the case of the Railway Arbitrary reduction in wages in 1921. He strongly advised that this be sent to a special committee where employers and employees interested could appear and give evidence.

Senator Beaubien claimed that the plea for equality and justice had not been substantiated. The penalty clause was aimed at the employer, and might result in the bankruptcy of concerns.

Too Easy Bail

Hon. Smeaton White explained a bill to amend the criminal code (bail on charges and committals for indictable offences) and another to amend the Opium and Drug Act as regards bail and certain charges. The object of these bills was to make it more difficult to obtain bail in certain criminal offences, such as burglary, house-breaking and robbery. He would have these unbailable except by application to the higher courts. It was found in Montreal that certain men made a business of securing bail for people. The intention was to secure a better administration of justice.

Referred to Committee

Senator Dandurand said that recently Magistrates in Montreal were imposing much heavier bail, but he consented to these bills being referred to a special committee.

The bills were given their second reading and on the motion of Senator McKeena were referred to a special committee composed of Hon. Senator White and most of the lawyers in the Senate, with authority to ask the opinion of Attorney-Generals of the several provinces to summons and examine witnesses under oath.

ORNAMENTS

The stock, which has been a revival in neckwear this season, admits of little ornamentation, but occasionally one sees a very artistic, small monogram.

Some Traveller!

Ten-year-old Alice Northcott, New Westminster, B.C., ought to be a strong contender for the juvenile travelling championship. She has just completed her ninth trip between the Pacific Coast and Hull, England, her birthplace. The last voyage was made entirely alone, Captain H. Landry, of the Canadian Pacific liner and officials of the Canadian Pacific Railroad looking after her going over and coming back. Here she is stepping off the train at the end of the homeward journey.

IRISH APPOINT MINISTER TO U.S.

Professor T. A. Smiddy Already at Washington, and Britain Is Expected to Give Consent.

LONDON, May 8.—The consent of Great Britain to the appointment of Professor Timothy A. Smiddy as the first Irish Free State Minister to Washington, has not yet been given according to competent officials here, and the appointment is still under consideration. At the same time it is admitted that the appointment of Prof. Smiddy is probable, as it is pointed out that Great Britain not having raised objections to the appointment of a Canadian Minister to Washington, is not likely to object to appointment of an Irish minister.

Expert on Trade

DUBLIN, May 8. — Professor Thomas A. Smiddy, whose appointment as minister to represent the Free State Government in Washington is considered pretty certain, is already in Washington. Necessary diplomatic formalities in connection with such an appointment takes time He has been mentioned prominently for some time past for this office.

Prof. Smiddy was head of the Economic Department at University College, Cork, and was one of the Government's experts on the commission on trade policy which reported against protection. His activities in Washington will be mainly concerned with trade.

FORMIDABLE TOTAL.

OTTAWA, May 8. — (Canadian Press).—Canada has advanced in cash, since the taking over of the Canadian National Railways in 1917, $489,653,320 up to March 31, 1924. In addition to this bonds to the value of $189,293,000 have been guaranteed by the Government in addition to guaranteeing interest on Grand Trunk Railway securities worth $216,207,141.

The amounts are made up as follows: To the Canadian Northern Railway Company $292,520,459 in cash was advanced and its bonds guaranteed to the value of $66,793,000.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway get $58,535,481 in cash.

The Grand Trunk Railway received $108,597,381 in cash and its bonds guaranteed to the value of $50,000,000. The interest on the $216,207,141 worth of other bonds is also guaranteed.

In the last fiscal year, the Canadian National Railways bond issues, totalling $72,500,000, were guaranteed.

These figures were given in the House of Commons yesterday in answer to a question.

GENERAL STRIKE IN RHINE MINES

Followed Lockout By the Owners—Miners Refuse to Work Longer Than Eight Hours Daily—Encouraged By Elections.

BERLIN, May 8. — A general strike of miners in all the Rhenish Westphalian mines was called yesterday after the mine owners had locked out the workers in about 85 per cent. of the pits.

The lockout was the reply of the mine owners to the refusal of the miners to work more than eight hours daily, and the general strike was the answer of the miners to the lockout. It was asserted the strike also was the first fruit of the Communist victory in the Reichstag elections.

As the coal reserves in the Ruhr are small, the strike will soon affect the other industries there, especially the metal industry, and it is quite probable that thousands of additional men in the region will be rendered idle.

The Communists have wrested the leadership from the Socialist, Christian and Democratic trades unions, who oppose a general strike, though insisting on the seven hour day.

According to the Ministry of Economy ,the strike will automatically cause a cessation of coal deliveries for the Allies. At the Mihistry yesterday it was pointed out that the Micum Agreement recognizes a strike as a valid reason for failure to deliver coal. The Labor Ministry is watching the situation closely, but is not inclined to interfere at this stage.

CHURCH UNION STILL ON TAP

Rev. W. G. Brown of Red Deer Opposes the Measure.

OTTAWA, May 8. — (Canadian Press). — "This is to be the beginning of a great National Protestant Church," asserted Rev. W. G. Brown, of Red Deer, who spoke today in opposition to the Church Union Bill before the Commons' Private Bills Committee.

He was later questioned on the subject by J. J. Hughes, of Prince Edward Island, and said that he had heard the statement made in the Church Union Committee with the addition: "No Government would dare to resist such a church."

"You have no authority for such a statement," said Harold Putnam, of Colchester.

"Only the statement of the man who is to-day Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly," replied Mr. Brown. The present Moderator is Rev. Dr. Gandier.

"He did not mention any other Protestant denomination, did he?" pursued Mr. Putnam.

"No," was the reply of Mr. Brown. "He said it was the beginning."

Mr. Brown, who said he had been 22 years on the Home Mission Committee of the Presbyterian Church, and five years on the Union Committee, spoke specially of conditions in the West. He denied that the West was unanimous for union, and challenged the accuracy of the statements made that there were 400 "Union Churches" in Saskatchewan. There was no "union map" for Alberta, he said, "and if it had been possible, the highly officered and highly paid staff in Toronto would have produced it."

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Some of the Merchants Observe Half Holiday Today and Others Tomorrow.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 8—The Official Board of the Methodist Church held their fourth quarterly meeting in the Board Room on Tuesday night. The business for the closing of the year was attended to and all committees for the year appointed. Mr. S. A. Maguire was reappointed Recording Steward.

The district visitors and others are to visit all the members during the week for the financial support of the church and bring a report in for next Tuesday. The Treasurer, the Missionary Treasurer and the Superintendent of the Sunday School, all gave their annual reports.

The Girl Guides

On Tuesday evening the Girl Guides held their regular meeting in the Sunday Shool room of the Methodist Church. They had invited all the girls in the Sunday School to be present as their guests for a taffy pull. Over fifty girls were present and had a jolly time. At the beginning of the meeting the Guides saluted the flag and all took up the memory work.

While the taffy was getting ready the time was passed with music. Each girl pulled taffy and then enjoyed the eating of it. The Guides treated the members of the Board to some of the taffy.

Mrs. J. H. Bell, District Commissioner, then gave a short talk to the guides and their guests. Having just come from England a few months ago, she spoke of the climate of England and the chance of a lot of outdoor sports and games. She emphasized the importance of the four-fold efficiency standard of the guides. If the Guides lived up to the ten guide laws they could not help being good citizens of Canada. The girls showed their appreciation of this talk by a hearty clap of hands. The captain Miss Grace Payne, thanked the Commissioner for her address and then called upon the President of the local Guides Association, who was present for a short time, to say a few words. Miss Payne is to be congratulated on the splendid work she is doing with the girls who are guides, also Miss Helen Wood with the Brownies.

Mrs. C. W. Turner entertained her Sunday school class of young ladies and Miss Payne and her class of girls, at her home on Queen street, on Wednesday night. There were 35 present and the evening was spent in music, contests nad other games. Rev. W. and Mrs. Elliott were also guests and the girls enjoyed their company and also got better acquainted with their new pastor and his wife.

Lunch was served at 12 o'clock in cafeteria style, each one helping themselves to the sandwiches, coffee, etc., on the table in the dining room. A merry time was spent by the girls in their social evening.

The Half Holiday.

A large number of the merchants (including a majority of the grocers and barbers) will be closed on Thursday afternoon, and open all day Friday during the summer months, in accordance with the original petition signed by 52 merchants and business men of the town.

Mr. W. Sanders of Detroit is visiting his sister and brother, at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Potts.

NEWS OF MARMORA AND THE DISTRICT

MARMORA, May 8.—Wednesday May 7, saw the cemetery improvement committee busy at work in the cemeteries of the town. Plots were cleaned and a general improvement has been made. Sveral rustic seats were erected in suitable places.

Mr. M. Kouri motored to Madoc on Monday.

Mrs. Myrtle Loveless, Miss Bessie Sweet, and Mr. B. Airhart were in Belleville Tuesday on business.

Mrs. Percy Kennedy and her two children of Lindsay, are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Nayler.

Russian Ambassador Recalled By Moscow.

BERLIN, May 8.— M. Krestinsky, the Russian Ambassador to Germany, left for Moscow last evening. M. Stomaniakow, chief of the Russian Commercial Delegation in Germany, will depart for Moscow to-day.

The departure of M. Krestinsky and M. Stomaniakow follows the refusal of the German Government to accord the Moscow Government a satisfatcory explanation for the recent raid by police on the quarters of the Russian Commercial Delegation in Berlin. Announcement was made at the Russian Embassy in Berlin on Tuesday that it was temporarily ending all commercial relations with Germany, including the closing of the quarters of the commercial delegation.

COURTING PARLORS.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., May 8.—Co-eds must have their parlors "Courting parlors," Miss Amanda Lee Beaumont, dean of women at the local Normal School, calls them. And the lack of these courting parlors, she says, comprises one of the biggest problems which those in charge of college girls have to deal.

WILLIAM CAMFIELD DIED ON SCAFFOLD

Welland Jail Was the Scene This Morning of the Hanging of the Murderer of Albert Morningstar.

WELLAND, May 8 — (Canadian Press).—After having confessed to having committed the crime unassisted, William Albert Camfield was hanged in the Welland Jail at 5.27 this morning for the murder of Albert Morningstar, wealthy bachelor farmer. Camfield knocked the man unconscious with a shovel on Christmas Day, later robbing his victim and endeavoring to cover the crime by setting fire to the house, which was completely destroyed, and his victim burned almost beyond recognition.

Camfield walked to the scaffold and climbed the eighteen steps unfalteringly. Fifty-five seconds later, as Archdeacon Perry reached the words, "Thy kingdom come" in the Lord's Prayer, Hangman Ellis sprang the trap. Seven minutes later life was pronounced extinct.

Archdeacon Perry and Captain Johnson of the Salvation Army were with the doomed man from midnight till the hour of execution. The confession was made to the two spiritual advisors on Tuesday evening, after Camfield had stoically maintained his innocence and again repudiated the confession he had signed before Chief Jones of Crowland last January.

POPULAR PLAYER APPOINTED MANAGER OF BRIGHTON TEAM

BRIGHTON, May 8. — At the meeting of the Brighton Baseball Club last night Manager Fred Spring tendered his resignation, owing to the pressure of business. It was regretfully accepted by the Club. The new manager elected is Gus Halliday, who has played second base for Brighton, for the past two years and is one of the best and most popular player in the league.

The choice is as popular with the Brighton fans as it is with the players and the general feeling is one of optimism about Brightons' chances to win the Clarke Cup with Halliday to pilot the team.

When Brighton joined the Northumberland County League in 1922, Gus Halliday was lured out of a six year's retirement to help out the team .He batted .375 that season and when he rounded to form, played a very steady game at second. Last season he improved his batting average to .403 and fielded in splendid style. He was almost unanimously chosen as second baseman on the Northumberland League All Stars last fall.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Regular Meeting of the Ministerial Association --A Musical Festival.

MILLBROOK, May 8.—The regular May meeting of the Ministerial Association was held on Monday morning, Rev. S. G. Rorke, of Peterborough, delivering an inspiring and interesting address on "What is wrong with the world?" A deep thinker, and with his own inimitable way of expressing himself, Mr. Rorke always gives something well worth while and the members of the association, who had looked forward with anticipation to hearing him on Monday, were not in any sense disappointed.

The spirit of materialism which characterizes the age, seemed to be at the root of the world's ill health, according to the speaker's diagnosis.

General regret has been expressed that Monday's gtahering was not made open to the public. Those present included: Rev. Canon Allen, Rev. R. T. Richards, Cavan, Rev. R. M. Patterson, Frazerville, Rev. W. Dafoe, Bethany, Rev. H. Wilkinson, Pontypool, Rev. G. I. Craw, Springville, Rev. G. S. Gervan, Rev. S. T. Tucker, and Rev. M. G. B. Williams.

Sale of Bulbs.

The Women's Missionary Society of Grace Presbyterian church held a sale of bulbs, home-made baking, etc., at the home of Mrs. J. Thorne on Saturday afternoon, realizing quite a satisfatcory sum which goes to increase the expense fund of their Society. This month the Auxiliary expect to send their bale of clothing, quilts, etc., to the west, a boy being assigned to them this year to supply a complete outfit for.

Mrs. C. Thorndyke, Mrs. C. Robinson, Mrs. W. J. E. Gillott, Mrs. Thorne and other members, assisted with the sale on Saturday, while still others were busy finishing a quilt which is to go in the bale.

The League sent $100 to the Forward Movement for Missions this year, and has a small balance on hand with which to begin the new year.

It was decided to hold the closing meeting until after the holiday season, on Monday, June 16th, the programme to be of a somewhat special character.

Musical Festival.

Many contributing causes doubtless had to do with lessening the attendance at the "Musical Festival," given under the leadership of Miss Ina Allan, of Peterboro, in the Town Hall, Millbrook, on Tuesday evening. The lateness of the season, the numerous other entertainments in the village and vicinity, the fact that it is now the farmers' busy time hindering many from the country from attending events of this nature at the present time of year, all had a share in making the audience disappointingly small.

The Millbrook orchestra, under the leadership of G. A. Duncan, provided music before the curtain was raised and during the programme. The readings given by Miss Irene Breckenridge, which included "The Dutchwoman at the Opera," James Whitcombe Riley's "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," with musical accompaniment, and encores, were much enjoyed and gave a pleasing variety during the musical numbers, which were the main features of the Festival. Others from outside points, some of whom were Miss Allen's pupils, who assisted with the programme were: Mrs. Irene Kennedy, Miss Dorothy Warmington of Cobourg, Miss Geraldine Weatherhead, Messrs. Adam Gillespie, Stanley Wyliss and R. Young.

A number of members of the local choirs, among whom are several of Miss Allen's pupils, were in the choruses. About forty voices composed the chorus numbers. Miss Ella Elson presided at the piano. The orchestra included: Messrs. G. A. Duncan, J. L. Byam, J. Isbister, L. Byam, Miss May Byam, Miss Kathleen Isbister, G. E. Burnham, Ernest Burnham and Billy Byam.

L. C. Russell, chairman of the School Board, made a few appropriate remarks at the opening of the entertainment.

TALKING PEACE IS NOT ENOUGH

Lady Astor Refers to the Numerous Peace Societies In United States, and the Japanese Exclusion As Possible Cause of War.

LONDON, May 8. — Lady Astor, speaking before a conference of the International Council of Women at Wembley yesterday, declared that the United States had more societies for the propagation of peace than any other country in the world, but that only recently a dangerous thing had happend in the Senate with reference to Japan that might lead to a war some time in the future.

Lady Astor's statement with regard to the Senate's action on the Japanese exclusion clause of the Immigration Bill, appeared to be somewhat in the nature of an interpolation as her subject was the drink traffic. She was discussing international peace, having introduced this topic by saying that the liquor question had a very definite bearing on international peace.

"You will not prevent war by talking peace," she said, and then referred to the Senates action with regard to Japanese exclusion.

Prohibition a Failure.

Annie Suruhjelm, who for a decade was a member of the Finnish Parliament declared that prohibition had not been good for Finland. It had led to smuggling, she said, and she had been told that children even came to school drunk because liquor had been smuggled into their homes by their parents, who could not buy and drink it in public.

OTTAWA RIVER IS TO BE MADE WORK

Hydro Will Harness It at Several Points — 800,000 Horse Power Possible.

TORONTO, May 8.—(Canadian Press).—The first step in an Ottawa river power development project which looks ultimately to the generation of some 700,000 horsepower to be distributed throughout the province, was taken yesterday by the Ontario Hydro Commission when it made formal application to the Ferguson Government for certain water leases. The sites asked for by Hydro are located on the Ottawa River between Ottawa and Pembroke, being principally Chads Falls, Du Ford Falls, Des Joachims Falls and Alumette Falls. Premier Ferguson stated yesterday that they would be made available to the Hydro, the Government having agreed that the sites for this important Ottawa power plan would be reserved from private interests.

The Hydro will commence immediately the preliminary investigation by engineers which must precede the construction work. Plans are also to be commenced with despatch, and financial provision for the work will be made in the Hydro estimates to come before the next sitting of the Legislature. Sufficient funds are now available for the survey stage of the work.

The Ottawa development will rank as a fitting companion project to the Niagara and St. Lawrence undertakings. The possible development, it is stated, does not fall short of 800,000 horse power. The energy generated by this system will not be transmitted to any special section of the province, but it is likely that every Hydro municipality, with the probable exception of those on the Thunder Bay System, will be served in part from it.

One Montreal Suspect Released and Warned.

MONTREAL, May 7.—Eight of the recently arrested suspects in La Banque D'Hochelaga murder case, were arraigned this morning at Bordeaux jail before Judge Monet. Seven of them were told that their enquette would be proceeded with on Wednesday, May 14, without fail. The eighth, Kin Rifkin, was released after the crown told the court that there was no evidence against him. At the request of Mr. Calder, Rifkin was warned that it was bad enough to commit a crime, but to boast a crime which he did not commit, was worse than folly, Warren Government In Newfoundland Resigns.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 8. — (By Canadian Press.)—The resignation of the government of Hon. W. R. Warren, whose cabinet, following the dissolution of the Legislature about two weeks ago, was constructed chiefly from the ranks of his former opponents, was announced to-day.

The resignation, fololwing closely on the action of Hon. M. E. Hawco, Minister of Posts in the Warren Government, who has resigned both his portfolio and his seat in the Executive, and has announced himself as a supporter of A. E. Hickman, the Opposition leader.

STAMP TAX RECEIPTS

OTTAWA, May 7. — (Canadian Press).—An increase in the amount realized by the Government from the stamp tax is indicated in the answer to a question made in the House of Commons to-day, when it was stated that from November 1, 1922 to March 31, 1923, the amount netted in both post office and customs department from this source was $2,631,982. In the same period ending March 31, 1924, the amount was $3,914,489.

LIBERAL POLICY

had popped in with their amendment, and in spite of the indignant protests of the official Opposition, the Speaker had ruled in favour of the younger party. All this was very hard on the Conservatives, he was willing to admit.

The result was the speech of the member for Port Arthur Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion), who had spoken eloquently and fluently, but had "got off a lot of bunk." The real reason the Conservatives did not like the Budget was that it got them right on the hip.

Dr. Manion had cried out that industry was being sacrificed to politics, that Liberals had sold out to the farmers. "There has been no selling out," said the Minister of Agriculture. "Our platform is identical with the farmers. If we carry out ours, we automatically carry out theirs. We are merely doing gradually what we tried to do rapidly in 1911, when we were told that we were going too fast. We are saying to a group of interests, which have been on our backs for fifty years, 'get off and walk on your own feet for a while.' In the last two years we have made initial attempts to reduce taxation. This year with our Budget balanced, we are entitled to make more rapid strides towards fulfilling our policy of 1919, which is a tariff for revenue."

Bribe to West.

James Arthurs (Conservative, Parry Sound) remarked that in the election campaign of 1921 the Prime Minister and his followers "had declared as many trade policies as there were electoral divisions." He characterised the granting of the Crow's Nest Pass rates last year as a bribe to Western Canada which the East had to pay. Freight rates were the greatest problem confronting the producer and consumer in Canada, he said, and a reduction in these rates was of vastly greater importance than any other financial question. He referred to the rate on coal from Drumheller to Ontario and Quebec. After much negotiation the head of the Canadian National Railway had agreed to give a rate which amounted to $450 a car for bringing this coal East. On a number of commodities the rate from Vancouver to Montreal was lower than that quoted on coal, while the distance was 1,000 miles less. He instanced china ware which would be brought from Vancouver to Montreal for $360 a carload. This was a perishable article.

Fielding's Statement.

Col. Arthurs referred to the statement recently made in the House by Premier Mackenzie-King that the Budget had the entire approval of the Right Hon. W. S. Fielding, the Finance Minister.

Mr. King: "Yes, and since making that statement I have had a conversation with Mr. Fielding, and he requested that it be repeated in the House."

"There is a rumour that the mental condition of the Minister of Finance is not of the best," remarked Col. Arthurs.

The Prime Minister immediately rose and declared that there was no foundation for such a rumour, and that the statement should be retracted.

Hon. M. E. MacDonald, Minister of Finance, also protested, saying that Mr. Fielding had intimated to him that the Budget had his full approval. He thought that Col. Arthurs had no right to make this statement.

Col. Arthurs replied that he was merely repeating a rumour which was current. He proposed to read Mr. Fielding's statements in regard to the Budget last year.

In his last Budget speech, Mr. Fielding had said that the tariff then annouced was "as low as any country can afford to have it under present conditions." Mr. Fielding has also spoken of the necessity of industries being "without fear of any further changes." A reasonable measure of tariff stability should be assured according to last year's Budget.

Col. Arthurs claimed that the Government had broken faith.

The present Budget was one that succeeded in satisfying the West, but the rest of the country would have to pay for it. Col. Arthurs advocate dthe tariff on farm products equal to the United States. The Conservative party stood to-day for the same policy it had stood for in 1879. Industry and the working man should be protected, and there should be a tariff to protect the agricultural industry.

Canada's Playgrounds.

W. J. Hammell (Liberal, Muskoka) said that he was in complete accord with the tariff policy of the Government. He proceeded to emphasise the possibilities of Canada's playgrounds. They should be widely advertised, especially in the United States, whose population spent about half a billion dollars annually in foreign travel. Every province in Canada had points of beauty and interest to attract the tourist, especially the Muskoka district, which ought to be exploited to a much greater extent for tourist traffic.

Canada could easily be made the playground for the United States, said Mr. Hammell. Within one day's travel of the Muskoka district, there were in the United States forty-three million people who owned five million motor cars. Increased tourist traffic, while proving a great asset to Canada, would take nothing from the natural resources of this country. It would help our railways, our farmers, and might result in increased immigration to this country. He urged the Government to make a thorough study of the matter with a view to establishing a department, preferably under the control of a Cabinet Minister, for the encouragement of tourist traffic.

Beebe admits that he has been chewing tobacco since the age of four. "Take less food and don't worry about the tobacco peril," he advises.

THE BUDGET DEBATE.

The Budget debate at Ottawa drags wearily along, and it is announced that some forty members are still anxious to put their impressions of the tariff changes on the pages of Hansard.

If they would only be brief about it this eagerness to give utterance to their views might be forgiven.

Unfortunately, very few of the members of the present House seem to know when to stop.

Their speeches ramble as aimlessly as a man enjoying a Sunday stroll.

Like him, they apparently believe that it does not matter much where they go so long as they kill an hour or two's time in going.

There has been little said by any contributor to the Budget debate so far that could not have been more effectively and forcibly said in fifteen minutes.

We borrow most of our Parliamentary customs from the Mother of Parliaments.

Unfortunately, however, we have not learned to follow the example of the British members, not even the leaders among whom would think of speaking at such great length as the average Canadian Parliamentarian seems to consider necessary.

CLEAN-UP WEEK.

Mayor Turner's proclamation calling upon the citiens of Peterborough to observe the present week as a proper time for Clean-Up Week, it is hoped, is being generally observed throughout the city.

If the average head of a family were as zealous about cleaning up his lawn and backyard as the female of the species is about the annual spring turnover in the interior of her home, Peterborough would be a city of immaculate cleanliness.

The thing should be done right.

It should include clean streets, alleys, yards and laneways, making a decided improvement not only in appearance but in conditions affecting the health of the community.

It should concern itself with lessening fire hazards by the removal of waste and rubbish from attics, cellars, under stairways and warehouses and storerooms.

It should insist upon the mowing and raking of lawns, the planting of flowers, the trimming of boulevards.

It should not overlook the necessity of having manure piles and other breeding places for flies carefully covered.

In fact, a clean-up campaign to be a success should not only concern itself with making the city more beautiful but more sanitary and safer from fire risks.

There is so much to be done that a week's effort is not enough, but at least the proclaiming of such a campaign serves to concentrate attention upon the desirability and advantages of an adequate drive against dirt, filth and untidiness.

SHOULD SETTLE THE ARGUMENT.

Sir Henry Thornton, President of Canada's National Railways, appearing in person before the Railways Committee of the House of Commons, declares that the programme of proposed branch lines represents the studied opinion of himself and the directors, assisted by the officers of the National system.

He insists that every branch on the list is required.

That should settle the matter.

Sir Henry is an expert railway man, considered big enough in executive ability and in brains to put Canada's railways on a paying basis.

He has given ample evidence of his calibre in the comparatively short time he has occupied his onerous position.

When he comes forward and declares that the branch lines are needed for the proper development of the National Railways and that none of them are proposed for political purposes, his assurance should be accepted as final.

It narrows down to a question of whether the judgment of the man at the head of Canada's railways is to be trusted or not.

If his opinion is not to be accepted above that of amateur political railway men, then his usefulness to Canada is gone.

The majority of Canadians will pin their faith to the opinion that Sir Henry knows what he is talking about, and are prepare to give him, as an expert, a free hand in turning the country's former white elephant into an asset.

ADVERTISING PETERBOROUGH.

In deciding to contribute $300 towards the cost of erecting signs on the Kingston road advertising Peterborough the City Council has made an investment that should bring good returns in the form of increased tourist traffic.

Cities, like private business firms, have to do a certain amount of window-dressing to intrigue the attention of the buying public.

It may be a little far-fetched to regard the Kingston road as Peterborough's front window, but that thoroughfare constitutes the main artery for touring automobilists, whether they come from the East or the West, and the proposed signs can hardly fail to bring the claims of Peterborough before vast numbers of tourists, many of whom will be induced to extend their trip in this direction.

If the idea that Peterborough is the gateway of the Kawartha Lakes can be sold to hundreds of motorists by the expenditure of $300, the city fathers have secured the cheapest piece of propaganda on record.

The fact is that the Kawarthas are being extensively advertised not only by the Trent Waterway Development Association but by both railway companies and on a smaller scale by proprietors of summer resorts in the district.

Peterborough is the logical gateway to the lake country, and by impressing that fact we can hitch our wagon to the general advertising of the Kawartha district and get results that will, directly or indirectly benefit the whole community.

There is nothing gained by a municipality hiding its light under a bushel.

A UNIQUE STRIKE.

The strike which has led to a suspension of activities in the leading cities of the Argentine Republic is probably unique in history, says the Hamilton Spectator. Its cause is certainly unprecedented, and the fact that it is participated in equally by employers and employed is another remarkable feature of the disturbance. The law which has caused all the rumpus provides for the deduction of five per cent. from wages, to go toward the building up of a pension fund, employers contributing an equal amount. This arrangement has not proved satisfactory either to Labor or to capital; but it has been duly enacted by Congress, and President de Alvear declares himself powerless to abrogate or amend it without the consent of Parliament. This does not mean to say, however, that the President is enamored of the law; he has, in fact, admitted that it contains many imperfections. Even with his concessions in the way of returning part of the deductions after a five years' trial of the scheme, the workers fail to enthuse over the proposal, asserting, in fact, that these new terms make it even less acceptable than before. People leaving the country would also get back their payments, and women workers would be refunded the amount of their contributions in the event of marrying.

Opposition, however, is just as strong and determined as ever. The people, whether belonging to the Labor or the capitalist class, are united in protest against the pensions scheme, which had been hailed as one of the most progressive ever attempted by any nation. It was designed to ensure a good pension to every worker, after 25 years of service, the providence of the wage-earners being supplemented to an equal extent by their employers. Evidently, the workers of Argentina prefer to make their own arrangements for old-age provision, for never has there been a more universally unpopular measure than this state pensions law.

THE MORNING AFTER IN GERMANY.

The general view in London of the results of the German elections seems to be distinctly pessimistic. While it is admitted that the Moderates, who favor acceptance of the Dawes report, have polled a majority of votes, or approximately 15,000,000 out of a total of the 29,000,000 cast, the strength shown by the Nationalists is disquieting. Incomplete returns at noon today indicate that Nationalists and Socialists have each returned 99 members to the House, and although some of these Nationalists do not belong to the reactionary Volkische group, yet they are certain to use their success as a solid party in the jockeyings and adjustments that the politicians will indulge in during the next few weeks.

While the Moderates may be willing to promise general support to the Dawes plan, the element of obstinacy which is sure to exist among the four parties who favor the Dawes scheme will be strengthened by the knowledge that nearly one-half of the country is openly or secretly opposed to its acceptance. The advantage which the Government has is that the two parties in Opposition represented by the Communists and the Monarchists are at daggers drawn one with another and will not combine to defeat any coalition which may be formed. There will be a great deal of sniping both from the extreme Right and Left wings, but there will be little open fighting.

The opposition to the Dawes report will be centred round the clauses which provide for Allied control of the central railways, which require a two-thirds majority of the Reichstag before acceptance. The Communists will certainly not give any countenance to this part of the plan and the Monarchists will only do so on condition that they get a substantial recompense for their support. Chancellor Marx has unfortunately very little that he can offer in order to buy off any such recalcitrancy.

Much will depend on the political skill which is used to form the new Coalition Cabinet. Streseman seems to be discredited and a new leader may likely be found in place of Marx. Possibly Count Hugo von Lerichenfeld, the able leader of the Bavarian People's Party, might form an acceptable Ministry.

It is in the industrial districts of the Ruhr that the Communists have made their greatest gains. The fight there seems to have been largely directed against the financial magnates which Herr Stinnes so ably led and organized before his death. Stinnes had in a large measure introduced the ten-hour day in many of his industries and this question of longer hours seems to have been the big issue that threw the balance heavily in favor of the Communists. With 10,000,000 votes cast in favor of Communism, there are probably more Germans today who pay their homage to the Red Flags and call the Internationale their creed than there are in Russia. Bolshevism in Russia has always been confined to a few large towns and has never caught the imagination or won the sympathies of the bulk of the peasantry.

A cheering feature of the elections is the poor showing of the Folks-partei candidates, although they will have a strength of at least 45 in the new Chamber. The Folks-partei adherents stood openly on a flat refusal to pay a single obol of reparations, even though such a course led to war—an eventuality which they rather welcomed. They were more radical than the extreme group of the Nationalists and broke with such moderate leaders as von Seekt when the latter counselled caution.

The danger is that Germany may plead with the Allies for time on the ground that she cannot hold her extreme groups. She may impose further delays to acceptance on the plea that immediate adherence would anger France and sterilize the efforts that the Allies have already made towards a new solution of the problem. Premier MacDonald, on the other hand, may counter this by receding somewhat from the strong position he has taken upon the question of sanctions and seek a stronger and more solid front for the Allies to present to a dilatory and vacillating Germany,—Montreal Star.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, May 7.— Today's market was exceedingly steady and commission men were perfectly satisfied that a market awaited everything on offer. The total cattle on hand was less than 1,300 and few more are expected this week. A bunch of butchers around 900 lbs. each, not equal to the medium class, sold at $5 a cwt. and a load of 1,100-lb. wanting the feeding finishing touch brought 7 cents a pound.

The average cost for steers, heifers and bulls was as near as possible steady, but with some improvement in quality. Cows cost probably 15 cents a cwt. more than last week. Stockers and feeders are not as active as they should be at this time, but the desire to get prices down is not meeting with much success.

Choice baby beeves were firm and several made $9 a cwt. and others less choice sold at $8 and $8.50. Choice medium and handyweight butchers had a market from $7.50 to $8 a cwt. and good butchers $7 to $7.25 Good medium butchers brought up to $6.75. Bulls and cows were steadily firm. The week's advance of 25 cents a cwt in most butchers was fully held today and the market will be sold out this week.

A light run in calves made this a keen market and prices in some instances were up $1.50 a cwt. from the low of last week. Choice calves are selling from 11c to 12c and good calves at 10c. Light common calves are making 7c in spots.

Spring lambs are in much too light supply, and choice ones were wanted from $14 to $17 each this morning. A bunch of light unfinished lambs sold at $11.50 each. Kit Waugh bought three, 77 lbs. each, at $17 each. Yearlings and choice handyweight sheep are quite firm.

Hogs slumped back to the base price of the season again today, and $7.25 a cwt. f.o.b., was the accepted market. A run of upwards of 4,000 for today made the market heavy.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, May 7.—Arrivals 1,300 cattle and calves, 1,800 hogs ,100 sheep. The cattle market was fairly active, bidding maintaining a steady tone, cows and heifers continued to move out under broad inquiry and sold at fully 25 cents higher than close of last week. Butcher steers were draggy, but better grades of stockers and feeders were absorbed on a steady basis.

The hog market remained unchanged.

A few sheep were disposed of at $8.00, but due to lack of offerings market was barely established.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Man., May 7.—Continued good buying by exporters and shippers gave to-day's wheat market early strength, and after opening higher prices advanced slightly but later on when the demand had been satisfied value exceeded offers. May clear 5-8 lower July 1-2 and October 3-4c lower. Exported were keen buyers of May and July and all offerings were well placed, but, following the discovery that an error had been made in Liverpool cables which were reported higher when in reality, they were lower, there was a lull in the buying and prices eased from the early high mark. The reported settlement of the Argentine dock workers strike and improvement in weather conditions were also less bullish factors.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 7.— Corn made an abrupt descent in value to-day and dragged down the wheat market. Notice that one corn milling establishment would shut down tomorrow for an indefinite period and that another plant was likely to take similar action, had much to do with the break in prices. "Worth $100 to Me Relieved Eczema and Piles"

Mrs. Peter A. Palmer, Saltburn, Sask., writes:

"Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely relieved me of eczema and piles. I also used this Ointment for my baby, who broke out in eczema. A few applications were all that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me,—before using it I had spent a great deal more than that in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. We have also used Dr. Chase's other medicines, the Nerve Food having restored my health after suffering from severe nerve trouble when a girl."

MARMORA, May 7.—The monthly meeting of Marmora and Lake townships council was held yesterday in the Council Chambers.

Routine business included the buying of some new road equipment. Ten 8-inch, two 10-inch, and one 12-inch steel culverts were ordered, as well as a new blade for the road grader. Other minor repairs for road equipment were ordered.

Messrs. George Wellman and Lindsay Neal were authorized to interview the ratepayers on their road division, and if they are satisfied to pay in their statute labor for 1924, Mr. William McCoy will be instructed to cover roads with crushed stone.

Mr. Alex. Lucas was granted $20 to be spent on road between his farm and Zion Church.

Messrs. George Logan and Sanford Laurence were paid $2.50 and $10 respectively for fixing culverts.

Village Council.

A special meeting of Marmora Village Council was held in the Council Chambers of the Town Hall. The main business transacted was in regard to the assessment of the village property.

The assessor is to be requested to revise assessment roll and add names omitted.

A court of revision will be held on Friday, May 16, and a lively session is anticipated.

FOX SCARFS.

The new beige colored fox scarfs match the fashionable stockings in the popular nude shades. It is quite a fad to match one's hat to one's hosiery.

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, May 7 (Special).—At the annual meeting of the Young People's League of the Methodist Church, held on Monday evening, following officers were elected:—

Hon. President—Rev. R. F. Stillman.
President—Miss Joy Nichol.
Vice-President—Mr. Jame Thompson, Misses Della McCullough, Pearl Cornelius, Alice Scarpe.
Recording Secretary—Miss Nellie Scarpe.
Corresponding Secretary—Miss Mary Black.
Treasurer—Mr. Jos. Patterson.
Musical Director—Mr. Albert Jewell.
Pianists—Misses Della McCullough and Edith Earle.

Oddfellows Attended Church.

About one hundred members of the local I.O.O.F. Lodge, joined by others from Port Hope, attended divine service in the Cobourg Methodist Church on Sunday and listened to an able sermon by Rev. R. F. Stillman, who took for his theme the three great necessities for a good and useful life—Faith, Hope, Charity—which is Love. Returning after divine service to the lodge-room the usual votes of thanks were passed and a pleasant social hour spent.

Memorial Park for Harwood.

The committee in charge of the Memorial Park for Harwood intend to begin the fixing up of the grounds almost at once. The park grounds comprise some three to four acres. This is to be drained, levelled and seeded, and it is hoped later to erect a community hall upon it. That will, no doubt, prove to be a great boon to that section of the county.

No Boat Service.

Residents of Harwood, Gore's Landing, and other Rice Lake ports, express keen regret that there is no prospect of a regular boat service on the lake again. The automobile has evidently crowded out the boat. The excursions to different lake points, and regular trips to Peterborough are, however, much missed.

Fractured Ribs.

Mr. T. Timlin, Plainville, had an unfortunate fall from a wagon when engaged in farm work, and fractured several ribs. His accident occurred at an unfortunate season of the year.

Ice this Morning.

A Cobourg citizen states that ice, the thickness of an ordinary window, has formed on a bucket of water left standing outside his house last night.

Going to Madoc.

Mr. Sheldon J. Phillips, recently manager with the Willoughby Farm Agency at Colbourne, has accepted a position as district superintendent with the Sun Life Insurance Company, with headquarters at Madoc, and is removing with his family to the latter place.

Interred at Vernonville.

The body of the late Roderick McKenzie was taken from the vault in the Cobourg Union Cemetery recently to Vernonville, Haldimand Township, for interment in the family plot there. Mr. McKenzie, it will be remembered, was found dead on a side-line near Baltimore last January, with his team standing patiently near by.

Carnbourne Entertainment.

A very pleasant time was spent by Carnborne Young People's League on Monday evening. An autograph quilt, which the young people had made, was disposed of for $18. Mr. Eldred Luan, president, occupied the chair, and there was a good programme of instrumental music, readings, and songs, and a brief address by Rev. E. Harston, a former pastor.

Death of Mrs. Hugh Halligan.

The second break in the family of thirteen sons and daughters born to Mrs. Jane Davey and the late John Davey, of Hamilton Township, occurred when Mrs. Halligan, beloved wife of Mr. Hugh Halligan, was called away after a long illness, at the age of thirty-five years. Besides her husband and mother, she is survived by seven brothers—Messrs. Herbert, Archie, Edgar, Wilbert, Sidney, Fred and Latta Davey, of Hamilton Township—and by four sisters—Mrs. Thomas Giddens, Mrs. Grant Carruthers, Mrs. John Timlin, and Miss Sarah Jane Davey.

Horses Training at Colborne.

Sandy Watson and A. V. Tinney have each taken a string of horses to Colborne to try them out on the race-course there. The latter has Liberty Patch, Herman Winger, Formoso 2nd, Herman T, and Sylvia Todd there, and Mr. Watson has taken down Lillian Patch and Spring Day. The track at Colborne is a good one, and these well-known racers have a fine place for their daily stunts.

The Late J. S. Pickworth.

Mr. J. S. Pickworth, a former prominent resident of Colborne, died at Kingston recently, his death following an operation. Mr. Pickworth was seventy-five years of age, and leaves a widow, one son, Harland, of Ottawa, and three daughters—Mrs. A. L. Zimmerman, Toronto; Mrs. Charles McKenzie, Dysart, Sask.; and Miss Aileen Pickworth, Regina. The funeral took place on Monday, and the interment was in Colborne Union Cemetery.

Camplin—Reynolds.

At Beeton recently, the marriage took place of Mary Eleanor, daughter of Mr. Mr. G. E. Reynolds, Colborne, to John Albert Camplin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Camplin, Beeton. Rev. H. S. Lovering officiated. The happy couple left for a trip to Chicago and other points before taking up residence at Beeton.

PREVENT DUMPING.

OTTAWA, May 8. — The saving paragraph in Canada's dumping regulations has been restored. Recently, it was suspended.

The saving clause prevents the dumping regulation from being applied if the difference between the market price and the purchase price is less than five per cent. of the fair market value.

The suspension is in effect while a bill is in preparation creating a board to advise the Government in regard to matters pertaining to taxation.

A single teaspoonful of DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE SYRUP PEPSIN Will restore good humor

Mothers! Apply Common Sense

THIS is the era of the prevention of disease and sensible people do not wait until sickness has actually come before remedying the trouble. The crowded hospitals everywhere are sad examples of the results of neglect. Be especially watchful of children. Restlessness, lack of normal appetite and feverishness usually indicate constipation. Stop it that instant with a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin and you will have prevented real sickness. Mrs. C. S. Bungay, 19 Chatham Av., Halifax, N. S. and Mrs. W. F. Hunter, Biggar, Sask., seldom have illness in the family because of their prompt use of Laxative Syrup Pepsin.

A Great Family Laxative

It may be difficult to decide just what medicine to use out of the many that are offered, but it would not be if you knew the facts. There are laxatives, cathartics, purgatives and physics, and they vary in their reaction on the system. Naturally, the stronger the medicine the more it shocks the system, so wise parents never give anything but a laxative to children. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a mild laxative, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and desirable aromatics, and so appreciated that it is now the largest selling preparation of its kind in the world, over 10 million bottles being used annually. The formula is on every package.

Three Rules of Health

Purchase a bottle of Laxative Syrup Pepsin at a drug store and always keep one in the family medicine chest. Give it to anyone from infant to grandparent, for it is safe, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. You can keep a family healthy with just this simple medicine. Give it for constipation, torpid liver, indigestion, biliousness, headaches, colds and other evidence of bowel obstruction. Dr. Caldwell, who was a practicing physician for 47 years and who originated this formula, had three rules of health that he found very effective among his patients and which you can follow with great benefit: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open.

A number of young men from here attended a dance in Harwood on Friday night. The dance was in aid of the park which is being built there.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Ingham and Mrs. L. Turner motored in to Cobourg on Sunday.

FINAL SERVICE OSHAWA CHURCH

St. George's Church Closed and New Account Opened.

OSHAWA, May 8. — With the final service of the congregation of St. George's Anglican church in their old quarters on Sunday evening last, Rev. C. R. dePencier, the Rector, said the books of the old St. George's church are closed and a new account would be opened in the new edifice at the corner of Bagot and Centre streets on Sunday next and asked his congregation to leave behind all jealousies and all that should not be moved and to remember what God had done for them all along the way.

During the service the Rector made the announcement that the official opening of the new church would be held on Sunday next, when Holy Communion would be celebrated at eight o'clock in the morning and at eleven Rev. Archdeacon Warren of Toronto, would preach the dedicatory sermon with His Lordship Right Rev. James Sweeney, Bishop of Toronto, in attendance. At the evening service, the order of confirmation will be conducted by Bishop Sweeney.

The local parish contains 700 families and about 1,200 parishioners and is presided over by the Rev. C. R. dePencier, M.A., whose ministry in Oshawa has already a baker's dozen years to its credit and it is in large degree owing to his untiring devotion that the work of the parish has been brought to its present state of excellence, and that the "poem of stone" is to be the future house of worship for St. George's congregation on and after Sunday, May 11th.

PEST ATTACKS PINES

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Ravages of the European sawfly threaten the complete defoliation of the pine trees of the United States. The pine nurseries and estates of New England and some of the North Atlantic states already have been attacked by the pest. The sawfly has been one of the greatest forest depredators in Europe.

Mariposa Woman in 103rd Year Is Dead

LINDSAY, May 8. — Mrs. Mary Rogers, affectionately known as "Grandma Rogers," oldest resident in Central Ontario, passed away at her home in Mariposa township, yesterday at the age of 103 years.

The deceased, who had been totally blind, had lived under four sovereigns. She was a woman of remarkable vitality, especially mentally, and up to a short time before she gave signs of passing, she remembered and spoke of friends and associates of many years.

Mrs. Rogers was born in Mariposa and passed away on farm where she first saw the light of day. Her husband was the late William Rogers, who lived to a ripe age. Her sister, the late Mrs. Susanah Rogers, passed away last summer, aged 93 years.

The late Mrs. Rogers celebrated her 103 birthday on March 1 last, when she was surrounded by a large number of relatives, whom she welcomed with warmth and enthusiasm. She was a member of the Society of Friends, being one of the very few survivors of that sect in Victoria County, there being a Quaker settlement in this county for a great many years.

PARLIAMENT

"If Parliament has jurisdiction which I do not grant," replied Mr. Lafleur, "I suppose the decree of the court would be imperative."

Questioned as to what value another vote would have, Mr. Lafleur said it would give enlightenment as to whether the minority could carry out the trusts. However, he did not think the opponents of the bill should be asked to recommend a breach of trust.

He told Mr. Boys further that the legal proceedings before the court would take a year or 18 months.

W. F. McLean of York, asked what action Parliament could constitutionally take.

Parliament's Scope.

Parliament could unite the Methodists and Congregationalists and could authorize such Presbyterians to join as desired to do so, replied Mr. Lafleur. It might also authorize the United body to receive property and gifts but that was about as far as Parliament could go.

T. W. Bird of Nelson, questioned Mr. Lafleur as to whether the doctrines of the Presbyterian church were identical with the basis of union.

Mr. Lafleur agreed that if there was identity of doctrines there was no breach of trust. He suggested that the nature of the point to be settled was a reason why Parliament should leave the matter to the courts.

"The committee is in the position that it has to decide," said Mr. Bird.

"No, no," called several members of the committee.

Course of Prudence.

"It is in your discretion," was Mr. Lafleur's comment. "It might be the course of prudence to say it is before the courts."

Mr. Bird suggested that even if the courts decided in favor of the minority, the same question might again come before Parliament.

"If you had a decision of the courts on that point I would not think you would want to decide it again," was the reply of the witness.

Mr. Bird called attention to the Methodist Union Act of 1884. In spite of the existence of strong minorities in the conferences, all were voted in, he said.

"Then it is about as bad a precedent as you could get," was Mr. Lafleur's reply.

"Would it be fairer to leave all the reference to non-concurring congregations out of this bill as was done in the Methodist Union," asked Mr. Brethen.

"No, it would be more monstrous," replied Mr. Lafleur.

The committee then adjourned.

Choir Members Make Presentation to Miss Margaret McGuire.

HASTINGS, May 6.—The choir members of The Church of Our Lady Mount Carniel on Sunday evening, at the home of Miss Margaret McGuire, presented her with a silver cake-basket on the eve of her approaching marriage. Miss McGuire has been organist of the above church for the past few years. Miss Eva Barry made the presentation, and the following address was read by Mr. Leo Rivard:—

"Dear Miss McGuire,—

"We, the members of the choir associated with you in the leading of praises in the Church of Our Lady Mount Carmel, would desire to congratulate you in your approaching marriage and express on behalf of Father Bretherton and ourselves, our appreciation of your efficient services in connection with our church. We would not forget how you came to the aid of the church in time of need, and how, by patience and perseverance, you remained at your post as organist and have succeeded so well.

"On behalf of the choir we wish you every success in your married life, and desire you to accept this gift as a small token of our esteem for you.

"Signed on behalf of the choir.

Reverend C. S. BRETHERTON, LEO RIVARD."

In a few well-chosen words Miss McGuire thanked her choir members for so kindly remembering her, and, in expressing her feelings, said she would never forget them for the beautiful gift.

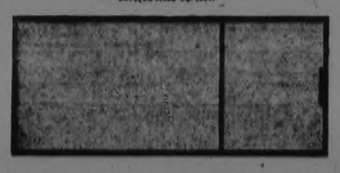
Cheap Paint? Here is the Answer!

No. 1 (From an actual photograph) A measure of so called "cheap" paint at $4.00 per gal., brushed out on wood. It covered 612 sq. feet.

No. 2 (From an actual photograph) An equal measure of Lowe Brothers' "High Standard" paint at $5.75 per gal., brushed out on a similar surface, covered 1,000 sq. feet.



USING an equal measure of each paint, and brushing them out on the same surface, we obtained the results pictured above

Observe that Lowe Brothers' "High-Standard" Paint covered approximately 50% more surface and covered it better than the so called "cheap" paint.

From this actual test it will be seen that it would take approximately 3 gallons of "Cheap" paint to do a job that would require only 2 gallons of Lowe Brothers' "High Standard" Paint.

Practically applied to a house it would work out this way:—

These houses are both of the same type, and each has a painting area of 2,000 square feet.

To paint this house (2,000 sq. ft.) with "cheap" paint Mr. A. required 6½ gals. at $4.00 per gal. . . . $26.00

It takes a painter 1 day to apply 1 gal. of paint, therefore to apply 6½ gals. of "cheap" paint it took 6½ days at $5.00 per day $32.50

Total cost $58.50

To paint this house (2,000 sq. ft.) with Lowe Brothers' High Standard Paint, Mr. B. required 4 gals. at $5.75 . . . $23.00

A painter can usually apply in a day more Lowe Brothers' High Standard Paint than any other, but figuring on an equal basis of 1 gal. per day, it took 4 days at $5.00 per day . . . $20.00

Total cost $43.00

By using Lowe Brothers' High Standard Paint Mr. B. saved $3.00 on the cost of paint and $12.50 on the cost of labor—a total saving of $15.50 on the complete job.

Never Figure the Cost of Paint by what it costs "per gallon." So-called "cheap" paint is the dearest you can buy measured by "job" cost, which is the only true measure of paint performance.

Before you paint consult us. We will be glad to show you how to paint most economically, and to give you color cards and other information for your guidance.

MIGRATION WITHIN EMPIRE

Listed among the various services which the Y.M.C.A. offers is its co-operation with the Y.M.C.A. in Britain and overseas churches and other organizations interested in migration within the Empire. The pamphlet which describes the scheme, which has for its aim the broadening of the basis of nomination by extension from individuals to church congregations, clubs, societies, lodges or any other recognized groups of people in a position to undertake the responsibilities of nomination, says in part:

"The advantages of a system of 'collective' or 'group' nomination are manifest. It provides against possibility of the nominator failing to carry out his undertaking; the group is in a position to see that the nominee obtains fair treatment and a reasonable chance to make good; it affords the group an opportunity to see that in the stream of immigration into their country there is a due proportion of their own people coming to strengthen and help build up their church or society, as the case may be; it gives the settler a new feeling of security, and eliminates the anxiety of friends at home as to his future; the process of assimilation is greatly facilitated; the newcomer immediately becomes one of the group which nominates him; and starts his life under conditions calculated to bring the best out of him; it is a safeguard against the resentment of those who may be inclined to look upon the immigrant's arrival as an intrusion, because he has been invited to come by a group already in the community.

"It also places the responsibility for the type of new settler coming into a Dominion upon the shoulders of the people themselves rather than upon Government officials; it makes it possible for each church or other body concerned in the welfare of their country to make sure that an adequate proportion of people holding their views will be included in the number of immigrants arriving; it greatly facilitates the absorption of the newcomers into the life of the community, doing away with the disastrous loneliness which sometimes overcomes the newly-arrived; it will encourage a fine type of Britisher to emigrate if he is assured of the 'opportunity to make good' which such a scheme provides. It is not suggested that the overseas society is to be saddled with the responsibility of 'nursing' the nominee. He is to be given a fair chance under happy auspices of proving his worth, and our best man-power will not be lost because of square pegs being put into round holes as is now so often the case. It will be to the group's interests to see that their nominee makes good; it will help to keep strong the ties which bind the overseas Dominions to the Motherland, if the new settlers are drawn from the ranks of the solidly loyal classes in Great Britain, such as those to which the Migration Department would appeal for nominees."

TWO MEN INJURED IN ELEVATOR FALL.

Cable Broke In Montreal Dairy Plant—Dropped Twenty Feet.

OTTAWA, May 7. — The breaking of an elevator cable in the factory of Producers Dairy Limited here resulted in two men being badly injured. The two men were descending from the second floor when the cable gave way, and the heavy weight fell about 20 feet to the basement of the building. The two men were injured by the rebound of the carriage.

LABOR PROTESTS CHINESE SEAMEN

Have Displaced Canadians On Boats of the British Empire Steel Corporation—Complaint to the Premier.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 8.— Premier MacKenzie King has received an emphatic protest from Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress as to the displacement of Canadian seamen by Chinese on boats of the British Empire Steel Corporation in the coastal trade.

Attention was called to the admission of Hon. Mr. Robb in replying to a question in the House of Commons on April 28 that on April 3 the British Empire Steel Corporation had wired that it had difficulty in getting Canadian crews to stay on after signing—and that it had been arranged for a number of Chinese to sail from Liverpool on April 5, only two days after.

Complaint is made by the president of the trades and labor congress that apparently no efforts were made to verify statement of the company as to its ability to secure satisfactory labor in Canada.

Mr. Moore asked the Premier whether it is the policy of the government to accept, without investigating, the statements of employers as to labor conditions. Also, he asks, is encouragement to be given to importation of orientals where Canadian labor is not sufficiently docile.

Protest is also made that apparently the employment service of Canada is to be ignored.

It is stated that 76 Chinese were imported in one instance.

MOTHER TRIED TO HELP SON ESCAPE

Her Wit Gave Him a Fair Start on Police Officers Who Seized Whisky Still In Verulam.

LINDSAY, May 8. — Woman's wit never devised a bolder expedient than that resorted to by Mrs. Kelly of Verulam township, in aiding her son to escape from the officers of the law when they found an illicit still on their property on April 28th last.

The story of the seizure and of the arrest of Garnet Kelly was told by the officers at a police court session which terminated yesterday when Police Magistrate Bradford imposed a fine of $300 and costs or three months in jail for an infraction of the O.T.A.

When the officers swooped down on the property they saw Kelly coming from a section of the property on which the still was located. They could see the smoke from the 'plant' curling skyward, and while one of the officers escorted Kelly to the house, the other visited the still.

Mrs. Kelly was at the house, and according to her evidence in court, she resorted to the ingenious scheme of interesting License Inspector Thornbury, in floriculture, and the inspection of the flowers until she could give her son the signal to make a break for liberty. According to her story, she waved her hand, and shouted, and presto! her son made a flying leap. There was a sound of shattered glass as he went through the window. He beat a retreat through a ploughed field, but was overtaken by the officers. He then shouted to his mother to get a gun, but he stated that he gave the order in a jocular spirit.

The officers while at the still took the worm, but on going back the next day for the plant found that it had been removed by parties unknown. A warrant is out for Kelly's uncle, who, so far, has eluded the officers.

NO PERSON TO BLAME FOR FATAL ACCIDENT TO BOY AT LAKEFIELD

Raymond Darcy Was Caught By End of Shaft Projecting Outside Brown's Canoe Factory and Not Inside Building As First Reported—Children Forbidden to Play On Lot.

PASSED BY INSPECTOR

LAKEFIELD, May 8.—A verdict of accidental death, with no blame attaching to any person, was returned by the coroner's jury which investigated yesterday afternoon the fatal accident to Raymond Darcy, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Darcy, who was caught by the end of the main shaft of the factory and instantly killed on Tuesday about 3.45 p.m.

The evidence adduced the explanatory fact that the accident occurred outside the factory and on the north side where the end of the shaft protruded three inches at a height of two of three feet from the ground.

Raymond Darcy with Gerald Dunford and Kathleen Lawless, children of five years, had been playing on the factory property. The machinery was shut down to permit the changing of a belt, and when the power was applied again the Darcy boy's hand was caught by the shaft.

Kathleen Lawless, the little five-year-old girl who seen death snatch her unfortunate little companion from their play, said that Raymond had put his hand on the set screw, although she did not use the technical name. His left hand was caught and the arm torn from the body.

Dr. J. C. Smith, coroner, presided, and the jurors were: J. A. Porter, foreman, A. B. Burrows, S. J. Charlton, Robert Duff, Jas. Hendren, J. R. Robinson, D. B. Millar, G. G. Hendren, Geo. H. Spence and C. S. Tanner.

Mr. G. W. Hatton, K.C., represented the Crown and Mr. V. J. McElderry was present in the interests of Mr. Brown. The jury was out three-quarters of an hour.

The hearing of the evidence proceeded after the jurors had visited the factory and premises.

Heard Screams.

Mr. S. W. Sutton, manager of the Sterling Bank, testified that he was in the factory talking to Mr. Brown when the accident ocurred. He heard screams and a dull knocking sound, and called to Victor Henry, [illegible] outside he found the boy's body wound around a shaft that projected about three inches from the wall two or three feet from the ground.

Victor Henry describing the exterior part of the shaft said that the collar on the end of it had a flange on each side projecting beyond the set screw. The child's left hand had caught and the left arm was pulled off, the clothing being tightly wound around the shaft. Mr. Henry had stopped machinery to change a belt. Witness had started the machinery again and heard a strange thumping together with screams. He immediately threw off the power and ran outside. The machinery had been running not more than three-quarters of a minute after the interruption to change the belt. Witness had never considered the projecting end of the shaft dangerous. This opinion was also expressed by Theodore Manning another employee.

Helen Watson, residing opposite the factory, told of hearing screams and at first thought that the children she had seen playing on the property were quarreling. She saw the body whirling with the shaft, which she had never previously noticed.

Approved By Inspectors.

Mr. Brown testified that the main section of the factory had been built six years ago with a wing added three years later. The shaft had been set at the time of construction and had been approved by Mr. Duncan representing the Industrial Accident Insurance Company and Mr. Bostock the provincial factory inspector. The factory had been inspected six or seven times and the shaft end had never been mentioned. There had not been a suggestion that it was dangerous. If the possibility of danger had occurred to him, Mr. Brown said he would have guarded the shaft at any cost.

As to children playing about the grounds Mr. Brown declared that he had frequently forbidden them to play there.

FOR 15 YEARS WAS TROUBLED WITH ECZEMA

There is no other remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters that can possibly give such relief to all sufferers from eczema, salt rheum and all other diseases of the blood for the reason that this old and well tried remedy goes right to the seat of the trouble and completely and permanently drives these diseases out of the system by cleansing the blood and making it pure and rich.

Mr. F. W. H. Schultz, Pembroke Ont., writes: "Having been troubled with eczema for fifteen years, during which time I tried everything I could think of, including doctors, but without getting anything to do me much good I finally decided to take Burdock Blood Bitters, and I was certainly surprised to find that two weeks after I had started to take it I was relieved of my trouble. That was nine months ago, and I have not had a sign of it since. I surely wish to thank you for this wonderful medicine and strongly recommend it to anyone suffering from the same trouble as I had."

THE CHURCH UNION BILL HEARD AGAIN

Rev. [illegible] Parker Said That Methodist Church Could Have United With Presbyterian Church.

OTTAWA, May 7. — Canadian Press. — "The Methodist Church could have united with the Presbyterian church by accepting the Westminster Confession," stated Rev. Stuart Parker of Toronto, in the course of his examination on the church union bill before the Commons Private Bills Committee this morning.

He was denying, as suggested by T. W. Bird of Nelson, member of the committee, that his attitude implied that the Presbyterian church could not uite with another church, and hsi answer, as quoted above brought one of the outbcrsts of laughter of the morning.

The committee room was again crowded by spectators and chairman McGiverin had to call them to order repeatedly as witnesses made pointed retorts.

Mr. Parker was on the stand all morning. At the outset he called attention to four elements in which he claimed that bassi of union departed from the Westminster confession.

These were Calvanist theology, government solely by elders, equality of all Presbyters, and ordination solely by Presbytery.

These characteristics of confession of faith, he maintained, were absent from the basis of union.

Mr. Parker, speaking also for himself, as did F. H. Chrysler, K. C. yesterday, stated that he could not accept 60 or 70 per cent. majority of the Presbyterian church, on a new vote, as decisive in regard to the union. "I would rather go nearer 100 per cent," he added.

NEW OVERLAND WITH BALLOON TIRES STANDARD.

A decided sensation has been created in the motoring world with the announcement of the new Overland Blue Bird—Canada's lowest-priced car with balloon tires and disc wheels standard equipment.

It has been the general belief that balloon tires as standard equipment would be confined entirely to high-priced cars, and the announcement by Willys-Overland that balloon tires are standard equipment on the new Overland Blue Bird comes as a great surprise.

The remarkably low price at which this new Overland is offered to the public, is startling evidence of the effect that high sales volume has in making possible the low selling price of such a car.

The splendid resiliency of the Overland patented triplex springs, together with the buoyancy of the big low-pressure balloon tires make for riding qualities that just seem to float the car over the roughest roads.

With the big, roomy body done in rich blue and upholstery to match, with top, heavy-crown fenders and running gear in jet black, the combination is a striking picture when set off by nickel-plated radiator, headlamp rims, windshield stanchions, outside door handles, scuff plates, and the disc wheels and big, genuine balloon cord tires.

A FORMER PETERBORO BOY VERY OPTIMISTIC

Forecasts Improved Conditions In the West — Prospects Good, Says Mr. A. W. Trickey.

The appended interview dealing with conditions in Alberta, appeared in the Calgary Herald of March 29th. Mr. Trickey is an old Peterborough boy, having lived in Ashburnham with his parents from 1885 to 1898. He was a student at the old Ashburnham school. The interview follows:

"A. W. Trickey, manager of the Calgary branch of the Massey-Harris Company, limited, and President of the Alberta Wholesale Implement Association, is as sanguine of the prospects for 1924 as any of the prominent business men who have so far expressed their views in this series of interviews.

"It need not be pointed out that the Massey-Harris Company is in the forefront of business concerns of its sort in the West, and when the manager of one of its leading branches speaks in a distinctly optimistic vein, in view of what implement companies have gone through during recent years, it is one of the most happy and encouraging signs of the times.

Decidedly More Encouraging.

"'General conditions throughout Alberta today are decidedly more encouraging than those of a twelve-month ago,' says Mr. Trickey. 'We are perhaps so far removed from the latter and so close to the former as to make it difficult to properly estimate the tremendous step forward. Admittedly there is not as much ready spending money in evidence as many would like. We can at least be philosophical and say that this is perhaps not an unmixed evil. The fact remains that not only the country, but incidentally this city, is standing on a very much more secure foundation than was the case a few short months ago.'

"This latter expression of opinion, it will be noticed, has been more or less referred to by several of the other business men who have been interviewed, and much of it has been caused by the saner atmosphere that has been created of late. As A. E. Cross aptly pointed out, people are now in a better frame of mind and are attending to their own business and not living more or less on expectations.

Wonderful "Come Back."

"'Those of us who have lived any considerable number of years in this Province,' continues Mr. Trickey, 'have time and again been impressed with its proven ability to stage a wonderful 'come back' in its productive possibilities, an outstanding example of this being the heavy individual yields and phenomenal total production of 1923. In contemplating this remarkable generosity of Providence lavished upon us so opportunately, one sometimes doubts whether, as a people, we are adequately conscious of a proper measure of thankfulness due to the Great Giver of these bounties.'

"One year ago, Mr. Trickey remarks, too many people were talking failure and in many cases leaving for other parts. Today there was generally in evidence a very distinct feeling of confidence and of renewed courage. Numerous advices from those who went elsewhere proved once again the truth that 'distant fields looked green.' It was a fact also that very many of those people were coming back convinced that there were but few, if any, localities that would return a reward in equal measure with Alberta for a real honest-to-goodness effort.

"'After such an excellent harvest,' concludes Mr. Trickey, 'succeeded by so delightful a fall and winter, and with the most favorable moisture conditions of the past several weeks, it is surely not too much to look forward to the months to come with a safe and sane assurance that, if every one will but do his part, there can be no more happy or favored place in which to live than right here in sunny Alberta.'"

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use if Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

HUNT CROWS AS SPORT

BEATRICE, Neb., May 8.—All Nebraska is hunting crows. E. Figler of this city has popularized the sport, and in most parts of the state a bounty is paid on dead crows, making the pastime remunerative. Bigler's method of hunting is to use blinds, as in duck hunting, and he has found an imitation of the crow call to be an effective ruse.

For every wash-day method

RINSO is ideal for any wash-day method you use. You do not have to change any of your usual steps—just use Rinso where you used to use ordinary soap.

If you like to boil your white cottons, Rinso will give you just the safe cleansing suds you need in the boiler. If you use a washing machine, follow the advice of the big washing machine manufacturers—use Rinso.

Just soaking with this new kind of soap loosens all the dirt until a single rinsing leaves the clothes clean and spotless.

However you do your wash, make it easy by using Rinso.

Rinso is sold by all grocers and department stores

If you use a Washing Machine, soak your clothes in the Rinso suds as usual. In the morning add more Rinso solution and work the machine. Then rinse and dry—you will have a clean sweet snow-white wash.

PREMIER WILL ATTEND PROBE

Relate Efforts Made by Government to Save Bank.

OTTAWA, May 8. — (Canadian Press).—Premier Mackenzie King will appear before the Home Bank Commission to-morrow morning to tell of efforts made by the Government to save the bank just before the collapse of the institution. The Prime Minister communicated with the Government counsel during this morning's brief sitting and said he would attend and make a statement to-morrow.

After to-morrow's sitting, there will be an adjournment, probably until next Wednesday, when the argument on the first phase of the inquiry will be heard. Sir Thomas White will be given an opportunity to argue his case and also to explain the payment to him of $1,500 by the bank just prior to its failure.

The investigation will, of course, continue after the conclusion of the first phase, which concerns merely the claim of the depositors against the Government.

This morning's sitting lasted only half an hour.

The regular monthly meeting of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. was held yesterday afternoon in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. the Regent, Mrs. H. E. Stinson, presiding. BOBBED HAIR FASHION SHOWS SIGN OF WANE

Demand for Switches Indicates New Trend.

Fashion centres and fashion authorities are already foreshadowing the end of the "bobbed hair" period. The warnings of leading specialists on the hair, who claim that bobbed hair will tend to baldness in women within ten years, and possibly also the expense of the frequent visits to the hair dressers may have had something to do with the change. More probably, however, the decline of the fad is due fundamentally to a realization that a woman's hair is her "crowning glory." Whatever the cause there is noticeable in the larger cities a marked trend among those with "bobbed" hair to conceal the bobbed effect in their hairdress by use of hair nets. Another indication of the trend is the remarkable boom in the manufacture of switches. Those who until now have hesitated to follow the leaders will now be congratulating themselves on their conservatism.

Canadian Stock Exchange and Mines | New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

TO-DAY'S QUOTATIONS AND OPINION AND REVIEWS OF THE MARKETS.

The new ore, iron and steel industry is not bullish but doubtless the stock market had already discovered the present slowing up. A review of the industry says that forward business continues to be slow and that the production is considerably larger than the consumption. The stock market has a firm tone, but it is not a wide one, nor particularly impressive. We appear to be in a definite cycle of accumulation.

J. S. Bache and Co. say: Stewart Warner is down 36 points from this year's high, and up only three points from the low; it is entitled to further recovery. Would pay close attention to Missouri Pacific Preferred because of some very important developments that have come about and should have a good effect on this stock.

Steiglitt says: We think the oil stocks should be bought despite their poor exhibition lately, but only of the well-managed, well-financed and well-surplused companies.

MISS AGNES LOGAN WRITES OF LONDON

Went Paddling in a Peterboro Canoe—Tea at Village Inn.

The following extracts are taken from a letter written by Miss Agnes Logan, from London, England, to her mother. Writing on Easter Sunday, she says:

"After my lesson at Palace Court on Wednesday morning, Edwina and I went to Richmond, and, what do you suppose? We went paddling in a Peterborough canoe, a nicely varnished one, with "Peterborough, Canada," stamped on it. The man at the boat house seemed much perturbed when he asked about it, but seemed less anxious when he saw that we knew something about the working of the thing. We were out an hour and a half. The river is lovely and it reminds me of the river at home. People were getting their little camps and cottages ready for the season. We paddled to Twickenham and back. It's a quaint little place on the opposite shore from Richmond, and up a mile or so. There were heaps of boats out, but ours was the only canoe.

"We are going to save up our pennies and some day when it's fine, we're going to take a canoe for the day and paddle to Hampton Court. On Good Friday we had such a good hike. First of all in the morning we went to church, then right after lunch, Edwina and I went by train to Runslip, twelve miles north, and from there we hiked to Rickensworth, through the loveliest country. I don't know when I have enjoyed anything so much. We wore old clothes and got nice and mussy, and oh, so hungry! By the time we got to R. I was famished. We had an enormous tea at a "pubs," bread and butter and water cress, jam and cakes and tea, and oh yes, fresh eggs, all for the sum of one shilling and three pence. R. is on the Grand Canal, which goes from London north, and there's such a funny little lock there. Two very quaint looking barges were locking through as we arrived. The people live on them and they look like gypsies. We came back from R. by train and arrived home at eight o'clock. I thought I would be awfully stiff after our canoeing and seven-mile hike, but wasn't a bit. When you go off in the country like that, it's hard to realize that London, with all its noise and clatter, exists, and only ten or eleven miles away.

"With love to all the family and my Peterborough friends. "Agnes."

COLORED SHOES.

There are many colored shoes seen this season—not in the brilliant tones of last season, but in dull greens, reds and blues. The usually match the frock with which they are worn and there is nothing conspicuous about them.

MAGNESIA BEST FOR YOUR INDIGESTION

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestents

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestents, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or two tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and without the slightest pain or discomfort. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get pure Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

PETERBORO CHILDREN IN TORONTO

The majority of the children from the Separate Schools of the city who went to Toronto yesterday to take part in the convention of Liturgical Music returned home on the local last evening. A number of them remained in Toronto for the second day of the convention. In the Pontifical High Mass at St. Michael's Cathedral, Toronto, yesterday morning, when the seventy Peterboro children took part in the singing of the Mass in Gregorian Plain Chant, some two thousand children from Toronto and several other choirs from out of town, including sixteen of the girls from the Annunciation Church in New York, took part. All the children were about twelve or thirteen years of age, the oldest in the group being sixteen. The children from the New York school gave a triumphant exposition yesterday afternoon of their proficiency in the ward method of musical training, when they were put through a series of difficult tests by a representative from the Toronto College of Music.

At the Mass in the Cathedral yesday morning, the Peterboro group had a special solo, under direction of Rev. J. Finn, in the singing of the offertory number, the Salve Regina Caelitum, also a portion of the Credo. A Montreal musical critic, present at the Mass, expressed his opinion of the Peterboro children's singing in the words, "That is the best yet."

The Toronto Daily Star, speaking of the event, with particular complimentary reference to the Peterboro children's part in the service, says:

"Two thousand children gave this mass a vast, impersonal and very classic outline. Such a large chorus had its own difficulties, most of them surmounted. The organ, played as one has not heard it in St. Michael's for many a year, was the sole accompaniment. The performance took the form of the regular mass service. Father Ronan conducted from a rostrum to the right of the altar. A large choir of boys in one of the east transept of the cruciform sang the responses antiphonally with a choir of girls in the organ loft at the other end of the cathedral with the great chorus more than filling the nave between. In the girls' choir also sang the twenty New York singers who demonstrated the Ward Method of sight-singing in St. Michael's Hall. A mixed children's choir from Peterboro, conducted by Father Finn, occupied the front rows nearest the altar and at the end of the mass just before the Tantum Ergo sang with almost phenomenal expression and beauty of tone the Hymn to Our Lady.

A Classic Reversion.

"The general effect of the mass as performed yesterday morning was that of a classic reversion to the solemn jubilation of the middle ages. The 'Michelangelos' referred to last week at the rehearsal were silently busy, this time invisible except for their shadows in the top crypt of the north transept. The various choruses were sung with uncommon loveliness of tone, a high degree of the floating ethereal effects so essential to the Gregorian form, and a good attention to the conductor. The children had mastered the notes, they have only begun to trace the expression worked in the score. The mastery of form in expression will take years for so many singers. To have performed the mass so well after so short a period of rehearsals is a tribute to the organization of the church and the hard work of Father Ronan, the conductor.

"Gregorian experts who know the intimate color and modelling of the non-metrical plain-song would find in this performance a rather sketchy outline of its possibilities, but a remarkable first production of plain chant in this city. The children's voices gave it a very beautiful quality in tone and ecclesiastical suggestion. The boys' voices near the altar were peculiarly effective; the girls' choir in the loft augmented by the singers from New York sang with great beauty and considerable favor. The full chorus, strengthened by more boys' voices, was much better than on the Friday rehearsal. The whole effect was phenomenally alluring in the tone, the ethereal quality and the insistence on a medieval form as the basis of all good Catholic church music.

A Beginning Made.

"The defects were mainly those of inexperience. "With a whole year in which to master the form in its spiritual essence the same number of children could give a very different performance of this beautiful service, especially with regard to contractive effects in color and volume of tone.

"The beginning has been successfully made. About ten thousand children have been made more or less familiar with the plain-song form and the use of the Latin language in which to convey it. And the convention of the Society of St. Gregory has presented a very successful inaugural."

JAMES GATES WILL CATCH DOGS AGAIN

James Gates has been appointed dog catcher for 1924 by the city at a wage of $1 for every dog he catches. The fee is the same as last year. Although Mr. Gates has a long walk some times before he gets his dollar he generally succeeds in making a fair wage and some days an exceptionally high return. Things look much more promising for Dog Catcher Gates this year than last. So far this year there has only been 165 tags issued while up to this time last year 351 tags were issued and a total of 523 during the year. By the small number of tags that have been issued this year and with practically the same number of dogs in the city as last year it looks as if the official dog catcher will get rich quick.

Mr. Gates has his game down pretty fine and he has been known to trail a dog from one side of the city to the other and then catch it. He has been sizing up the situation for the last week and things must be very promising or he would not likely accept the job.

Mr. Gates informed the Examiner this morning, that he had been appointed official dog catcher but that he would not start work for 24 hours as he intended to give the citizens a fair warning that he was back on the job again and give them a chance to get their dogs rounded up and tagged as well as tied up. As soon as the twenty fours hours is up he will start on the war path and it is expected he will break all former records on the first day as dogs are very plentiful in the city at present.

MRS. BUDGE SO WEAK COULD HARDLY STAND

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

River Desert, Que.—"I used to have a severe pain in my side. I would be unable to walk fast and could not stand for any length of time to do my ironing or washing, but I would have to lie down to get relief from the pain. I had this for about two years, then a friend told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had had good results. I certainly got good results from it, too, as the last time I had a sore side was last May and I have not had it since. I am also glad of having good nursing for my baby, and I think it is your medicine that helped me in this way."—Mrs. L. V. BUDGE, River Desert, Quebec.

If you are suffering from the tortures of a displacement, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness, or a pain in the side, you should lose no time in trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Prudence Page, a pretty country girl has awakened from a brief and unhappy love affair with unreliable

Bert Traymore, a fascinating philanderer, guest at the home of Mrs. Vansittart, wealthy women who owns Winston Towers. Another of her guests is

Virginia Dale, a blase beauty who has brought about a forced engagement between herself and

Peter Armstrong, brilliant young inventor, much attracted to Prudence, who, for her part, loves him deeply.

Virginia dreams of a wealthy future. And is furious when she hears that Peter has been meeting Prudence.

She makes a jealous scene with Prudence and the latter informs her that she is not worthy of Peter.

CHAPTER LXIV.

Dusk in the Woods.

Prudence spoke with such earnest conviction that for a moment Virginia was almost cowed.

To have the shallowness the innate selfishness of one's nature set forth with simple directness is rather disconcerting even to a bold unscrupulous creature as this woman was.

And then she found her tongue giving a hollow would-be sarcastic laugh that sounded like a croak.

"Little angel of superiority! Who gave you the right to dictate to me?"

Prudence kept her clear level gaze upon her.

"The right of a very deep and honest admiration for the man you're going to marry."

She was brave enough to get the words out.

"Ha! ha! That's a good one! So you do admit you're wild about him—just as I thought you were? He'll laugh when I go and tell him."

"He won't laugh" said Prudence with acute perception. "Because you won't lower yourself to explain to him the mission that brought you here."

Virginia tossed her head.

"If you flatter yourself that Peter would think me jealous of a girl who was under a cloud for—well I don't like to call it stealing—but he knows about the diamonds and the money being found on you——"

"Stop!" The younger girl's air was so commanding that Virginia again was overawed. Prudence opened a gate in the hedge. "I ask you to go at once and never enter my home or grounds again. Go quickly!"

And so Virginia departed minus battle honors and hot to the very ears. The Page girl had got the best of her and come off with flying colors while she (Virginia) with all her 'culture' and travel and social superiority had lowered herself and lost her temper and mislaid her breeding.

"Indicted as a common scold!" She had once read a funny court-case where a woman was fined for quarrelling. She felt now as humiliated as that woman must have felt!

Prudence meantime oddly stimulated by the encounter and with a queer new hope a-flutter in her heart (for it had been but too obvious that Peter's fiancee was jealous of her and maybe there was some reason? . . . Maybe Peter had meant that enchanted kiss in the hospital? . . . Maybe Peter's heart wasn't with Virginia after all?. Prudence went into the kitchen of Green Gables and baked some special little cakes for tea and set out a dainty little meal in the sitting-room for her mother and herself and talked gaily with her mother and was so bright and happy-seeming that the latter's fears anent her daughter's peace of mind were set at rest.

"You're not fretting any longer over that miserable business at the Towers my dear?" said Mrs. Page looking yearningly at Prudence. "The real thief'll be found yet. Truth will out. And so you're right to stop worrying and be your happy self again."

But through the remainder of the afternoon the girl's thoughts circled round that episode.

Gradually she came to connect Bert Traymore's visit to the woods with the happenings at Winston Towers. When the money and the diamonds were discovered in her sash—stunned as she had been at the time—she recollected now the sly furtive look in Traymore's eyes.

There had been exactly that same look in his eyes when the sound of horse's hoofs had disturbed him when he was fumbling at the bottom of the elm tree!

What was he doing there?

He had been digging in the ground with a small implement of some sort and then patting the earth and leaves into position again.

Was he hiding something?

Wasn't it possible that on the evening of the dinner-party at the Towers he had contrived to slip the money and the valuable earrings into her sash to divert suspicion from himself? When Mrs. Vansittart discovered her loss it was Bert who came to Prudence asking her to go and see her hostess. Wasn't it feasible that knowing discovery might light upon himself he had slipped the things into her loose sash?

The only thing to do was to visit the little wood find the tall elm-tree dig down and maybe unearth other stolen goods this man had confiscated!

Prudence—despite the painfulness of the situation—felt an anticipatory thrill of excitement.

She contrived to steal away from Green Gables towards eight o'clock and reached the glade where the beech leaves made a fairy green following the course of a tiny stream that glided under delicate willows.

Behind the glade there was a wood of tall elms and yes there—about fifty yards from where she stood was the very tree round whose base Bert Traymore had been digging.

Glancing about her to see she wasn't watched Prudence hurried to the spot and took a trowel from a little basket she was carrying.

She worked intently for at least twenty minutes but found nothing there.

She knew this was the tree because—although there were other trees nearby and round it—this was an elm. The other elms were farther back.

No nothing hidden in the ground! She went quite deep too all round the base where one could dig.

After that she tried some other trees but could find nothing.

Then dusk came.

She was glad that she had brought a flashlight with her.

Sitting back on her heels Prudence rested before starting on the homeward route.

Dusk fell rapidly. It was nearly dark now in the wood and she was about to rise when suddenly she heard a sound quite close—moving steps very cautious—and looked around.

A woman was walking deliberately to a certain tree. The woman wore a long loose cloak and a soft hat crushed down low to shade her face and when she reached the tree which was quite near Prudence she stopped and lit a lantern setting it carefully on the ground

LOCK ACCUSED IN A BIG IRON CAGE

Trial of 138 Prisoners Started Today in Italy

FLORENCE, Italy, May 8. — (United Press).—Locked in a huge iron cage in the court-room, 138 Anarchists and Communists, including three women, went on trial to-day for the murder and robbery of nine Italian marines and carabiniers on March 1st, 1921, during the general rail strike.

The prisoners, a motley crowd, glared at the jurors through heavy iron bars. Each sat up on a numbered stool and each juror had a 300-page guide book containing the photograph, penal and political record of each prisoner to enable quick and intelligent following of the trial. In numbers the defendants exceeded those of the famous Camorra trial at Viterbo. They are charged with deliberately killing the soldiers and injuring a score of others near Empoli' when the marines and carabiniers were on their way to Florence from Leghorn to help restore the railway service.

HUDSON BAY RAILWAY SUITED THE GERMANS

SASKATOON, May 8.—(Canadian Press). — German capitalists were ready to go ahead with the Hudson Bay railway scheme and develop the mineral, oil and other resources adjacent to the Hudson Bay. This announcement was made by Col. R. H. Webb, member of the working committee of the On-to-the-Bay Association, here last night. The Germans had offered to raise $100,000,000 before the war to carry out this project.

SERVICES AT THE CATHEDRAL

The regular and punctual attendance of such large congregations of women at the mission services both morning and evening is unquestionable external proof of the internal consolation received from the word of God.

Rev. Father De Coste spoke again and gave a complete and thoughtful meditation on death, the last great drama of life. His text was taken from the Epistle of St. Paul too the Hebrews IX 27. "And it is appointed unto men once to die" . . .

Nothing is more certain than the fact that each one of us must die. It is as natural to die as it is to be born. Nothing is more uncertain than the manner of our death. We know not when nor where, nor under what circumstances. All history is nothing but the recorded deeds of men long since dead. It mattered not how active they were nor how necessary they may have seemed to the welfare of their fellowmen, they had one day to obey the summons of the grim reaper, and they went before the God of all life to give an account of their stewardship.

Consult your own experience and learn how many times a merciful God reminds you of death during a single day. The morning and evening papers are in part a record of the deaths of your friends and acquaintances. The church bell tolls out above the noises of the crowded street to remind you that the busy hands of a fellow citizen toil no more, the eternal silence of the grave closes over the familiar figure of one who was active in the life of your city.

Where are the friends of your childhood? Where your parents? Where your sisters and brothers? Where some even of your children? Thus is the great fact of death ever present.

Death is no respecter of persons, the old man and the young, the rich and the poor, the prince and the peasant must obey his summons. We may reject the advice of friends, we may not heed the admonition of the church; we may smother the voice of conscience but when death commands we must hear and obey.

It is strange what little impression great catastrophies, in which scores of lives are snuffed out, make upon us. The thought of death should not be distasteful to us. The saints of God meditated constantly on death, their lives were pure and happy. And who are remembered longer, and who have done more to help mankind than these strong, faithful servants of God?

Do we know how we shall die? Yes. "As you live so shall you die." Here, Father De Coste vividly portrayed the death of the obstinate sinner. All things on which she had set her heart, during life; false friends, fleeting pleasures, overmastering appetites, afflict her departing soul. The world to which she was so attached during life is fast deserting her. At a time when she needs support they cannot help.

How different the death of the faithful servant of God. Death never surprises her; she has appraised the things of this world at their true value and is not deceived by them. Having striven faithfully to serve God during life she is supported by His grace at the hour of death, and goes confidently to give an account of her good works.

The reverend missionary concluded with a strong plea for serious reflection while we have yet the time. It is a great privilege to be yet alive and to be able to say, "I have yet an opportunity to serve God faithfully and by so doing to prepare for a happy death."

WONDERS OF YOUR BODY

The Importance of the Blood in Maintaining Good Health.

Everybody should have some knowledge of the mechanism of the body and of the important function which the blood performs. Every drop of blood in your body passes through your veins many times every day, carrying off impurities and getting cleansed of them in the kidneys and lungs. When the blood is thin and weak it becomes overloaded with these impurities. This shows in many ways; your face grows sallow and often impurities force themselves through the skin, forming pimples and blotches. Then again rheumatism and lumbago owe their origin to impure blood. Also indigestion, lack of appetite and inability to derive nourishment from food are caused by the failure of the blood to keep the stomach fit for its work.

Almost everyone needs, from time to time, richer, better blood, and for this purpose there is nothing to equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The purifying effect of these pills on the blood soon shows in improved appetite, increased vitality and a new joy in living. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ARCHBISHOP ZEPLIAK GETS BIG RECEPTION

ROME, May 8. — (Canadian Press.)—The arrival in Rome this morning of Archbishop Zepliak, head of the Catholic church in Russia, recently released from imprisonment by the Soviet authorities, was marked by one of the most exceptional ceremonies in the annals of the Holy See. For the first time in history it is believed, the Papal Secretary of State went to the railway station to receive and greet a prelate of this ranking. Pope Pius ordered Cardinal Gaspari to represent him at the station and welcome Archbishop Zepliak and also sent his Majordomo, Master of the Chamber and Private Chamberlain who, together with the Polish Minister accredited to the Holy See, formed a notable group of official personages entrusted with conveying the Papal salutations to the visitor.

Investigation of the possibilities of carrying out the St. Lawrence waterways project will include such points as whether or not the work would materially affect the level of the St. Lawrence or of any other navigable waters in Canada, whether the cost of the scheme can be kept within reasonable bounds and what advantages accruing to either country, including the advantage of export and import traffic and rates might influence the apportionment of the cost of the undertaking. On the latter point a number of years will be allowed after completion of the work in which to settle the question of assessment.

TENNIS, PRO AND CON

Bill Tilden and Vinny Richards have foot faulted into professional tennis and are now as exclusive as aching bunions on the toes of a wooden leg.

Billy and Vinny used to be the two best amateurs in the household, now they are the two worst professionals, having been indicted on the heinous charge of writing instead of loafing for a living.

All play and no work makes Throckmorton Astorbilt III a dumb animal but keeps his amateur standing sacred.

Mothers wishing to bring their flop-eared sons up in the noble chasity of pure amateurism should keep them free of the contaminating influences of portable typewriters and the iniquities of editorial rooms.

The sympathy of a large disinterested public is with Tilden and Richards, mainly because neither of the young gents ever wore a towel around his noodle on the courts.

Tex Rickard says he will put professional tennis on its feet and we hope he'll be able to keep it there longer than he did Firpo.

With Rickard taking over the sport, the dear boys will have to battle under straight Marquis of Queensbury rules, with clean breaks and no biting in the clinches.

Perhaps the time is not far distant when thousand of fans will storm Madison Square Garden to watch the Wild Poodle of the Ritz clash with the Infuriated Canary of the Boulevards in the first international tennis championship.

Whatever virtues the idea may have, pro tennis can never hope to be a success until Judge Landis consents to dignify it at fifty thousand smackers a year.

It is said that when the Europeans learned that Tilden and Richards would not compete in the Olympics they broke down and shed large salty tears ....large salty tears of joy.

FRENCH QUESTION STYLE OF JUMPER

Olympic Athletic Jury to Decide Question of Legality of American High Jumper's Form.

NEW YORK, May 7—France has questioned the legality of the high jumping style of Harold Osborne, Illino's Athletic Club star, and holder of the worlds' indoor record, it was learned to-day, and steps have been taken to determine whether it will be permitted in the Olympic Games at Paris.

The decision is now in the hands of the council of the International Athletic Federation, which acts as an Olympic jury in such cases.

The basis of France's action was an article published by a New York newspaper describing Osborne's jumping methods and intimating that he took more of a dive or roll than a jump, twisting his body in a manner calculated to keep the bar in place.

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

By BILLY EVANS

QUESTIONS

1. Has a pitcher the right to snap the ball to any base without first stepping in the direction of that base?

2. When two runners are standing on the same base to which runner is the base entitled?

3. If a base runner starts to run the bases in reverse order to confuse the opposition, how may he be retired?

ANSWERS

1. The pitcher must first step toward the base to which he intends to throw. Otherwise, he makes a balk.

2. The original occupant is always entitled to the base, unless forced to vacate.

3. A base runner who runs in reverse order can be retired by being touched with the ball or having the ball held on the base to which he was legally entitled.

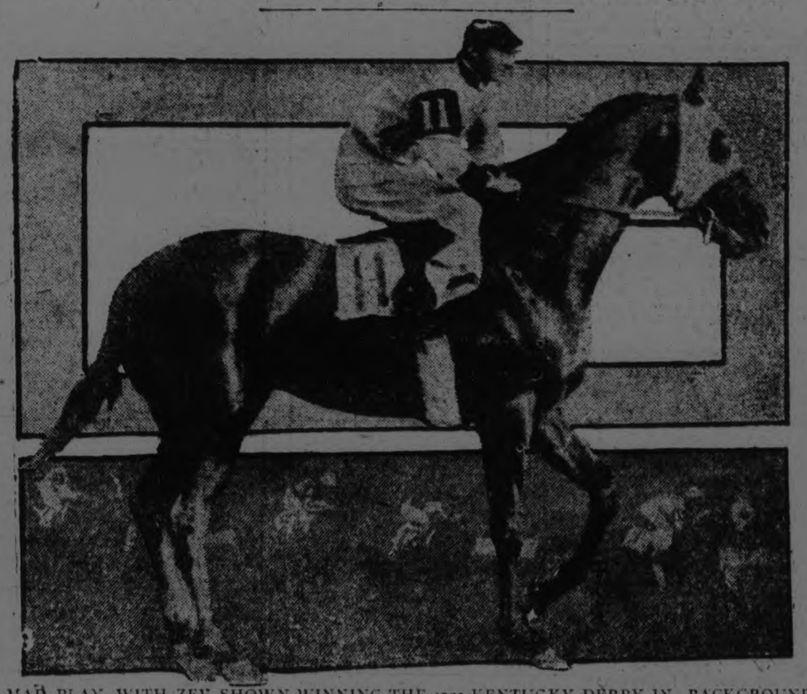
Will Sinclair Put This One Over, Too?



MAD PLAY, WITH ZEV SHOWN WINNING THE 1923 KENTUCKY DERBY IN BACKGROUND.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 7.—Has Sam Hildreth, astute trainer of Harry F. Sinclair's Rancocas stable, another Zev up his sleeve.

Many smart horsemen profess to believe that Harry Sinclair—possibly you heard his name mentioned in connection with Teapot Dome—has a splendid chance of winning his second consecutive Kentucky Derby.

Mad Play is his 1924 hope, a chestnut colt by Fair Play out of Maddap.

It will be remembered that in 1923 Sinclair's Zev was little thought of by the rank and file during the winter, but the Sinclair connections bet quietly in the winter book and made a "killing."

Later Zev became the idol of the American turf by defeating Papyrus, England's best three-year-old, in a match race at Belmont Park.

Is Mad Play another Zev? Although he showed fair form last year it was not until the running of the Kentucky Jockey Club Stakes at Churchill Downs, Louisville, that he displayed Derby form.

In this race Mad Play was defeated by an eyelash by Wise Counsellor in 1:37 2-5 the fastest mile race ever run by a two-year-old in Kentucky.

Hildreth is pointing Mad Play for the Derby here on May 17 and the colt again will meet Wise Counsellor in this race.

Billy Evans Says

In every situation that comes up on the ball field, it is the duty of some player or players to back up the play.

Keep your eye on the ball is a cardinal principle of golf. Failure to do so invariably results in a hook, slice, or something even worse.

Keep your eye on the ball holds good for the national pastime. Back up every play is an even greater truth.

In the first 72 games I officiated in this year, I saw two of them lost because some player failed to back up.

Instead of lining up with the throw, so as to be in a position to stop the ball in case it got away from the one making the play, the two negligent athletes merely looked on as spectators.

The result, defeat in each case.

Backing up a play is really never appreciated until the player fails to back up, and the play goes wrong simply because the ball took a bad bound.

Often you see the catcher run down toward first base on a ball hit to an infielder, and then thrown to first in an effort to get the batsman.

If the throw is perfect, and in a majority of cases it is, the action of the catcher looks like a waste of energy.

It is when the throw is bad, and the catcher fails to back up and retrieve the ball, thereby losing all chance of making a play on the runner at second, that the importance of the play is made manifest.

It seems that fate ordains the throw shall be wild the very time the player fails to back up. Such was the luck of a certain pitcher who rarely fails to back up every play.

On a base hit to the outfield, and attempt was made to cut down a runner at the plate. Being of no use in the center of the diamond, it was up to the pitcher to get back of the catcher, to take care of the throw if it got away from the backstop.

Instead of being in the proper place, the pitcher was merely a spectator, standing in the center of the diamond. The ball got away from the catcher, taking a bad bound on the last hop. This enabled two runners on the bases to reach second and third, and later they scored on a base hit which decided the ball game.

The pitcher tells me that it was the first time in his long career in the majors that he failed to properly back up a throw to the plate. It cost him the ball game.

HIGHWAY PLANS ARE CURTAILED

This Season Will See $5,500,000 Expended -- Just Half of Last Year Under Biggs' Ministry

TORONTO, May 8. — (Canadian Press).—An expenditure of approximately $5,500,000 upon highways during the coming season, in contrast to the $11,000,000 which was spent in the last year of Hon. F. C. Biggs' Ministry is contemplated by Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, in the Ferguson Cabinet. The programme which Hon. Mr. Henry intends to embrace is the paving of some 115 miles of highways throughout the Province and the grading of another 25 miles. The cut in the highways budget does not come as a result of any diminished aggressiveness upon the part of the Department but is the combined result of the securing of lower construction costs and the adoption of less wasteful methods.

Associated with the Highways Minister henceforth in the handling of the road affairs of the Province will be an Advisory Highway Committee, created by legislation at the last session of the House, and appointed by the Cabinet yesterday. Members of the committee are Hon. Findlay MacDiarmid, M.L.A., East Ewin, chairman; T. Mahoney, M.L.A., South Wentworth, and W. Rankin, M.L.A., Frontenac. The duties of this body will be to inspect local conditions and to advise the Minister upon requests of municipalities for road construction. They will also be called upon to advise in matters of general policy. Their field work will carry them to various parts of the Province and it is also expected that they will visit certain places of the United States in order to secure data and knowledge of methods for use of the Ontario Department.

Ontario's highway program will, during the present year, be carried out more economically than it has been in years past. More favorable tenders which Hon. Mr. Henry has been securing for his work, and bids which are now being accepted by the Department are 25 per cent. under the figures which were submitted to the U.F.O.

Hon. Mr. Henry also plans more economical engineering methods.

SHIP STEWARDESS TO WED—MET FIANCE ON OCEAN TRIP.

NEW YORK, May 8. — When the steamship Cameronia, of the Anchor Line, arrived yesterday from Glasgow, it brought the story of a romance that began as soon as the second cabin stewardess, Charlotte Faulkner, met Francis Ray, 66, of Winchester, Mass.

They plan to be married in New York before the Cameronia sails on Saturday.

The prospective bride said she wished to spend her honeymoon on ships going back to London to straighten out her estate.

Meanwhile, Ray explained to the newspaper men that he would go to Winchester, where he would arrange to build a house on his farm.

"What size farm?" asked the bride-to-be, who hadn't heard of it before.

"An acre," said Ray.

In explaining the origin of the romance the bride-to-be said:

"I noticed he was free and easy when he tried to put his arm around me. I said, 'Ain't you a bit familiar?'

"'No. I'd like to have you come to Winchester with me.'

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

ALL IS NOT FUN THAT SEEMS SO!

There is a peculiar psychology about the making of comedies for the screen that absolutely has to be understood by the producer if he expects to make good pictures, Harold Lloyd explained this one day while engaged in the production of his initial independent feature Pathecomedy,, "Girl Shy." A group of visitors on the sidelines were laughing heartily at the action in progress at the time.

"That's a bad sign" averred Lloyd, who joined the group after the scene. "In nine instances out of ten, scenes that get laughs in the making are disappointments when we see them in the 'rushes' shown the next day upon the screen."

"And after all," he continued, "it's the laughs we place on the screen, not the laughs we get while we are making the picture, that count."

Lloyd's theory has worked out many times. One of the biggest scenes of "Girl Shy," in which several hundred extras were employed, was filmed at night, and drew many visitors to the Hollywood studios.

The story called for a small town band, and the most ludicrous types were selected for this quartette. Everyone on the set, including Mr. Lloyd's staff, got a good laugh out of these musicians. Everybody thought they would be a scream on the screen. But the next day, when the 'rushes' were projected they fell absolutely flat. They did not even get as much as a snicker. It was a sad disappointment, but it verified Harold's opinion that all is not funny that gets laughs in the filming.

AT THE ROYAL

GENUINE LAUGH GETTER, WITH GOOD STORY, AT ROYAL. CHARLIE RAY IN ALIAS JULIUS CAESAR.

Charles Ray will be the attraction at the Royal Theatre in his latest picture, "Alias Julius Caesar," distributed by First National, for three days, commencing to-day. The film, taken from Richard Andres' sory, is described as a first class comedy.

Ray plays the role of Billy Barnes, country clubman. He is suported by Barbara Bedford in the leading feminine role, a dainty actress who has been rising rapidly towards the film constellation. Included in the splendid cast that has been assembled is Eddie Gribbon, known to film followers for his able portrayal of strong arm parts in Mack Sennett's productions.

The action puts Ray in a pitiable plight when his clothes are stolen as he is taking a shower after golf. The theft is part of a plan to keep him from attending the country dance and, incidentally, from meeting his girl that evening. To foil the schemers the star is forced to don a sheet, steal a racing auto and race for home.

In such a plight he attracted the attention of the police and his satirical replies to the questions put to him support the conclusion drawn from his denuded appearance that he is out of his mind. With such an impetus the story breezes along, the fun growing in the same ratio as a rolling snowball until a final climax provides thrills and laughters and enables the star to turn the tables on his rival in a highly humorous manner.

ANOTHER COMEDY HIT AT THE ROYAL.

Lige Conley, in "There He Goes," a new Educational-Mermaid Comedy on the bill at the Royal Theatre today is what is known in movie circles as a "riot,' which is the last word in describing a comedy that keeps the house roaring.

Lige is seen as a wandering golfer who lands in a Southern mansion during a halloween party. The hallowe'en setting provides material for several new "gags" which kept the audience in a continual roar. Later he finds himself a driver in a race and the things the villain does to him, and the way he finally wins the race, keep up the fur.

Pretty Lillian Hackett, with Otto Fries, Jack Lloyd, and Sunshine Hart complete the cast. The direction is credited to Norman Taurog, under the supervision of Jack White.

AT THE REGENT

CHARACTERS ONE MEETS AT CRANBERRY CORNERS

"On the Banks of the Wabash" Now Playing at the Regent.

Mary Carr, who plays Anne Bixler—To motion picture fans, Mary Carr needs no introduction. Since her spectacular success in "Over the Hill" she has been given the title of "mother of film mothers" and holds this role without dispute. As Anne Bixler, Mary Carr has unusual opportunities to display her fine ability in the finest "mother" role ever given her.

Burr McIntosh, who plays Cap Hammond—Few actors command the high regard that Burr McIntosh holds for the quality of his work. A favorite of both the stage and screen and an idol of two generations, he continues to enjoy great popularity. He is ideally cast as "Cap" Hammond, the retired stern-wheeler operator, who rises to a great emergency and proves the hero of the hour.

James Morrison, who plays David—As juvenile lead in "The Man Next Door," by Emerson Hough, author of "The Covered Wagon," Mr. Morrison attracted so much attention for his skilled acting that J. Stuart Blackton summoned him from the Pacific Coast to play the part of David, son of "Cap" Hammond, who invents a radio power control and whose love affair is a dominating them in the film.

Mary MacLaren, who plays Ivonne—Al Jolson followers will recall Miss MacLaren as the beautiful blonde who appeared with him in "Passing Show" and "Dancing Around." She left the stage to go into pictures, having appeared prominently in "Idle Wives," "Unpainted Woman" and other films. As Ivonne, Miss MacLaren plays the part of a modern young siren, who for a time threatens to wreck David's heart and keep him from the girl he really loves.

Madge Evans, who plays Lisbeth—No prettier juvenile actress could have been selected for this important role than Madge Evans. Miss Evans, who has won wide recognition of her ability, is vivid as a small-town girl, standing ready to sacrifice her love so that others might be happy.

George Neville, who plays "Sash" Brown—As the sheriff in "Way Down East," George Neville was the exemplification of the small town character in which portrayal he has moulded his reputation. Since then he has appeared in many D. W. Griffith productions in similar roles. In "On the Banks of the Wabash" he finds the best opportunity to display his talents as "Sash" Brown, town bootlegger, who figures importantly in the progress of the story.

Marcia Harris, who plays Tilda Spiffen—Typical of the small-town type is Marcia Harris, whose most noted screen performances were in "Poor Little Rich Girl," "Day Dreams" and "Putting One Over." As Tilda Spiffen, Miss Harris portrays a spinster, whose unrequited love threatens three tragedies

Ed Roseman, who plays Westley Spiffen—To a son of Indiana falls one of the most important roles in "On the Banks of the Wabash," that of Westley Spiffen, a crooked real estate operator, whose scheming nearly ruins the entire town. Ed. Rosemen, who plays that part, was born in Terre Haute, Ind., near where the story of the photoplay is laid. On the screen Mr. Roseman played in support of Mary Pickford and Robert Warwick.

REAL ARGUMENT FOR PETES ON SATURDAY

K. and S. Team Will Make Things Interesting for Central Leaguers in Benefit Game for G.W.V.A.

Saturday's game at Riverside Park between the K. and S. team of Toronto and the Peterboro Central Leaguers will be a benefit for the Great War Veterans' Association, who will receive the proceeds after the expenses of the Toronto team have been paid. There should be a big attendance in view of the fact that a substantial surplus will be of much assistance to the G.W.V.A. in carrying on their work on behalf of returned soldiers.

Although the K. and S. team are an industrial team, the fans should remember the squad is composed of players of Senior calibre, practically all of whom have performed on one or other of the T. A. B. A. Senior clubs. They will provide the Petes with plenty of opposition, and the game should be full of interest.

With the Rangers' Band in attendance, there will be plenty of music and there should not be a dull moment all afternoon.

Manager Solomon will use both his pitchers, Heckman and Serth, against the invaders, and hopes to hang up a victory, particularly as his squad have been devoting a lot of time this week to batting practice.

In the event of the Petes not being able to book an exhibition game here a week from Saturday, it is possible that the squad will take a trip to Ottawa on that date. Negotiations are under way to that end.

Riverside Park will soon be in the best shape it has been since the old Canadian League days. The city's staff dumped many loads of dirt upon the skinned portion of the diamond yesterday, and it is being rolled to-day. When the work is completed the skinned part and grass will be on a level as they were years ago, and the diamond should be much faster and truer as a result. For the last four or five seasons infielders have been working at a much greater disadvantage than could be discerned from the stands, and the improvement will be appreciated. The diamond will be in good shape by Saturday.

New pitchers in the Central Ontario League circuit this year will be Keon with Belleville, Kelly with Kingston, Webster with Oshawa and Serth with Peterboro.

Funny thing about the Central League pitching is that Belleville, after having two southpaw aces in Goyer and Williams, finds itself this year without a left-hander.

CITY LEAGUE MEETING.

The City League Baseball Association, will hold a meeting in the Holy Name rooms on Simcoe street, on Friday night, at 7.30. All teams are requested to have a representative present, as the meeting will be the most important one of the year.

IRISH FREE STATES TO BE REPRESENTED

LONDON, May 8. — (Canadian Press.)— Irish Free State representative at Washington, when appointed, will have the title of Minister of Plenipotentiary, but not Envoy Extraordinary, according to the Daily Telegraph, which says his scope will be limited to economic and financial questions. Prof. Timothy Smiddy, of Cork, is considered certain of appointment.

Imperial Government in acceding to Free State's request for such representative, was influenced by former Premier Lloyd George's agreement to appointment of a Canadian Minister at Washington.

DOWN COME BISCUIT PRICES.

Reduced Sales Tax Benefits Buying Public.

The recent announcement of the Dominion Government regarding a reduction in the sales tax on biscuits from 6 per cent. to 2½ per cent. has caused the leading manufacturers of biscuits to send revised price-lists to the retail trade. As practically every grocer will, it is hoped, pass this advantage along to his customers, the biscuit-buying public will soon be getting reduced prices on their favorite table dainties.

Prices have been reduced as follows: 13 lines one cent per lb.; 40 lines two cents per lb.; 18 lines 3 cents per lb.; 4 lines four cents per lb.; 2 lines five cents per lb.; 1 line six cents per lb.; and one line eight cents per lb.

From this it will be seen that manufacturers have reduced prices on at least seventy-nine different lines of biscuits, the reductions ranging from one to eight cents per lb.—very substantial reductions. This just goes to show what a good effect in reducing the high cost of living could be achieved if it were possible for the Government to abolish the sales tax altogether on everything that people eat. At all events, biscuit manufacturers have shown a commendable public spirit in at once passing on to the general public the advantage of the sales tax reduction as affecting their products.

Fruit on Graves Of Chinese Dead

A local lady, paying a visit to the Little Lake Cemetery recently had her attention attracted by an odd addition to the adornment of two of the graves. Included with floral remembrances of two beautiful bouquet of roses which topped them were three oranges and two apples, fresh and tempting-looking. Whether intended as sources of refreshment for the departed spirits, or just as a little variation from the ordinary souvenir of flowers, was not indicated. Approaching the graves, the lady discovered that the headstones bore the names of Chinese origin.

FRENCH ELECTIONS TAKE PLACE SUNDAY

PARIS, May 8.—(Canadian Press.)— Election day in France will be Sunday next. There are 584 deputies to be elected under the new electoral law. Representatives of fourteen parties are seeking election and over three thousand candidates are in the field.

The most important of the parties are divided into two groups, National bloc supporting M. Poincare and endorsing his reparation and Domestic policies and party of Left, led by Briand, Herriot and Painleve, who call for enforcement of reparations payments, but advocate closer co-operation with Britain and somewhat less drastic policy in dealing with Germany.

In addition to these two groups there are the Extreme Right or Monarchist group, led by Leon Daudet. Extreme Left or Communist group and Clemenasists, led by M. Tardieu.

THE BRITISH CABINET IS MUCH PERTURBED

LONDON, May 8. — (Canadian Press)—British Cabinet is much perturbed over refusal of Ulster to appoint representative on Boundary Commission and it is understood that Governments legal advisors have definitely ruled that commission cannot function without an Ulster representative and no way out of impasse has yet been discovered.

Government it is said while desiring to avoid coercing Ulster is determined scrupulously to adhere to Anglo-Irish Treaty. It would like to leave matter entirely in hands of Irish people, but present outlook is that it will have to adopt some direct measure to solve problem.

TUESDAY BE CRITICAL FOR LABOR GOVERNMENT

LONDON, May 8 (Canadian Press). — Next Tuesday will be critical for the Labour Government, as Prime Minister MacDonald has accepted the gage thrown down by the Conservatives, and will consider former Premier Baldwin's motion for the retention of the McKenna duties as a motion of censure.

This was announced definitely in the House of Commons this afternoon by J. R. Clynes.

It is not known if the Government would resign in the event of an adverse vote, although this is the usual procedure.

ONTARIO FIGHTS PLANS FOR CANAL

Premier Ferguson Announced Yesterday That the Instructions had Gone Forward to the Provincial Hydro Commission

TORONTO, May 8.—(Canadian Press.) — Ontario will fight the plans of the $500,000,000 Confederation Canal and Power Company to get control of the Eastern Ontario Power situation by a pretentious scheme of canalization.

Premier Ferguson announced yesterday that the instructions had gone forward to the Provincial Hydro Commission to make the proper investigation of the proposal that is now up at Ottawa, and take steps to have adequate representation for Ontario before the Private Bills Committee which will consider the bill.

"As I see it," s aid the Premier yesterday, "the basis of the thing is not transportation at all, as they talk about, but a big power canal down from Lake St. Louis to Lake Francca. They want the Dominion Government to dig that under the guise that it will be an improvement to navigation, whereas it is only a power proposal, and I believe the scheme is to undertake construction on certain terms."

"We intend to make a protest to Ottawa and I am authorizing the Provincial Hydro, on behalf of the Province, to protest against that scheme."

NATIONAL PROTESTANT CHURCH BEGINNING IN UNION OF BIG THREE

Centralization Breeds Autocracy, Declared Rev. W. G. Brown of Red Deer In Opposing the Church Union Bill—Described It As Tyranny With Parliament Asked to Be Gunmen to Rob Minority.

NEARING CONCLUSION

OTTAWA, May 9 (Canadian Press). — The sixth day of the hearings on the Church Union Bill before the Commons' Private Bills Committee and the third day since the opponents took the stand, ended yesterday afternoon with the end in sight, as far as formal arguments are concerned.

One other opposing speaker was to be heard to-day, and after that counsel will sum up for both sides.

Yesterday's hearings still held the attention, even after six days of speeches, of an audience that crowded the committee room.

Four speakers were heard during the day, Rev. W. G. Brown, of Red Deer, spoke for the West. Mrs. George E. Ross of Montreal, represented "a host of women." Dr. Ephraim Scott of Montreal, put his case before the committee as one long familiar with the workings of the Presbyterian church. T. B. McQuesten, of Hamilton, a layman, told of recent votes in that city against church union.

Carry Banner Forward.

"If the bill is carried," said Mrs. Ross, "we will go forward in one way or another, very sorely crippled, perhaps, certainly much humiliated; but we will go forward carrying the banner of the Presbyterian church."

Dr. Scott described the church union bill as "tyranny." The unionists," he said, "had asked Parliament to be gunmen and do the robbing for them," in taking away the rights of the opponents of the bill.

An outstanding incident of the day was Rev. W. G. Brown's quotation of Rev. Dr. Gandier as having said: "This is the beginning of a national Protestant church. No government would dare to resist it." This reported utterance figured in both the morning and the afternoon sittings. No comment on it has yet come from the Unionist camp.

"Miscalled Union."

There was no questionnig of Mrs. Rose and she was followed at once by Rev. Dr. Ephraim Scott of Montreal, who in opening referred to the bill as "miscalled union." He protested against Dr. Pidgeon's "caricature" of predestination.

"We are simply asking for our religious liberty," said Dr. Scott. "That is something which does not need to be pleaded for in any country in the world, except in Soviet Russia."

He described the bill as "tyranny" and declared that it would wipe out the Presbyterian church in Canada.

"It takes us into the new church," he asserted, "and if we should manage to get out by a back door we would find our church gone and ourselves on the street."

He said the advocates of the bill had "asked Parliament to be the gunmen and do the robbing, and then when Parliament refused they cried that it was interference with freedom."

"Who are those asking you to do this wrong?" asked Dr. Scott. They included Methodists and Congregationalists outside the Presbyterian church, he replied and inside that church there were some ministers and some others who were asking for it.

"Intolerable Tyranny."

"That the Methodists should ask you to blot out the Presbyterian church and drive us out of our church," he said, "is intolerable tyranny."

Similarly Presbyterian ministers had no right to blot out the church. Dr. Scott compared the action of the General Assembly in the present case to a barber, who followed "all the regular steps" for shaving and then cut off the customer's head.

Dr. Scott reviewed the votes taken on union. He charged that a "sample" of how the vote for union was made up was given by unanimous votes for Ruthenians, Hungarians and residents on the Labrador Mission for it. The cities of Montreal, Toronto and Hamilton had given a total majority against union. He declared that the union map of the Halifax Presbytery was "the extreme antipodes of fact." It did not garee with the official blue book of the Presbyterian church. The Saskatchewan union map was true only in one thing, that 'red' the color in which union churches were marked "stands for the con-

Four Royal Courts For Presentations

LONDON, May 9.—(Canadian Press).—Because of the unusual number of visitors from the British Dominions to the Britsh Empire Exhibition who desire the honor of being presented at the court, the Lord Chamberlain has had to inform the foreign embassies that their annual quotas have been considerably lessened, even though Their Majesties have ordered four courts instead of the usual two.

There will be many pangs of disappointment in the hearts of expectant debutantes from the United States and some of the elder members of their sex as the United States Embassy will only be allowed to make forty presentations instead of the fifty usually allowed. The United States Ambassador, Senator Kellogg, has been flooded with requests for court appearances.

HURONIC BROKE ICE BARRIER ON LAKE SUPERIOR

Many Ships Driven By Storm Were Wedged In Ice Pack Since Last Monday — Pressure of Jam on Steel Hulls Was Feared.

SHIPPING HELD UP.

DULUTH, Minn., May 9 (Canadian Press). — The steamer Huronic, a Canadian passenger liner, with 65 persons, including passengers and crew aboard, last night broke the ice jam at the head of the lakes which had held her fast since Monday night, and steamed into port.

REMAIN IN PORT.

SAULT STE. MARIE, May 9 (Canadian Press). — All up-bound steamers of the Pittsburgh Steamship Company received orders to tie up here until further instructions are given, on account of the ice conditions in the western end of Lake Superior.

A heavy storm blowing here also compelled other boats to come to anchor above the Soo.

GALE RAGED.

DULUTH Minn., May 9 (Canadian Press). — With the north-east gale raging on Upper Lake Superior since Monday continuing unabated throughout Wednesday night and yesterday, a fleet of at least 13 ships including the Huronic, a Canadian passenger steamer, was wedged tighter than ever in the ice jam at the head of the lakes.

Seven freighters, all light, stuck just off the Superior entry, worked their way through the harbour late on Wednesday.

During the night the wind reached a maximum velocity of 48 miles per hour, and on Thursday vesselmen expressed the fear that the tightened packing of the deep ice mass might be causing terrific pressure on the steel ships, and that this new peril might assume unbearable proportions unless that strong wind abates.

Ice breaking tugs have been useless in the emergency.

Storage facilities at the twin ports ore docks are rapidly being exhausted, it was said, with the result that the minimum number of trains are being run from the mines. However grain elevators are able to take care of any grain coming from inland points.

REACHED BY RADIO.

DULUTH, Minn., May 9 (Canadian Press). — Local amateur radio operators establishing occasional communication with the ships, learned that all of the approximately 400 persons aboard were fairly well, with ample provisions available.

A blinding snowstorm yesterday shut off the view of the ice-bound fleet, but according to vesselmen, unless some ships got by the Soo without orders, no other vessels have run into the jam, as they were ordered held at Two Harbours.

About eight o'clock on Wednesday night an unidentified freighter, heavily laden, ran up to the outer rim of the jam, then turned about and headed back toward Two Harbours.

Most of the ice-locked ships have been there since Monday, with the exception of the seven freighters reaching port from the Superior side last night, no arrivals and departures have been reported since Monday, with the result that a large fleet of loaded vessels are anchored in the harbour.

JAPANESE SEEK HELIUM FROM VOLCANIC GASES

TOKIO, May 9.—(Associated Press)—Helium from volcanic gases will be the result sought in experiments projected by the Japanese navy, which will shortly send a party of naval engineers to several of the volcanoes, in which Japan abounds, to try to collect gases for inflating lighter-than-air flying craft.

The disaster to the navy's dirigible No. 3, the S.S. type airship which burst into flames and fell north of Tokio last March, is the incentive to the projected experiments. Naval authorities, alive to the danger of hydrogen as inflating gas, are determined to find economical means of replacing that gas by helium.

Lieutenant Kano will lead the party which will visit several well-known volcanoes. The experiments, which will be made by means of captive balloons, are attended with considerable danger, but the Japanese press declares that if they are successful the aviation prospects of the empire may be revolutionized.

THORNTON EXECUTIVES CHARGED WITH FRAUD, PERJURY, RUM-RUNNING

Organized Dishonesty In Departments of Canadian Government Merchant Marine and the Canadian National Railways in British Columbia Alleged By Senator Taylor of New Westminster, B.C.—Says Thornton Negatived Results of Enquiry.

SENATE TO INVESTIGATE.

OTTAWA, May 9 (Canadian Press). — Senator J. D. Taylor of New Westminster, B.C., charged in the Senate yesterday that there was organised rascality in the several departments of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine and the Canadian National Railways in British Columbia.

He spoke on an order for the production of correspondence with the Marine Department respecting an inquiry into an alleged casualty to the Canadian Government Merchant Marine steamer Canadian Farmer, and said he had been for fifteen months endeavouring to secure the attention of higher officials, including the president of the Railway Company, to secure an inquiry into the conditions in the railway and steamship service in British Columbia, and the results of the inquiry had been negatived by the direct order of the president.

Senator W. H. Bennett gave notice that he would move for an inquiry into Canadian National Railway expenditure, by a special committee of the Senate.

Alleges Rum-Running.

Senator Taylor charges had reference to the alleged use of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine for rum-running, defrauding the insurance companies, by false statements of repairs on steamers and to illegal commissions in the purchasing department of the railway company in Vancouver and coupled with these were a charge of retention of guilty officials and dismissal of those who sought to purge the service of wrong-doing.

He gave in detail correspondence which he had had with Sir Henry Thornton and other officials of the road beginning in February, 1923, up to the present time. A Captain Boyd, who had been dismissed from the "Canadian Farmer," had made charges of rum-running and of defrauding insurance companies. Boyd had been dismissed, it was claimed, because he would not become a party to the fraud, and was black-listed.

Thornton's Answer.

Sir Henry Thornton, it was found in the correspondence, had promised an inquiry, but in a subsequent letter stated that in an investigation by reliable officials he had received reports of Boyd's character and ability that did not justify him wasting any time on the charges.

Senator Taylor had replied that the inquiry was not on Boyd's charges, but on charges made by himself, and took objection to Sir Henry Thornton's expressions on the character of Boyd. He said: "Sir Henry Thornton, great man as he is, has taken no steps to make good his charges against Boyd's character and ability, or given the sailor an opportunity to refute these charges."

Senator Taylor further stated that he and W. G. McQuarrie, M.P. Westminster, had affidavits from an officer and several men on the "Canadian Farmer" to the effect that the ship's log had been forged to secure grounds for Boyd's dismissal. He had notified the Canadian Government Merchant Marine of this and the answer from the manager was that they would not stand any political interference.

Burked Publication.

An inquiry instituted by the Minister of Marine was without any effect, as Sir Henry Thornton had sent counsel who Senator Taylor said devoted their time to prevent the grave conditions existing being made public, and the witnesses who were heard were said to be guilty of the most flagrant perjury. The wreck commissioner who conducted the inquiry had told one witness that he was giving false evidence. The men on board ship were told that if they gave evidence they would be dismissed. One who did give evidence was posted as a deserter.

SMALLEST CROP OUTLOOK BASED ON IDLE ACRES

U.S. Department of Agriculture Forecasts Decrease of Nearly Twenty Million Bushels of Wheat Alone — Heavy Abandonment of Acreage in the South and West.

YOUNG CROP FAIR.

WASHINGTON, May 9 (Canadian Press). — The smallest crop of winter wheat since 1917 was forecast yesterday by the Department of Agriculture. The production indicated, as calculated from 1st May, conditions, is 553,013,000 bushels, or 15 bushels an acre. That is 19,327,000 bushels less than produced last year.

The rye crop forecast at 61,739,000 bushels, also is smaller than last year's by 1,284,000 bushels.

The winter was less severe on the winter wheat, the abandonment of acreage having been 2,624,000 acres, or 6.6 per cent. of the area sown last autumn, which, as revised and announced yesterday was 39,933,000 acres. The acreage remaining on 1st May to be harvested was placed at 63,838,000 acres. In the revised areas 101,000 acres were added to Indiana's area, and 138,000 acres to Colorado's, while 232,000 acres were deducted from that of Kansas, 106,000 from Nebraska, and 101,000 from Iowa.

Less Sown in South.

Abandonment of acreage was the heaviest in the South and in California. California's acreage is 54 per cent. less than sown last autumn, Mississippi's 50 per cent. less, Georgia's 42 per cent. less, and Kentucky and Alabama more than 25 per cent. less.

The condition of the crop on 1st May, which was 84.8 per cent. of a normal was better than a year ago, but below the ten-year average. Kansas and Nebraska showed a materially better condition than last year. Kansas, with over a million acres more than last year, promises a crop of 134,092,000 bushels, or 50,414,000 bushels more than produced last year. Nebraska, with 86,000 acres more than in 1923, will have 18,266,000 bushels more than last year, with a total production forecast for this year of 46,586,000 bushels. In Illinois where the abandonment reached 17 per cent., the area this year is 938,000 acres less than harvested last year and the production forecast of 33,950 000 bushels is 26,584,00 bushels less than last year's crop.

Larger Crop Areas.

Colorado has prospects of a crop more than twice as large as last year's. Larger crops than last year also are forecast from Wisconsin, South Dakota, Texas, Oklahoma, Wyoming, and New Mexico.

DISABLED VETS PRESENT PLEA

Ask Committee of the Commons to Make Pension and Bonus Permanent, Relieving Them of Uncertainty.

OTTAWA, May 9.—(Canadian Press).—Requesting that the present pension of $600 plus the cost of living bonus of $300 for permanent disability be maintained as the minimum award for such cases, a deputation from the Amputation Association awaited on the House of Commons Committee on Pensions and Re-establishment Thursday afternoon.

R. Myers, chairman of the Dominion Executive of the Amputation Association told the committee that the disabled men would be satisfied if they could feel their future was secure. Public opinion had been found to be practically unanimous in supporting their request. "We are not asking you to spend a single dollar more than you are already spending. We would be entirely satisfied with the $600 maximum if it is secured and made permanent." Mr. Myers told the committee. He hoped the country would see fit to put the men in a position where they would not have to worry about the future of their pensions.

Poincare to Vote And Tend His Bees

BAR-LA-DUC, France, May 9. —(Canadian Press).—Premier Poincare passed through his birthplace, Bar-le-Duc, yesterday afternoon on his way to his country property at Sampigny, Meuse Department, where he will deposit his ballot on Sunday like any ordinary citizen. He is hoping that no photographers or newspaper representatives will be present to disturb him in his examination of his conscience. This is the first week-end the Premier has taken off in many months, and once his civic duties are accomplished, he intends to devote the remaining part of his visit to tending his bee hives.

M. Poincare is an ardent lover of those busiest of insects, and not even an invitation to play golf with Ramsay MacDonald could entice him from a contemplation of the queens and drones.

LABOR DEFEAT NOT EXPECTED

Vote On Snowden's Budget Next Tuesday — Main Body of Liberals Likely to Support Repeal of McKenna Duties.

LONDON, May 9.—No party expects the defeat of the Labor Government on Tuesday next when former Premier Baldwin's motion for retention of the McKenna duties, which Premier MacDonald has considered as a motion of censure, will come up for consideration.

The Conservatives point out that the announement in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon by J. B. Clynes, the Deputy Government leader, that the vote of the McKenna duties will be considered as one of censure acts as a whip over the Laborites from the industrial districts, where many of the workmen favor retention of the duties, and at the same time it is thought that the scattered Liberals, who believe that repeal of the duties would be inexpedient, will not receive any substantial support from the main body of their party.

The Ministerialists have expressed themselves as confident that the debate on this question will strengthen their position by the defeat of a formal Opposition challenge to the Government.

Phillip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, yesterday received an industrial group of Members of Parliament, mostly Conservatives, who presented their case against repeal of the duties. The Chancellor saved his reply for Tuesday, but there was every indication that his stand was inflexible. The deputation left his office seemingly convinced that he would not budge from his determination to abolish the duties on August 1.

FRENCH POLLING MAY NOT YIELD CLEAR MAJORITY

Result May Be Similar to That In Britain and In Germany — Electoral System Makes Conclusive Mandate Difficult to Obtain — No Sharp Issues.

PARTY COALITIONS.

PARIS, May 9 (Canadian Press).—The absence of clean-cut issues as the French electoral campaign draws to a close is exemplified by the response attributed to one of Premier Poincare's Ministers, who, when asked what was his leading issue, replied:

"I am a re-electionist; that is the only issue in this campaign."

The fight, which has promised in the last two months to be for and against Poincare and his policies, has been complicated by party coalitions and dissenting tickets, so that not only are party lines obliterated, but the questions uppermost in Parliament before dissolution have been lost sight of.

Dwell on Taxes.

The Opposition candidates dwell strongly on the high taxes as an excuse for ousting M. Poincare from power, but they make no promise to repeal any tax laws if elected. They criticize the Ruhr occupation as contrary to the interests of peace and less likely to advance the settlement of reparations than more conciliatory methods, but they give no hint that they would withdraw the troops from the Ruhr if they come into power. They work on the sympathies of the smaller war victims in the devastated regions, who have not been paid their reparations, charging that the Government stopped borrowing money for reconstruction just after finishing paying the big corporations and rich war victims. But they fail to say whether if they win the elections they will borrow the necessary funds to resume construction.

Division Everywhere.

The chief end in view, as gleaned from the Opposition posters, is to overthrow the National bloc and Premier Poincare. The Socialists and Communists declare also that Premier Millerand must go, in case of the bloc's defeat. But a considerable number of radical and dissident candidates support M. Poincare, and the Socialists and Communists are not fully in accord as to either programs or candidates.

The nearest thing to an expert prediction anyone yet has made, is that it would be exceedingly difficult for any party under the present electoral system to gain enough votes to control the Chamber, and that the elections may have a similar outcome to the British and German elections, leaving the Chamber without a homogeneous majority, either to the Right or the Left.

POLICING OF LONDON MADE ATTRACTIVE TO MEN OF EDUCATION

Requires Brains Now As Well As Brawn—Standard Much Higher Since War.

LONDON, May 9.—(Associated Press).—The day when London's police force was made up of stalwart though ignorant recruits from the East Side has passed. The beer drinking hercules with the cockney accent is stepping aside to allow the university graduate a chance to carry a whistle and a club. It now takes more than a six feet of brawn to qualify for a pair of thick boots. The policeman's duty is now a profession in London.

Once, before the war, a man joined the London force when he could not get anything else to do. The policeman in those days earned 30 shillings a week, he worked ten hours a day for seven days a week and he had no recreation centres at his disposal. Thirty shillings, even in the days when a shilling knew a lot more tricks than it does to-day, hardly sufficed to keep a family. The guardian of the public welfare was always ready then to accept a tip for any little service he might perform.

Now the pay is good, the chance of promotion to responsible jobs are many, and the conditions and hours of service easier. The municipal authorities are taking an interest in their police force. They have provided clubs for the men and their families, they are given better uniforms, and promotions and salary increases are granted for educational attainments as well as meritorious service.

At the same time the law of supply and demand has raised the standard of requirements. The candidate must pass a stiff educational examination, he must know more English than is contained in the yellow penny thriller, and be familiar with the city and national Government's organization and operation. There are many cases where a knowledge of two languages is necessary. The authorities must be satisfied with regard to his life and habits.

After the policeman has been accepted an apprenticeship of three years is necessary, and then he is assigned to regular duty. If he is successful he may even get to be a commissioner with a "Sir" to affix to his name. The London policeman now earns from $20 to $35 a week for regular duty.

HILTZ HOPING FOR VIADUCT

Mayor of Toronto Convinced Thornton Is Trying to Help But Government of Liberals Not Enthlsiastic.

MONTREAL, May 9.—"I am absolutely convinced that Sir Henry Thornton is doing absolutely all he can to help Toronto and bring about the beginning of the viaduct this year," said Mayor Hiltz, of Toronto, following an hour and three quarters conference with the president of the Canadian National Railways here Thursday.

"While Sir Henry cannot commit the government, like the rest of us, he is hoping to see work begun this year. In fact, he had read letters, especially a long letter to the Hon. George P. Graham, which showed, according to the letter, that he felt the C.N.R. was under obligation to get going on it at once.

"The interview was about as satisfactory as we expected, and will not be followed by any further conference at present."

Discussed Harbour.

Discussion was not confined to the matter of the viaduct, said the mayor, but he and Controller Cameron discussed the harbour and the linking of it with the Canadian National Railway and also the future of the Canadian National.

"The Government, being a Liberal government, is not bursting with enthusiasm for a work to be carried out in a Conservative city," said the Mayor. Sir Henry expressed himself as not absolutely sure as to the outcome of his efforts. The actionof the harbor board, which was a matter in which the city was concerned only indirectly, had been incidentally mentioned but not discussed.

Urging Government.

Mayor Hiltz said that his conference with Sir Henry Thornton was but one of the many angles of Toronto's effort to have work on the viaduct begun immediately. They were making other approaches to the government through their representatives and in every way possible were urging their cause. They had but six weeks or so left and the effort now was being directed to having provision put in the supplementary esimates.

Controller Cameron refused to add anything to the statement of Mayor Hiltz. He corroborated all that the former had said. Sir Henry Thornton likewise remarked that whatever Mayor Hiltz reported following the interview was his opinion as well.

MEETING HELD CAMPBELLFORD

Discuss Means of Lighting and Improving Hastings Road.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 9.—A joint meeting of the Water and Light Commission, Seymour Township Council, a committee of the Town Council and the members of the County Road Commission was held here last night to discuss the question of lighting and otherwise improving the Hastings Road from the town limits to Beattys' Grove. The members of the Road Commission present were: M. J. Elliott, reeve of Bowmanville, chairman, Warden Walter M. Fowlds reeve of Hastings, M. Hartt, reeve of Murray Township and George Greer, superintendent of County Highways.

The part of the Hastings Road in question has always been regarded as dangerous. There is a sharp curve near the McKelvie farm and a grove on each side of the highway makes the thoroughfare dark even on moon light nights. Some time ago the question of lighting it was brought up by the Seymour Council with the light commission. The necessity for some such improvement was recognized but the question of who was to bear the expense prevented definite action from being taken at that time.

Engineer Scott of the light commission estimated that the installing of the lights would call for an outlay of $125 and that the five lights required would cost $5 each a total of $25 a year.

As the Hastings Road is part of the county highway the road commissioners were called in conference last night. Warden Fowlds stated that the commissioners could not consider the matter of installing lights as other districts in the same position would ask for similar concession.

Deputy Reeve Dorie said that the real object of calling in the road commissioners was to secure authority from them to install a lighting system, that highway being under their jurisdiction. Superintendent Greer and the members of the commission said there would be no difficulty in this score.

Deputy Reeve Dorie said that while the town had no authority to spend money to extent the municipal lighting system beyond the corporation limits, it coud supply the 'juice' if poles and wires were put up. The road in question needs to be widened not only at Beatty's grove but within the town limits in order to make it safe for traffic.

Superintendent Greer read figures to show that more money has been spent on the roads of Seymour township (over $59,000 altogether) than on any township in the counties.

"Campbellford must have a cheap lighting rate," said Reeve Elliott, when informed that lights here cost $5 a year. "In Bowmanville the price is $12 a year."

"We have our own lighting plant here," explained Deputy Reeve Dorie

The road commissioners, members of the Seymour and Town Councils, and of the Water and Light Commission, will examine the road near Beatty's Grove, at 1 o'clock this afternpon, to see just what improvements are required.

Half Holiday.

A number of merchants, especially on the west side, and all the barbers with one exception, closed their places of business yesterday afternoon. A number of othesr will observe the half holiday to-day.

Counties' Council, June 9.

Warden Fowlds, who was here yesterday, said that he would call the members of the Counties' Council together for the midsummer session, on June 9th, this date, earlier than usual, being selected to avoid conflict with the celebration at Belleville. On Wednesday, June 11, the warden's excursion across the lake to Rochester, will be held. This is the annual holiday of the county fathers, the first that has been held since 1921, as last year Warden Smith was unable to charter a boat for the purpose, one of the excursion steamers being in dry dock at the time. It is an outing that is always well patronized.

Clerk of Court Given Five Years In Prison.

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 9. — R. C. Knight, Supreme Court Registry Clerk here who was found guilty in assize court recently of the theft of several thousand dollars of court funds, was yesterday sentenced by Mr. Justice Morrison to five years' imprisonment. Other sentences imposed are a five-year term for George McGuire, found guilty of counterfeiting and a ten-year term for Joseph Payne, convicted of rape.

FEW FOREIGNERS IN THE TARHEEL STATE

RALEIGH, N.C. May 9.—(United Press).—The Tarheel State soon will have a population of 3,000,000 with only about 10,000 foreign-born, if the present ratio is maitained, according to statisticians.

With 2,559,123 people in the State at the last census, less than 7,300 of them were born outside the United States.

The "purest Americans" reside in North Carolina. In the cities and towns are small numbers of Syrian merchants. Greek restaurateurs and sprinklings of natives of other countries, but the country districts know little of the foreign-born American.

ECHO OF LONDON POLICE STRIKES

Arthur Henderson, Home Secretary, Is Urged to Reinstate the Men Who Went On Strike In 1919.

LONDON, May 9. —(Canadian Press Cable.)—Arthur Henderson, home secretary, who is directly responsible for the control of London's police, is receiving increasing representation from various organizations urging the reinstatement of those members of the police force who went on strike in 1919 and have not been taken back. The matter of their reinstatement has been kept alive by the organizations in question ever since the strike.

There were two strikes among the London police. The first was practically unanimous and aroused considerable sympathy as it was shown that the police were almost the only body whose pay had not been raised according to the increased cost of living. Substantial additions to the pay of these men were granted by the authorities.

The second strike failed miserably. It was admittedly by way of protest agains the order forbidding the formation of police trades unions that the second strike was precipitated. The chief of police at the time of the second strike, said that if a single striker were reinstated he himself would resign his position instantly.

Since then, however, another police chief has been appointed, but it is probable that he would take an attitude similar to that of his predecessor.

Home Secretary Henderson, who himself is a stickler for constitutional procedure, is likely to consider the question of reinstatement a long time before he decides to over-ride the actual chief of the force.

"Featherheads" Is Churchill's Word

Reference to Socialistic Guides of Government — Condemns Three - Party System, and Praises the Conservatives.

LONDON, May 8.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Winston Churchill, addressing the Liverpool conservative club at luncheon to-day, said the leaders of the conservative party had shown patriotism and public spirit in laying aside the views to which many conservatives were honorably and profoundly attached in order that the party might present a solid core of resistance to the spread of subversive socialist doctrines.

A more wholesome system than the three-party system for the government of a great country could not be conceived, Mr. Churchill said. There was bound to be another general election before many months and the issue would be whether the country should continue along the paths of tried and proved progress or plunge under the guidance of a lot of featherheads and shallow pates into the fallacy of Russian or German socialism.

The socialist budget, Mr. Churchill declared, had struck a death blow at social reform and was a return to the mid-Victorian outlook with regard to finance and social reform. The government had failed in its social and imperial policy, he said.

POPE RECEIVED FREED PRELATE

Archbishop Zepliak Released By Soviet Government After Year In Prison — Had Only Preached Religion.

ROME, May 9.—Pope Pius this evening received in private audience Archbishop Zepliak, head of the Catholic Church in Russia, who recently was set free by the Soviet authorities after having been held in prison for more than a year. The Archbishop arrived in Rome Thursday and was greeted at the station by Cardinal Gasparri, the Papal Secretary of State, and other high church dignitaries and members of the papal household who had been designated by the Pontiff to meet him.

"I cannot express any opinion of the political situation in Russia, because I was only set free from prison, where I had remained for more than a year, three weeks ago," said the Archbishop last night. "Originally I was condemned to death, although I was guilty only of having preached the necessity for religion, prayer, piety and love under a regime which denies the very existence of God, thus persecuting all ministers, no matter of what faith.

"My trial and condemnation to death were not so painful to me as the days that followed, when I was not certain whether I was to be shot or hanged. My time in prison was filled with hardships, but they were bearable, almost pleasant, when I remembered that I was under incarceration for a sublime cause."

MRS. CRANKER GIVES TANLAC FULL CREDIT

"As a Stomach Medicine And Tonic—Tanlac is Certainly Wonderful," Says Brockville Lady.

Adding her voice to the thousands who are praising Tanlac for the recovery of their health and strength, Mrs. Margaret Cranker, 84 Louis St., Brockville, Ont., says:

"Tanlac is such a grand, good medicine and has done so much for me that I will praise it. Following a spell of typhoid fever, two years ago, I was just a shadow of myself and remained so weak I couldn't walk across the floor. Stomach pains and backache tortured me and I was almost frantic from nervousness.

"My husband, who had used Tanlac with fine results, persuaded me to try it, too, and it proved to be just what I needed. Six bottles helped me back to health and strength and I also gained 12 pounds. That was two years ago and I have felt fine ever since. As a stomach medicine and tonic Tanlac is certainly wonderful."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

SHORT MEMORIES.

It is justifiable in view of its resolution calling for the strict exclusion of immigrants from the United States for many years to come to accuse many members of the American Federal of Labour of possessing short memories, an undeveloped sense of gratitude and a large proportion of selfishness.

Had such a law been in existence a decade or two ago most of the members of the Federation would not be bothering the United States Government with foolish resolutions.

If they escaped being killed in the World War they would be endeavouring to make a living in war-stricken Europe and looking longingly across the Atlantic.

A large proportion of the members of the organization were either immigrants themselves or the sons or grandsons of immigrants.

They have done well on this Continent, have lived amid conditions only faintly dreamed of in the countries from which they or their ancestors came; yet in order to serve their own selfish purposes they now propose to bar the door of opportunity to others who wish to escape from the misery and distress of many portions of the Old World into a land that offers them a chance for success.

Before seriously advancing their shut-the-door policy they should run back over the story of their own lives.

SHOULD BE PERMANENT.

The assurance of Hon. Dr. Beland, Federal Minister of Pensions, that it is his personal hope that the bonus now being paid to disabled veterans and to the dependents of the Canadian soldiers killed in the World War will be made a permanent addition to the present rate of pension, will be, the Examiner is sure, gratifying to the people generally as giving every reason for hope that the Government will coincide with the Minister's views.

There is no reason why the Government should be in any doubt as to public opinion on this matter.

Not only has the press in all sections of Canada vigorously supported the proposal that the bonus be added to the present scale as a permanent person, but a similar opinion has been expressed by several Provincial Legislatures and by Municipal Councils and other bodies.

The present allowances, including the bonus, are not lavish, and there is little danger of the cost of living dropping sufficiently to cause any feeling that the pensions of disabled soldiers are extravagantly large.

That seems to be the general feeling throughout Canada, udging by every means of estimating the sentiment of the public, and the Examiner believes the Federal Government could do no more popular thing than to make permanent the present pension supplemented by the cost-of-living bonus now being paid.

MAKE THEM ALL PAY.

The fact that the farmers of Canada only paid $473,049 in Federal income tax last year may be accepted as proof that there is little profit in agricultural at the present time, or that the collection of the tax from the farming interests is not a simple matter.

Both explanations have some application to the matter.

As a contrast it may be mentioned that the employees of the country, that is the men and women in receipt of salaries and wages, contributed $15,529,949 to the national revenue in the form of an income tax.

There is no escape for this class of citizens.

It is a simple matter for the taxation officials to check the incomes of employees.

In fact, many employers are required to furnish the information needed, and there are few employees liable to the tax who do not contribute their share each year.

It is difficult to believe that throughout the whole of Canada, if the Act were as effectively and efficiently enforced against all classes as against wage and salary owners, there would not be found enough farmers liable to the tax to bring the returns from agriculturists up to a much greater figure than $473,049.

The difficulty of securing the necessary details is admitted, but the officers in charge of the collection should be spurred on to more determined efforts to locate people who should be contributing their quota under the Income Tax Act and who so far have been remarkably successful in loading their liability.

There is no reason why the man on salary should carry the main burden just because it is easy to locate him.

RELY ON FARMERS.

Premier King hopes and believes that the farmers of Canada will buy Canadian-made agricultural implements, if the manufacturers pass on to their customers the benefits of the remission of the Sales Tax and the lower duties on raw materials, says the Hamilton Spectator. One large concern has already announced its intention of doing so, and others will undoubtedly follow suit; for, in order to meet the increased competition which is bound to result from the new policy, profits will have to be pared to the limit. The farmers will thus reap a substantial advantage in the matter of price, and it is only by their loyal support of native industry that that industry can be kept alive. Will they meet the test in the creditable manner anticipated by the Prime Minister? The future alone can tell. It is only to be expected that an intensified selling campaign will be put on by United States' manufacturers, who will make redoubled efforts to capture the Canadian market. Will the agriculturists turn a deaf ear to these seductive appeals, and stand staunchly by their fellow-countrymen?

Premier King professes to see in the action of the manufacturers the verification of the Government's contention that both the farming community and the agricultural implements industry would be benefited by the new policy. But there was no necessity to reduce the tariff protection in order to bring about these lower prices to the farmers. Had the tariff remained what it was, the Sales Tax been removed and the duties on raw materials been reduced, the makers offarm implements would have been in the same advantageous position to offer attractive terms to their customers, while at the same time enjoying protection from foreign invasion. That protection having been seriously weakened, it is for the farmers of Canada to make up for the deficiency by an increased assertion of patriotism, which is bound to rebound to their own advantage.

DOING WHAT YOU DISLIKE.

A mother writes us that she is very much worried because her young son is "doing poorly at arithmetic" in school. She says the lad is quite bright in other studies, but she fears he will never be able to master arithmetic.

The trouble probably is in one of two reasons.

First: Arithmetic is taught in the most interesting way possible, to reach the average child. Educators long since realized that making a subject interesting is the key to arousing mental perception and making a study indelible in memory. But this particular lad may be one of the exceptions to whom the present system of teaching mathematics is dull and unattractive.

What is the remedy? We suggest getting this lad interested in figuring baseball percentages. Or, if he likes to "play store" at home, encourage him to keep books on his imaginary sales.

Baseball has greatly increased the average boy's knowledge of mathematics.

A more probable explanation is that this lad is not interested in mathematics for the very simple reason that he is "not cut out for it." There is such a thing as having no "arithmetic sense"—just as some people never can learn to play cards, not having "card sense."

As long as the boy is reasonably bright in other studies, don't worry too much if he is backward at arithmetic. Chances are, when he strikes out in the world for himself, he will follow the line of work he likes best. And, not being "good at figures," he'll hire some one to do his figuring for him—possibly the schoolmate who stands at the head of the arithmetic class.

Real education is mental training, rather than filling the brain with facts like pouring water into a jug with a funnel. It is important to know things. But it is more important to know where to look for and find knowledge when needed.

The world is full of star mathematicians anxious to work for $35 a week, the same as every poorhouse has several good fiddlers.

So it goes with other studies. We know a man who in school was a failure at history—simply because he wasn't interested. He wanted to write for a living. Well, he's writing now—and writing history! In maturity history began to interest him because he found he could make money out of it. So he began to study the past.

Every child, except the exceptionally brilliant, has at least one subject in which he lags. Ponder the studies at which he stars, also the ones in which he is "dull," and probably you can figure out what kind of work he is going to follow.

Increasingly life becomes a matter of specialization, not generalization. School children, like grown-ups, succeed best at the things they like to do.

GAMBLING INSTINCT.

Imposing a fine of $500 and a sentence of two months in jail upon a poolroom proprietor, convicted of accepting racing bets, Police Magistrate Jelfs declared emphatically: "This sort of thing must stop," says the Hamilton Spectator. Such drastic penalties as this will be a stern deterrent, but it is as true as it is regrettable that they will be impotent to stop the appalling evil of handbooking. So long as there are men whose desire is to bet, to risk their money on chance, just so long will there be other citizens to accommodate them. Education alone can be depended upon to dam this evil at its source, which is the instinct to "take a chance." The gambling instinct is firmly rooted in most of us, even in those who are opposed to wagering as a matter of principle. A household controversy waxes about some topic of the day. How often is it concluded by dad saying to mother: "I'll betcha"? Wherever small boys gather, you'll hear it—the "I'll betcha" that is the final resort—the last word in heated debate. Innocent bets and imaginary bets though they may be, they reflect the inherent gambling instinct, upon which the business of the handbook men, the pea-and-shell game men, the fake oil and mining promoters flourish and wax fat.

Lotteries are prohibited in this country and constitute a breach of the criminal code. But they are features, in modified form, of nearly every church bazaar that is presented for the raising of funds. The drawing for the aluminum double-boiler or the five-pound bag of sugar, though undoubtedly for causes most worthy, would not succeed if it were not for the gambling instinct, and the stern deacon or sidesman, good man that he is, would not be human if he did not hope that the ticket he holds on the "cut glass lemonade set" would be the lucky one.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Have you done your cleaning up this week?

If this weather keeps up the city fathers will have to arrange for heating the water at the civic swimming beaches to have them ready for the usual opening.

The Chamberlain of the King of Denmark had never heard of Douglas Fairbanks or Mary Pickford until yesterday. And yet Denmark seems to have got along alright in spite of that fact.

A petition regarding Alberta coal has been presented to the Legislature. And that will probably be the last heard about coal from the West until next winter arrives.

One good feature about the cold weather continuing into May is that coal is available at "summer" prices.

Life is just one remand after another for Hon. Peter Smith these days.

It should be understood that the clean-up proclamation is not addressed to holdup men.

Chicago continues to steal water and laugh at the efforts to stop her.

Richard's Landing folks started a clean-up campaign and accidentally burned down a church. Next year they should observe clean-up and fire prevention week at the same time.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, May 8.—The exporters have had a big week and will have two boats again next week. The exports can be made from the States at present prices. A letter from there this morning quoted exporters in Chicago at $10.75 to $11.75 a cwt., so that prices steady this week seem assured. The stocker and feeder trade is not good, but prices are holding. A shipment from the west of these is expected next week. A small bunch of export steers under 1200 lbs. each was sold this morning at $8 a cwt. and a few 1300 lbs. choice steers, were bought by the packers at $8.50.

Calves are acting just a little unsteady today and some good calves sold at 10 cents. Tuesday's demand sent prices back to last week, but commission men think the market has weakened perhaps half a dollar a cwt. since then.

There was no new market on cheap and lambs and prices remain steady with fair prospects for next week.

Except for a few sales on Wednesday the market was not changed for hogs and the price stood $7.50 a cwt. f.o.b. and $8 fed and watered. About 900 were carried into today and sellers were unwilling to take the $7.75 a cwt. fed and watered offered by the packers.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 8. — A sharp decline in Liverpool prices together with weaker foreign exchange, caused heaviness in to-day's wheat market, and after an easier opening, values gradually worked lower, the close showing a loss of one cent for all three future months. On the scale down, there was some fair buying by exporters and shippers, but there was undoubtedly more selling pressure in evidence than has been the case for several days. Trade sentiment appeared to be divided. Seaboard advices reported that sales worked yesterday amounted to half a million bushels, largely Manitoba, and some further activity was shown this morning.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 8. — Prospects of more normal labor conditions in Argentine were of considerable effect to-day, toward bringing about a moderate setback in wheat prices here. The closing prices were 3-8c to 3-4c net lower, May $1.03 3-4 and July $1.05 5-8 to $1.05 5-8 and 3-4. Corn finished at 3-4c decline to ¼c advance; oats 1-8 and ¼c to 1-4c off, and provisions unchanged to 1-4c advance.

Reports circulated here regarding the Argentine strike are to the effect that a definite settlement had been reached, and that work was being fully resumed. Under such circumstances wheat shipments from Argentina appeared likely to become heavy again, with a corresponding reduction of the European demand for supplies from North America.

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK.

WINNIPEG, May 9. — Arrivals 720 cattle and calves, 1100 hogs and 12 sheep.

Trading on the cattle market was somewhat inactive, with the demand for the better grades of killing steers weaker although the offerings in the butcher division sold on a steady basis. Stockers and feeders also moved out at unchanged prices.

The hog market remained unchanged, with thick smooths about $7 and select bacon $7.70.

Theer was no trading on the sheep and lamb market due to lack of receipts.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, May 8.—Receipts are said to be lighter than anticipated, which is creating more confidence in the future of storage eggs. A number of receiving stations have been opened at various centralized points in the three prairie provinces for the candling and the grading of eggs.

Toronto jobbing prices unchanged. The market is firm for the better grades and easier for seconds.

Montreal business more brisk. Jobbing specials 32; extras 29. It is reported country shippers are paying extras 23; firsts 20, with some business at one cent below these quotations.

Winnipeg receipts light. Dealers quoting shippers delivered extras 21, firsts 19, seconds 16.

Franc Affected By French Elections.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Speculative operations in the foreign exchange market, based on uneasiness over the outcome of the approaching French election and disturbances in the Ruhr, yesterday caused abrupt declines of more than 40 points in the price of French francs and two cents in the price of Sterling.

After dropping from 6.40 1-2, to 5.98 cents on heavy selling from abroad in the early dealings, francs fluctuated erratically during the rest of the day"s trading, rebounding at one time to 6.17 and falling back again at the close to around 5.95 cents.

Melbourne Tramway Strikers Dismissed.

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 9—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters)—The tramway strike in Melbourne resulting from the dismissal of a driver for refusing to instruct one of the board's special police has finally brought a notice from the board which means virtually the dismissal of 3,300 strikers. The board's notice states that all employees who absented themselves from duty or refused to work "thereby repudiated their contracts with the board which accepts their repudiation".

Sir Alexander Peacock, premier of the State of Victoria invited both sides Thursday afternoon to a joint conference.

SYNOD OPPOSES KING'S COLLEGE FUND CAMPAIGN

Anglicans of Fredericton, N.B., Refuse Support to Raising of $400,000 For Federation With Dalhousie University at Halifax, N.S. — Prefer Divinity School In the Diocese.

AN OLD INSTITUTION.

FREDERICTON, N.S., May 9.—(Canadian Press).—At the conclusion of a two and one half hours debate with respect to the status of King's College, under the Federation with Dalhousie University, the diocesan synod of Fredericton yesterday morning adopted by an overwhelming majority, a resolution refusing its support to the proposed campaign to raise $400,000 for King's College, and refraining from the appointment of governors for the college.

The whole debate hinged about the proposed campaign for the $400,000 required by King's College, in order to meet the terms of the Federation and to prevent King's endowment from being taken up by Dalhousie through failure to provide the necessary buildings at Halifax. The debate became intense at various stages, particularly when the Federation agreement was termed as "iniquitous" and "dishonorable" and the opinion was expressed that the death of King's was to be preferred to dishonor in this connection.

The establishment of a divinity school within the diocese and affiliated with the University of New Brunswick, was urged and met with a good deal of approval. General reluctance was evident to sever the associations of the past with King's, but under the Federation agreement future of King's appeared to be extremely doubtful and distasteful in the opinion of those present.

King's College, an Anglican institution, and the oldest British overseas college, removed from Windsor N.B., last fall and Federated with Dalhousie University at Halifax, retaining, however, its indentity. The Federation followed agitation for a union of all Maritime provinces colleges at Halifax with Carnegie Foundation aid. King's was struck by a disastrous fire a few years ago and other financial difficulties incidental to the higher cost of education.

RUM-RUNNERS HELD FOR SHOOTING MAN

Identified By Victim Who Alleges They Robbed Him On Road to Canada

PLATTSBURG, N.Y., May 9. — Charles and Francis Aikin, brothers, of Whitehall, were arrested here yesterday by Sheriff Day, of Clinton County, charged with holding up, shooting and robbing George Fenton, at Terry's Mills, late Wednesday night. Fenton was brought to a hospital here for treatment of the bullet wound in his leg and identified the two youths as his assailants, according to the authorities.

The two prisoners, the elder of whom is only twenty years old, are alleged to have told the police that they were on their way to Canada for another load of rum when they met Fenton in his automobile. Fenton said they held him up and shot him when he resisted. They then took several hundred dollars from him, he said, and drove off, leaving him lying by the road. The youths are sons of a Whitehall grocer. Francis was recently convicted of violation of the prohibition law.

USUAL ROAD GRANTS IN UNITED COUNTIES ARE PROPOSED BY REEVES

The Campbellford Protest Against Losing County Appropriation This Year Pressed At Meeting of Reeves and Deputies At Port Hope—Work of the Superintendent Appreciated.

Informal Discussion.

(By a Staff Reporter)

PORT HOPE, May 9.—The towns and villages in the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham will get their usual road grants this year if the action decided upon at a meeting of the reeves and deputies of the urban municipalities, held here on Wednesday afternoon, is implemented. The appropriation for county roads for the year 1924 was reduced from $120,000 to $90,000, at the January session of the Counties' Council, hence the recent agitation to have the towns and villages forego their grants, so that the township roads will not suffer as a result of the cut in the appropriation. At the meeting Wednesday it was decided to make the attempt to increase the appropriation so that everything is likely to be on the same footing as last year.

Why the Reduction was Made.

The reduction in the appropriation was made last January when the council received notice from the Department of Highways that the sum the United counties would have to pay for provincial highway work within their borders was nearly double the amount charged in 1923. The councillors felt that in view of this increase, over which they had no control, it was up to them to economize somewhere.

Who Started Agitation?

At the meeting on Wednesday the question was raised as to who first suggested the waiving of the urban road grants, and whether the Department was in favor of such a course.

Ex-Warden Smith said that the impression had been given the residents of the counties from one end to the other that the suggestion was official. It was recalled that the first heard of it was in an address on road building made to the county councillors last winter by John McVickar, engineer of the Highway Department. Whether the idea was original with Mr. McVicker or had been supplied him by his superiors, was not clear.

Campbellford Heard From.

The delegates at the meeting from Campbellford were Reeve C. H. Davidson and Deputy Reeve James L. Dorie, and they came armed with a resolution adopted by their town council, protesting against the proposed suspension of the grant, and also requesting the government to return directly to the municipalities each year a portion of the automobile license money collected for the construction and maintenance of roads. A copy of the resolution is to be sent to every memmber of the Counties' Council.

With regard to this resolution Premier Ferguson was quoted as saying that the municipalities receive in grants for road building more than they pay each year for auto licenses.

Mr. Greer Commended.

County Superintendent Greer's work in handling the highways' probles was commended. Warden Fowlds stated that Mr. Greer had held his present position for seven years and that he was often called upon to perform delicate tasks in the purchase of land for the widening of straightening of county roads from owners who were disposed to ask excessive prices. So diplomatic is Mr. Greer in the handling of these matters that he has never yet had a case that required to be settled by arbitration and he has never yet had put the counties to the expense of a law suit.

The discussion by the delegates was entirely informal, and the county highway problem was thoroughly threshed out. Reeve Holdaway, of Port Hope, who called the meeting, presided.

Italians Lead New French Citizens

PARIS, May 9.—Italians led the list of those who became naturalized French citizens during 1923, according to figures given out Thursday. Italians naturalized totalled 1,350. There were 122 Germans, mainly from Alsace-Lorraine, and 679 Belgians. The total of aliens naturalized was 4,483, or 183 less than in 1922.

During 1923, forty foreigners were granted French citizenship after three years authorized residence and two became citizens after one years' residence because they had rendered important services to France or had "brought distinguished talents to the country." The same privilege can be granted for military service in the colonies or protectorates.

fiscation of rights of liberty and property."

Voted to Stay Out.

T. B. McQueston of Hamilton, gave the committee the results of recent votes on union in that city. "In the last six months," he said, "ten Presbyterian churches in that city had voted by enormous majorities to stay out of union. In the other four churches in the city it had not been possible to get a vote owing to the opposition of officials."

Mr. McQuesten was still on the stand when the committee rose.

Rev. W. G. Brown.

Rev. W. G. Brown of Red Deer, stated that he had spent his ministerial life in home mission work and had been 22 years on the Home Mission Committee.

"We are not opposed," he said, "to any church in Canada. We are not idol worshippers of the Presbyterian church. We believe in Christian unity just as much as the most ardent advocate of organic union. We are not a sectarian body, we are members of the Christian Catholic church. We have no desire to keep in the Presbyterian church anyone who feels it his duty to leave."

He contrasted the attitude of the general assembly in 1874 and in 1916. In 1874, he said, the general assembly had gone ahead because the people were behind it. In 1916 it had gone ahead although the second vote had shown an increase of 45 per cent. in the vote against union, while the vote for it had gone up by only one per cent.

He advocated "unity in diversity" as against uniformity, which, he claimed, was the principle of this bill.

Centralize Authority.

"Uniformity," he said, "would obliterate all the provinces of Canada and would concentrate the administration of Canadian affairs in Toronto. This bill would obliterate denominational autonomy and centralize all authority in the church at Toronto.

"This," he added, "is to be the beginning of a great National Protestant church ,and the more you centralize, the more autocratic you become. If that is what you want, go ahead."

Mr. Brown denied that the union movement had been the success in the west which Principal Oliver, of Saskatoon and other Unionists had claimed. He quoted a letter from Rev. W. A. Cameron, Missionary Superintendent of North Saskatchewan, in criticism of the map of union churches for Saskatchewan. This map gave 400 "union churches" but Mr. Cameron said that there were not more than 32 "straight union" churches in Saskatchewan. He quoted further a letter from Rev. Dr. McAfee, of Indian Head, stating that the "union movement has made practically no contribution to the deepening of spiritual life or the growth of the church." He quoted the pastor of a "union church" in Saskatchewan as writing that "union has been forced on the people."

Not Sweeping Forward.

He challenged Hon. N. W. Rowell's reported staement that church union was "sweeping forward," in Australia; and quoted a Presbyterian minister in Australia as stating that "organic union in Australia is as dead as Sennacherib's army."

He denied that church union would be an issue in the next election if this bill did not pass.

"Anyone who brings it up," he declared, "will defeat his candidate and kill his cause."

In closing he quoted a declaration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the Manitoba school question:

"Never will I coerce any man in matters of faith or conscience."

BRITISH FLOUR COMPANY PLANS GRAIN PROJECT

Spillers Consolidation At Vancouver Is Reported Negotiating For Control of the Alberta Pacific Company and Its 283 Elevators and Also the Alberta Flour Mills.

CALGARY REPORT.

CALGARY, Alta., May 9.—Telegraphic advice from Eastern Canada to the Calgary Herald indicates that the Spillers Consolidation, the great British milling company that is building a two million bushel elevator in Vancouver and is planning to take over the plant of the Alberta Flour Mills Limited in Calgary, is also negotiating for control of the Alberta Pacific Grain Company, in connection with their proposed $6,500,000 enterprises in Western Canada. The news of the negotiations for control of the Alberta Pacific Company agrees with the general plans that have been credited to the Spillers Company since they started their development operations in Western Canada with the building of the $2,500,000 elevator at Vancouver and with their negotiatoins for the completion of a ten thousand barrel mill of the Alberta Flour Mills Limited in this city.

Third Link in Chain.

Consummation of a transaction involving the absorption of the Alberta Pacific Grain Company would mean the completion of the third and last link in the chain that promises to be the greatest system engaged in the western grain trade.

The Alberta Pacific owns 283 elevators, two-thirds of them being in Alberta and the remainder in Saskachewan, with the exception of one or two in British Columbia.

The company was organized in 1913 to take over the interests of the Alberta Pacific Elevator Company with an authorized capital of $3,000,000.

John I. McFarland, president and managing director of the company, has just returned to Canada from a visit to England.

On the motion of Neal and Marett the council decided to exempt for the year 1924, all taxes except land, school and general omprovement in all new houses erected this year, carrying a total assessment of not less than $600 and built entirely for tenant purposes. This resolution was recommended to all succeeding councils, for their endorsement for a term not exceeding five years.

The Reeve was appointed as a member of the council on the delegation to see about the proposed midnight mail service.

HOME MARKET FOR FARMER

OTTAWA, May 9.—That the Canadian farmers, especially those in Western Canada, are adversely affected by world-wide conditions, which in particular depress the wheat-growing industry, was well set forth by Mr. R. V. LeSuer, member for West Lambton in his speech during the Budget Debate. He also showed the fallacy of expecting that much improvement would result from the tinkering that the King Government had done in its fiscal proposals.

It was shown that under the stimulus of the higher prices paid temporarily, the production of wheat almost all over the world had been greatly increased sinc 1913. Between 1909 and 1913 the production of wheat in all countries, outside of Russia, averaged approximately 3,000,000,000 bushels, which could be considered normal. But in 1921 it touched 3,116,000,000 bushels and in 1922 even 3,120,000,000 bushels. However, Europe, the great importer of wheat, was not to the extent of 20 per cent. as well able to buy now as she was before the war, so that with more wheat and few buyers the price was naturally depressed. Moreover, the tendency of prices generally was to fall.

Western Canada feels, it was pointed out, the full effect of these conditions. The acreage sown to wheat had risen from 11,000,000 acres in 1913 to 23,260,000 acres in 1921; while the yield increased from 231,000,000 bushels in 1913 to 470,000,000 bushels last year. With the cost of production so high, while the prices of agricultural products was depressed, it was no wonder that the farmer found it hard to make ends meet, and that he was in debt to banks and loan companies.

But what was the remedy proposed by the Government in order to meet this situation? It was proposed to meet it by reducing the sales tax and the duty on agricultural implements. To the sales tax reduction (the Liberal Government had doubled it themselves) there is no objection. But these under a very liberal estimate would not mean more to the average farmer than a saving of from $10.00 to $15.00 a year. The customs reduction itself would probably mean nothing. At the same time this was accompanied by provisions that were bound to affect very seriously the farmers' home market and thus place him in a worse situation than before. "The Government's proposal," it was pointed out, "may enable its ship to bump along the rocks a trifle longer, but it will not substantially help the agricultural industry."

Turning to the question of a remedy the member for West Lambton made some constructive proposals that merit attention. He drew attention to the fact that if measures now being taken for the improvement of conditions in Europe were successful, that continent would increase its consumption of wheat; but it was also true that Russia would gradually recover her position as a wheat exporter, so it was quite likely that over-production might continue for some time. The true remedy was to secure new and larger markets.

The home market was, for the Canadian farmer, the most important and surest. In 1919 it had absorbed 59 per cent. of our wheat production; in 1920 it has taken about 51 per cent.; in 1921 about 54 per cent., and in 1922 about 46½ per cent. This was important, for attempts were continually being made to show that the home market was a negligible consideration for the wheat grower. To increase the size of the home market would be wise policy, and efforts should be directed towards this end.

A determined effort should also be made to increase exports to certain other countries where conditions favoured the Canadian product. Because of climatic and soil conditions our wheat was superior in quality to that of most other exporting countries and due advantage should be taken of this fact. Even the United States could not do without it for mixing purposes. Very little, however, went to Central or South America, which had a population of 90,000,000 people, which imported 45,000,000 bushels of wheat and large quantities of wheat flour every year. These countries could also be easily reached all the year round through the port of Vancouver. If our wheat and flour could be placed there in large quantities the western farmers would have a large, new permanent market. Asia was another important potential market which took 32,000,000 bushels of wheat a year and to which Canada sent only 3,500,000. Her imports of flour were also important.

The member for West Lambton suggested that there should be more co-operation between all government of Canada for the working of solutions for the problems of agriculture. The farmer should not be left to his own efforts to work out his own salvation, and in this connection he pointed to what was being done in the United States and other countries in order to assist the farmer in changing from one crop to another.

It was, however, too much to expect that the salvation of the farmer could be worked out solely through the foreign market. In the United States this had been clearly realized, and with good results. Over there the farmers too had their troubles, but those responsible for public policy had wisely discerned that they could best help agriculture by increasing the home demand, and that this would come through producing at home a larger percentage of manufactured goods.

When this was attempted the United States was in the throes of the depression of 1921, but in May of that year the Emergency Tariff was passed followed by the Fordney Tariff in November. The higher duties with the help supplied to cotton producers, to ranchers and grain growers had so improved conditions that during the last two years the Republic has enjoyed one of the most prosperous periods in her history. It was idle to say that the example of such a nation was of no account. Canada was bound to be affected by the policy of that country, and the obvious thing to do was to increase the home market to the lasting benefit of both the farmer and the mechanic.

FAMILY DOCTORS SOON BE EXTINCT

Sick People Are Being Trained to Go to the Hospitals.

(By George Britt.)

CHICAGO, May 8. — Farewell beloved family doctor.

That community benefactor, who received most of the population into the world, watched over its childhood colics and measles, rescued its health from excesses and epidemics and will erase it sympathetically into its grave, is going to be institutionalized.

This is the outlook from National Hospital Day, 1924, by E. S. Gilmore, superintendent of the Wesley Memorial Hospital here and president-elect of the American Hospital Association.

"The day is surely coming," he says, "when sick people will not call the doctor when they get sick, but will go to a hospital

"There a man experienced in general diagnosis will examine them and assign to them a member of the staff who specializes in their ailment. The state will operate more hospitals than at present, but both public and private institutions will be managed on this plan.

They'll be Skyscrapers.

"Such a change will substitute efficiency for sentiment, but it will not de-humanize medical treatment. Hospitals, on the contrary, will be much more humanized than at present.

Fifty years ago or less, hospitals were simply boarding houses for sick people. To-day they are hotels. But in the future the tendency will be to give them the personal touch of homes."

Modern hospitals have been developed almost entirely in the last 50 years. The New York Hospital opened 47 years ago, excited admiring comment because it had bell wires and speaking tubes all over the building, elevators running from basement to roof and "non-absorbents" in the walls and floors. It was thought ordinary walls would harbor poisons which spread disease in hospitals.

But the advance in the next half century will be far greater than during the one just past, according to Superintendent Gilmore. It will include greater laboratory facilities for diagnosis and research; development of hydro-, eectro-, and physio- therapies; extension of medical study to bring it again on an equality with surgery, and improvement of nursing schools.

"Hospitals of the future will be skyscraper buildings, whether in the city or in the country," predicts Superintendent Gilmore. "If ground is cheap and plentiful, it is better to use it for lawns and parks for patients than to cover it with wide, flat buildings.

Wards will Go.

"The average time spent by patients in hospitals will be reduced. During the last 25 years, the average time per patient has been cut from 40 to 12 days. It may go to three or four days. Less space will be allotted to beds and more to laboratories, recreation rooms and education. Persons incapacitated for their former jobs must be taught new means of livelihood.

"Wards will be virtually eliminated and charity patients will be placed not more than two or three in a room. Hospital units will be so small that the division head may come in personal contact with each patient.

"Twilight sleep and other methods of relieving the suffering at childbirth will be used almost universally. Knowledge of the ductless glands will be extended, with beneficient results.

"Nature will not be asleep, however, as science gains control over disease and suffering. New diseases will develop. Death will still control the population."

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Sheen, esteemed residents of this town, were called to Midland yesterday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Sheen's sister, the late Mrs. Andrew Ross, who passed away there on Monday. Mrs. Ross was the youngest daughter of the late Mr. Geo. Kennedy, of Bomanton, Haldimand Township, and her girlhood days were spent in that locality. Since her marriage she has resided the most of the time at Midland. Mrs. Ross is survived by her husband, two sons, George of Midland and Andrew of Peterborough, and by one daughter, Mrs. Ralph Wilson, Midland. Sheen, Cobourg.

Alfred Deviney, the Haldimand Township farmer, who succumbed to the serious injury which he received when he was kicked in the stomach by a young horse, is mourned by a very large circle of friends and relatives. He was unmarried and had lived in Haldimand Township practically all of his lifetime, residing on the homestead near Vernonville with his mother, Mrs. Jane Deviney. His father, the late James Deviney, died some years ago. Two brothers, James and Sebert, live on adjoining farms. SIX ITALIANS ARE EXECUTED

Went to Death in Pairs at Few Minutes' Intervals--One Strapped in Chair on Trap Unconscious.

AMILE, La., May 9. —(Canadian Press).—Death march of the six Italians executed here to-day for murder of Dalla Calmes began about noon. The first to go to the scaffold were Roy Leona and Natale Deamore, a priest accompanied the men.

Joseph Bocchio and Andrew Lamatia were the next pair. Bocchio was supported on the trap while Lamatia was unconscious and was tied on a chair before the lever was pulled. Joseph Giglio and Joseph Rini were the last pair to face the executioner.

The crime for which six men paid the supreme penalty was committed shortly after midnight, May 8, 1921. Dallas Calmes, a restaurant operator, was aroused by a noise at the rear of his home, and upon investigating was shot down by a man dimly discernable in the darkness. The bandits, who had gone to Independence to rob the bank, boarded their automobile and fled. The authorities immediately summoned blood hounds at Crystal Springs, Miss., and telephoned the New Orleans police.

Detectives at New Orleans, on a tip from Amite, the seat of Tangipahoa parish, before the fugitives were arrested, went to the home of a wealthy Italian resident of New Orleans which it was believed might be a refuge for the bandits. The house was empty but there was every indication it had been deserted hurriedly. Nearby, in an automobile, they found the bodies of Cipolla Gaeto and another Italian named di Giovanni, who had been shot to death apparently a few hours earlier. This mystery never was solved and Roy Leona after his confession, said he and his companions knew nothing of that affair.

With the bloodhounds a posse followed a highway out of Independence and found the deserted car of the bandits. In the machine were pistols, an da large quantity of ammunition and dynamite. The dogs followed a trail into a thicket and there the posse arrested Joseph Giglio and Roy Leona, Brooklyn, N.Y., Joseph Bocchio and Andrea Lemantia, of Chicago, and Natale Deamore and Joseph Rini, of New Orleans. Two other Italians were arrested as possible suspects later but were exonerated.

The six prisoners protested their innocence, declaring they were on a camping trip, but all were convicted of murder. An appeal to the state supreme court resulted in a retrial and a second conviction which the higher court sustained. Then counsel for the condemned men appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States which in March refused to review the case because of a lack of jurisdiction.

Throughout the three years of legal battle the men were supplied with ample funds by Italian and Italian-American organizations and individuals throughout the country and Governor Parker received thousands of letters, telegrams and resolutions protesting against the conviction of innocent men and asking for clemency.

It had been established that only one, and at the most, two men, had fired at Calmes and for three years efforts were made to determine the guilty man. He would not admit his guilt nor would any of his companions disclose his identity, if they knew it. The Saturday before Easter Leona requested the Rev. Father Raymond Carra, of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, in New Orleans, to visit him that he might perform his "Easter duties." Leona, in his confession to the priest, said he fired the shot which killed Calmes. Father Carra told him he could not hope for forgiveness from his Maker if he did not make a public confession and clear his five companions. Leona agreed to do so and on Easter Monday in the presence of the superintendent of the Orleans parish prison, where the men had been held for safekeeping, Father Carra and newspaper men dictated a confession and signed it.

In his statement Leona said he and Giglio came to New Orleans late in April, 1921, to make and sell whiskey. He had been told by Vito di Georgio, who later was killed in Chicago, that he could become rich in a short time if he robbed the bank at Independence. Leona thought well of the suggestion and asked Giglio to join him. He had met Lemantia in New Orleans and when he broached the subject to him Lemantia and his friend Rini agreed to participate. The next step was to find a man who knew the highways about Independence and Deamore was persuaded to become a member of the party. Deamore asked Bocchio to join them and the sextette set out for Independence. When the bandits approached the bank shortly after midnight Leona and Rini, Leona said, left the car while the other four remained. Rini, however, Leona said, did not accompany him but disappeared in another direction.

"I tried to get near the bank by means of the rear yard, of Mr. Calmes' house," the confession continued. "As I jumped over the fence one of the pickets broke and the noise must have awakened Mr. Calmes. Mr. Calmes opened the door and shouted "Halt!" and fired four shots at me. Being surprised and frightened I fired two shots in the direction that the fire of Mr. Calmes' revolver was coming from, but unfortunately for him and for me I killed him. I was alone when Mr. Calmes shot at me and I alone returned the fire which killed Mr. Calmes."

When the confession was made public Tangipahoa parish authorities, attorneys and the widow of Calmes pronounced it "a trumped-up affair" in an attempt to save the lives of Leona's five companions. They pointed out that his confession did not coincide with the evidence and Mrs. Calmes declared she had seen two men. There also was a question concerning the shots Leona is supposed to have fired, for bullets were found where it was said they could not have come from his pistol or that of Calmes.

Another feature dwelt upon by those who placed little faith in the confession was that it came after all hope to escape execution had vanished, and that Leona had contracted tuberculosis during his long confinement which physicians said would prove fatal within a few months.

This was referred to by Governor Parker in a formal statement April 23 in connection with his declaration that no reprieve would be granted. After stating the convicted men had had the benefit of counsel the Governor added: "At the 11th hour one of their number, now afflicted with tuberculosis, seeks to assume responsibility, but in his own statement convicts every man proven to be a member of the party.

"Keeping thoroughly posted with every detail of these cases, having carefully watched the trial, realizing mine is an executive duty and being determined to back up to the fullest extent the decision of the courts, after having carefully read all the evidence, in my opinion these men are guilty of deliberate conspiracy, wilful murder, and the law shall take its course without interference from the Governor. This decision is final."

KIWANIS DADDY MOVEMENT HERE

Club Decides to Extend Activities in New Direction--Meeting Today

This is music week in Kiwanis circles, and at to-day's luncheon of the Peterboro Kiwanis Club, Miss Greta LeBarr, Mr. Martin Chenhall, Sr., Mr. Martin Chenhall, Jr., and Mr. Charles Clarke were responsible for a very excellent programme of music. Miss LeBarr was heard to advantage in two bright numbers and was presented with a bouquet of roses by Kiwanian Bob Mackey on behalf of the Club. For monopolizing the honors of the presentation Mackey and his accomplices were each fined ten cents. Mr. Clarke contributed a solo number and kindly responded to an encore. Mr. Martin Chenhall, Jr., demonstrated his ability on the 'cello, while his father officiated at the piano. An encore was followed by a vote of thanks to the contributing artists, also to Kiwanian Hugh Nevin for providing such an excellent program of music.

The presiding officer to-day was Vice-President Charles Cook, in the unavoidable absence of President John R. Marshall. To-day's guests included Douglas Loomis, of the Y.M.C.A., and Harry Sherin, of Lakefield. Kiwanian Walter Kidd was welcomed back after a long absence through illness.

Kiwanian Dr. Ed. Wood reported on the progress of the committee in charge of the Kiwanis party to be held in the Peterboro Club. Fifty tables have been allotted so far for bridge and five hundred. A high-class orchestra will be in attendance and the club-rooms will be decorated in the Kiwanis colors.

A letter expressing the appreciation of the Male Voice Choir for the support given by the Kiwanis Club and the reception at the station upon the return home of the Choir was received from Mr. C. S. Thompson, secretary of the Choir. Peterboro Kiwanians have been invited to charter night parties of the Belleville and Orillia Clubs. One is this month and the other in June. Peterboro will send a delegation to both.

Kiwanian J. A. McKone explained the Kiwanian Daddy movement to the members of the club, and, on motion of Kiwanian J. Wearing and Kiwanian Ed. Wood, it was heartily endorsed, and the Executive Committee instructed to go ahead with the plan. By this means underprivileged boys are taken under the protecting wing of a Kiwanian. This particularly applies to boys who are without father or mother. Kiwanian Wearing said his active association with the work of the Children's Aid Society convinced him of the need for such work in this community. The Kiwanian Daddy movement has been endorsed by the International, and was carried to a successful issue by the Toronto and Hamilton Clubs.

GENEVA, May 9. — (Canadian Press).—Coming especially to pay a visit to the League of Nations, King Ferdinand and Queen Marie, of Rumania, arrived here this morning and were received with military honors and President Chuard and officials of the Swiss Republic at the railway station. They were acclaimed by the populace.

Simultaneous with their arrival, the Geneva newspapers printed despatches received by way of Germany, reporting that Soviet troops were preparing an attack against Rumania on account of the dispute over Bessarabia, that War Minister Trotzky had inspected his army at the border and that clashes had occurred near Dneister between the Russian and Rumanian sentinels.

COMMUNISTS ARE ACTIVE PARTIES IN POLL BATTLES

Organize Flying Bands of Boys Who Wreck Opponents' Meetings — More Interested in German Election Than Their Own.

MUTINEER LEADS

By Webb Miller, United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, May 9. — Except for the activity of Communists, who are pursuing a deliberate campaign of violence the French election campaign is closing in an atmosphere of general apathy despite the importance of the issues involved. The French paid more attention to the German elections than they thus far have devoted to their own.

The Communists led by Andre Marty, the pardoned Black Sea mutineer, are making an extremely bitter fight in the industrial suburbs of Uaris, a fight aimed especially at Andre Tardieu.

"Flying Circuses,' 'have been organized. These are groups of boys toughs from 12 to 16 years old, who dash in and break up political meetings. Upon a signal given by a Communist director the youngsters glee fully set a cat-calling and howling which prevents speakers opposed to the Communists from being heard. They even carry Klaxton horns under the coats to assist in the bedlam.

A number of anti-Communists have recently been accusing the Marty group of spending on the campaign money received from Moscow.

There are 3,322 candidates through out France and in some constituencies as many as 16 parties.

Among the better candidates in the Paris region Jacques Worth, the dressmaker, Sadie Lecointe, comman der Brocard and ministers for the Ruhr, Letrocquer and Maginot. Lecointe who had the world speed retords a long time is conducting a remarkable campaign. He makes no speeches. "A parrot talks but it cannot fly," Lecointe says, "I fly but I don't talk."

Speer, Mrs. D. Holden and Miss A. Throop, vocal solos by Mrs. Ipsa Weir and Mrs. Marshall, a fashion parade, a pantomime and a nodding drill. Mrs. Ipsa Weir had charge of the presentation. Rev. M. M. Mackinnon acted as chairman, and an instrumental selection was given by Mrs. Mackinnon.

CHILDREN TAKING TO HORTICULTURAL WORK

The children in the Public schools have taken to the Horticultural work very well and a great number of weedless gardens will be the result this summer. In St. Catharines about 2,000 children take up the work each year and it has proved a great success. Several schools in the city have been heard from and the returns are very satisfactory. The following schools have turned in their lists of children who want to take up this work. King George, King Edward, Central and Prince of Wales. The seeds are now here and distribution will start to-day. The buttons which will also be redistributed are expected in a few days. If a child has a button he can produce without any other charge. The four schools who have reported have done well and it is hoped that the other schools which have not yet been heard from will do as well.

BOBBED HAIR UPKEEP COSTS $75 A YEAR

That those women who have contemplated having their hair "bobbed" should not lightly count the cost seems fully warranted by an investigation which shows the average "upkeep" expense to range from $50 to $75 a year. There seems to be no doubt that this fact is beginning to prove eqqually deterrent to an increase in this fashion fad as the secret realization that "her hair is woman's greatest glory." In searching for ways to reduce "upkeep" expenses, it is interesting to learn that the "shingle-heads" have made the discovery that wearing a boudoir cap at night takes the curl out of hair. Many are now wearing one or two double mesh hair nets, thus retaining the coiffure while allowing proper ventilation and keeping the hair cool.

TO-DAY'S QUOTATIONS AND OPINION AND REVIEWS OF THE MARKETS.

We hear that the financial arrangements for additional working capital of Indian mines has been completed, and progressive activity has started. Engineer Davis advises that the lower tunnel be completed to a new found ore body. It is believed that new interests will soon be on the board of directors and that the management will be greatly strengthened by the addition of mining men well versed in conditions. The above plans having been completed will make the price of Indian mines look very cheap.

CHURCH UNION

OTTAWA, May 9 (Canadian Press). — "I hope you will not coerce us," said T. B. McQuesten, of Hamilton, in resuming his plea against the Church Union Bill this morning before the Commons' Private Bills Commission, "if you are reasonably satisfied that there is a majority or a very powerful minority who do not want to go into the union."

Mr. McQuesten followed this up by a survey of the recent votes and other statistics to prove that there had been "a complete turnover" in the opinion in the Presbyterian Church since the 1915 vote on the union.

He gave the result of the card votes in a large number of congregations, showing a total vote against union of 72,577.

NEWFOUNDLAND WILL FORM A NEW CABINET

ST. JOHN'S, N.F., May 9 (Canadian Press). — Sir Robert Bond, former Premier of Newfoundland, has refused to re-enter the public lift and accept the task of forming a Cabinet as requested yesterday by Premier Warren.

Mr. Warren will visit Governor Allardyce to-day, and it is understood that he will recommend that Sir William Coaker, president of the Fishermen's Union, be invited to form a Cabinet.

It is said that Sir William favours Albert Hickman for Premiership.

STEAMER PORSANGER AND LINER COLLIDE

FATHER POINT, May 9 (Canadian Press). — The steamer Porsanger collided with the Steam Packet liner Orca last night in a dense fog, fifty miles east of here.

The Porsanger's bows were crumpled, while there is a hole in the side of the Arca fifteen feet above the water line.

Both steamers proceeded, the Porsanger for Montreal and the Orca for New York.

LACROSSE ASSOCIATION IS OUT OF AFFILIATION

TORONTO, May 9 (Canadian Press). — It was announced last night by Secretary Harcourt of the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association, that he had been instructed by the executive to inform the Ontario branch of the A.A.U. of C. that the O.A.L.A. had withdrawn from the affiliation.

The trouble arose from the Ontario branch granting amateur cards to players who played professional soccer in the Old Country and in Canada.

The O.A.L.A. after the annual meeting, requested the Ontario branch to extend this privilege to other branches of sport, but the letter was ignored.

ANOTHER REFUGEE.

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 9. — Typical of thousands of other professional and artistic refugees, from Soviet Russia, Madame Maria Karinskaya, celebrated opera singer of pre-revolution, a favorite in court circles during the late regime, and a cousin of the famous Russian basso, Chaliapin, reached a sanctuary on the Canadian Pacific S. S. Empress of Australia.

NOTORIOUS WOMAN CRIMINAL POSES AS MAN STAR- BOARDER

BERLIN, May 9.—(Associated Press).—Herr von Waranwski lived for many months in a Berlin boarding house and enjoyed the reputation of a model roomer. He was polite, considerate and always prompt in the payment of his rent, and no one in the house ever even suspected that this young man was a woman, the notorious Clara Wittig, with a criminal record.

One of the woman lodgers was amazed one night to find Waranowski standing over her bed with a revolver in his hand, demanding her valuables. She visited and robbed all the other lodgers before disappearing. The police caught the culprit, and thus was her identity revealed.

RADIO BRINGS NEWS TO EARS.

The Radio Brings the Work of the Government to the Ears of the Public.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 9. —That idea of broadcasting speeches direct from the floor of the Senate in Washington is nothing new to fans of station WOS here.

This is the State-owned broadcasting station supported by legislative appropriation and designed for the dissemination of State affairs by radio.

An example of the advantage of radio, especially in keeping tab on State officials, was afforded recently when more than a million dollars worth of road building contracts were let by the Missouri State Highway Department.

The bids were opened and read aloud by B. H. Piepmeier, State highway engineer, before the State broadcasting station microphone in the Senate chamber.

All over the State, and beyond, persons interested in Missouri's affairs turned in on WOS to hear how the bids were being handled. It was the farthest step from secrecy political affairs ever took.

The State broadcasting station broadcasts hourly, for the benefit of farmers, the latest market reports from Kansas City, St. Louis, St. Joseph and Omaha, the points to which Missouri farmers ship cattle, hogs and grain.

Twice a month WOS broadcasts musical entertainments and prisoners from the State Penitentiary furnish part of the programs.

There are few paid workers at WOS, because it is operated by persons doing other State work. The last Legislature appropriated $15,000 for it for two years.

The station is equipped with a 500-watt transmitter, consisting of two 250-watt oscillating tubes and two modulators. It transmits on 441 meters.

NEW LORD MAYOR OF YORK SAYS HE WON'T BE KIDDED

YORK, England, May 9.—(Associated Press).—"The Council of the Corporation of this town are a lot of piffling frauds in regard to the recognition of the Civic Sunday," is an utterance of the first Labor Lord Mayor, Alderman Dobbie. He added that the members of the corporation have recently attended church in such small numbers that he would not waste his time putting on the mayoral robes, even to keep up the traditions of the city, if other members would not accompany him. "If they have kidded other Lord Mayors to go to church in these circumstances, they won't kid me," Mr. Dobbie declared.

HEAD DESIGNER VISITS PETERBORO

Mr. Jas. Doyle, of the Grafton Co. Makes Special Trip to Measure Firemen.

With a view to giving their best service in the filling of their contract to supply the new suits for the city firemen, Mr. James Doyle, chief designer for the Grafton Company at their factory, Dundas, visited Peterborough on Wednesday to get the measurements and build of the men on the Fire Brigade. He visited the Fire Hall and gave his personal attention to the measuring of each man and officer and the individuality of each is now visualised on paper, giving the cutter an exact outline of the man he has to fit. The result should be that the suits, when delivered, will be tailored to form, and allow the freedom of action that is so often necessary in the fireman's calling.

The Grafton Company intend to spare no pains to make the suits entirely satisfactory in every way, and give the city the best possible value in filling their clothing contract.

JAPAN DELAYS THE WITHDRAWAL OF GARRISONS IN MANCHURIA

TOKIO, May 9.— (Associated Press).—The Japanese government has decided to suspend, for this year at least, its schedule for the withdrawal of its special railway garrisons from Manchuria, owing to disturbed conditions in that province. The decision was reached on recommendation of the war office after vigorous representations regarding conditions in Manchuria had been received from Japanese residents there, chiefly along the line of the South Manchuria Railway.

Plans for the withdrawal of the Manchurian garrisons were announced at the close of the Washington conference. The garrisons then consisted of six infantry battalions. Two battalions were withdrawn in 1923; two more were to come out in 1924 and the remaining two in 1925.

Conditions have become such, according to Japaneses military authorities, that it is impossible to carry out the schedule exacuation this year.

BLACK BIRDS FIGHTING.

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—(Canadian Press).—Black birds and housewives to-day were fighting against an army of billions of caterpillars moving against the south-western outskirts of Los Angeles and devouring plants and flowers.

The housewives, complaining that their children cannot come home from school without walking on worms, were sweeping caterpillars off their sidewalks and spraying them off their lawns and flower beds with insecticides. The blackbirds were gulping with happy appetites and arriving in new swarms hourly for the feast.

MAKING YOUR CHILD BEHAVE

The Best Way to Punish Children is to Make Them Punish Themselves.

A shrewd mother writes: "The best way to punish children is to make them punish themselves. My little boy, in a rage, grabbed a dish from the table and shattered it to fragments on the floor. Instead of spanking him, I made him smash the toy he loves best—a little horse that he hauled with a string."

This mother cruel? By no means. In making her child take his own medicine, she probably effected a permanent cure.

A lad in a western town had a "perfect mania" for throwing stones through windows. His mother spanked him. It did no good. He continued his stoning. Finally he landed in juvenile court. The judge heard the case and sentenced him to throw 2,000 stones, under the eyes of a policeman.

At last report, the lad wouldn't throw a stone for pay.

We know another little boy who simply would not behave at the table. Delighting in mischief and having a cruel streak in his make-up, he deliberately tormented his mother whom he knew to be nervous. One trick in his repertoire was tapping a water glass with a spoon.

He was cured by making him eat his meals alone until he was willing to behave.

The ineffectiveness of punishing youngsters is frequently due to the punishment being administered when the parent is in a rage. For instance, many a father gives his son a trouncing that pa regrets when he cools off. His natural reaction is to atone—to "make up" by gifts such as candy or coins. This naturally neutralizes the corrective effect (if any) of a whipping.

Never punish a child when you are in anger. Think it over. No matter how a parent punishes, he should chastise or penalize only when in complete control of his temper.

More effective than any beating is to say to a boy: "If you do so-and-so, you cannot go to the movies for a month. Now, it's up to you. If you want to punish yourself, go ahead and be bad."

MINNESOTA INDIAN FEARS STARVATION

Famine During the Cold Weather Here Stalked Through the Huts of the Chippewas, the Ojibways of Hiawatha Legend

By GEORGE BRITT.

WHITE EARTH, Minn., May 8.—You may hear a new phonograph luxuriously wailing, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" in the same one-room Indian shack which a month ago was on the ragged edge of starvation.

Famine during the cold weather here stalked through the huts of the Chippewas, the Ojibways of Hiawatha legend.

The Great White Father at Washington relieved the acute need with an appropriation of $100 to each Chippewa.

The payment did a world of good. There was some squandering upon finery and gymcracks, upon cheap automobiles and firewater, but clothing and groceries were also bought.

According to leaders of the General Council of Chippewas of Minnesota, the capable, educated Indian is bound from asserting his rights and handling his share of the money and there is no spur of practical necessity to convert the backward Indian from dependence, improvidence and slothfulness.

Next winter, they predict, will bring its own similar stories of destitution.

There was little work this last winter. Family after family, living normally under conditions which white people would consider shocking, shake their heads to the visitor and say, "We had a hard time pulling through." One responsible observer came back with the story of destitute old people sending out a young man with a shotgun every morning. If he could kill a crow, they had food.

Confirming the tale of hardship is the word of the venerable Father Aloysius, for forty-six years a Benedictine missionary here.

"Every day during cold weather," he says, "Indians come to the door begging, 'Give us food, Father, or we shall starve.' It was never so bad but once before, and that was forty years ago."

Governor Preus sent up a committee to investigate the stories, and they reported:

"The want, destitution, privation and sickness which existed on the White Earth Reservation could have been alleviated and there would have been no necessity for calling upon outside aid if the means afforded by the Indian Bureau had been used."

The suffering was largely confined to the poorer members of the community, to the very old and to the families with numerous young children. Of such prolific families there are very many.

The White Earth band of 7,000 Chippewas to a great extent are assimilated to white civilization. They are voting citizens. Their lands have been allotted and most of them have sold their allotments and spent the money. They make their living by the tasks of white men.

VASSAR GRADUATE WHOLESALE BUYER

No Other Woman Has a Job Like Florence Danahay the Meat Buyer

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 8—There's one woman at least who doesn't have to worry about some other woman competing for her job. She's Florence Danahay of Buffalo.

According to statistics, she's the only woman wholesale meat buyer in the world.

An she gets just as much satisfaction buying a few thousand pounds of choice beef and pork each day as the buyer of feminine accessories does searching out the latest dictates of fashion.

Though other women don't aspire to her job, most of them would be glad to have built up the business she has, or now she owns three of the best meat markets in Buffalo and she is going to buy more just as soon as certain locations are available. She buys every pound of meat that enters her shops herself.

"Naturally sausages and liver didn't appeal to my sense of adventure," she admits, "but when I got out of Vassar College, I found I had inherited an interest in a packing house. There were no men in my family to look after the business, so I felt that it was up to me.

"I learned everything I could about meats and then I began buying. Later I sold the packing house and went into the retail meat market business, and I expect to have a chain of a dozen within a few years."

Though she would be glad to help women, she doesn't employ one in her shops.

"Because none has ever applied she explained. "Women might just as well be meat cutters as men, but the business has evidently never appealed to them.

"I am constantly surprised at the little effort the average woman takes to learn about the different cuts of meat she buys and the condition under which they are prepared."

Miss Danahay says she never shades her prices and she never buys meats that have not been government inspected and prepared in the most sanitary possible way.

"My customers have never objected to my prices because they know I aim for quality," she said. "Caterers come to me when they want particularly choice cuts and they take my advice about what to buy, because my being a woman, they take it for granted I know what will please other women."

She admits she is a better buyer of meat than cook of what she has bought.

"But it wouldn't take me long to learn to cook if it were necessary," she confides.

HOW TO DODGE THE OLD COLDS

It Has Been Scientifically Proven that Colds are Caused From Germs

When people catch cold at this time of year, they usually blame it on changing too suddenly to light-weight clothes, especially underwear.

A medical authority tells us that, while it is risky to make an abrupt change in the warmth of garments, the usual cause of spring epidemics of colds is this:

During the winter germs have accumulated on sidewalks and streets which are used as municipal cuspidors. As warm weather comes, the dust in the streets dries and begins floating around in the air. This dust carries the winter crop of germs with it.

The germs lodge on mucous membranes of nose and throat. An epidemic of colds follows.

One would not be immune even if he wore a germ-filter over mouth and notrils. It has been scientifically proved that germs can enter the body through the eyes.

The popular notion is that a period of wet weather starts an epidemic of colds. As a matter of fact, more colds are "caught" during dusty warm spells.

The germs are held in check by the resisting powers of the body. In damp or rainy weather, people get their feet wet. Or they get chilled by changing too quickly to light-weight garments and other ways. This chilling lowers the body's resistance.

The germs, which entered the body before clothes were changed, or during the colder or drier weather, now begin to multiply. The result is a sever cold.

Some health authorities claim that colds in cities would be reduced at least by half if streets and sidewalks were flushed with water from hydrants to carry germ-laden dust down the sewers. Instead, cities wait until the dust is dry, then sweep it—partly into heaps for collectors, but also into the air where it is breathed into nose, throat and lungs.

It wouldn't cost much to get the fire hoses out and give the streets and sidewalks a thorough cleansing—a virtual sterilization, in fact. A few wise cities do this.

The same process applies to the home. Germs are carried in on the shoes. They collect in rugs. Sweeping with a broom stirs them into the air. A vaccum cleaner for sweeping and a wet cloth for dusting are powerful health protectors.

CONSENT OF OTHER DOMINIONS ASKED.

Premier King Opening Way to Publication of Correspondence on the Lausanne Treaty.

OTTAWA, May 7. — (Canadian Press). — Consent of the "other Dominions" has been requested by Canada to the tabling of the most recent correspondence on the Lausanne Treaty. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen asked the Prime Minister Tuesday why the correspondence was not made public. Press despatches said that the British Government was agreeable but awaited Canada's consent.

Premier King said that he had understood that the British Government was not ready to publish it. However, the morning's despatches indicated that Ramsay MacDonald really awaited the consent of all the Dominions. Mr. King had cabled to the other Dominions yesterday afternoon asking their consent, which he expected would be given shortly.

25% Better Painting
25% Greater Paint Value is obtained with
Floglaze "The Finish That Endures"

A prominent contractor (name given on request) estimated that he would require 20 gallons of paint to finish five houses. He was supplied with 15 gallons of FLOGLAZE EXTERIOR. Twelve gallons were used, or just 60% of the amount of his own estimate. His foreman painter stated that it was the best material he had ever put a brush into.

The Importance of the Priming Coat in Painting

The permanency of any structure rests mainly in the character of its foundation. No one would place a wooden foundation under a stone superstructure.

The priming or first coat is the foundation in painting, and is the most important coat.

The priming coat must obtain a thorough hold upon the pores of the wood. For this purpose the materials used must be the best and the brushing thorough.

When the surface is damp, dusty, greasy or scaly, the prime coat cannot obtain the necessary hold in the pores. It must be free from all of these.

If the prime coat gives way all subsequent coats must give away with it.

Do not make any sacrifice in either materials or workmanship in your prime coat.

For these reasons we recommend FLOGLAZE to be reduced for priming, as we have carefully directed on each of our labels on the can.

Floglaze Exterior Paint covers 500 square feet, two coats, to the gallon. It is self-levelling---leaves no brush marks. It gives the highest annual service value with the lowest cost per thousand square feet. Produces an enamel-like finish with 25% greater durability.

Priming Coat for Exterior Painting: Thin one gallon of FLOGLAZE EXTERIOR with one quart of raw linseed oil and one quart of turpentine, and brush well into the surface with a good oval bristle brush.

Priming coats made with other materials do not self-level. Such primers do not possess the holding and lasting qualities of the scientifically treated, pure linseed oil used in FLOGLAZE.

Build up your entire exterior finish with FLOGLAZE in the FLOGLAZE way for the most permanent results and the best appearing finish.

FISH CLIMB TREES IN SOUTHERN SEAS.

Captain Albert J. Dunken Says He Saw Thousands of Squirrel Fish in the South Seas.

ZION, Ill., May 8.— Fish climb trees like squirrels!

To prove they do, Captain Albert J. Duken is heading an expedition into the South Seas to take motion pictures of the thousands of squirrel fish he says he saw there on a previous trip.

Back of the skipper in his unique voyage is William Hale Thompson, former mayor of Chicago.

Duken had tried to interest Thompson in a commercial enterprise of his in the southern Pacific. Thompson seemed indifferent until Duken mentioned fish— climbing fish.

"Quite a fish story," Thompson remarked, when the captain had informed him there was a species on an island in the South Seas that climbed trees like squirrels.

"It isn't a lie," persisted the captain. "It's a true story. I've seen thousands of them."

"Can you take moving pictures of these fish?" asked Thompson.

"I can," was the reply, and Thompson figured that if movies of wild animals brought half a million dollars, Duken's pictures ought to earn a million.

The result was Thompson agreed to finance Duken on his climbing fish expedition. With Duken will go his wife, their 8-year old son, a camera man ,press man, taxidermist and radio man, besides a crew of six.

Captain Duken chose the ketch rig for handiness. She is being built here and will sail July 4.

The ketch's main mast is 68 feet high and carries a gaff top sail above the main sail. The mizzen is wireless equipped. There is no bowsprit and all foresails are inboard.

The ship will be equipped with a 50 horse power motor ,and 950 gallons of fuel will be carried.

"In her design," says Duken, "seaworthiness has been the first consideration. With an overall length of 68 feet she has a beam of 16 feet and all frames are of selected oak. The frames are all steam bent and laid 12 inches part centre. All planking and decking is of cypress. This was chosen as the only American wood that will not rot in tropical humidity and heat."

The ship will start its remarkable trip out of Chicago, through the canal and locks down the Mississippi. She will stop at St. Louis, Memphis, Vicksburg and New Orleans.

After taking on supplies at New Orleans, the ketch will proceed through the Panama Canal and will continue down the west coast of South America to Easter Is land. Then will come Tahiti, Norfolk Island, Pitcairn Island, Sydney, Australia, and after a short stay there will cruise among the islands north of Australia.

AMERICAN GRAIN MARKET CAPTURED BY RUSSIANS

BERLIN, May 9. — American grain has been virtually driven out of the Baltic states and Finland through Russian competition and is rapidly disappearing from the Scandinavian, German and Dutch markets before Russian grain, according to a report on Russian commerce issued in Berlin by Peter Petroff, an attache of the Russian commercial delegation in Germany.

Mr. Petroff was an early minister of foreign affairs in Petrograd under the Bolshevist Government, and has lived for many years in Britain.

Between 1st October, 1922, and 1st October, 1923, the report states that the exports of Russia exceeded the imports by a value of 23,190,000 roubles. Grain was the chief item of export, and rye was the leading product. The total grain exportation for that year was 99,123,476 poods, the pood being about 36 pounds.

This was only 13.6 per cent. of Russia's pre-war grain exportation.

Germany and Britain took 53.7 per cent. of Russia's exports for that year, and supplied 66.5 per cent. of its imports.

TO CURE DISEASE BY FUSED QUARTZ

Another Wonder of the Age Developed in Laboratory.

LYNN, Mass., May 8. — Soon the windows of your house may be made of quartz instead of glass.

Stranger still, you may have a light in one room that travels invisibly, bending along its course, into another room where you may read by it.

But of far greater importance, fused quartz, one of the most amazing substances to be contributed to science, promises to give access to ultra-violet rays which are counted upon to cure almost any disease.

Perfection of fused quarts has just been announced by the General Electric Company laboratories here. Dr. Edward L. Berry, assistant director of the Thomson laboratory, is the man responsible for its perfection.

To Cure Disease.

In an interview with the writer, Dr. Berry explained the properties of fused quartz, demonstrating its possibilities with tests that astonished.

"Clear fused quarts is the only known material which can be obtained in quantity that is transparent to those rays in the ultra-violet so important in the treatment of disease and in maintenance of our general health," he declared.

To demonstrate its transparency he held a piece of quartz, about the size of a two-pound square of butter, and his hand was almost as visible under it - though the quartz were not there.

"It is my belief that many of our diseases are caused by our indoor living," he continued. "If we lived in the sun there would not be so many germs. Thus, in our present mode of living, we have to find something that will make up for the loss of sun we suffer. Fused quartz can go a long way in that direction.

"A rod of it, one meter long, will emit at one end about 93 per cent. of the total visible light passed into the other end. In the best grades of optical glass the percentage is not more than 65.

"Thus, ultraviolet rays of the sun can be strained through fused quartz and directed into parts of the body hitherto inaccessible."

Dr. Berry held a long rod of quartz, bended and twisted into the shape of a horse shoe. At one end he flashed a pocket light, and immediately the light was emitted at the other end, not being visible at all along the solid but transparent rod.

"This is possible because of the purity of the quartz," Dr. Berry explained. "In glass it is the impurities that resist heat and light. Quartz merely transmits it absorbing practically nothing of it."

Because of the purity of quartz, because it is only negligibly affected by changing atmosphere, it is expected that it will replace glass wherever its superior properties are important.

It can stand heat up to 1000 degrees, thus becoming an important substance for measure standards, lenses, thermometers, clock pendulums.

Its transparency properties will bring it to hospitals and into homes where ultraviolet rays will be applied to cure diseases.

It will be used for mirrors, yielding a more accurate reflection and not becoming distorted by atmospheric changes.

"It has been possible for many years," Dr. Berry declared, "to make fused quartz by hand labour and in the ordinary blast flame. The art of making fused quartz dates back to 1839 when Gaudin in France discovered its thermal properties."

Experimented Ten Years.

However, it was left to Dr. Berry, who has worked for ten years with his experiments, to perfect a process that would permit of quantity production.

Boiled under 4000 degrees heat, the quartz is freed of its impurities under 1,000,000 pounds pressure in Dr. Berry's huge ecentric vacuum furnace. It is then moulded into rods tubes, and various shapes, the entire process taking no more than 45 minutes.

The quartz is imported from Brazil but Dr. Berry states that with development of the process the superior ore will not be necessary.

Cost of producing fused quartz is yet prohibitively high.

Close to $500,000 is believed to have been expended in perfecting the fused quartz.

"But before we thought of costs," Dr. Berry said, "we had to know whether or not we could prdouce the substance. Now that we know we can, there will be steps taken to bring it within reach economically."

DRAMA HELPS THE MODERN BUSINESS.

The Problem Is to Make the Production Primarily a Dramatic Entertainment.

(By George Britt.)

CHICAGO, May 8. — Modern business has gone to the drama for help in salesmanship.

And the drama has responded, through the Chicago producer, Hamilton Coleman, with the idea of specially written, professionally acted plays to carry a business message to salesmen's conventions.

Such a play is intended to inspire its spectators to go out and get orders in the same vivid fashion an ancient morality play led men to avoid Satan's wiles.

Trial shows the idea works. For instance, there is the play Coleman produced for a stove company in Detroit. The scene, merely by chance was laid in Oskaloosa, Iowa.

The salesman who covered the Oskaloosa territory was impressed with the methods exemplified. He had been selling the town about a dozen stoves a year, but he went back and tore into the merchants with his new enthusiasm. His order was for a carload—150 stoves.

"They are real plays, with a human interest plot and all the setting of first class theatre production," says Coleman.

"The problem is to make the production primarily a dramatic entertainment, with the business sermon insinuated indirectly. And the business parts must be made to ring absolutely true, in both lines and acting. We are playing before an audience of expert salesmen to show them better salesmanship than they ever used.

"It is logical to put the drama to this use. It is used for every other sort of propaganda.

"Ibsen and Shakespeare used their plays for a social message. 'It Pays to Advertise' undoubtedly helped the advertising business, and 'The Old Soak' was effective anti-prohibition argument. Why not business, too?"

The first business play Coleman produced was witnessed by only 40 men, the branch managers of the employing company. They were impressed it was decided to repeat the performance for the 300 agents and field men.

WOMAN BAKES WAY TO FAME

Kansas Woman Supports Family of Five by Farming and Cooking.

TOPEKA, Kas., May 8.—For women who unexpectedly are cast upon their own resources for support of themselves and a family, here is a bit of advice:

Study the methods of Mrs. Edith Moore.

Mrs. Moore was left a widow a few years ago. She did not have the training for the teaching profession or a business career and she had three boys and a mother to support.

But she did not let herself think of discouragement or failure.

Now she is furnishing her dependents a good living and each year is saving a nice sum.

And here is the story of how she has made ends meet and added to her bank account:

Buys Farm.

Mrs. Moore bought on monthly payments six acres of land and a small house a few miles from Topeka. Proficient at baking and cooking, she took and filled orders for cakes until she obtained enough capital to buy a cow. Then butter and milk were added to her sales.

Now she keeps three cows and sells cream. She has 100 hens and sells from 25 to 30 dozen eggs each week. She also makes and sells cottage cheese.

With the aid of her mother she put up 145 quarts of cucumber pickles last fall and found ready sale for them.

Mrs. Moore and mother at odd times, during the winter, made more than 1000 sun bonnets which they marketed through a wholesale dry goods house

Those efforts made the living. Then came the savings.

Exhibits Cakes

It was more or less of a lark when Mrs. Moore exhibited several cakes at the Kansas Free Fair at the Kansas capital a few seasons ago. But she won a first prize on every one of them. That brought more orders for cakes and now she is kept busy baking for banquets, dinners and social affairs.

It is as a cake baker that she has won independence. And it has been by exhibiting at Fairs that she has won her fame.

In Mrs. Moore's home are 565 ribbons won by exhibits at fairs. Of these 235 are for cake baking. No other woman in the world is known to have taken so many fair awards for baking.

LIGHTHOUSE CARES FOR WORLD WAR BLIND

NEW YORK, May 9.—Sixty-six American soldiers were blinded in both eyes during the world war, Surgeon General M. E. Ireland states in a communication to Mrs. Winifred Holt Mather of New York, founder of the Paris Lighthouse for the Blind, a movement to maintain which is now in progress in this country under the patronage of President Coolidge.

Those who suffered total or partial blindness in one eye numbered 688.

It is probable that many veterans have become blind since the war, but General Ireland says he has no way of knowing the number of these.

American eye casualties were relatively small compared with those of the other allies. The Paris Lighthouse has cared for the war-blind of all nations.

How to secure, without cost, this Cook Book containing 250 recipes

(Special offer for one week)

HERE is a truly unusual opportunity. We wish every housekeeper in this city to use a can of Crisco; to discover for herself, through actual test, the ten outstanding virtues of Crisco (listed below).

So, in cooperation with your grocer, we are making this offer which enables you to secure a valuable and helpful cook book without cost.

Does any shortening, besides CRISCO, possess these 10 virtues?

1 Crisco is a pure vegetable shortening—not an animal fat. Crisco is made from the pure sweet oils of growing plants.

2 Crisco delightfully answers every shortening and frying purpose: For Cake-making, Shortening, Frying.

3 Crisco gives perfectly delicious results. Crisco cakes are light and tender and stay fresh longer. Crisco fried foods are crisp outside and tender and fine-flavored inside. Crisco pie crusts and pastry are deliciously brown and flaky.

4 Crisco needs no refrigeration. It keeps sweet and fresh indefinitely without ice-box help.

5 Crisco is very digestible. (Food authorities say that an easily digested fat should melt near body heat—98½ degrees. Crisco melts even below this temperature. It melts at 97 degrees.)

6 Crisco helps to secure uniform cooking results for Crisco itself is absolutely uniform. Crisco never varies—it is the same today, tomorrow and a year from today.

7 In frying with Crisco you avoid smoke and unpleasant odors. Crisco never publishes, to living room callers, intimate news of kitchen activities.

8 In frying, Crisco is but little absorbed by foods. Crisco makes fried foods with a crisp, brown outside and a tender, digestible inside.

9 After frying with Crisco you can strain it and use it again and again. You can fry fish, then onions, then potatoes in Crisco and the potatoes will not even hint of the onion.

10 In all kinds of cooking Crisco lets the fine full flavor of the ingredients come out—undisguised by the flavor of the shortening itself.

A valuable addition to any household

During the coming week we will give you, for just one wrapper from a can of Crisco, this exceptional cook book, without cost.

This cook book contains 128 pages of cooking and serving information—the sort of information that will give really practical daily help even to an experienced cook. Prepared by Marion Harris Neil, formerly cooking editor of The Ladies' Home Journal, it contains 250 tested recipes.

In her "Cooking Secrets" Mrs. Neil approaches the housekeeper's daily problem of "what for dinner" from a fresh, sympathetic viewpoint.

Her cook book will save you much time and worry when you are seeking some novel dish with which to tempt your husband and please your children.

An outstanding point about all Mrs. Neil's recipes is this: They are prepared with special reference to digestibility. They will be particularly welcome to every thoughtful wife and mother who keeps a careful eye on the healthfulness of her family's foods.

The simple way to secure this cook book

To secure free the cook-book shown above is a very simple and easy matter. This is all you need to do:

1. Clip the coupon in the lower right-hand corner of this advertisement. Carefully fill in your name and address. Take the coupon to your grocer.
2. Buy a can of Crisco.
3. Remove the outside wrapper of your can of Crisco. Present the wrapper and the coupon to your grocer. He will give you, in return, your copy of "Mrs. Neil's Cooking Secrets."

Special Crisco Week at your grocer's

During the coming week you will see Crisco prominently displayed in your grocer's store. He will invite you to buy a can.

If you order by telephone he will mention Crisco especially.

His reasons are two-fold and both are reasons of service to you:

1. Wishing to do you a service beyond the mere filling of your daily order, your grocer will urge you to buy a can of Crisco this week because he will thus help you to secure, free, a cook book of 250 recipes.
2. As a progressive modern merchant your grocer naturally prefers to sell you the most practical and wholesome food ingredients. He would rather sell you a shortening which you can use for every cake-making, every shortening and every frying purpose than one whose usefulness is limited. When he sells you Crisco he knows that he is selling you a shortening which alone delightfully answers every shortening purpose: a wholesome shortening made from the pure sweet oils of growing plants.

Clip this coupon and secure this valuable cook book for only one wrapper from a can of Crisco.

HEATED EXCHANGES MARK FIRST SESSION OF UTILITIES COMMISSION INVESTIGATION INTO CAMPBELL MILLING COMPANY BILLS

Mr. Hicks and Mayor Turner In Turn Threaten to Withdraw From Investigation But Compromise On Suggestion Made By His Worship—Dispute Arose Over Absence of Representative of Firm Being Investigated — Commissioners Charge Ulterior Motives.

COUNCIL'S CASE IN AUDITOR'S REPORT.

After two hours' argument last night with His Worship Mayor Turner representing the City Council, and RobertHicks, speaking for the Utilities Commission, the first meeting of the investigation into the Campbell Milling Company's power account ended when Mr. Hicks acceded to a suggestion made by Mayor Turner in the opening moments. The Mayor declared that the investigation should not proceed without an accredited representative of the Campbell Milling Company present, and suggested, before five minutes had passed, that the gathering would be abortive and had better disband. By his statement he precipitated the first of a series of heated exchanges, and at teno'clock the meeting broke up. Mr. Hicks having agreed to arrange a conference with the Campbell Milling Company in Toronto with a view to having a representative present at the next session.

Messrs. Hicks and Bradburn each suggested that the object of the City Council's request for an investigation was simply to obtain the production figures of the Campbell Milling Company, for Mr. Meyers, in his capacity of President of the Peterborough Cereal Company, provoking His Worship to declare he would be ashamed to make the insinuation.

Mayor Turner pointed out to the Commissioners that the investigation was put into their hands as a matter of courtesy, they being responsible for the administration of the department. When Mr. Hicks had read a score of letters, sent some years ago by the Peterborough Cereal Co. to the commission, His Worship remarked that he had not come to the meeting to hear all these letters read that had nothing to do with the case under investigation. "Throw up your hands," he said, "and we will take it over and conduct the investigation."

There were present: Robert Hicks, Chairman of the Utilities Commission; W. H. Bradburn and E. F. Mason, members; H. O. Fisk, manager, and W. G. Henderson, accountant. The commission had as legal adviser E. H. D. Hall. Of the City Council there were: Mayor J. J. Turner, Aldermen J. W. Meyers, W. R. Stocker, M. McIntyre, J. Crowe, J. O. Fife and N. E. Phelan. The County Court stenographer, Miss M. E. Moore, took a verbatim report of the proceedings. City Solicitor Joseph Wearing was present to advise the Council.

"You're Wasting Time."

Mr. Hicks said in opening the sitting that the Peterborough Utilities Commission is a public body elected to serve the citizens. The matter of importance in the present case is to find whether there is something wrong, and if so, where.

Mayor Turner: "Is Mr. Campbell here? It seems to me the Campbell Milling Company is being investigated and should have a representative here. If not, then I suggest we withdraw."

Mr. Hicks did not agree. The City Council had turned the matter back to the commission to investigate, and the commission was going ahead with it. Last night's proceedings, he said, were by way of a preliminary hearing to establish, if possible, some basis from which to work. He did not expect that the probe would end in one sitting, and there would be plenty of time to have Mr. Campbell down later.

Mayor Turner: "I suggest that there is no use in proceeding without a Campbell Milling Company representative here. I don't care what court you go into, civil or criminal, you would have to investigate with the man present. If the Campbell Milling Company had been represented here we could have opened the case for you. We could say to him, 'We feel there has been power supplied that has not been paid for.' That would have been the preliminary step, in my mind. I'm not dictating; I'm just suggesting what appears to me to be the course."

Mr. Hicks: "If the City Council wanted to investigate Mr. Campbell, why didn't you go ahead. If you want us to investigate power we want to get a foundation on which we can work."

Mayor Turner: "The foundation is in the report that came from your office. If you can't get the information we will try some way else."

Mr. Hicks: "It looks to me that you wanted to use the commission to get Campbell here."

Mayor Turner: "Out of courtesy you were asked to undertake the investigation. It is in your department and you are naturally the people to go to, but if you hadn't done it we would have done it ourselves. To my mind, you are wasting time."

Mr. Hicks: "We've both wasted a lot of time before; I guess we can waste some more."

Demanded Facts.

The Chairman of the commission proceeded to outline that body's stand, after reading a letter of February 14, 1922, containing the first intimation, he said, the commission had of a complaint. The meeting last night was for the purpose of gleaning some information about the statements that had been made, and the commission sought to do justice to everyone. The members expected they would be assisted in laying a foundation for the investigation. "We should have facts," he declared, "not what somebody says. Tonight we want to get all possible information."

Mayor Turner: "We are not here to be tried; we are here to co-operate."

Mr. Hicks reminded the Mayor that the commission had been instructed to go ahead with the investigation, and said he did not intend being narrowed down to one case. "This investigation is going to be wide. We have nothing to conceal."

Mayor Turner: "We have only asked you to deal with one case, and the others are your business. You haven't the man here."

Mr. Hicks: "Don't start sidestepping. Do you want the investigation?"

Mayor Turner: "Certainly we want the investigation."

Mr. Hicks: "Then sit down and let us get on with it. Mr. Meyers, will you express your side of this controversy?"

Alderman Meyers: "Mr. Mayor has expressed every word of it. You have the figures there and that is all we want."

Mr. Hicks: "Then why have you asked for an investigation? We have checked up the figures with our meters and they agree."

His Worship remarked again that in his opinion the enquiry was futile in the absence of a representative of the company under discussion. "We expected Mr. Campbell would be here and we would ask him about the figures."

Mr. Hicks: "I thought we were here to do the asking."

Mayor Turner: "Alright."

Mr. Hicks: "Is there any representative of the Campbell Flour Mills present?" No response was made, and he asked what purpose would be served by bringing a representative here.

Mayor Turner: "We thought you would say to him, 'The City Council have brought to our notice that there are discrepancies in your accounts. We have the figures you paid for power. Our best information from millwrights is that your mill could not operate under such a horsepower.' With that we could have carried on."

Mr. Bradburn: "The Campbell Flour Mills have been invited, but they haven't come and we can't bring them."

Mayor Turner: "Then why bring us here?"

Mr. Hicks: "Are you prepared to make a stated case that we can work from?"

Mayor Turner: "Yes. It is in black and white in that statement."

Mr. Hicks: "That doesn't suggest very much."

Mr. Mason said the commission had given considerable thought to the affair and had formed plans they thought would get the information they desired. The investigation must go further than the case under discussion.

Mayor Turner: "I don't want to be rude, but it makes one laugh when you say you have opened an investigation and you have not the man here you are going to investigate."

Mr. Hicks asserted that the Mayor ignored his letters and proceeded to read a resolution passed by the commission in which Mr. Meyers' name was linked as Chairman of the Manufacturing Committee and as president of the Peterborough Cereal Company.

Mayor Turner: "I would be ashamed to read that if I had framed it. There is an absolute untruth there." The insinuation, he said, that Alderman Meyers was using his position to gain knowledge about a competitive business was untrue. Because of Mr. Meyers' business knowledge he knew that there was some discrepancy, and he had drawn the attention of the City Council to it.

Mr. Hicks: "Do you want us to investigate the matter or do you wish us to go out and collect information for you?"

Mayor Turner: "Go ahead. Forget that I'm here. I'll sit and listen."

Mr. Mason: "Thank you."

Have Machinery.

Mr. Hicks read through a large file of letters that had passed between the Peterborough Cereal Company and the Utilities Commission, referring to the meter in that company's plant, and to the difference in charges made to the Campbell Milling Company. He said: "You ask us what part of the machinery would be running on 150 horse power. Can you answer that?"

Alderman Meyers: "No. If I could I would not have asked you."

Mr. Hicks, referring to a question asked by Alderman Meyers a few weeks ago: "It is vague, and we would like to get something definite."

Alderman Meyers: "Get somebody who does know."

Mr. Hicks: "You want us to go and get you the information regarding their mill?"

Alderman Meyers: "I can't answer your questions; I'm not here for that purpose. If Mr. Campbell was here he could probably answer you."

Mr. Hicks: "If you could suggest anybody who would make some positive statement from which we could work, we would endeavour to get Mr. Campbell here."

Alderman Meyers: "It's out of my hands now, and I'm here as one of the City Council."

Mr. Fisk gave a long history of activities in connection with the Peterborough Cereal Company meter, in which he said the commission rendered good service to the company and received no thanks. For some time while a transformer was out of order the power billed was low, and the company made no objections.

Mayor Turner: "We are not here to investigate the Peterborough Cereal account."

Mr. Hicks: "We're investigating everything. I don't insist, Mr. Meyers, but if you or Mayor Turner would answer these questions we would like it."

It was maintained by the City Council representatives that they were not on trial, and Mr. Hicks declared: "Then the City Council evidently expected us to bring Campbell here to find out how much power it took to operate his mill and what was the capacity?"

Mr. Bradburn: "Simply a question of getting down to the capacity of the Campbell Flour Mills."

Mayor Turner: "No. If they only ran ten minutes a day they make the peak load."

Mr. Hicks: "Give us some statistics to start on. You have to prove it by actual performance of other mills."

Mayor Turner: "We are not here to convince you."

Mr. Hicks: "We will meet again to consider a statement in writing from you or the City Council . . ."

Mayor Turner: "You won't meet with the City Council unless Mr. Campbell is here." His Worship pointed out again the plan he thought should have been followed, which he said would have cleared the situation in a few minutes.

Mr. Hicks: "If he would not come, what would we do?"

Mayor Turner: "Then we have the machinery to bring him."

"Throw Up Your Hands."

A further heated passage failed to clarify the air. The Mayor suggested that if the commission could not carry out the investigation the Council would take it over. As a matter of ordinary courtesy the case had been handed to Mr. Hicks and his colleagues. "Our idea was that we could give evidence in a friendly way. If we have to go to court then we will consider friendliness at an end. It appears now that we have been brought here to convince you that we have a case."

Mr. Hicks: "You won't make a stated case."

Mayor Turner: "I can't make any other case than is in that account. Mr. Meyers says that amount of power will not turn over the mill."

Mr. Hicks: "Then produce evidence that it did turn over."

Mayor Turner: "It is difficult for us to come here to hear you read over all these letters that have nothing to do with the case."

Mr. Hicks: "You can't convince me you are anxious to have an investigation."

Mayor Turner: "If you don't want to go on with it, throw up your hands and we will take it over and conduct it."

Mr. Hicks: "We won't. But it's no use starting on a fishing trip."

Mayor Turner: "You needn't be afraid of being made ridiculous."

Mr. Bradburn: "We're not afraid of anything."

Mayor Turner: "That's what your Chairman claims by suggesting the fishing expedition."

Mr. Hicks: "Tell us the facts."

Mayor Turner: "They are for you to find."

Mr. Bradburn: "Do you want us to get the output of the mill?"

Mayor Turner: "If it is needed in the investigation."

Mr. Hicks: "I tried to get the records from the Government, but they are guarded as secrets."

Mayor Turner: "I suggest if we had Mr. Campbell just for a conference. If he won't come to us we will go to him. A few minutes with him will settle it, by turning up the records and saying, 'There is the output.' If he won't grant an interview we may have to use other machinery."

Alderman Crowe: "Could you have an independent commission look into the matter? There would be no one to be influenced then."

Mr. Hicks: "It seems to me unless you have an investigation under oath you can't compel attendance or production of evidence. I'm willing to go to Toronto and try to get an interview and information."

Mr. Bradburn suggested that Mayor Turner accompany Mr. Hicks. It was also suggested that Mr. Meyers form one of the deputation, but this was strongly objected to by Mr. Bradburn. "With all due respect to Mr. Meyers," he said, "do you think it advisable for him to go with that committee? The trouble seems to exist . . ."

Mayor Turner: "He simply brought it to our attention."

Mr. Bradburn: "I think it would be advisable if you would choose some other Alderman."

Mr. Hicks: "I'll make the appointment, Mr. Mayor, and you take along whoever you wish."

Mr. Fisk: "The action you are taking here tonight is throwing down a Federal Government instrument of measurement. Is the City Council going to throw a slur on our metering system? It will do us incalculable harm. If you ignore the meter measurements how are you going to make up a bill? I hate to see a slur cast on the most accurate measuring system used in the world."

Alderman Fife expressed disapproval of the whole investigation and suggested that the matter drop. "The Mayor suggested getting Mr. Campbell down here," he said, "and now after two hours' arguing you are going up to him."

Mr. Hicks said he thought the commission would be ill-advised to allow the matter to drop at this stage.

Mr. Bradburn: "This investigation was started, probably unwisely, and we as a commission would be lax in our duty if we did not see this thing through, and I as a Commissioner am going to see it through."

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Editor of Examiner.

Dear Sir,—A letter was published one night this week by Mr. J. H. Burnham, who, by way of variety, chose to attack the efforts that being put forth to create an educational interest in the League of Nations.

In view of the fact that there may yet be some readers of the Examiner who hold Mr. Burnham's views on every subject as orthodox, and being extremely interested myself in the creation in Peterborough of a branch of the League of Nations Society, I should like to reply to his letter by making use of some expressions of opinion compiled by an individual who has very carefully studied the problem of world peace. More probably from the practical humanitarian standpoint than from the idealistic. Practical results already achieved should at least be sufficient to make Mr. Burnham hesitate before rushing into print to discredit a movement that must, if every person lends himself, go a long way toward preventing the repetition of a situation that existed in the world in 1914.

"Twenty-one reasons why you should join the League of Nations Society in Canada:

"1. Because the League of Nations, if it is to succeed in preventing a new world war, needs the support of public opinion, which the League of Nations Society in Canada is striving to win for it, while some forty other League of Nations Societies are similarly at work in forty other countries, including the United States of America.

"2. Because the League of Nations is the only serious attempt to avert future wars.

"3. Because fifty-four other nations, representing between them more than three-quarters of the population of the world, have pledged themselves to use the League of Nations to achieve international peace.

"4. Because the League of Nations has already proved that it is able to stop wars. For instance, it has (a) settled a dispute between Sweden and Finland, who were on the verge of war in 1920; (b) caused the cessation of hostilities between Poland and Lithuania in 1920; (c) settled the very difficult question of the partition of Upper Silesia, after the Supreme Council of the Allies had admitted its failure to do so in 1921; (d) stopped a war in actual progress between Yugo-Slavia and Albania in 1921, and (e) effectively intervened in a crisis between Greece and Italy in 1923, when in the words of the British Prime Minister, 'had the league not existed and acted as it did, a resort to arms would almost inevitably have taken place.'

"5. Because the League of Nations has established the Permanent Court of International Justice for the settlement of international disputes otherwise than by war; and this court has already been the means of settling a serious dispute between Great Britain and France.

"6. Because the League of Nations is designed to guarantee the security of national frontiers, and to make the general limitation of armaments possible. A practical scheme for reducing armaments and guaranteeing frontiers is now being prepared by the league. (Reducing armaments is a sure way to bring down income tax: a 25 per cent. reduction in our expenditure on armaments would enable the Government to reduce the income tax.)

"7. Because the League of Nations insists that all treaties and alliances between nations shall henceforth be published and openly known.

"8. Because the League of Nations guarantees the just treatment of minorities in the new States of Central and Eastern Europe.

"9. Because the League of Nations, by its system of mandates, has introduced a new principle into the relations between the greater Powers and backward races, by which the just and humane treatment of natives is secured, and their progressive development recognized as a sacred trust of civilization.

"10. Because the League of Nations has actually begun the reconstruction of Europe by its resuce of Austria, which when the league intervened was on the verge of bankruptcy and a year later is in a better financial position than any continental country that fought in the Great War. It is now seeking a means of helping Hungary in a similar manner.

"11. Because the League of Nations, by means of its International Labor Organization (which consists of representatives of Governments, employers and employed), is improving industrial conditions by raising the standards of labor uniformly throughout the world.

"12. Because the League of Nations secured the liberation of half a million prisoners of war in Russia, and organized the relief of thousands of Greek and other refugees.

"13. Because the League of Nations is organizing effective international control of the opium and drug traffic.

"14. Because the League of Nations is getting the nations to cooperate in suppressing the traffic in women and children and obscene publications.

"15. Because the League of Nations is fighting disease throughout the world and is carrying on a scientific campaign for the establishment of better health conditions.

"16. Because the League of Nations affords the best and only permanent remedy for employment, through international co-operation and the revival of overseas trade.

"17. Because no other international organization exists which can so effectively deal with the evils of war, injustice and human suffering.

"18. Because the principles of the league represent the practical application of Christian teaching in the international field.

"19. Because the League of Nations Society in Canada is the only society which exists to educate public opinion concerning the League of Nations, and so to give the league the support that is essential to its success.

"20. Because the League of Nations Society in Canada by establishing nearly 30 branches, and securing the co-operation of all classes of people, has already proved its usefulness.

"21. Because the League of Nations Society in Canada needs you, and every man and woman of goodwill, to join in this movement without delay, and quickly to swell the volume of public support for the league; and so to ensure the Government's support of the league; and enable the league to be in time to avert the dangers that still threaten the world."

It is not the writer's intention to become involved in the usual controversy, but for the reason mentioned in the opening paragraph of this letter and owing to the facts contained in the quotation this letter is written, hoping that these twenty-one reasons will be food for thought for many readers.

I am,

Yours truly,

(Signed) C. H. ACKERMAN.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

I was pleasingly impressed with some pertinent remarks, made by one signing herself "N.B." (Why not sign full name, so that we shall know who is the one that is reproached for the name of Christ?) The famine prophesied by Amos—the famine of the hearing of the words of Jehovah—is surely here now. In regard to the hungry ones, I would like to refer the writer to Luke 6:21, 22, 23. The remark that people are asking for the pure companionship of souls who love God in sincerity and truth, and who care for this fellowship, is quite in order, and the answer to that request will come in due time. The delay will be over ruled by God in bringing us into closer communion and felowship with God, making us entirey satisfied. To be the butt for ridicule by a certain class of people is not strange. John 16:3. The common people heard Jesus gladly, Mark 12:37. Jesus is the attraction. Please do not let us confound ecclesiastical organizations and the real church of God, nor man-made creeds, and the Bible. Waiting for the time when right here in Peterboro, those who fear the Lord shall meet in fellowship, and talk one with another (not talk at each other). I remain, etc.,

M. T. Butcher.

Blackheads Go Quick By This Simple Method

Blackheads—big ones or little ones—soft ones or hard ones—on any part of the body go quick by a simple method that just dissolves them. To do this get about two ounces of peroxine powder from your druggist — sprinkle a little on a hot wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—and wash off. You'll wonder where the blackheads have gone. Pinching and squeezing blackheads only open the pores of the skin and leave them large and unsightly—while the simple application of peroxine powder and the water dissolve them right out, leaving the skin soft and the pores in their natural condition.

Floating Specks Before The Eyes Means Liver Trouble

When specks start to float before the eyes, when everything seems to turn black for a few seconds and you feel as if you were going to faint, you can rest assured that your liver is not working properly.

The essential thing to do in all cases where the liver is slow, lazy or torpid, is to stir it up by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and clear away the accumulated mass of waste and poisonous matter from the system.

Mr .Chas. Ayland, Frankville, Ont., writes:—"I used to be awfully bothered with floating specks before my eyes, headaches and sickness to my stomach. I took just half a vial of your Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and ever since I have felt as well as I ever did. Now I always keep them on hand."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ENGLAND BLAMED FOR ILLICIT LIQUOR TRADE

BELFAST, May 9.—(Associated Press).— Ulster's acting premier, Hugh McDowell Pollock, speaking here recently advised his hearers when they heard adverse reports regarding American prohibition not to believe them.

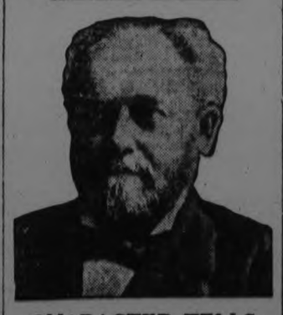
Although the law was, Mr. Pollock added, thanks to Great Britain, notoriously broken along the Atlantic coast, little was being said of the hinterland, of that vast country where a great reformation had taken place and a great revolution, not only for that country but for the whole world, had occurred. He thought Britain had every reason to be ashamed of that illicit trade which was encouraging American law breaking. It was a stain on her fair name and, he concluded, she would suffer for it.

DOMESTIC HEROINES IN OUR HOMES

Women who lead a domestic life seem to listen to every call of duty excepting the supreme one that tells them to guard their health. As long as they can drag themselves around women continue to work. Necessity to keep on their feet all day when over-tired, or sitting in cramped position day in and day out often brings on ailments from which women suffer tortures. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been strengthening women and overcoming such ailments. Sickness and pain vanish under its influence and thousands of women have been benefited by it.

MUSIC IN AMERICA IMPRESSES VISITING GERMAN PIANIST

BERLIN, May 9.—(Associated Press).—The United States within 30 years will be producing an unlimited amount of American music fully equal to the work of the composers of Europe, in the opinion of Ignaz Freidman, the German pianist, who recently returned here after a tour of the United States. Mr. Friedman was particularly impressed with the interest in music shown in cities of the middle west.



CHARACTER TELLS THE STORY!

People throughout this county are giving more thought to hygiene and to the purity of remedies on the market, but no one doubts the purity of Doctor Pierce's vegetable medicines, for they have been so favourably known for over fifty years that everyone knows they are just what they are claimed to be. These medicines are the result of long research by a well-known physician, R. V. Pierce, M.D., who compounded them from health-giving herbs and roots long used in sickness by the Indians. Dr. Pierce's reputation as a leading and honored citizen of Buffalo, is a sufficient guarantee for the purity of that splendid tonic and blood purifier, the Golden Medical Discovery, and the equally fine nerve tonic and system builder for women's aliments, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. MADE FOUR-YEAR OXEN TRIP OVER THE OREGON

MEDFORD, Ore., May 9.—(United Press).—The J. C. Berrang "covered wagon" has just crossed the plains with an ox team and a radio set.

Berrang takes his hat off to the thousands of pioneers who crossed the plains by ox teams but, he said, "one of them did it with a radio—that's some distinction."

Mr. and Mrs. Berrang, formerly of New Britain, Conn., left there in December, 1920, after their home burned. They bought an ox team and started out to find a new home in Oregon, just like the pioneers of old.

Every night they would draw up alongside the roadway, build their campfire and turn on the radio. They had a stove and a few necessities in the wagon, and lived in it all of the time.

"We had a lovely time," Mrs. Berrang said. "Housekeeping duties are limited when you travel this way. I'm sort of sorry it's over."

Much of their travel was over out-of-the-way roads, as dirt highways were better suited for the oxen's feet than pavements. They followed the old Oregon trail whenever possible, and the roughest part of their trip was in the Rocky Mountain States.

Berrang said he expected to settle here.

Marquette University, at Milwaukee, Wis., will have a special course in radio construction and operation.

JAPANESE IMPORT WHEAT AS RICE PRICES ADVANCE

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 9.—Advances in the price of native rice are forcing Japan to buy Canadian wheat in heavy quantities, according to T. Shimusaki, representative of a Tokio milling firm, who is investigating the wheat situation.

Mr. Shimusaki said Canadian wheat could be imported by Japan at about 15 cents a bushel cheaper than Japanese wheat could be produced, and was much cheaper than rice. The Japaneses people, he added, have come to prefer wheat to rice.

Japan has imported 80,000 tons of Canadian wheat in the last three months, accordin to statistics of the port of Vancouver. China also has been a heavy purchaser, taking 12,000 tons.

HEARTS AFIRE

The Brilliant Novelist of Modern Society

LEADING CHARACTERS:

Prudence Page, a pretty country girl has awakened from a brief and unhappy love affair with unreliable

Bert Traymore, a dfascinating philanderer, guest at the home of Mrs. Vansittart, wealthy women who owns Winston Towers. Another of her guests is

Virginia Dale, a blase beauty who has brought about a forced engagement between herself and

Peter Armstrong, brilliant young inventor, much attracted to Prudence, who, for her part, loves him deeply.

Virginia dreams of a wealthy future. And is furious when she hears that Peter has been meeting Prudence.

She makes a jealous scene with Prudence and the latter informs her that she is not worthy of Peter.

Prudence goes off alone in the woods for a walk, as dusk falls. She sees a woman walking through the woods making for a certain tree.

CHAPTER LXV

At Bay

The strange, cloaked woman knelt down at the bottom of a tree, her lantern beside her, and started to dig rapidly with some instrument she had produced from under her flowing garments.

Prudence—watching unobserved—felt her very spine grow creepy.

Who was the strange creature?

Why was she here at this late hour?

Why did she act so furtively?

And with its solution would come the finding of the thief who had attempted to steal Mrs. Vansittart's earrings and the roll of bills on the never-to-be-forgotten evening at Winston Towers, when Prudence had been practically accused of theft.

The cloaked women was working busily, digging in the ground, and ever and anon groping with her fingers, which were gloved.

She kept her face down low, but in any case—her back being turned to the watcher—Prudence couldn't see the features.

There was something horribly uncanny about the whole performance, and yet it held Prudence spell-bound, fascinated against her will.

"Like a scene out of Stevenson's "Treasure Island", thought the girl, giving a little shudder.

In the light of the lantern, she saw the woman strain to lift a wooden box out of the ground, then brush the damp mould off it, and the sodden leaves, and set it on the ground beside her.

She watched her dig two other, smaller boxes up, and then stoop over them, and open them.

Prudence could see quite clearly in the lantern's light, while herself keeping well out of its radius. The woman had her back to her, but the movement of her hands was visible.

She was lifting something glittering from the box. A necklace of some sort . . . diamonds?

There were bracelets, also, that shone with a gleam of precious stones.

And a heavy silver bowl wrought in a most elaborate design.

How queer, how sinister this war!

Good gracious! The woman had lifted, from the larger case, a pair of heavy golden candle-sticks. Prudence could see them gleaming brightly, and immediately recognized them as a cherished possession of Mrs. Vansittart's, which had been stolen from the drawing-room at Winston Towers about five weeks ago!

"Mrs. Vansittart's heart-broken over losing them. She suspected Sime, the under-gardener, who'd been bringing flowers into the drawing-room, and was the last person there before the loss." Janet Mercer had told Prudence all about it. "Poor Sime was dismissed on some other pretext, though that was the real reason, only of course Mrs. Vansittart didn't have definite proof."

Prudence remembered that now.

And here, dug up in boxes that had been buried in a wood, were the valuable golden candle-sticks!

This woman was the thief, then!

Or had he merely been doing a little detective work, on his own, and come to the wood that day to follow up a clue?

All of these thoughts darted through the watcher's mind as she crouched in the deep shade of her own particular tree, and stared across at the scene the lantern showed up clearly.

If the woman found her there, would she attack her?

But Prudence didn't feel afraid. Instead, she felt a strange exhiliration, and a great hope that the cloud which had hung over her ever since the night she'd been accused of theft, might now roll away for ever.

Only, everything depended on her silence and her watchfulness!

The women took the heavy golden candlesticks, and put them back into the box again, replacing the necklace and the bracelets.

She opened another of the boxes, and brought out a variety of silver plate, spoons and forks and little cruets, counting them over to see that all were there.

Then Prudence saw her undo a little package, and the lantern's light fell on a quantity of rings and jewelry.

She hesitated over one. Was it a brooch?

"Opals! Ugh, that's unlucky!" Prudence caught the murmur, as the woman suddenly swung around, and with all her force threw the brooch out in the darkness.

Whiz! Bang! It hit Prudence on the forehead, causing a sharp cut.

Involuntarily she gave a little cry of pain that reached the woman, who at once jumped to her feet, open box of jewels in one arm, and the lantern in the other.

"Who's there?" The question came like a pistol-shot.

Prudence did not stir.

There was something terribly familiar about that voice!

But no! it couldn't be! This cloaked creature, skulking in the darkness, was a thief, while the owner of the voice . . .

And yet—! And yet—!

"Come out, whoever you are!"

Those tones . . . so like!

And the glow of the lantern was flashed full on Prudence Page, and in its beams she saw the face of Virginia Dale, fierce as a tigress, the eyes glittering with a light like madness as they glared into her own, the hands clutching desperately the jewels she had stolen!

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Late Walter Curry Was Well Known in Millbrook Where He Started His Career.

MILLBROOK, May 9. — The late J. Walter Curry, K. C., who passed away at is home in Toronto, following an attack of pneumonia, on Tuesday of this week, began the practice of his profession in Millbrook over 40 years ago. Married in June, 1884, to Miss Amy M. Ayre, daugther of William H. Eyre, of Cobourg, Mr. Curry brought his bride to Millbrook taking as their residence what is now the Methodist parsonage, but was then known as "The Bank," having been built by the late Squire Ferguson to serve both as residence and business premises for the Molsons Bank, the first chartered bank established in the village.

Probably some of the older citizens will recall the fact that before Mr. Ferguson built the bank and residence combined, the late Alfred Leach added an extension to the east side of the house now occupied by Miss Eagleson, with entance from the side verandah, where Molsons' first did business, Mr. H. Cinch being the manager.

The late Mr. Curry left Millbrook 35 years ago, moving to Toronto, his practice here being bought by J. V. Preston, now of Orangeville. Mr. Preston was succeeded by Judge Ruddy of Whitby, his successor being A. A. Smith, who is still a prominent citizen of the village, actively interested in everything pertaining to the community welfare.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of the Methodist church, was held at the parsonage on Wednesday, at 3 p.m., the pastor, Rev. S. T. Tucker occupying the chair. About 40 members and visitors were in attendance and the secretary reported that for eight regular meetings held during the year the average attendance was 40, the highest average in the history of the organization. There were two public meetings besides the special service on Easter Sunday morning, when Miss Hawken addressed the Auxiliary, circle and band, who attended in a body, and occupied the centre front pews.

A duet, "I will go with my Lord, all the way," by Mrs. G. W. Sayles and Mrs. F. Johnston was much enjoyed. Mrs. Fred Smith was appointed delegate to the Branch meeting to be held in Port Hope in June, Mrs. L. Rea, the one chosen at the last meeting being prevented by ill-health from going.

The treasurer's report, given by Miss Nellie Hetherington, was an exceptionally good showing, the largest amount of money remitted to the branch treasurer, Mrs. J. Kendry, Peterborough, that has ever been raised in the history of the Auxiliary. The membership also has increased during the year, only one, the late Miss Lillie Pendrie, having been called by death. A bequest of $100 was left by Miss Pendrie to the Auxiliary.

The complete report is as follows:

Annual members' fees	$ 68.00
Life members' fees (3 were added this year)	75.00
Bequest	100.00
Donations	4.00
Mite Boxes	9.92
Public Meetings	29.99
Easter Thank Offering	76.30
Rest Fund	12.00
Other sources	40.00
Total income from Auxiliary	$415.21
Expenses	4.21
Amount sent Branch treasurer	$411.00

In October the Auxiliary was divided into six groups, under different leaders, and the special feature of the May meeting was the report giving the standing of the groups by points, that led by Mrs. O. Williamson coming out ahead with 143 points of its credit. Five points were allowed for each new member, two for a visitor, fifteen for a life member ,one each for attendance, fees paid, and for each dollar raised. The final standing for each group was; (a) Mrs. B. R. Raper, leader $62.92 raised, 123 points; (b) Miss A. Hampton, leader, $53.71 raised, 84 points; (c) Miss Stella Hetherington leader, $28.72 raised, 79 points; (d) Mrs. O. Williamson, leader, $47.84 raised, 143 points; (e) Miss P. Burnham, leader $73.37 raised, 132 points; (f) Mrs. P. Stinson leader, $30.36 raised 63 points.

It was decided to continue this plan another year as it has proved so successful on its initial trial.

The following officers ewre elected; President, Mrs. (Rev.) S. T. Tucker, 1st Vice-Pres. Miss A. Hampton, 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. G. E. Burnham; Recording Secretary, Mrs. C. W. Richards; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Pearl Burnham; Treasurer, Miss Nellie Hetherington; Organist, and Secretary of Christian Stewardship, Miss Stella Hetherington; Secretary of Mite Boxes, one to be appointed by each group; Strangers' Secretary Mrs. G. W .Sayles; Superintendent of Mission Band, Mrs. B. R. Raper.

Rev. Mr. Tucker conducted a most impressive Installation Service at the close of the election, all the members having a part in the obligations assumed.

Tea was served by Mrs. Tucker, assisted by some of the C.G.I.T. group before the gathering finally dispersed.

Miss E. C. Hawken, who gave a most interesting account of her work among the Ruthenians of Alberta during the Easter holidays part of which she spent with friends in Millbrook, has received her new appointment to Wahstao in the same province and about seventeen miles from her former station at the Kolokreeka Home and Boarding School.

Miss Hawken's furlough expires in August and she will be leaving for her new school in September of this year.

There are four workers on the staff at Wahstao, and thirty-two pupils were in residence last year, fifteen remaining over the summer months. Miss Annie E. McLean, whose place Miss Hawken will fill, is being removed to Japan for missionary service. Considerable drinking in the neighborhood constitutes a real difficulty in carrying on the work, but Miss Macpherson, a voluntary temperance worker, gave several weeks service in the government and mission schools of the district, and good results are sure to follow.

Dr. E. F. Gillott's new house on King street is rapidly nearing completion and promises to be a very cosy home of the Spanish bungalow type. The interior is practically finished and the initial coat of stucco has been put upon the outside. In the course of another two or three weeks Dr. Gillott will probably be moving into her new home.

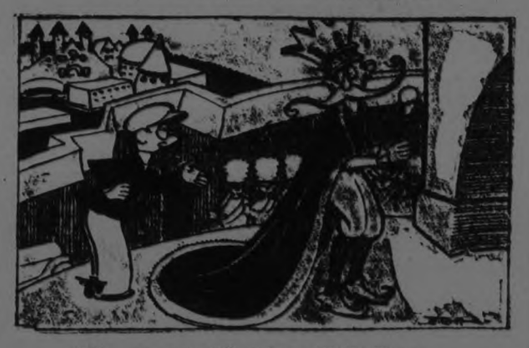
Mrs. M. Sutton and Miss Kathleen Sutton motored to Orono on Sunday and were guests of her son-in-law, Rev. Alex. Edmison.

There are more than 3,500,000 automobiles on farms.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE BRAVE LITTLE TAILOR



"Why, your majesty," spoke up Mister Muggs.

"Where are we going now'?' asked Nancy.

"The next station in Once-Upon-a-Time Land," said Mister Muggs, "is where the Brave Little Tailor lives. He was the one who killed seven flies with one swat. He was so proud of himself he went out into the world to seek his fortune. Everywhere he went he boasted that he had killed seven at one blow, and every one thought he meant seven people. The king gave him three tasks to do, and when he succeeded in accomplishing them, the king gave him his daughter for a wife, and half of his kingdom."

Away they went over seven prairies and through seven gorges, and came at last to the Kingdom of the Brave Little Tailor.

Two castles stood on top of two hills, and running up and down the kingdom, dividing it straight into two equal parts, was a stone wall—as high and as thick as the Great Wall of China.

"What's that for?" asked Mister Muggs of a beggar standing beside the road.

"That's a spite wall," answered the beggar. "When the king found out that the man who had married his daughter was only a tailor instead of a mighty warrior, he got so mad that he had his army build the wall between the two halves of his kingdom. The tailor and his wife live in one castle and the king lives in the other."

"You don't say so!" cried Mister Muggs. "A pretty kettle of fish, I call it."

"Not fish, sir! Flies!" said the beggar. "That's really what made the king so mad. He found out that after all his boasting, his son-in-law had killed seven flies at one blow instead of seven people, as he supposed. Every time he hears something more about the way the tailor outwitted him, he has his army put another row of stones on top of the wall. It will soon be up to the sky!"

"Tut, tut!" exclaimed Mister Mugg

"Tut, tut!" exclaimed Mister Muggs. "Nancy and Nick, we'll go and see this king and see if we can't fix things up. I always liked the Brave Little Tailor when I read about him. He was a merry fellow, and that is more than can be said for some people I know."

The little car went right up to the front door of the king's castle and at that minute the king stepped out to give an order to his army. "I've just heard something more about that tailor son-in-law of mine," he cried. "Put another row of stones on top of the wall, soldiers."

"Why, your majesty," spoke up Mister Muggs, "if it was not for the Brave Little Tailor you wouldn't be living now. He killed the two giants who would have killed you and your people, and he caught the unicorn which would have wounded you when you were hunting, and he trapped the wild boar."

"But he did it all by trickery," cried the king. "That isn't bravery."

"Wits are better than muscle," said Mister Muggs, "and he has enough wit for ten people."

"That's so," laughed the king, suddenly, in a good humor. "Men, tear the whole wall down and go over to the other castle and invite my daughter and her tailor husband in to have lunch with me. As for you three' you'd better stay, too, and we'll make a party of it."

(To Be Continued.)

CORNET TAMES LIONS.

BERLIN, Germany, May 9.—Dr. Max Sostario, cornetist, was troubled by stagefright. To overcome this handicap he gave a private concert in a lion's cage at Hamburg. The lions at first sniffed suspiciously at the cornet, but later, as the doctor began triple-tonguing feats on the horn, they stood off spellbound in a corner of the cage.

Cards Are Permits And Liquor Tickets.

NEW YORK, May 9 —(By Canadian Press).—Torn playing cards, the sections fitting together like a jig-saw puzzle, serve the double purpose of a receipt and an indentification card in liquor transactions carried on by the skipper of a rum-running vessel, custom agents discovered recently after the seizure of the motorboat K-10723. This method was devised to protect the cargo of rum from highjackers and rum pirates, according to information furnished by one of the crew of the seized motor boat.

After seizing the motor boat the customs agents salvaged papers and cases of liquor that had been thrown overboard. Among the papers were a large number of sections of playing cards carefully cut in a queer jagged shape. On these sections agents discovered such rotations as "100 cases," "200 cases," etc.

The system was devised by the rum row skipper after he had lost valuable shipments of liquor to pirates. He now gets paid for all of his liqour in advance and gives part of a playing card, cut in a jagger shape and with the purchase of liquor noted on it in ink as the buyer's receipt. This transaction takes place in the Bahamas.

The skipper keeps the other part of the playing card, which also bears the notation of the amount of liquor sold. Some time after his arrival in Rum Row, according to the prearranged plan, the liquor purchaser sends a runners out in a speed boat to bring the liquor ashore. The runner has been supplied, either by mail or messenger, with the playing-card receipt for the liquor he calls for.

The wary skipper, standing armed on the deck of his boat, demands that this receipt be handed up over the side to him, and no liqquor is lowered into the waiting runner's craft unless the jagged edges of the bits of card will fit perfectly together.

FABLES ON HEALTH

BUILDING THE NURSERY

A nursery! Of course, there would have to be one now that a baby had arrived in the Mann house.

Mr. Mann wondered why he hadn't thought of it sooner and started going from room to room trying to figure which one to choose and how best to fix it up.

After a consultation with a builder conversant in such matters, Mr. Mann had learned that it is desirable to have an open fireplace in the nursery. This insures a good circulation of air.

The room should be simply outfitted and with few dirt-catching hangings. It should have plenty of windows, be light and airy, and capable of good heating and ventilation.

The crib should be placed away from direct sunlight and protected from possible draft. As a bed, a good-sized clothes basket, well padded, is very satisfactory. There need not be a great deal of expense in the equipment.

Changes of clothing should be easily available, and a mother may be saved many steps by careful arrangement of drawers containing necessities.

Daily airings and sunnings should be given the room. Do this when the baby is out riding in the carriage, and see that the room is warmed when the baby returns.

In this country are more than 1,000 woolen mills.

Here are four pleasing Dominion Linoleum patterns, available in attractive colors. They are typical of the beauty of this practical floor covering.

Amazingly Inexpensive

You'll be surprised to find how little Dominion Linoleum actually costs. For a very moderate outlay you can attractively cover every room in the house — and then forget floor covering expenditures for years. This is added economy you'll surely appreciate, the economy of long wear that helps home budgets and eliminates financial worry.

But this is only one of the reasons why so many practical women seek these modern floors. They know the happy release from cleaning drudgery Dominion Linoleum brings. No beating. No heavy sweeping. Light brushing or mopping is all the effort needed to keep it spotlessly clean and sanitary.

DOMINION LINOLEUM

is non-absorbent and germproof and comes in widths sufficient to cover any ordinary room, without crack or seam. There are numerous designs to choose from, the colorings are supremely beautiful and appropriate.

Dominion Linoleum Rugs

are very popular, too. They have all the durability and labor-saving qualities of Dominion Linoleum and are made in a range of sizes to fit any room. Rich and substantial in appearance, they harmonize perfectly with the other appointments of a well-furnished home. They can be rolled up and moved without cracking or breaking.

See these fine floor coverings at home furnishing and departmental stores.

On receipt of your name and address, we will mail you an attractive folder. Write to-day, addressing Dominion Oilcloth & Linoleum Co. Limited, Montreal

This label is on the face of all genuine Dominion Linoleum and Dominion Linoleum Rugs which also have a long-fibre burlap back denoting strength and long wear. Look for both when buying.

The Rev. Father C. S. Brethertson performed the ceremony.

The bride was dressed in a navy blue suit and large grey picture hat, and was attended by Miss Margaret Walsh of Peterborough, who was also dressed in navy blue with large black picture hat.

Baseball Practice.

The first baseball practice was held on Wednesday evening. With "Gib" Herrington as twirler and "Nels" Scriver as catcher, and good supporters such as the team had last year, some real good games will in all probability be given the local fans.

"Gib" has not pitched ball since two years ago, but did so then with splendid success and it is hoped some of the old stuff will still be shown this season. Another practise is being held on Friday night.

Mr. J. Adams of Campbellford, a district game inspetcor, was in Hastings on business on Thursday.

Mrs. P. M. Howard is spending a few days in Toronto.

MANUFACTURERS HELD MEETING.

See Blue Ruin In Latest Budget Changes and May Close Up.

MONTREAL, May 9.—George E. Leighton, president of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Association of British Manufacturers and their representatives issued a statement here yesterday in which he says the business of eleven Canadian firms representing British manufacturers is at present jeopardized by the latest changes in the Budget. He points out that especially as regards tool steels and supplies for Canadian manufacturers of agricultural machinery, British importers are facing grave risks of being put out of business because the new rulings enable United States manufacturers to export into Canada at prices unapproachable by British concerns. He adds that about $1,000,000 worth of supplies imported into Montreal by the eleven firms mentioned above may have to be disposed of at a loss unless prompt changes can be made in the Budget to meet their case.

An emergency meeting of these firms was held in Montreal yesterday in view of these conditions at which it was decided to make immediate representations to Hon. Jas. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance, to see what can be done to obviate this loss.

Railroad statistics show neither baby carriages nor bicycle appear as frequently in baggage cars as two years ago.

U.S. AND CANADA TO BE FRIENDLY

President Coolidge and Sir Esme Howard Pledged Anew the Friendship of the Two Countries.

WASHINGTON, May 9. Canadian Press. — The traditional friendship of Canada and the United States was pledged anew by President Coolidge and Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador, in addresses delivered last night on the occasion of the presentation by the Vancouver Sun to the newspapermen of the United States of the painting entitled "President Harding in Canada."

The painting, which is to be hung in one of the press galleries of Congress, was presented by Ambassador Howard on behalf of the Vancouver Sun and the Canadian Government and people, and was accepted by President Coolidge on behalf of the United States newspapermen and the people of the United States.

Ambassador Howard, in addition to bespeaking his own earnest hope for a continuation of the more than a century long friendship between Canada and the United States, read a message from Premier Mackenzie King, who declared he was glad to express his "earnest desire that the ceremony which marks this occasion may tend to promote and develop these feelings of mutual confidence and good will between two peoples, which it is ever my fervent wish to foster and maintain."

Mr. Coolidge devoted much of his address to a tribute to the late president.

Ambassador Howard, in endorsing the message of Premier King, added that "to us in the more distant parts of the British Empire, whether Great Britain herself or Australia, New Zealand or South Africa, apart from the affection that we feel for her, Canada seems to have a special mission, a special destiny—that of bringing closer together the English-speaking peoples scattered over the face of the Globe, that of acting as it were as a link between ourselves and you, between the rest of the Empire, and the great American Republic.'

MAN WITH A HAMMER ATTACKS A FRENCHMAN.

Under-Secretary May Get More Votes In Election As Result.

VICHY, France, May 9.—Gaston Vidal, former Under-secretary for Physical Education, promises to be the first martyr of the French electoral campaign, judging from the number of messages he received yesterday expressing sympathy over the beating he received Wednesday night by opponents during a campaign speech near Vichy. M. Vidal was still in bed in consequence of the injuries he received. His partisans expressed the opinion that the attack on him would bring Vidal more votes in the Parliamentary elections than if he had been permitted to stump his district unscathed.

A bulletin issued by Vidal's physicians last night said that Vidal had a high fever and was suffering from internal pain, but that his condition was "relatively satisfactory."

A policeman who witnessed the attack on Vidal said that his opponents were a mill hand and a mason. The former is alleged to have butted Vidal on the back of the head, while the second attempted to strike him on the head with a hammer. Vidal, at one time one of France's greatest rugby football players, overpowered the man with the hammer.

See it to-night or to-morrow or you will miss the pest pictures of the season.

SERVICES AT THE CATHEDRAL

The apparent inequalities of this life, the suffering and affliction of the good contrasted with the peace and prosperity of the wicked often perplex many minds here below. The large numbers who listened to Father Crowe last night have had their minds set at rest on these problems. Taking for his text, "It is appointed unto men once to die and after this the judgment," he set forth in lucid argument the perfect justice of God.

It is customary for those who gather about the dying to say, on observing the last tremor of physical life, "it is all over." It is not all over. Life has just begun, it has been changed, not taken away. "Man shall go into the house of his eternity." While here on earth man prepares his eternal home. This home is of his own building, and he may build it as beautiful as he wishes by attending mass, by frequenting the sacraments, by prayer, fast and alms-giving. When built it is his house and he shall go into it for eternity. On the other hand man may forge for himself a dungeon of eternal woe, by ignoring the commandments of God and His Church, by blasphemy, infidelity, irreligion, impurity. Nevertheless, it is the house of his own building, and he must go into it for eternity. How necessary it is then to build well, to serve God with all our heart and soul!

Human consolation and assistance cease at the death of the body. The soul must go alone before its Judge. It goes accompanied by its merits and demerits, because its good and evil deeds cling to it like children to a parent. Happy those souls whose good deeds far outweigh the evil ones.

The soul meets Jesus Christ, its Redeemer, not in His character as Good Shepherd, Who cured the lame, the blind and the halt, Who raised the dead to life, and pardoned the penitent sinner. It meets Christ as its Judge omniscient and just. He is no longer the Lamb of God Who takest away the sins of the world; but He will come with great power and majesty to require an account of our stewardship, and to mete out justice to everyone according to his works. He comes the everlasting joy of the just, the eternal confusion of the wicked.

In this world there is some hope for the malefactor to escape the consequences of his crime. Human knowledge and judgment are prone to error, but nothing can escape the Eternal Judge; all things are naked and open to His eyes. Those who in this life succeeded in concealing so much from human eyes will be their own accusers, for they will be overwhelmed by God's beauty and sanctity.

These are truths which very simple reflection will bring home to every soul. God is infinitely generous; He offered Himself a willing victim for our salvation. He humbled Himself even unto the death of the cross to purchase our redemption. He has a perfect right to demand our sincerest gratitude and perfect service. If then we ignore His commandments and disregard the admonition of His Church, justice requires that He mete out punishment according to the gravity of the offence.

These souls who, despite affliction and suffering, struggled on valiantly in God's service will hear the cheering words, "Come ye blessed of My Father, possess the kingdom prepared for you." These who were blessed with temporal goods, wealth and health, in this world, but who served not God, shall be cast into everlasting fire.

The speaker closed with a strong exhortation for each and everyone to renew her soul through the sacrament of penance and to persevere steadfast in the service of God. Work while you have the light, for the night cometh when no one may work. Be prepared for your particular judgment, God is the judge.

FAVORS OPEN SPACES

NEW YORK, May 9.—Joe Jones, well-known Wyoming guide, has heard the call of the great open spaces, where all the dogs aren't lap-dogs and where "men don't ride like cattle in a cattle-car." Jones will do a one-legged dance on the summit of a mountain crag any day, but he is afraid of New York and wants to leave on the first train west.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF LOCAL ENGINEERS WAS HELD LAST NIGHT

Mr. Fraser B. Keith Addressed the Members on the Subject of Engineering Education -- Officers Elected.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the local branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada was held at the Chamber of Commerce last night.

The officers for the ensuing year elected at last night's meeting were: Honorary chairman, Ross L. Dobbin, M.E.I.C.; chairman, E. R. Shirley, M.E.I.C.; vice-chairman, A. L. Killaly, A.M.E.I.C.; secretary, Paul Manning, A.M.E.I.C.; treasurer, A. B. Gates, A.M.E.I.C. Executive Committee: R. C. Flitton, A.M.E.I.C., W. M. Cruthers, A.M.E.I.C.; B. L. Barns, A.M.E.I.C.; D. L. McLaren, A.M.E.I.C.; A. H. Munro, A.M.E.I.C.; H. O. Fisk, M.E.I.C. The recommendation for council was Ross L. Dobbin, M.E.I.C.

Mr. Frank S. Keith, M.E.I.C., general secretary of the Institute, with headquarters in Montreal, was present at the meeting, and addressed the members on "Engineering Education." Mr. Keith explained the work, which was being done in the United States by the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education. This body had been formed to function for three years with the object of arriving at a basis for differentiating between technical and engineering courses. They are to collaborate with the various educational institutions so that curricula could be revised so that men with technical educations could be absorbed in other fields than those purely engineering. It was planned to obtain statistics of graduates which would show what proportion of graduates followed the branch of engineering they actually trained for and what proportion gravitated into other lines. In Canada we have a serious problem to cope with in regard to engineering graduates. About twenty years ago there were only four institutions in Canada turning out engineering graduates, and these graduates were more readily absorbed, many following the railroads which were actively under construction at the time. Now, however, each province has its university and the output of engineering graduates is considerably larger and the supply is exceeding the demand. A committee was appointed by the Institute last year, and, with the deans of the various universities they will work along similar lines to the society in the United States. There was necessity for differentiations between technical and engineering education. Mr. Keith said: A graduate who had taken a four-year course in engineering, should not really consider himself an engineer. He suggested that there might be four-year technical courses leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science, which would train the students in the fundamentals of science, English, drawing, economics, management and industrial operation. There could then be engineering courses covering a period of six years. Graduates of the four-year technical courses would be then fitted for absorption in commerce and industry.

The excess of supply over demand in engineering graduates had naturally kept remuneration down, and there was a tendency, Mr. Keith said, on the part of older engineers to hold the younger members of the profession down, and that there was not enough interest taken in them by the older men. The migration of engineering graduates to the United States had been very large, and is still going on. These men, do not as a rule, return, and having been educated in Canada are a distinct loss to the country. Mr. Keith said that his remarks would give the branch some food for thought, and he expressed the hope that the branch would arrange to hold a meeting on this subject with the object of determining what this branch and the Institute as a whole could do to help in the solution of this problem.

Chairman's Report

The report of the retiring chairman, Ross L. Dobbin, M.E.I.C., was given as follows:

Peterborough, May 8, 1924

To the Members of the Peterborough Branch Engineering Institute of Canada.

Gentlemen:

This evening's meeting concludes my term of office as your chairman. For a year I have had the honor of presiding over your affairs, and it has been a pleasant though at times an arduous one.

The year just passed has been a busy one for this branch. We have held 12 meetings, and the standard of quality has been of the highest. We owe a great debt of gratitude to those speakers who have often come long distances, and at considerable expense of time and money to entertain and instruct us. It is hard to single out any particular paper as being good, but I might mention that on "Gold Mining," by Mr. Brigham, the general manager of the Hollinger Mines, as being one of the most attractive and instructive of any we have heard in this or in past years.

The annual banquet was a very successful affair, the quality of the speeches and the entertainment being fully up to the high standard set in previous years.

The annual outing last June to Campbellford, and the power plants on the Trent was well attended, and full of enjoyment from start to finish, even if the chairman's softball team did not win the automobiles.

At this juncture let me express my appreciation of the hearty co-operation of the members of the executive committee extended to me. They are all busy men, yet whenever a call was sent out for a meeting they never failed to turn out. I must especially mention our indefatigable secretary, Ralph Flitton. Only one who has held the secretary's position can appreciate the amount of detail, and hard work necessary to carry on even such a small branch as ours. And let me tell you, the secretary does the most of it.

I would also like to call attention to the valuable service of Morris Cruthers as chairman of the meetings and papers committee. This is a position requiring the utmost initiative and intelligence, and I think that the programme of papers presented before the branch this season speaks for itself. We owe Morris a hearty vote of thanks at least, if our finances will not admit of anything more substantial.

While I am about it I would also like to call your attention to the valuable services rendered by the members of the sextette. What our banquet would degenerate to without them, I hesitate to think of. Paul Manning and Bill Ross in addition to their musical duties, also arranged the annual outing, and deserve special mention for their efforts to make that function the very enjoyable one it was.

To the incoming executive, I have not very much to offer in the way of suggestions, but the following have occurred to me.

Mr. Barnes and his attendance committee should be continued. During the short time this committee has been working they have greatly increased the attendance, and under the efficient leadership of the chairman during the coming season they shouldm ake the branch more active and more useful.

A branch news editor should be appointed to relieve the secretary of the work of reporting our meetings for the Journal, and included in his duties might be that of seeing that the local paper receives an account of our meetings He might also look after sending out of the postcard notices, and arrange for announcements in the paper. This may look like a lot of work, but the right man would materially assist in the progress of the branch.

I must not close without drawing your attention to the great loss this branch in particular, and the Institute in general, suffered in the death of President Walter J. Francis. He was a very good friend of Peterborough branch and we will miss his clever addresses and witty remarks at our various functions. He had a warm personal interest in our progress, and every member has felt his kindly influence.

Gentlemen, this concludes my remarks. Let me thank you for the honor you have done me in electing me to act as your chairman for the past year, and accept my very best wishes for the continued prosperity of the branch.

Ross Dobbin.

Financial Report

Treasurer A. B. Gates, A.M.E.I.C., presented the financial statement for the year just closed, showing an appreciable betterment in the financial condition of the branch.

Mr. E. R. Shirley, M.E.I.C., the newly-elected chairman, now took charge of the meeting and in appropriate words thanked the branch for the honor they had bestowed upon him.

While the scrutineers, P. L. Allison, M.E.I.C., and G. G. Gladman were counting the ballots, two reels of films were shown depicting the scenic beauties of Ontario.

A discussion of the annual outing was held with the result that the majority of those present seemed to be in favor of a trip to Lakefield and South Beach. Definite arrangements, however, will be made at a later date. Mr. Keith answered innumerable questions on Institute matters and expressed appreciation at being present.

Mr. A. L. Dickieson, A.M.E.I.C., chairman of the entertainment committee, had charge of the arrangements for the refreshments. The meeting adjourned at 11.00 p.m.

ROSENEATH AND DISTRICT ITEMS

Funeral of Miss Edna Harnden—New Lights For the Village.

ROSENEATH, May 9.—The funeral of Edna, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Harnden, took place on Tuesday afternoon from her father's residence in Haldimand Township, near Burnley, to the Warkworth cemetery. The services were conducted at the Free Methodist Church, Warkworth, the altar of which was beautifully decorated with white flowers, by the pastor, Rev. A. Gregory.

Miss Harnden, who was 18 years of age, was in her usual health until Tuesday last when she was suddenly stricken with pneumonia, and in spite of the best medical aid passed away early on Sunday morning.

She was a girl of whom everyone spoke in the highest terms, and her loss will be felt by a wide circle of her young friends as well as her sorrowing relatives. She is survived by her mother and father and two sisters—Mrs. Harry Kelly, of Warkworth, and Mrs. Bert Wilson, of Burnley. The pallbearers were Messrs James Wilson and Frank Lockhart and four Harnden brothers, of Eddyston, cousins of the deceased. The community joins in extending its deepest sympathy to those who so deeply mourn her loss.

Mr. Robert Greacon has purchased a car which was formerly owned by Mr. George Ingham.

Mr. Howard Blodgett, of Cobourg, was in the district on Tuesday obtaining orders for lightening rods.

Mr. and Mrs. John Blodgett were in Warkworth on Tuesday attending the funeral of the late Edna Harnden.

Mr. T. J. Lynch, of Hastings, was in the vicinity during Tuesday on business.

The street lamps, which were ordered recently from the local dealer, Mr. John McMillan, have arrived, and residents expect to see the streets brightly illuminated in the course of a few nights. These lights will be of service to the people of the surrounding district as well as those of the village.

WINNIPEG WOMAN MURDER VICTIM

Two Men Who Were Seen in Vicinity of House Yesterday Have Been Arrested.

WINNIPEG, May 9 (Canadian Press). — After being bound, gagged and assaulted, Mrs. Kate Sinchyshyn, aged 41, was murdered at her home in the north end of the city yesterday afternoon.

Her body was found by her young son when he returned from school.

Two men who were seen in the vicinity of the house during the afternoon have been arrested.

The house, which is situated in the foreign residential part of the city, was in great disorder. It had been ransacked from top to bottom in the search for money.

The police declared that it was one of the most brutal murders in the city's history.

The woman, wife of a railway labourer, had put up a terrific struggle and was bruised and battered about the head and shoulders. She had been smothered to death.

HEALTH TEACHING MUST BEGIN IN THE SCHOOLS

ATLANTA, Ga., May 9.—(United Press).—"The only way in which health training and instruction can be made to reach the intimate daily personal lives of all our people is through training the children in the public schools." This is a statement made by Dr. Charles H. Keene, director of the Bureau of Health Education of the State Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, Pa., before the National Tuberculosis Association to-day.

"Teaching of health," says Dr. Keene, 'must be as large a part of the regular school curriculum as teaching of arithmetic, geography, or any of the routine subjects. It will never be possible to set aside definitely for health teaching enough of the daily time available for school use so that all the necessary habits may be formed and information acquired concerning health.

"All school courses must be devised and taught in such a manner then as to permit frequent opportunities for correlation with the various parts of the health program. Physical geography becomes a matter of fascinating interest if we know its relation to the purity and safety of the water which we drink. Art becomes a more living thing when it is used, through posters and legends, to emphasize good habits relating to food, exercise, fresh air and cleanliness. History becomes much more than the accumulation of dry facts when we know the influence of health and disease on the great movements of history. Health teaching should be interwoven with the other six chief factors in an adequate school health program, which are: hygiene of the school plant, physical education, the hygienic arrangement of the school program, the health of the teachers, health supervision and the proper training of teachers."

Americans Insist On Taking Own Pictures.

PARIS, France, May 8. — The breach between the United States Olympic Rugby Football team and the French Olympic Committee over the refusal of the latter to permit the Americans to take their own pictures of the United States-Rumania match Sunday, remained unhealed to-day, Manager Samuel Goodman, even threatening to abandon the game if the permission were not granted.

The French Committee had previously let the photographic concessions for the entire period of the Olympic Games to a French company.

W. O. GOOD OF BRANT PRESSED SINGLE TAX

OTTAWA, May 9 (Canadian Press). — The debate on the Budget continued in the House yesterday afternoon and evening. Again, however, it gave way in chief interest to the battle over church union waged in the Private Bills Committee.

W. O. Good, of Brant, pressed the single tax, urging a revision of the whole scheme of taxation.

Previously W. J. Lovie, of Macdonald, also Progressive, emphasised the farmers' need for cheaper money.

From the Government ranks, P. F. Casgrain, of Charlevoix-Montmorency, declared that the only people against the Budget were the big interests.

On the other hand, H. C. Hocken, Conservative, of West Toronto, thought the country would not be much impressed by the way the Acting Minister of Finance had figured out his surplus.

IRISH PROTESTANTS WELCOMED TO ULSTER

BELFAST, May 9 (Canadian Press). — Premier Craig, of Ulster, told County Down Orangemen yesterday that as President Cosgrave, of the Irish Free State, did not want unwilling citizens in either of the Irish areas, he was quite willing to swap Catholics who wished Free State rule for Protestants in Cavan, Monaghan, and Donegal who wanted to join their old Ulster friends. He promised the latter his heartiest welcome.

CONDITION IMPROVED.

OSHAWA, May 9 (Canadian Press). — The condition of Lieut. William Southam, who was critically injured in an automobile accident at Dunbarton about 10.45 on Wednesday night, and who is lying in the Oshawa hospital, is reported to be slightly improved by the hospital authorities this morning, although Lieut. Southam is still in an unconscious condition.

A BATTLE IN THE WILDERNESS.

The Texas state fish and game commission believes this is the only picture ever taken of a fight between two deer. T. Y. Nave and Arthur Boeger, obtaining pictures for the commission, found the fighters in the forests. Their horns were locked. To save the deer from agony and from death by starvation, it was necessary to shoot them.

CONCERT SACRED HEART CHURCH

A play and special musical programme were given in the basement of the Sacred Heart church last evening, with a large crowd in attendance, Rev. P. Butler acted as chairman for the entertainment, which was under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Sodality of the church.

The concert opened with an entertaining musical programme, in which the following selections were much enjoyed: Piano solo, Harold Armstrong; vocal solo, Josephine O'Keefe; violin selection, "Souvenir," Jerry Collins; a chorus, entitled "The Brook," by children of the school, directed by Miss Helen Grady; a vocal duet, "Huntingtower," by Miss Helena Heffernan and Mr. A. Kircaldy; violin solo, "Kathleen Mavourneen," Vincent Rishea; vocal duet, "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," by Emmet Hickey and Jack Roach; violin solo, "Humoresque," by Charles Liebers and a chorus by the junior sodality girls, "When the Heart is Young," directed by Miss Ethel Armstrong.

The second portion of the programme included an interesting and unusual presentation in "Simon the Cyrenian," a short sacred play, based on scenes from the New Testament. The place is Pilate's House at Jerusalem ,and the time the day of Christ's Crucifixion. Biblical tradition, which records Simon of Cyrene as being simply a native of an African province, who was pressed into service on the day of the Crucifixion to help in carrying the cross of Christ to Calvary, has been changed in this instance to permit of the inclusion of Simon as a more important figure in the cast. He appears in the play as a supporter of Procula, the wife of Pilate, in her endeavor to save the Nazarene. He is opposed by Acte, a Princess of Egypt, who is ambitious for the building up of an African-Egyptian kingdom, and does not wish Simon to interfere with her plans, which include the death of Christ as part of their consummation. The play, directed by Rev. Father Butler and Mr. Wiliam Collins, was splendidly enacted by the cast, with the following players: Simon, (William Collins); Procula, the wife of Pilate, (Helena Heffernan); Acte, a princess of Egypt, (Madeline Aste); Drusus, a young Roman, (Donald McKinnon); Battus, a Libyan prince, (James Maloney); Pilate, the governor of Judea, (Jack McCarney); Barabbas, an insurrectionist, (Jack Armstrong); a Centurion (James Coyle); Longinus, a soldier, (Vincent Masterson); the mocker with the scourge, (Victor Grady); the mocker with the scarlet robe, (Leo Rishea); the mocker with the crown of thorns, (Leo Masterson); Attendants of Procula, Grace Barns, Berenice Martin. Attendants of Acte, Kathleen Grady, Myra Maloney; Soldiers, Aloysius Milloy and Joseph Jones; Heralds, Joseph Collins and Victor Grady.

At last evening's presentation, Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl and Rev. J. J. O'Brien were present.

The play and concert programme will be repeated this evening in the basement of the Sacred Heart church.

FIRPO LEADING A HOBO'S LIFE

Sleeps Where the Night Finds Him and His Only Worry Is That His Money May Run Short.

By A. M. EASTERLING

BUENOS AIRES, May. 9.—(United Press).—Luis Angel Firpo, the "Bull of the Pampas," with pockets full of money and an established business here, still is a maverick. He is a man without fixed abode. He has no home. When night comes on he rests his weary head on a pallet in the nearest hospitable shanty, or on a downy pillow in a fine hotel, depending on where he is when the shadows trap him.

Not that he always goes to bed at sundown, but it has been established that he never wanders far from the place he is when night falls.

Where he sleeps, the South American champion sleeps well. He does not rise with the rising sun, but snoozes the mornings away, safe in a knowledge that he can pay for his bed and his food. It is true Firpo develops amazingly in the abdominal regions between training for fights, for he eats well and a great deal, and he is finding it harder to get in trim as the weeks pass by.

Fighting is a hard life, and the fact that the Bull enjoys soft living may have influenced him in a flash of annoyance to declare he would retire forever from the ring. But to live softly one must have money and subsequently the champion modified his expressions about retiring. Soft living to Firpo is a long, sweet sleep, plenty of grub, and no work to speak of. After his years of poverty he likes to roll over in bed, when he used to get up and go to work, and sleep again. He is not to be disturbed in this occupation.

It is quite frequently possible to locate Firpo in a hotel down town, but to get into communication with him before noon is not possible. There is none so brave as to rouse him from his slumbers.

Once encountered, Firpo is not any more disagreeable than he has to be, among his home folks. They don't get accustomed to him, and the boys—and the girls—follow him around. The youngster with whom he speaks casually is likely as not to sally forth and wallop one of his companions in the eye, showing that he is a follower of the champion, although the champion avoids brawls. It is probable he is afraid of his temper, for he admits he fights like a fool when he gets mad, and he is easily angered, but it is more probably that he cannot outgrow his earlier embarrassment at meeting and talking to his people, and especially to those with whom he has only a slight acquaintance.

Firpo's automobile business knows him well by report. He has been known to visit the place a number of times and he has fired an assistant or two, but he is not on exhibition in his shop. He hasn't any particular business either and, furthermore, he doesn't want any.

He wants to enjoy life in his own way and, while he likes to feel safe in the matter of money, his desires are not luxurious, and he could retire now and live happily in his own way ever after, especially since he is no spendthrift, to the deep regret of hangrs-on, if he could convince himself that he would never wake up sometime and find his money gone and a hard day's work staring him in the face.

U. S. Rugby Team's Pockets Picked

PARIS, May 9.—Sneak thieves yesterday entered the dressing room of the United States Olympic football team at the Colombes Olympic Stadium and robbed the players of all their valuables, about 5,000 francs, and several hundred dollars in United States currency. The men tonight were disconsolate, especially over the loss of their jewelry, which included a number of watches and medals won in athletic tournaments, to which they attach much value.

CHILEAN MEETS FLOYD JOHNSON

First of Elimination Serics In Heavyweight Class—Romero Aspires to Supplant Firpo.

NEW YORK, May 9 (Canadian Press). — The first important battle of the heavyweight elimination series that will culminate in a championship fight for the survivor with Jack Dempsey in September, takes place to-night at Madison Square Garden, when Quintin Romero, the rugged Chilian, makes his American debut in a ten-round match with Floyd Johnson, Iowa heavyweight.

Following this, on Monday Harry Wills, giant negro, who has been signed by Tex Rickard for a long-awaited match with Dempsey, will be tested against Bartley Madden, veteran Irish heavyweight, in a fifteen-round contest at the Queensboro Stadium.

The outcome of both bouts will be watched with keen interest, particularly the showings of Romero, an untried product who aspires to supplant Luis Firpo as South America's title contender, and Wills, who is out to prove his claim to being Dempsey's "logical challenger."

Wills is favoured to knock out Madden, despite the latter's reputation for durability, but Johnson has been installed a favourite over Romero because of his superior speed and boxing ability.

Bowling

C.P.C. TOOK THREE STRAIGHT FROM DE LAVAL AND WIN CHAMPIONSHIP OF TEN PIN LEAGUE

By taking three straight from the De Laval last night at Solomon's Alleys, the Canadian Packing again won the champion of the Ten Pin League.

The Canadian Packing won the first Ten Pin League that was held, and now they come through winners in the second league that was held. Throught the entire season they have proved themselves consistent bowlers. They won the first league that was held after a great uphill fight with the Crescents, and won this league by their three straight wins from the De Laval who were right beside them on the top of the heap until last night.

The Canadian Packing have bowled some good games and some bad ones in this league. But there is one thing they got to be given credit for. When the occasion arises to deliver they are there with the goods. They have the reserve power, they deliver in the pinches and they sure delivered last night when necessary. Four of their five men were well over the 500 mark. Smithson had the high score of the evening with 569, Heckman had 542, Firth 513, Dedman 512 and Nicholls 456, for a total of 2592. This is great rolling, and shows the ability of the C.P.C. to deliver.

The C.P.C.'s feat of winning both leagues is the result of great bowling by them. True, there were other teams just as good as them in the league, but the did not have the staying power. The C.P.C. pulled many games out of the fire by sensational rolling in the last frames. In a recent game they rolled, they looked as if they had lost, but their lead-off man came through with three strikes and the rest of them all delivered in good style. Their record for the season is marvelous, and something to be proud of.

For the DeLaval Barrette was high man with 534.

Following are the scores

De Laval—
McGee	160	150	142	451
Fitzgerald	135	163	173	491
Garrow	100	163	119	382
Barrette	177	201	156	534
Murray	148	146	180	474

C.P.C.—
Smithson	170	194	205	569
Nicholls	164	145	147	456
Firth	176	159	178	513

VETS TOO MUCH FOR WOOLLENS

Defeated Them By Three Goals to One In a League Game.

A large crowd witnessed the Vets trim the Woollens by three goals to one, in a league game, last evening, at King Edward Park. Woollens had only ten players and finished with nine men.

The Woollens started with ten men, they were short four regular players and Vets won the toss to take advantage of the wind in their favour, although the Woollens were peppering Frick rapidly with hard shots. Roberts headed into goal, Frick saved in below the cross-bar ultimately Crowe relieved the pressure. The Vets transferred the play to the other end where Hillman was prominent in goal. Offsides against Vets spoiled their chances when attacking. A corner kick taken by Sharman landed at Warde's foot who compelled Hillman to save quickly. Play was even for a while, then it was a continual drive at Woollen's goal. On one occasion, McFadden placed the ball to Wade's feot who was dilatory with his parting shot which was clutched by Woollens' goalie to save a sure goal. A few minutes later, Burrows sent a twenty-five yard drive that completely fooled Hillman who was watching McFadden lying close upon him. Just before half-time Wade sent a low ground shot that was held by Hillman, then Sharman scored for the Vets. Half-time—Vets 2, Woollen 0.

Half-Time.

Both teams turned round for next period. A foul against Mann brought the cleverest goal in a few seasons. From twenty yards out Jack Chambers sent a beautiful drive inside the post for Woollen's goal. Frick jumped upon it but there was too much weight behind it. A breakaway by Dyer ended in McFadden making number three for the Vets. Gaskill was injured in a scrimmage and went to outside right but he was useless. This left the Woolllens only with nine players. Chambers broke through the Vets defence and just as he was steadying himself, Mann stopped him to clear the situation. There was nothing important took place thereafter. The Vets won the first two full points of the season. Full time—Vets 3, Woollens 1.

Goal scorers—Burrows, McFadden and Sharman. Woollens—Chambers.

Woollens—Hillman, goal; Read, full back, Quinn, Jackson and Sawyers, half-backs; Mitchell, Gaskill, Chambers, Roberts and Warde, forwards.

Vets—Frick, goal; Crowe and Wasson, backs; Burrows, Mann and Blowers, half-backs; Clarke, Wade, Dyer, McFadden and Sharman, forwards.

Referee—J. L. Howarth.

KINGSTON BALL TEAM PRACTICE

Gallagher will Have two Good Pitchers in Bennett and Kelly.

Kingston Whig.—In spite of the cold weather on Tuesday evening a large number of Manager Daley's hopefuls turned out for practice at the Fair Grounds. The playing field is still in bad shape, but it did not daunt the local C.O.B.L. sluggers from showing lots of speed. During the first part of the evening, the Kelly and Ryckman battery gave the other boys some batting practice. Kelly hurls some wicked stuff, and should prove a valuable source of strength to Daley and Co., against the stiff opposition, which they will meet this season. Ryckman did the receiving like a veteran and handles the pill to perfection behind the bat. The good old combination, Rice and Gallagher also took a turn, Teddy showing some of his old stuff. The newcomers from the city league, Purvis and Compeau, looked good and no doubt will contribute much toward the success of the locals. Lined up for batting were Teeple, Daley, Batstone, Cherry, Twigg, Soden, Compeau, Purvis and Evans. The boys showed that they still have plenty of home runs in the old bat.

After a period of bat swinging the squad trotted out to the field for a little fielding exercise, Batstone taking up hisold position at third, Compeau at short stop, Evans at second, and Purvis on first. In the field, Cherry, Teeple and Twigg performed, catching Teddy Gallagher's long clouts with ease. Manager Daley kept the infield busy with hot grounders, which the sackers delayed around the lot in snappy fashion. On the sidelines Soden and Kelly kept the old ball going and the practice on the whole was very satisfactory. The only absentees were Moore and Smith, who are busy at Queen's, and the left hander Bennett. This boy with Gallagher and Kelly will give Kingston three good southpaws to rely on and there will be one right-hander in Moore.

BOSTON, May 8.—John Collins' triple off Walter Johnson in the first inning scored two Boston runs and was the outstanding feature of the Red Sox 4 to 2 victory over Washington to-day. Ehmke held the visitors to five hits. While Johnson struck out eight, he walked three and hit two and all three of the players who were passed eventually scored:

Washington	010 010 000—	2	5 0

The "Connaught Cup" representative of the Dominion Championship will be drawn for on Saturday, May 10th. All entries must be in on this date. All club or clubs can enter this competition upon paying necessary entry fee.

The Hamilton, Ont., and District association is of the opinion that there are too many penalty kicks nowadays Several of the members contend that some referees cannot distinguish between intentional and unintentional fouls in the eighteen yards' area, and the consequence is that many teams are unfairly penalized. The propose to keep a close tab on the whistle blowers in this regard.

The Vets have lost the services of two prominent players, Parkins, centre-half and McGuigan, outside left, who have gone to Montreal.

KINGSTON TEAM IN GOOD SHAPE

Limestone City Has Team of World Beaters—Have Already Won the C.O.B.L.

Standard:—With a squad of fifteen men on the field, Manager Joe Daley led the aggregation in the first real workout of the season at the Fair Ground last night, and they showed up like a million dollars. A few more practices like last night's workout, and the locals will be ready to tackle a dozen Oshawa teams, and put them all in the alsoran class.

One of the brighest features of the practice was the great work of "Al" Rickman, who shapes up like one of the niftiest catchers seen in this part of the country. He warmed up Kelly, the husky southpaw, and when he took his turn at the bat, he hammered the ball a mile. Kelly was shooting them in a mile a minute, and looks like the best man in the C.O.B.L. this season. "Teddy" Gallagher and "Andy" Bennett were the other twirlers who showed up for practice, and the team presented something unique in three good southpaw twirlers. With so many left-handed twirlers in the league, the local twirlers should make good records before the curtain is rung down at the end of the season.

"Lon' 'Purvis covered first base in his same old style, while Bill Evans, Soden and Compeau worked at second and short. Harry Batstone made his first appearance on the diamond this season, and at once showed his old form. Out in gardens were Bert Daley, Del Cherry, Art Twigg, Harold Nicholson and Herb Teepell, while Lex Rice was handling a few slant behind the bat.

It was a great workout for the players and many rail-birds on hand were agreeably surprised by the great showing the players made. Even with a raw, cold wind blowing, the players went about their work hammer and tongs, and look good to walk away with the C.O.B.L. this summer.

Little activity has been reported from Peterboro and Belleville. In Peterboro, the burying ground for broken down players, several old-timers, including Derry, Thompson and Skitch will likely be seen in action, but they are sadly lacking on the pitching mound, and unless they uncover a few phenoms of the calibre of Heckman, they're doomed for the cellar.

Belleville will depend on Oulette and Keon for their pitching, with Jeffreys in reserve, and look a great deal stronger than supposed. Oshawa are in great shape and have played two games already, so that they are fit for the opening here two weeks from tomorrow.

GIRLS' SOFTBALL TO BE SOON UNDERWAY

League Meeting To-Night In Commerce Rooms.

The executive of the Girls' Softball League has called a meeting for this evening at 7.30 in the Chamber of Commerce. All teams should have at least one representative present.

Most of the teams have been practicing regularly and are in almost mid-season form and interest is at fever heat.

The schedule will soon be drawn up and the season opened with the first game in a week or even less.

The Colonials are to be warned that they must overcome harder opposition that even the C.G.E. offered them last year, and that was certainly keen enough, before they can hope to retain the cup and title for yet another year.

BASEBALL.

The Lakeviews will practice on Friday at Riverside Park at 6 p.m.

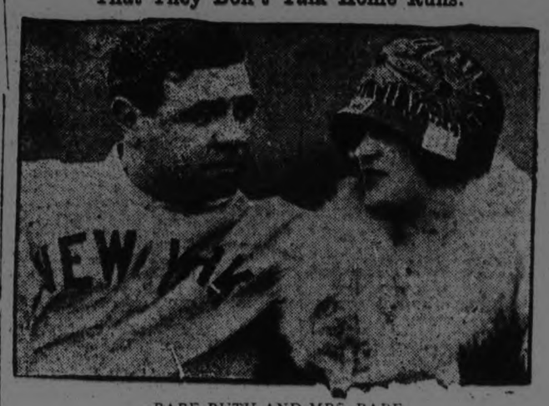
The following players are asked to be present: Collins, Whitehouse, LeBarr, Johnston, Cheu, Halliday, Cameron, Marchen, Ash, Whitlow, McIntyre.

NEW TENNIS RULING

PARIS, May 9.—(United Press). —The French Tennis Federation has ruled against a ten-minute rest for men players after the third set of a match, and for women players after the second set. It holds that endurance is a part of the game. It is likely that this ruling will maintain during the Olympic Tennis championships.

THE RUTHS POSE

And Our Photographer Makes Astonishing Discovery That They Don't Talk Home Runs.



BABE RUTH AND MRS. BABE

The above picture shows Babe Ruth—possibly you've heard of the gentleman—and Mrs. Babe in some sort of deep, earnest discussion.

Presumably the subject is baseball. Very likely it concerns home runs. What else would a great home-run hitter and a great home-run hitter's wife be discussing?

Mrs. Ruth has probably said to Mr. Ruth: "Gee whiz, Babe, you aren't socking the old apple half as hard as I looked for you to do this year. What's ailing you, anyhow?"

And you can just hear Mr. Ruth in his fine old, optimistic way, answering: "Honey, just you wait. I'll get going yet and show these hams what home-run hitting really is."

But what they really said, according to the unromantic photographer who brought the picture in our office, was this:

The Babe: "Well, hurry up and shoot. I don't wanna miss any time at bat."

Mrs. Babe: "Heaven sakes!" Why don't you let a body know you're going to take pictures? I look terrible in this hat."

BUY COAL NOW

ASH HEAP OR BANK ACCOUNT?

—You can save considerable money by putting in your winter supply of Coal now while prices are low—that is an admitted fact. The question is, will you take advantage of the opportunity that is offered? If you do, you can put the difference between prices now and prices later on in the Bank of Satisfaction, where it will draw substantial interest in the shape of comfort all next winter.

On the other hand, if you let this chance to save go by, your next ash heap will have cost more money and be not one cent more valuable.

The purchase of Coal now is an investment without a trace of speculation to it.

RADIO NEWS

"Broad-Catchers."

"Broad-catchers" is the name a radio advertiser in England gives radio listeners. It might well be adopted for this class, as contrasted to broadcasters.

Austria To Broadcast.

The Austrian Government has turned down two applications to erect broadcasting stations and is planning to erect one herself.

Radio In Army.

Radio sets in the next war will be carried by all advanced infantry units, tanks and airplanes, besides forming part of the equipment of all grades of headquarters and artillery brigades.

Turkey Behind.

Turkey has not yet started popular radio, although a German firm has applied for a concession to operate a low-power broadcasting station at Constantinople. Sale of radio receiving sets is expected to boom if this is granted.

Ban In Jamaica.

Jamaica practically forbids the erection and operation of radio equipment there, reports the American consul at Kingston. But the administration is considering granting permission for radio reception to its inhabitants.

Why U-Boats Failed.

German U-boats failed to locate American ships because of their talkativeness, according to Commander D. C. Bingham, assistant director of the naval communication division of the Department of Commerce. Talking to one another by radio, the U-boats disclosed their positions by means of direction finders controlled by the allies. So the troop ships were routed around the submarines.

PISTOLS FLASH IN BELGRADE WHEN THE LAWMAKERS MEET

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, May 9. —(Associated Press).—The good, old lively days of the Austrian reichsrath, when visitors in Vienna regarded the halls of parliament more as an arena for the staging of personal encounters than as a seat of lawmaking, were recalled by a recent free-for-all-fight in the Jugoslavian chamber. Revolvers barked during the row, and four men were wounded before the speaker could clear the house.

Mr. Agatanovitch, a former instructor in a gymnasium, today a Democratic deputy, was the provocative agent. Large of frame and possessed of a stentorian voice, by his frequent interruptions he was making impossible the transaction of business.

Deputy Stretkovitch protested, and without saying a word Agatanovitch seized a chair and knocked Stretkovitch senseless.

The chamber immediately was in an uproar, and the session degenerated into a battle of fisticuffs. The fighting was stopped only by the intervention of a flying wedge of deputies composed of men who showed their readiness to fight for peace.

GERMANS OF THE VOLGA FORM SOVIET REPUBLIC

SARATOFF, Russia, May 9.—Johannes Schwab, a German schoolteacher of the Volga District, who is regarded as a tried and trusted Communist, heads the executive committee of 50 which directs the affairs of the new German Soviet Republic of Russia. This socalled republic is federated with the Union of Soviet Republics having its capital in Moscow.

The German Volga government embraces the fragments of the German settlements along the Volga which have survived the great war and the many civil wars which have taken place in the Volga area. Germans first settled here 160 years ago. Catherine Second promised them practical independence and exemption from Russian military service.

But the thrifty Germans became so prosperous that the Russian government would not let them alone and gradually limited their rights until the outbreak of the great war, when the German schools were closed, the German press was supressed, religious liberty was limited and German men were forced into the army. Under the Bolshevist government the colonies suffered the loss of lands, cattle and crops, and many of the colonists moved away.

PROGRESSIVE WOMEN TO HOLD CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(United Press).—The first national gathering of progressive women of all parties will be held in Washington on May 9, 10 and 11. Twenty-five States have already responded to the invitation to the meeting.

Plans for the meeting, as announced by Isabelle Kendig of Washington, executive secretary, include a three days' conference to discuss the declaration of principles, already formulated, and the practical details of State organization work necessary to the electoin of delegates to the national progressive convention in Cleveland July 4.

"The women who join in the progressive movement will not go in as a "ladies' auxiliary," but as an integral part of the movement," Miss Kendig declared.

"Already they have formulated their declaration of principles," said Miss Kendig. "They will go into the July convention as full accredited delegates, and in the campaign itself they will endorse the candidates and parties whose platforms follow out the general lines which they have laid down. This first conference, therefore, at which their policies will be definitely determined, will have a far-reaching significance."

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL

BRILLIANT ACTING JOINED WITH LIVELY COMEDY PLOT.

In "Alias Julius Caesar" Ray Brings Down the House With Laughter.

Charles Ray has contributed another brilliant comedy to the screen. It is 'Alias Julius Caesar," which opened a three-day run at the Royal Theatre yesterday.

In addition to his own directing and always capable acting, the star has found a story that unfolds numerous humorous possibilities and carries its plot with it. First as a society clubman and then as a supposedly escaped lunatic, the star lets not a single chance pass by to work in a new gag or a humorous character antic.

Billy Barnes, suburban golfer, is taken up by the police as an escaped lunatic. By convincing the colored attendant that he is really giving his cellmate the third degree he makes his escape, the cellmate going with him. Congratulating himself on his good fortune in being on time, Ray turns up at the ball at the country club that evening only to find his cellmate, a society crook, there before him.

Before the story can wind to a climax in a call for the police, the star has undergone the torments of gangdom in becoming an enforced accomplice to the crook. The situation paves the way to numberless events which, highly laughable in their own manner of depiction would be spoiled by the telling.

Barbara Bedford gives excellent support as leading woman. The remainder of a large and capable cast includes William Scott, Robert Fernandez, Fred Miller, Eddie Gribbon, Tom Wilson, Harvey Clark, Gus Thomas, Milton Ross, S. J. Bingham, Philip Dunham and Bert Offord.

COMEDY AT THE ROYAL

In addition to the feature length comedy with Charlie Ray the Royal management has secured two other exceptionally clever comedies. "Neal Burns in Busy Buddies" gets a lot of fun out of the trials of three returned men to get a job. The laughs come thick and fast. Lige Conley in "There He Goes," is built around a comedy horse-race and the scene is laid in the Sunny South on a rainy day. At least the picture opens in the midst of a rainstorm which provides material for some extremely funny gags. Lige enters in the misdt of a driving rain and in a golf suit. The suit is water-proof—that is, it lets the water in, but won't let it out. He brings in a flock of frogs and they get entangled in the pop-corn balls and add life to the party.

The racing scenes are done in the familiar speedy style of the Mermaid Comedies. Lige tries to win the race with a horse that was a colt when Barbara Fritchie was a flapper. The race provides material for many original and funny gags.

Both of these comedies will be shown tonight and Saturday Matinee and night.

AT THE CAPITOL

LLOYD PROVED IMMENSELY POPULAR IN "GIRL SHY."

Capitol Jammed for the Opening Performance.

For the opening of Harold Lloyd in his greatest comedy, "Girl Shy," the Capitol was jammed to the doors last night. The management draws patrons' attention to the fact that here are only 96 loge chairs available for reservations each evening, and requests that reservations for chairs be phoned to the Capitol (1720) as early as possible to avoid disappointment.

A big special children's matinee will be held at 2.30 on Saturday afternoon. Children 11 cents, adults 25 cents.

There was a long line-up at the Capitol Theatre at an early hour last evening and a capacity house later for the big Harold Lloyd picture, "Girl Shy." "At his best; In his best" probably phrases it as well as may be for this production of the popular comedian. There is a constant succession of giggles, laughs and roars for a picture that is one of the funniest seen here in many moons. There is nothing off-color about the mirth that Harold Lloyd engenders. It is clean-cut, real fun from start to finish. As a tailor's apprentice, Harold Meadows of Little Bend has the interest and sympathy of his audience from the moment when the anxious lady mistakes his shapely legs for a pair of newly-pressed trousers to the finale, when he essays desperately to propose to the only girl through an avalanche of stuttering syllables.

The Capitol programme for this week end is one of the best yet. The Lost Rider of desert canyons drifts through the Pathe Review, followed by colorful scenes from Portugal; there is a novel idea in the modernized version of old songs, with the audience joining in the well-known choruses, to a whistling accompaniment from the enthused back benches; "Col. Heeza Liar in Africa," is an entertaining animated cartoon comedy, from the Bray Studios, and a diversified introductory programme is rounded out by a snappy vaudeville offerings in the "Three Musical Bangards,' 'a trio of clever musicians who were received with repeated applause. The lady and the two men of the group have an attractive programme of piano, violin, xylophone and saxaphone music. There are a couple of organ xylophone numbers by the three, one a fetching rendition of the popular "La Paloma," a unique number in a piano, xylophone and trick violin selection, with the violinist doing a bird song stunt, a rousing saxaphone trio, and a catchy imitation of an old-time electric piano.

But the Harold Lloyd picture is the feature of a very entertaining programme. Instea dof retragrading in his work, this versatile comedian appears to be progressing. His ingenuous, serio-comic manner is at its best in "Girl Shy", and he does a lot of hair-raising stunts in his chase for the one girl that prove his ability in the "thrill" line. The little, ordinary happenings of everyday life make the material out of which Harold Lloyd gets his biggest laughs. Everyone can appreciate the funniness of his attempts at love-making in the country, where an affectionate pig family and a perambulating turtle complicate matters for him and his shy lady love. When Harold absent-mindedly becomes involved with the contents of the irate lady's valise on the train to the city, with embarrassing consequences; when he consumes all the dog biscuit, when he becomes instantaneously the idol of a group of stenographers when he stutters impotently at a wrong moment and chases madly after a vanishing train, he gets a constant succession of laughs, but the humour is mixed with thrills in the wild ride or succession of rides that land him finally at the home of his lady love, tearfully about to wed another man. Te stuttering, absent-minded hero, author of a book on Love Methods that transforms itself into a "Boob's Dairy," becomes a single-minded Lochinvar, rushing to the aid of his sweetheart by way of a madly-galloping pair of surprised work horses. The wild ride of this young man is a thrilly scream from beginning to end, and had its audience up on their toes through a long series of hairbreadth escapes. To steal several automobiles and scrap them by the way ,to cover a portion of the distance on a runaway trolley, with its single, befuddled passenger, to press into service a bootlegger's car and a traffic cops' motorcycle and finally, a pair of heavy draught horses that stage one of the most exciting sections of an exciting ride is nothing in the comedian's life, apparently. He gets to his destination over almost insuperable obstacles and carries off the tearful bride to happiness and a future career of stuttering interludes. In a manner all his own, Harold Lloyd has solved one of the funniest and best of his series of funny pictures. Anyone who likes a real laugh, merry and heartfelt, that comes with surprising suddenness by reason of the unaffected art of a real laugh-producer, will see Harold Lloyd in "Girl Shy."

The Capitol Theatre has installed its new curtains; handsome draperies that hang from the proscenium arch and aid much to the beautiful interior scheme of decoration. They are of midnight blue silk, painted in a design of large butterflies in natural colors, with a conventionalized yellow border of massed flowers. Odd and effective, they are the work of an artist who did the scenic painting for the original Ben Hur production.

AT THE REGENT

ULTRA-MODERN FILM SAYS JAMES MORRISON

Tells Why "On the Banks of the Wabash" Should Prove Popular.

"'On the Banks of the Wabash' might be called an ultra-modern picture," said Jimmy Morrison, the juvenile hero of the production, as he stood playing with the miniature boat controlled by wireless.

"But it deals with a quaint little Indiana town that's been asleep for years," interrupted Madge Evans. "I can't see how you can associate a dreamy little hamlet with anything ultra-modern. I love the country with its open spaces and easy-going, care-free life, but I should call it going back to the simple life."

"I had in mind this wireless boat," said Jimmy. "This is the beginning of what is called the Aquarian Age or air age. Man has conquered the land and sea, and now he is setting out to conquer the air. Our airplanes, radio, wireless telegraphy and the like are considered simply beginnings. Scientists have under way the wireless control of trains,' the transmission of motion pictures, photographs and even actual scenes by wireless. Experiments are being made in laboratories for the transportation of parcels by wireless.

"These are simply beginnings. Others are at work trying to extract power and energy from the sun's rays. They are drawing fertilizer from the air, and in time we may even get our food by wireless.

"Now, to return to the subject. One of the principal factors of 'On the Banks of the Wabash' is the wireless boat which I am supposed to invent. Consider the millions of radio fans throughout the country, each experiment, dreaming and reading of the great possibilities of radio. Is this not indeed an ultra-modern film?

"But that is not all. Where is most of the amateur experimenting being done? In little towns like this, for in the small village the youth has more time to himself. He has not so many diversions. Dance halls, poolrooms, theatres, bowleng alleys and the like are not near enough to frequent, and his mind natutally turns to invention. On each visit o the city he buys supplies. Often he gets them by ordering from a mail order catalogue. In the scene where Tilda gets hair goods from a large mail order house I see much of human interest. The big, bulky catalogue is one of the treasures of every country home, and it really is a sort of encyclopedia, for it contains about everything under the sun that can be purchased, from a pin to a motor-boat.

"So, you see, the picture is ultra-modern in that it combines the rural life, modern invention, science, jazz of city culture, in a throbbing documen of conditions not only as they exist today, but as they will continue to exist for the next generation. It can never grow old, for there are so many points to the story that one can always find something new."

REFUSED DEPOSITS TO SAVE THE BANK

Hon. MacKenzie King Tells of Midnight Visit Three Days Before the Crash.

OTTAWA, May 9. Canadian Press—The "midnight visit" of August 14, 1923, when J. F. M. Stewart, a director of the Home Bank, called on the Prime Minister, at Laurier House revealed to him the perilous condition of the bank, and pressed for a government deposit to save it from failure, was described to the Royal inquiry commission this morning by Premier Mackenzie King.

The Prime Minister told of a telephone call received by him at ten o'clock from "one of his colleagues," saying that Mr. Stewart was in Ottawa on a matter of "grave concern," of his agreeing to see Mr. Stewart, and of his conversation, which took place between 11 o'clock and midnight—three days before the crash. In addition to Premier King and Mr. Stewart, Hon. James A. Robb, acting Minister of Finance, Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways, and Hon. T. A. Low, Minister of Trade and Commerce, were present at the conference.

Briefly, Mr. Stewart informed the Prime Ministers and members of the Government present, that the Home Bank was on the point of failure and asked for a large government deposit to tide it over until negotiations could take place with the Canadian Bankers' Association.

The Premier told the Government counsel, Eugene Lafleur, K.C., that he "was aghast" at the statement of Mr. Stewart. "I replied to him that the circumstances he mentioned made it impossible for the government to even consider placing a deposit with the bank."

THREE MURDERS MET DEATH THIS MORNING

EDDYVILLE, Ky., May 9.—(Canadian Press)—Three murderers were executed in West State Penitentiary here shortly after midnight in the first triple legal electrocution in the State's history. They were: Frank Thomas, George Weick and Charlie Miller, negro.

They died in the order named after walking from the health-house with steady step. Only Thomas, aged seventy, and the oldest man executed in the State, made a statement in which he said he was not afraid and that he was "going home." He was convicted of murdering Lee Arbegust, a friend. Weick murdered William Oelke, near Louisville, and Miller killed two railroad guards.

IN MEMORIAM.

WALSH. — In loving memory of Annie Walsh, wife of the late David Kelly, who departed this life May 9th, 1923:

'Tis sweet to know we'll meet again,
And some day understand
Why the angels came and took our friend,
Away to a better land.

A land where the richest flowers grow,
Sweet flowers of every clime;
And ever-living waters flow,
Fed by a power divine.

And on that morn,
A wondrous light we'll see;
Our friend, a beautiful angel,
Calling to you and me.

"A beautiful life ends not in death."

SENATOR'S CHARGES OF C.N.R. DISHONESTY ARE UNDER INVESTIGATION

Company's Counsel at Winnipeg Holding Enquiry at Vancouver Which Was Advertised in Press and Testimony Invited — Official Is Impartial, Declares Sir Henry Thornton In Replying to Statement of Senator Taylor—Has Found Honesty and Efficiency.

SENATOR WAS NOTIFIED.

MONTREAL, May 10 (Canadian Press). — Interviewed here yesterday regarding the speech made in the Senate by Senator J. B. Taylor, of New Westminster, B.C., Sir Henry Thornton, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, said:

"Senator J. B. Taylor, of New Westminster, B.C., made certain statements in the Senate yesterday which require comment if the public is to be accurately informed with respect to the siuation.

"At various times during the last two months Senator Taylor has collected and brought to the attention of the administration charges in regard to some of the officers of the company on the Pacific Coast. I delegated a responsible and reliable assistant to investigate these charges so far as was possible from the examination of papers and correspondence, with the result that, in my judgment, the charges so made were not justified, and my opinions were communicated to Senator Taylor.

He, however, expressed dissatisfaction, and, in order that there might be removed the possibility of all doubt and suspicion, not only with respect to the charges advanced by Senator Taylor, but with respect to any other matters relating to the efficiency and good faith of those who are charged with the administrations of the company's affairs on the Pacific Coast, I asked Mr. R. H. M. Temple, the company's regional counsel at Winnipeg, to proceed to Vancouver to investigate all matters with respect to what I have referred to in this interview.

Impartial Examiner.

Mr. Temple was selected, not only because of his ability and integrity, but also because he had no connection with any of the officers who might be involved, and was, therefore, an entirely unprejudiced examiner. He is being aided in his investigation by Mr. E. F. Maffner, an independent counsel, also from Winnipeg. The instructios of Mr. Temple were to make a full and conclusive investigation of all matters relevant to Senator Taylor's charges, which might be brought to his attention, and he has all of the authority from me which is necessary for the attainment of this objective.

"Immediately prior to the arrival of Mr. Temple in Vancouver, the following notice was published in the British Columbia newspapers:

"Statements having been made that changes in the present methods of administering the affairs of the Canadian National Railways and Canadian Government Merchant Marine o the Pacific Coast would lead to increased efficiency and a greater degree of satisfaction to the business interests of the British Columbia, Mr. R. H. M. Temple, regional counsel of the railway, has been instructed to proceed to Vancouver to receive statements and testimony. This inquiry will begin immediately. Communications or complaints in connection therewith should be addressed to Mr. R. H. M. Temple, regional counsel, or to Mr. R. W. Wannington, assistant regional counsel, Canadian National Railways, Union Station, Vancouver."

Still Proceeding.

"Consequently in view of the above and the further fact that Mr. Temple interviewed Senator Taylor prior to the commencement of the investigation at New Westminster, it is difficult to understand why the statement is made by Senator Taylor that he received no intimation of the inquiry and that no public notice was given. The investigation is still proceeding, and upon completion, the conclusions will be made known.

"Since I have been connected with the Canadian Natioal Railways system I have been impressed with the loyalty, honesty, and enthusiasm of its officers and employees, and it is to be understood that the investigation now in progress is designed quite as much for the protection of the good name of our officers and employees as it is for the purpose of revealing the possibility of any improper acts."

INQUIRY JUSTIFIED.

OTTAWA, May 10 (Canadian Press). — In the Senate yesterday, Hon. W. H. Bennett referred to his announcement that he would move for a special committee of the Senate to inquire into Canadian National Railway and Government Merchant Marine finances and expenditures, and said that no doubt this would be taken as an attack on our Government-owned transportation utilities, but such was not the intention. He believed the information on hand justified a thorough inquiry and a resolution to this effect was being prepared and would be presented to the Senate when it reassembled on Tuesday, 20th May, after the adjournment proposed yesterday.

The Senate adjourned until Tuesday, 20th May, at 8 p.m.

GANDIER DENIAL FEATURED LAST UNION SESSION

Reported Statement Regarding Beginning of a Great National Protestant Church Was Never Made in Public Or Private—Church Union Bill Hearing Closed With Arguments and Summaries.

SEVEN FULL DAYS.

OTTAWA, May 10.— (Canadian Press.)— The formal hearing on the church union bill before the Private Bills Committee of the House of Commons closed Friday afternoon with a clash of declarations over the reported utterance of Rev. Dr. Gandier regarding "the great national Protestant national church."

Rev. W. G. Brown of Red Deer, a witness against the bill, Thursday stated that he had heard Dr. Gandier at a meeting of the Union comtee say: "This is the beginning of a great national Protestant church. No Government would dare resist such a church."

Denial by Dr. Gandier.

Just after finishing the final statement for the Unionists yesterday afternoon Rev. George Pidgeon, of Toronto, handed in to the chairman a denial of this utterance by Rev. Dr. Gandier.

"I desire to say," said Dr. Gandier, in his statement, "that no such statement was ever made by me. Mr. Brown has attributed to me something I have never said either in public or private, in committee or elsewhere."

At once Geo. A. Campbell, K.C., of Montreal, counsel for the opponents of the bill stepped forward and stated that the Rev. Mr. Brown asked permission to file an affidavit in regard to the matter.

The permission was at once granted.

Seven Full Days.

The hearings on church union which closed yesterday afternoon had occupied seven full days of the committee. The Unionists opened fire on Wednesday morning of last week and their main statement occupied in all some fourteen hours, while the opponents to the bill, commencing last Friday, took up the attention of the committee for about seventeen hours in their main statement, closing only Friday morning. The greater part of the day was consumed in argument and counter argument, summing up the case, each side being given an hour for summary and the Unionists having half an hour for reply.

The arguments heard throughout the seven days have ranged from legal to theological. The opponents of the bill have claimed that the proposed measure is beyond the powers of the Dominion Parliament and that the Presbyterian church courts, which agreed to it, exceeded their jurisdiction. The advocates of the bill have replied that the regular procedure of the Presbyterian church including the Barrier Act had been followed throughout the union negotiation and further that the constitution of the Dominion was complied with by reason of the fact that appropriate legislation was being sought from both Dominion and Provincial legislatures.

Change of Opinion.

Friday's hearings opened with a claim by T. B. McQuesten of Hamilton that there had been "a complete turnover in opinion in the Presbyterian church on the subject of union." He supported his statement by quoting recent card votes taken in various congregations. The rest of the day was largely given up to legal arguments. W. N. Tilley, K.C., of Toronto, speaking for the Unionists and G. A. Campbell, K.C., of Montreal for the anti-unionists. In addition brief statements of broader aspects of the case were presented to the committee by Rev. W. T. Gunn, general secretary of the Congregtional Union, by Rev. James Endicott, foreign mission secretary of the Methodist church, and Rev. George Pidgeon of Toronto of the Presbyterian church.

Mr. Campbell's Address.

Mr. Campbell appeared for the Presbyterian Church Association and for the Women's League for the preservation of the Presbyterian church.

He stated that Mr. Tilley would

Colourful and impressive scene at the opening of the British Empire Exposition at Wembly, England. KITCHENER LIBERAL OPPOSES THE BUDGET

W. D. Euler Announces His Intention of Voting Against Government's Fiscal Program — No Assurance of the Tariff Stability—Should Maintain Home Market For Own Industries.

OTTAWA, May 10 (Canadian Press). — "I will vote against this Budget,' said W. D. Euler, Liberal member for North Waterloo, at the conclusion of a speech in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon.

He outlined his objections to the measure of tariff reduction contained therein, and said that his chief objection was that the Government had given no assurance that this was an isolated and final example, or that there would not be further interference with the Budget in future.

Mr. Euler said that in his view the Budget had many serious defects and omissions. He was sorry that the Government had not seen fit to abolish the "nuisance taxes" on commercial papers and receipts. He would have been glad to see a reduction in postage from three to two cents an ounce, and he thought such a reduction could have been made without hurting the revenue of the country. He was sorry that the Budget contained no modification of the income tax and also that it contained no announcement of the appointment of a tariff commission. He would also have liked to have seen some measure of relief for Canadian manufacturers who were required to compete with manufacturers operating in countries with depreciated currency.

Keep Home Market.

Party allegiance should be something apart from tariffs, Mr. Euler believed. "If my views on the tariff do not let me call myself a Liberal, my life-long conception of Liberalism has been incorrect." With the rest of the world putting up tariff walls that were prohibitive it was only fair that Canada should maintain for her industries some measure of the home market by means of tariff.

Mr. Euler advocated a tariff board made up of representatives of all classes. They should be given real power and should be able to go into industries and ascertain the costs and profits of production.

Opposed in 1911.

Mr. Meighen pointed out to Mr. Euler that in 1912 a bill creating just such a board as Mr. Euler had referred to was bitterly opposed in the House by the Liberal Party and was finally thrown out in the Senate.

Mr. Euler resumed: "I cannot approve of the more or less haphazard changes that have been made in the tariff." The chief objections put forward were that the Government was making changes without an accurate knowledge of what those changes implied. He could not see that any very definite principle was being carried into effect unless it was the platform of 1919. Mr. Euler never endorsed that platform and had twice repudiated it and did so once more.

No Immediate Alarm.

He did not, however, feel any great alarm about the immediate effects of the changes in the tariff effected by the Budget. He did not take seriously the predictions of blue ruin in the immediate future.

Mr. Meighen: "Others besides members of this group have made these predictions."

Four Arrested For Stealing Horses

REGINA, Sask., May 10 (Canadian Press). — Suspected of being one of the ringleaders in a gang of horse thieves operating in Southern Saskatchewan, with headquarters at Lang, and with connections in Regina, Herbert Brown, former member of the Royal North-West Mounted Police, was arrested in Ottawa yesterday by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police on a Saskatchewan provincial warrant.

Brown's arrest brings the total of suspects held to four.

Others arrested are: Clifford Hart, Lang; E. T. Blunt, Regina; and Charles Slough.

The police say confessions have been secured and four arrests are likely.

Brown is alleged to be a member of a gang who recently made a large haul of horses in the a large haul of horses in the Yellow Grass and Lang districts in Saskatchewan.

Recently two men were arrested at Regina, and the police then believed that they had uncovered a gang of rustlers who had been working for some time.

About thirty horses, alleged to have been taken by the gang, were rounded up and many of them identified by the owners.

POINCARE WILL CROSS CHANNEL

French Premier Accepts Ramsay MacDonald's Invitation to the Chequers Court to Discuss Reparations.

PARIS, May 10.—Premier Poincare's acceptance yesterday of an invitation to go to Chequers Court, May 20, to confer with Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, with regard to means to be employed for placing the reparations experts' recommendations in effect, is regarded in official circles as being only a continuation of the personal talks between the Allied Premiers in preparation for a general Allied conference when the ground has been carefully prepared.

The method of procedure which has been adopted for these individual conferences includes first an exchange of views on the general aspects of the problems to be solved, and when a general agreement as to principle has been reached, the taking up of details. M. Poincare is understood to be still anxious to hurry along a solution of the questions on which depends the application of the experts' plan, so that the Germans will be unable to invoke as an excuse for delaying execution on their part any divergencies between the Allies.

There is considerable optimism in Paris as to the possibility of a final agreement and also some apprehension is entertained as to acceptance of the plan by the Germans. It is thought that the Berlin Government if faced promptly by a united Allied front, will hesitate to place any obstructions in the way of a settlement.

M'GRATH LEADS IRISH FACTION

The New Political Group Adopts Policy of Complete Independence — Resigned From Irish Army Posts.

DUBLIN, May 10.—Joseph McGrath, former Minister of Commerce and Daniel McCarthy, former Government whip in the Dail Eireann, who resigned their posts during the recent army crisis, announced last night the formation of a new Dail group whose policy will be complete independence, territorial equality and economic progress.

Explaining their reason for going into definite opposition they said they were dissatisfied over the Executive's attitude with regard to the army; they felt the Government was disinclined to make the most of the Anglo-Irish Treaty, and was guilty of unwarranted delay in pressing for the boundary commission. The debate in the Dail over the Anglo-American liquor treaty was quoted as showing the Government's "slackness in foreign affairs."

The new party announced its determination to insist on honorable fulfillment of Article 12, of the Anglo-Irish Treaty, providing for the settlement of the boundaries between northern and southern Ireland.

THE WEATHER.

The rainfall yesterday and last evening gave a total of .73, or almost three-fourths of an inch. Warmer weather is desired by the farmers, and a cessation of rain. Seeding has been delayed by the cool and rainy weather. These conditions are not peculiar to this sections, but the same complaints are general both in the east and west. The lowest the thermometer got last night was 45 degrees. This is a decided improvement, as night temperatures have lately been near the freezing point.—W. P.

APPEAL FOR ANDERSON

NEW YORK, May 10.—An appeal from the prison sentence of from one to two years which William H. Anderson, former superintendent of the anti-saloon league for this state, is now serving in Sing Sing for third degree forgery, was filed in the appellate division of the Supreme Court yesterday.

Germans Ask Bid On Million Rifles

PARIS, May 10 (Canadian Press). — The special London correspondent of The Matin says he has learned that a German firm, with headquarters in Hamburg and Berlin, asekd a well-known British arms manufacturer, name not given, to quote a price on one million rifles equipped with bayonets, and one billion cartridges, deliverable at a German port.

According to the text of the request, which The Matin publishes, the German firm said the arms and ammunition were meant for "a friendly government, a member of the Entente."

The correspondent says the British manufacturer immediately informed the British Government, and took no steps to fill the order.

Russian Troops on Rumanian Frontier

ROME, May 10 (Canadian Press). — Special reports to the Corriere D'Italia declare that the situation is extremely grave on the Russo-Roumanian frontier, and that the concentration of Russian troops makes a clash possible, since detachments of Roumanian troops have been hurriedly sent to the border.

BEAUTY FACES SOVIET COURTS

Princess Obolensky Charged With Brigandage By the Bolsheviki — Previously Sentenced to Death—May Be Shot.

LONDON, May 10. — The Princess Obolensky, daughter of Prince Obolensky, late Governor-General of Petrograd, and one of the most beautiful girls in Russia, was placed on trial on Friday charged with brigandage.

In spite of her 34 years, the Soviet authorities say that she has a long criminal record. A few years ago she was sentenced to death for espionage, but the sentence later was commuted to imprisonment. Subsequently she served two years in jail for theft and after her liberation was found guilty of eigt acts or robbery and brigandage.

At all her trials she pleaded that she was not responsible for her acts, but Russian alienists declared her quite normal mentally.

The trial is attracting wide notice on account of the prominence of the Princess' family, one member of which was employed by the American Relief Association. If the indictment is sustained against her at the present trial she will be ordered to be shot.

STOLEN FUNDS PAID FOR TOUR

Windsor Youth Wished to See United States Cities—Charged With Theft of $7,000 From Canadian Customs Service.

NEW YORK, May 10. — Canadian Press. — Hugh McVean, wanted in Windsor, Ont., on a charge of theft of $7000 from the Canadian customs service, left New York for Windsor last night in the custody of Sergeant Jim Proctor. Proctor identified McVean, yesterday afternoon in the West Side Court.

The detectives wh arrested McVean last Saturday at Broadway and 96th street, said that he confessed the theft.

"I wanted to see the cities of the United States. I have. I am ready to go back and face it," they have quoted McVean as saying.

McVean disappeared from Windsor in September of last year. When arrested he was tired, hungry and penniless. Detectives say he told them he had spent the money on travelling expenses and spent in addition $3000 which he had accumulated at a Winnipeg race track.

Last Saturday he was desperate and was standing in a subway station, when he attracted the attention of Detectives Edward Fitzgerald and William Courtney. McVean grew nervous under the scrutiny of the detectives and walked over to them.

"Are you detectives?" McVean asked.

"Yes; and you are wanted in Canada," Fitzgerald replied, recognizing a peculiar mole on McVean's left cheek, which tallied with the police description of the fugitive. He arrested McVean and held him as a fugitive from Justice.

Sergeant Proctor said he found the task of taking McVean back to Windsor distasteful. He recognized his prisoner as the brother of a former college chum, J. T. McVean, of Los Angeles, Calif.

No battle cruisers ever have been completed for the United States navy.

PENSION BASIS PERMANENT KING PROMISES VETS

Premier Endorses the Attitude of Hon. H. S. Beland to Disabled Veterans and Assures Them Legislation Will Be Introduced Securing Their Pension Rates.

EXPRESS GRATITUDE.

OTTAWA, May 10 (Canadian Press). — The Government supports in its entirety the stand taken by Hon. Dr. H. S. Beland, Minister of Pensions and Soldiers' Re-establishment, as reected in his address to the delegates of the Amputations Association at Thursday's banquet.

This was the subtance of the promise given by Premier Mackenzie-King to a delegation of six members of the Dominion Executive of the Association which was received by him in his office yesterday.

The Prime Minister promised that legislation would be brought down during the present session establishing the permanency of pensions to disabled veterans on the $900 a year basis.

The six members of the delegation came out of the Premier's office more than delighted with their reception at the hands of the Prime Minister and of the other ministers who were also present during the interview.

Went Home Happy.

"We can go away happy now," said Comrade R. Myers, of Toronto, who acted as chairman and chief spokesman, and his words were very heartily re-echoed by the other members of the delegation. Captain H. E. Lambert, Dominion President, Comrades A. Palmer, president of the Winnipeg Branch, W. S. Dobbs, R. Myers and J. Harvey Lynes, all of Toronto, and A. Horne, of Victoria, B.C., Captain Lambert made the following statement:

"The Amputations Association of the great war is grateful to the Prime Minister, to the government, to the leaders of the other parties and members of all parties in the house, to the public bodies and service clubs in Ottawa, and to the hundreds of citizens and ladies of Ottawa for the reception accorded its delegates to the convention which has just terminated and which proved such a conspicuous and complete success."

Montreal's Juvenile Court Disgraceful.

MONTREAL, May 10 (Canadian Press). — "Part of the profits from the sale of liquor in the Province of Quebec should be used to furnish decent accommodation for Montreal's juvenile Court.

The conditions that prevail in the building at present in use are nothing less than disgraceful. The juvenile Court here would be a reflection on any progressive community," stated Mrs. John Scott, former president of the Montreal Women's Club, after making a tour of investigation through the juvenile Court yesterday.

CROOKED SPINE AFFECTS MIND

Spinal Distortion One of the Physical Causes of Criminals, Says Toronto Osteopath--Many School Children Have Touch of Curvature.

ATLANTIC CTY, N.J., May 10. —Dr. F. P. Millard, of Toronto, Ont., in an address before the fourth annual convention of the Eastern Osteopathic Association here Friday, said that in another generation spinal curvature will be practically unknown and where cases are found it will be a reflection on the parents or the family physician.

Dr. Millard, an osteopath who has specialized in lympathic circulation, is president of the national association for the prevention of spinal curvature, under whose direction more than 3,000 children are being treated daily at free clinics throughout the country for correction of distortions resulting from infantile paralysis.

"Fully 70 per cent. of all school children have a tuoch of spinal curvature," he said, "but thanks to clinics, proper exercises worked out on ascientific basis, and teaching proper poise, this condition is being remedied.

"The crooked spine means a crooked mind. Half of the persons now classed as cirminals would not be such but for spinal distortion.

"We have just closed a very interesting contest to prove that proper poise of the chin means perfect posture. This chin poise contest has been on a national basis and the winner, a young woman, will be announced here to-morrow.

BLOSSOM TIME FETE PLEASED

The Ladies of St. John's Church, Lakefield, Held Successful Bazaar and Concert--Atmosphere and Colors of Spring Borrowed For Happy Affair.

LAKEFIELD, May 9.—The Blossom Time Fete which was held on Thursday afternoon and evening under the auspices of the ladies of St. John's Church was very successful indeed, the proceeds amounting to nearly $300. Despite the inclement and unseasonably cold weather, a large number visited the bazaar, which was the feature of the afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. Cox, though newcomers in the village themselves, made everyone feel at home, and added many new friends to their already long list. Mrs. E. R. Tate was the convenor of the committee in charge of the Fete. Entering the hall the invariable remark was, "Oh, how pretty," and pretty was the word as the advertisement of a Blossom Time Fete was by no means a mis-nomer.

The blossoms used in the decorations were of varying shades of pink, ranging from palest shell to deep rose, and the effect was most attractive. The ladies, who were in charge, wore white, with rose pink caps and aprons, which further carried out the color scheme.

As one entered the hall one paused to survey the busy scene and then turned to the right, where Mr. Stenner was holding court with "Aunt Sally," who was rather an elusive lady as many found when they tried to knock her head off. The W. A. had assumed the responsibility for the home-cooking table, which held tempting looking home-made bread, cakes, pies, etc., and was in charge of Miss Florence Atwood and Mesdames Northcott, C. White and R. H. Jackson. The fish pond, which was in charge of Mrs. (Rev.) Cox and Misses Ruth Crawford and Helen Simpson, was the mecca of the younger crowd, even rivalling the ever popular candy table, shrieks of laughter coming from the booth, which in a most unique manner advertised itself were sufficient proof of its popularity.

The candy stall was in charge of the Girls' Auxiliary, with Misses Mary Hampton and Lottie Smith as convenors; they were assisted by a bevy of bright young girls, who successfully and efficiently sold the large stock of beautiful home-made candy which varied from rock taffy to chocolate fudge and maple cream and other varieties temptingly displayed. The young girls who assisted were Misses Hazel Crawford, Mae Mahood, Bessie Wilson, Ethel Wilson, Helen Everett, Grace Watson, Beatrice Junkin and Gladys Manning.

Mrs. S. White and Mrs. Mahood did a thriving trade with ice cream and soft drinks, which were in demand, in spite of the cool weather.

The jumble table was under the direction of the Chancel Guild, and was presided over by Mrs. H. G. FitzGerald and Mrs. J. C. Strickland, who sold a variety of useful articles. The jumble table was one of the attractions of the Fete and was deservedly popular. The book stall, which was even more successful than last year, was in charge of Miss B. Graham, who also acted as treasurer of the committee.

The A.Y.P.A. took charge of the afternoon tea and evening refreshments, and was under the capable management of Mrs. Trude Waldon and Miss Amy Watson, with Misses Gertrude and Lilian Summers, Mrs. J. Sanderson, Misses Dorothy Turner, Sylvia Holmes, Ida Webster and Verna Payne as assistants.

Miss Florence Hewitt sold tickets for a handsome cut-glass bowl, which was drawn for in the evening, L. Massie being the lucky winner.

Mrs. Marling was also a member of the committee and assisted during the afternoon. The Grove orchestra rendered an attractive programme, which was enjoyed by many who sat in informal groups listening to the music. The orchestra consisted of E. Fawcett, pianist; Robertson, saxophone; J. Flick, violinist, and Pringle, drummer. The boys have a first-class orchestra, which shows practice and genuine talent.

The evening performance drew a capacity house and was well worth hearing. Miss Morson, of Toronto, who is a pupil of Miss Steinberg, gave two numbers, which were very much appreciated. It is probably the first time that an exponent of interpretive dancing had given a performance in the village, and it was a real treat. G. G. Connell kindly officiated at the piano. The first number was the 'Beggar Maid' and the second the 'Spring Song.' Miss Morson is a genuine artist, and her performance was remarkably fine, the two numbers giving a pleasing variety.

"The Fistballs" 1924 Revue filled the remainder of the programme, and was as usual popular.

To Build Bridge.

The dam is being made ready for use as a temporary bridge for the summer as work will begin very shortly on the new county bridge over the Otonabee.

The funeral of Raymond Darcy took place on Thursday morning in St. Paul's Church, Lakefield. Interment took place in St. Peter's Cemetery, Peterborough.

Personal.

J. H. Sherin is in Cleveland, Ohio, this week on business.

Miss Mary Mackenzie is visiting friends in Toronto.

F. M. DelaFosse was in the village on Thursday evening attending the Blossom Time Fete under the auspices of St. John's Church.

Payne—Waldon.

On Thursday evening at 6 o'clock the marriage took place quietly, in George Street Methodist Church, Peterborough, of Miss Lolos Maude Waldon, only daughter of the late John Waldon, and Mrs. Waldon, of Lakefield, to George Warren Payne, son of the late George Payne and Mrs. Payne, of Lakefield.

Rev. W. Harold Young was the officiating clergyman.

The bride wore pale pink georgette crepe, with touches of black, and wore a large black hat. The young people were unattended, only the immediate families being present.

Mr. and Mrs. Payne are spending their honeymoon in Detroit, and on their return will reside on Regent Street, Lakefield.

The best wishes of numerous friends follow the popular young couple.

REFERENDUM DAYS ARE DRAWING NEAR

TORONTO, May 10. —Referendum days are near, if gossip in the conservative camp is to be believed says Globe. That the issue on the liquor question upon which people are to cast their ballots is to be one of government control is generally accepted on all sides. Those who should be well informed say that the questions will include a proposed measure of local option. It is said that vote is to be taken some time prior to Dominion Day, and that June 23, the second Monday preceding the holiday, is the likely date. No confirmation could be secured from official quarters.

Teeth Stains Bleached Out New Safe Way

Say good-bye to dull, yellow, stained teeth! For a new harmless treatment — Bleachodent Combination—bleaches away the stains and makes teeth flashing white—often in just three minutes. Treatment consists of a mild safe liquid, which curdles and softens the stains—and a new kind of paste, which gently removes the softened stains. Bleachodent Combination keeps teeth white by preventing the formation of new stains. Does not affect enamel as its mild ingredients are especially combined to act only on surface stains, —not on the enamel itself. Only a soft, mild preparation like Bleachodent Combination should be used on children's teeth which are naturally soft and sensitive, and which are especially subject to stains and decay. Fine for the gums. Get Bleachodent Combination to-day, for few cents at all good druggists, such as Bond's Drug Store, James Lynch, McDermid & Jury, C. M. Moncur, Warne Drug Co., Ltd., F. C. Weber.

Had Kidney Trouble For About Two Years

Then Mr. Doucett Used Dodd's Kidney Pills.

New Brunswick man had kidney complication and got relief through using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Eel River Crossing, N.B., May 9. —(Special.) — "For about two years I suffered with kidney trouble, diabetes and headaches. I tried all kinds of medicines, but they did me no good. I took two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and now I feel perfectly well."

This statement comes from Mr. J. Doucett, well-known resident of this place.

To avoid disease the kidneys must be kept in good working order. The kidneys are the scavengers of the body. Their work is to strain all the impurities out of the blood. If the kidneys are wrong the impurities, the seeds of disease, remain in the blood ,and serious trouble is bound to follow. At the first sign of trouble try Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the remedy that weak or sick kidneys are crying for.

Churchill's Overture Welcomed By Baldwin.

LONDON, May 9.— (Canadian Press Cable.) — A prompt and friendly response was given to-day by the conservative leaders to the suggestion made yesterday at Liverpool by Winston Churchill for co-operation between Conservatives and Liberals.

Stanley Baldwin, the Conservative leader, speaking in Albert Hall to-day, welcomed Churchill's statement and said he believed such co-operation would materially contribute to the defeat of socialism whenever it was put as a clear simple issue to the electorate.

HOUSE DECLINED TO ACCEPT BILL

Japanese Exclusion Bill Was Sent Back to Conference.

WASHINGTON, May 10. — By a vote of 191 to 171 the House declined on Friday to approve the Japanese exclusion provisions of the Immigration Bill inserted by the House and Senate conferees at the request of President Coolidge.

The measure was sent back to conference with the House managers instructed to insist on elimination of the provision, which would postpone the effective date of exclusion to March 1, 1925, and would request the President to negotiate with Japan for abrogation of the "gentlemen's agreement.' This action threw open the effective date as the House conferes were given no instructions to put up a fight for the original House provision to enforce the ban July 1. The Senate voted to make exclusion effective upon the enactment of the bill, but the conferees, after agreeing to accept the House date, decided to recommend postponement for an additional eight months.

MUSKOKA AND THE BUDGET.

The Examiner referred the other evening to the needless waste of time by members of the Federal House in aimless discussion of the Budget proposals.

A glaring example of this tendency is furnished by the speech delivered by the member for Muskoka, whose chief contribution to the Budget debate was an enthusiastic eulogy of the charms of the summer resorts in his riding.

He was on safe ground, of course, for everybody is proud of the Muskoka Lakes, but why in the name of common sense should the time of the House be taken up with this topic when the subject that is supposed to be under discussion is the Budget.

Nothing that he could possibly say would equal the description of the wonderful scenery of Muskoka as given in the railway folders.

The time spent on the Budget debate is a reflection on the business ability and judgment of the Canadian people, and the worst of it is that all this talk has to be paid for.

MOTHERS' DAY.

Cynics may complain that the idea of wearing flowers as a tribute to the mothers of the land is a commercial scheme, but there is so much that is appealing and beautiful in the setting apart of a Mothers' Day that the commercial aspect of the occasion is a very minor phase that makes no impression.

Tomorrow is Mothers' Day, and in Peterborough, as generally throughout Canada, the beautiful custom of wearing a coloured flower as a tribute to a living mother or a white one in memory of the mother who has passed on will be observed.

It is well that there should be such a day, and it would be better if the spirit of the occasion could be continued throughout the whole year.

Every day should be Mothers' Day, for the average mother has devoted most of her days to her family, sacrificing her own pleasures for her dear ones, happy in their happiness, wanting nothing for herself.

The naming of a special day gives the world a chance to check up and to realize what a debt is owing to mothers generally.

LOYALTY AND PREFERENCE.

"What is happening now with regard to Empire preference will not in the slightest affect our loyalty to the Empire," Premier Massey of New Zealand declared yesterday, says the Ottawa Journal.

That is the right spirit. There are some who appear to think that Empire unity rests upon dollars and cents. There are others who, like Sir Robert Horne, appear to think that Canadians and Australians and New Zealanders are in the Empire for what they can get out of it, and that as soon as they find they can't get what they want out of it they will get out of the Empire.

They are mischievous, groundless views. Groundless because no party in this country, and no party that we know of in any other Dominion, has ever advanced such an opinion. Mischievous because they give a wrongful impression to the world and gladden the hearts of the Empire's foes.

The only way the British Commonwealth can hold together is by each self-governing nation being mistress in its own house. And while a system of Empire preferences is a splendid goal, one to be steadily aimed at, the notion that it is vital to continued Empire unity is not true. Finer, much nobler things—the bonds of blood, of common ideals, of common traditions and institutions, the example of what co-operation and association can achieve for good—are the ties that make for unity.

10,000 MURDERS.

When they read that there were 10,000 murders in the United States last year and that, as one authority puts it, "a point has been reached in our national life where no one is safe anywhere at anytime," Canadians must come to a conclusion that despite the financial prosperity of our neighbors there is much to be thankful for that we in this country have no such conditions to face.

The rate of homicide in the United States has doubled in twenty years, and at last year's scale it will only take the murders of two or three years to equal the number of United States soldiers killed in the war.

When it is realized that on the basis of population murders were twenty-five times as frequent across the border as in England and Wales last year, the record is appalling.

Authorities claim that the carrying of firearms is one of the most fruitful sources of murderous crimes, and the fact that there were many more killings in proportion to population in the Southern and Western States than in the rest of the country where weapons are more generally carried, goes a long way toward proving that contention.

In Memphis, Tenn., for example, a city with a population of less than 200,000, there were 113 murders last year.

Compare that figure with Toronto's 1923 record of 6 murders.

In two Tennessee cities, Memphis and Nashville, there were more people murdered last year than were killed in a similar way in England and Wales.

The reasons?

One insurance authority who has made a study of the conditions and who proves by figures that there is a regular annual increase in what he calls the "American murder wave," offers among others these explanations—in addition to the ease with which firearms can be secured:

"Murder is set forth with alluring attractiveness in countless cheap publications which cater to a morbid and depraved appetite.

"Murder is featured in films to the point of downright suggestiveness of crime.

"Murder is encouraged by long-delayed trials and the uncertainty of conviction and of severity of punishment."

MOTOR ACCIDENTS.

A coroner's jury in Toronto, investigating the death of a young boy killed by a motor truck, brought in a recommendation that steps be taken toward educating children to keep off the streets as much as possible.

That there is need of such instruction is evident, and teachers and parents should lose no opportunity of impressing upon youngsters that a deadly peril awaits them upon the city streets.

At the same time some effort should be made to see that the conditions under which street traffic operates are not such as to put every child who happens to wander off the sidewalk in danger of his life.

Upon the very young children it is impossible to properly impress the danger that lurks on the roadways of a city, and the Examiner believes that every driver should remember that fact, realizing that there is always a chance that a little tot will suddenly dart out into the middle of the road.

Cars should be sufficiently under control to give such a child a chance to escape.

It is unfortunately, however, the case that many motorists seem to have the idea that because the legal speed limit in cities in twenty miles an hour they are entirely justified in driving at that rate, regardless of traffic conditions or the danger of accidents.

It is because children ignore or forget the counsel given them and because so many drivers are willing to take a chance that the toll of motor fatalities is constantly increasing in the larger centres.

IS THERE A FRANCO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE?

The peradventurers, while waiting for the German and the French elections to get over, are toying with an unsubstantiated rumor that France and Japan are contemplating an alliance.

In these days of democratic government, alliances are no longer the prisoners of secret archives, the illicit children of royal inclinations or even the concealed weapon sof astute statesmen. "The man in the street"—provided he gives his mind to it—can come pretty nearly as close to telling us what nations are allies as can the High Priest in the Foreign Office. In fact, "the man in the street" is a more reliable maker of alliances than is even the High Priest. He is also a most dangerous and dynamic un-maker of diplomat-made understandings.

So "the man in the street" is in a fairly good position to judge the probability of a Franco-Japanese alliance. The crucial question is: What can each of the supposed Allies hope to get out of it?

Alliances are not made for fun—or through sentiment—or because the nations are "good friends." They are purely business arrangements entered into for national profit; and the prospective profits must be obvious and valuable. On the other hand, the possible dangers which any suggested alliance would call from the vasty deep must on their part be invisible and insignificant. For the net profit of an alliance is reached by subtracting the dangers from the benefits.

* * * *

The most obvious advantage which France would gain from an alliance with Japan would be a check upon Russia. Should Russia think of attacking Roumania or Poland—satellites of France—or of joining Germany in a more serious onslaught on France herself, it might give her pause to know that the Japanese army would at once invade her eastern territory. But it probably would not frighten her very badly. Japan could inflict neither very serious nor permanent injuries upon Russia in the East. It would be a little like thrusting a sword into a hay-stack, to begin with; and then the other Powers—notably the United States, co-operating with China—would never allow the Japanese to greatly increase their holdings on the mainland of Asia.

Of course, Japan could not aid France in Europe. That was proven during the Great War. The Japanese army would have been very welcome at any time on the Western front, or even at Salonika, or on Grim Gallipoli; but they could not get there. As far as can be seen, Japan's whole value to France in any European struggle would be a "nuisance value" against Russia—and one which the great lumbering Russian Bear would barely notice in the fury of the conflict.

On the other hand, what could France do for Japan? If Russia were foolish enough to attack Japan—something she is utterly unable to do under present conditions—of course, France could start a counter-fire in Europe. But even this would be of dubious value to Japan; for it would be very likely to arouse other European nations to fight for Russia.—Montreal Star.

TOKIO TO ABSORB YOKOHAMA

TOKIO, May 10.—The eventual absorption of Yokohama in Greater Tokio is the objective toward which plans announced by the Home Office are aimed. These plans, in connection with the new Tokio-Yokohama highway, which is to be opened this year, call for three large public parks between the two cities, and two promenades on the seacoast, one near each city.

The centre of the pressure of water against the side of the containing vessel is at two-thirds the depth from the surface.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, May 9. — A satisfactory feature of the cattle trade this week has been the continued and strong market for export cattle. Rogers & Maybee shipped out about 1700 cattle, their purchases including about 1200 in the local market and the balance bought at points outside. Next weeks export requirements will be about the same as this week, two boats being scheduled for Liverpool sailing and ample space available for a good heavy shipment. It is expected that the export trade will continue active for the next month or six weeks. Judging by the rate at which cattle have been marketed the past few weeks, in a succession of moderately good runs, at no time too heavy, prospects should be good for fair steady markets throughout the remainder of the spring season.

Activity in the export trade is reflected in the comparatively high prices prevailing in the butcher cattle section In the early markets this week, there was a strong demand for the choicest quality butcher stock. Several of the larger packers have had to make incursions into the heavy weight steers in the export class to fill their requirements. This double activity tended to strengthen the general tone of the market, and prices up to the mid week were about 25c higher than the previous week for the very choicest butcher selections. In the closing week end market, with the bulk of the cattle offering, consisting of stale left-overs and culls, trade was not so active, and prices in many cases had to be shaded to effect a clean up.

Choice fat cows finished fairly strong. Poor quality slow.

Choice veal calves held firm all through the week, but the rather heavy run brought in a good many rough heavy calves and grassers and prices for these were at a low ebb at the close.

Sheep and lambs steady to strong, with light runs. Spring lambs sold up to $16 each, tops.

The hog market is weaker, settling at 25c lower than the week's opening. Packers paying $7.25 f.o.b. off cars.

Strong market for choice fat cows, both for export and domestic trade.

Good inquiry for stockers and feeders.

Butcher section: Choice finished steers and heifers, steady to strong to firm with a keen demand. Common rough butchers slow.

Fat cows, steady to 25c higher.

Bulls, steady.

Calves, choice, steady; common easier.

Sheep and lambs, steady.

Quotations:

Export cattle, choice, heavy steers, $7.50 to $8.50; heifers, $7 to $7.50; bulls, $4.25 to $5.

Choice butchers, steady to firm, $7.25 to $7.65.

Calves, steady, $9 to $10.

Choice fat cows, steady to strong, $5 to $6.

Sheep, choice, steady, $8 to $9.

Lambs, yearlings, clipped, $12 to $14, with wool $15 to $16. spring lacbs, $14 to $14.

Hogs, 25c olwer, at $7.25 f.o.b. and $8.15 off cars.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, May 9—The volume was not very large to-day's wheat market developed strength after opening unchanged, strength at Chicago being construed as a bullish factor here. Throughout the session trading was very dull but the early advance was held and all futures closed 5-8 higher. The Liverpool market continued to show weakness and export buying was not very keen. Seaboard advices placed yesterday's wheat sales in all positions around 40,000, largely Manitoba. Weather conditions throughout the Canadian west continues favorable for spring work.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 9.—Wheat prices advanced to-day, receiving much of their stimulus from an estimate of 8,000,000 acres decrease of wheat territory this year in the northern hemisphere. Likelihood of freezing weather in Kansas, together with a possibility of the McNary-Haugen Bill being attached to the Revenue Bill in the Senate, had a further bullish influence. Wheat closed firm, 3-8 and 1-2c to 1c net higher, May $1.04 5-8 to $1.04 3-8 and July $1.06 3-8 to $1.06 3-8 and 1-2, with corn 5-8c to 1 3-8c up, oats at 1-8 and 1-4c to 1-4c advance, and provisions unchanged to 10c lower.

At the outset wheat responded a little to opinions that the Government crop report was to be construed as bullish, but the market soon underwent a setback as a result of selling attributed to the northwest. It was at this stage that almost simultaneously the renewal of gossip about the McNary-Haugen Bill developed and that the estimate of decreased acreage became public. The acreage figures were issued by a leading authority here, and were from thirteen of the principal countries north of the Equator. Throughout the remainder of the day, the course of te market was upward, with the Kansas crop outlook being given attention near the close.

A Thought

BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE.

If you have a grey-haired mother
In the old home far away,
Sit down and write the letter
You've put off day by day.
Don't wait till her tired steps
Reach heaven's pearly gate,
But show her that you think of her
Before it is too late.

If you've a tender message
Or a loving word to say,
Don't wait till you forget it,
But whisper it to-day.
Who knows what bitter memories
May haunt you if you wait
So make your loved one happy
Before it is too late.

We live but in the present,
The future is unknown;
To-morrow is a mystery,
To-day is all your own.
The chance that fortune lends to us
May vanish while we wait;
So spend your life's rich treasure
Before it is too late.

The tender words unspoken,
The letters never sent,
The long-forgotten messages,
The wealth of love unspent—
For these some hearts are breaking
For these some loved ones wait;
So show them that you care for them
Before it is too late.

ON PARLIAMENT HILL

OTTAWA, May 9th.—The business of Parliament last week was transacted not so much in the House of Commons as in the committee-room of the Committee on Private Bills, where came under consideration a very famous bill in the name of Robert Forke, Progressive leader—to wit, the bill to incorporate the United Church of Canada.

Not in a decade—probably never before—has Ottawa seen such activity in connection with a private bill. Never before has there been crystallized behind potential legislation such a manifestation of public concern and curiosity. Never before have legislators been so given to feel the weight of public opinion. The capacity is now, has been for more than a week, the camping ground of hundreds—clergymen, educationists, lawyers, prominent laymen of all walks of life, and churchwomen of all creeds and classes and from all parts of Canada—all of them keeping a sharp eye on the progress of the measure sponsored by the member from Brandon.

The whole issue covered by the bill is extremely controversial, full of 'dynamite,' be it viewed from any angle whatsoever. Suffice it to say that, should the bill be sent forward from the committee (and that is not at all certain, if one may judge by present circumstances), the legislation based thereon is apt to provide one of the stormiest debates in the history of Canada's Parliament. In a sense, the lucky member is one who is not on the roll-call of the committee meeting under the extremely diplomatic and judicial chairmanship of Hal. B. McGiverin (Liberal member for Ottawa).

Progressives Not Lured By Woodsworth.

In view of the extraordinary interest manifested in the workings of the committee dealing with the Church Union Bill, proceedings in the House of Commons must be said to have taken second place. The outstanding feature of the budget debate during the week was the frank disavowal by the Progressive leader (Robert Forke) of the amendment moved by J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Winnipeg Centre), which was accepted (as predicted in last week's letter it would be) by the Speaker. Although the Woodsworth amendment called for lower duties on the necessaries of life and for the imposition of land values and succession duties taxes, as approved in the platform of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, Mr. Forke explained in a few moments, why, in his opinion, it was not entitled to his support. Approval, by vote, of that amendment, he said, made necessary a vote against the budget, and such action he did not deem to be in the best interest of Canada or of the movement represented by the group in this corner of the chamber. In a few sentences, the Progressive chieftain provided an avenue whereby all his followers might escape from an embarrassing position. Most of them, probably, will avail themselves of that opening and ally themselves with the Liberals, not only on the budget division, but, as well, on that which will seal the fate of the Woodsworth amendment.

The Forke utterance on the budget was one of the best delivered by the member for Brandon since his advent into politics. It was brief, carefully worded, optimistic in tone, restrained in sentiment, well delivered and courageous. It accepted the budget, not as that western Canada might desire, but as a step forward, and earnest of good intentions, and a document worthy of the support of Progressive members of Parliament.

Conservatives Still Bucking C.N.R.

Conservative Opposition, and the branch lines required by the Canadian National Railways, has been carried into the sessions of the Committee on Railways, Canals and Telegraph Lines. Thus far, only one of the bills given first reading by the House has been before the committee, but it sconsideration was marked by a revival of the virtual obstruction that obtained in its earlier stages. Sir Henry Drayton seems to accept the role of chief obstructionist with a hearty good-will that is more than a little mystifying to non-partisan friends of the publicly-owned road, who had been wont to regard the Conservative party in Canada as being quite as actively behind public-ownership as was any other. It may be—but Sir Henry takes a strange way of showing his devotion, and that of his colleagues, to the principle and it application.

Mr. Marler versus Mr. McMaster.

The much-canvassed address on the budget by Herbert Marler of Montreal proved to be a "dud." The member, whose voice in parliament has come to be recognized as that of Montreal, with a capital 'M', talked for nearly two hours, without doing more than express his personal regret at a budget that did not suit him and his friends. The House heard him patiently and with consideration—for Mr. Marler is a man whose voice is extremely unsuited to parliamentary debate—and then turned with relief to the good-humored eloquence of Andrew McMaster, the sturdy independent from Brome. Mr. McMaster was not at all times in light vein. His portrayal of the disastrous eras through which Great Britain passed while her dreamers and agitators struggled for economic freedom for her common people, led him into passionate oratory that drew unstinted applause from Liberals and Progressives. In a few deft sentences, Mr. McMaster—who, himself, crossed the floor last year on fiscal issues—dealt with Mr. Marler's renunciation of allegiance, turning back upon that gentleman the very words of censure with which he (Mr. Marler) had reproved Mr. McMaster's cross-the-carpet movement of last session.

Prophecy versus Fact.

A gloomy contribution to the budget discussion was that of T. J. Stewart (Conservative, Hamilton West), who told a tale of ruin about to befall the fair city under the mountain; ruin as inevitable as it was final and complete. To buttress his diatribe, Mr. Stewart read letters received by him from scores of Hamilton manufacturing concerns, each letter telling of injury received or expected, of the necessity of curtailing production cost and of decreasing personnel, and of leaving Canada to the undisputed possession of farmers and desolation. The letter did not sound quite so mournful, however, when the House recalled certain recent utterances of the Industrial Commissioner for Hamilton, C. W. Kirkpatrick, in which that expert in civic industrial affairs spoke with glowing optimism of Hamilton's immediate future. Mr. Firkpatrick was reported in the "Hamilton Spectator," of April 25 (two weeks after the industry-smashing budget was tabled), as saying that industrial prospects in Hamilton were brighter then than they had been for several years. Mr. Kirkpatrick went on to explain to the "Spectator" that he had been waited upon by the representatives of more than a half-dozen manufacturing concerns desirous of locating in his city. Two, he named as "definitely decided" to open up in Hamilton—the Werner G. Smith Company, manufacturers of core oil and foundry supplies; and the S. A. Felton & Son Company, makers of industrial brushes. In other words, an interview with the Industrial Commissioner is much more re-assuring, probably more soundly based on fact, than an address by his fellow-townsman, the member for Hamilton West.

CALLED SWINDLER IN $75,000 RACE FRAUD

Man Seized Here is Identified by Merchant as Bet Taker in Fake Miami Office.

NEW YORK, May 10—More than three years after he had bet $75,000 on a horse race in a fake poolroom in Miami and lost, Samuel Waldman, a wealthy cotton broker of Providence, R. I., had the satisfaction of looking straight in the face of a prisoner at Police Headquarters yesterday and declaring:

"That is the man."

With Waldman's positive identification, detectives and postal inspectors believed they at last had behind bars Louis Waxenberg, who, they said, had something of an international reputation as a confidence man and had serve time in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta and in a Paris prison.

The suspect, however, was not arrested as Waxenberg, but as George Hurbert, the name under which he was registered at a local hotel, where he had also asserted that his occupation was that of a salesman. The prisoner, seized as a fugitive from justice on an indictment returned in Dade County, Florida, which charges him with grand larcency, insisted he was innocent. But Postal Inspector Graham said he was none other than the man who once victimized a Scotland yard detective then in America hunting for a criminal and who, at another time, slipped through the hands of the authorities when they rounded up the notorious Gondorf gang of wireless wire tappers.

Despite his denial and protestations of innocence, the prisoner was locked in a cell at Police Headquarters after Waldman, who hurried here as soon as he was advised by telegraph of the capture, had insisted that he could not be mistaken in his man. Later was arraigned before Magistrate Weil in the Tombs Court and freed in $1,000 bail. He was ordered to appear and plead on May 13.

Pool Room a Fraud

The story told by Waldman, which led to the Florida indictment and the long hunt for the man accused of having swindled him, began in Miami in the Winter of 1921. About that time a man believed by the authorities have to been Waxenberg opened a fictitious branch of a New York Stock Exchange house in the Southern resort. The place was fitted out impressively, and had among the other "properties" wires running to telegraph instruments inside, but, unhappily for the customers, not leading very far outside.

A "spieler," in technical pariance, contrived the acquaintance of Waldman and introduced him to the head of the Stock Exchange house. Waldman was induced to do a little gambling on the stocks, and won. Then he was let into the secret. On the other side of the quotation board were charted the day's races on big tracks. As a trusted and valued customer Waldman was invited to risk a little "on the ponies." More than that, as a particularly trusted and admired friend of the boss, he was let in on a good thing, a thing so good, indeed, that he was advised to plunge even if he never had plunged in his life before.

The Victim Hooked

Wholly unsuspicious, for he had seen nothing wrong in the place and never suspected that other "customers" were confederates in the scheme, Waldman plunged. To show him that the tip was a real one, the boss plunged with him. Waldman lost. So did the boss—to himself. By the time the Providence man had become aware of what had happened to him, the broker and his aids were gone and the $75,000 he had wagered had vanished with them. Since that time Waldman has inspired an unending hunt for the leader of the gang.

After he returned to Providence, Waldman received a series of telegrams warning him not to complain to the police under threat of dire physical disaster. These threats, now in the hands of the authorities, failed to deter the merchant from pressing the search.

Confident that they would establish the identity of the prisoner, the police and the postal inspectors said yesterday that Waxenberg had a long record, though more often than not he had managed to escape the consequences of his misdeeds. However, the Paris police achieved one victory over him, they said, which sent him to a cell there for seven months and on another occasion a successful prosecution in this country brought him a term of years in Atlanta.

Mr. Graham, the Post Office Inspector who assisted in the arrest, said that the fact of the prisoner having been registered as George Hurbert was significant, as Waxenberg always used George and a last name beginning with "H."

MIMIC BATTLE WITH INDIANS CALLS FOR DRASTIC CONTROL

SHERIDAN, Wyo., May 10.—Dr. William Frackelton of this city, who produced the first "Powder River frontier days" and originated the annual "stampede" here, and has been "adopted" by the Crow Indians tells of the first reproduction of the Custer massacre ever staged.

The part of the Sioux Indian was played by 200 Crows, and local national guard troops were Custer's men. In the midst of the mimic battle Blue Bead, one of the Indians, insisted on capturing the American flag. This was not in the rehearsal, and immediately the "dead" troopers rose and returned to action. Blue Bead was shot from behind with the wadding from a blank cartridge. A battle royal with fists ensued. As Dr. Frackleton expressed it, "Custer was soon avenged."

COULDN'T SLEEP HEART WAS BAD NERVES A WRECK

Mr. H. A. Reid, Upper Musquodoboit, N.S., writes:—"I am very thankful fro the benefit I have received by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

When I came home from overseas, in 1920, my heart was very badly affected by concussion, and my nerves were a dreadful wreck. I was very short winded, and could not possibly sleep at night, in fact, I was in such a condition I felt as if I did not wish anyone to speak to me. I thought I would try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and before I had taken two boxes I could enjoy a good night's rest as well as anyone.

There are lots of returned men who are suffering the same as I did, and I feel sure that if they would only try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills they will receive the same relief that I have."

PACIFIC COAST OBSERVER REPORTS SCARCITY OF THUNDER STORMS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—A strip of the Pacific coast between British Columbia and Lower California, taking in the cities of Seattle Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego, has few er thunder storms than any other section of the United States, accord ing to officials of the Weather Bureau.

E. A. Beals, United States meteorologist here, pointed out that the rea son for this, roughly speaking, is that the rains along the coast come mostly in winter, when atmospheric conditions are less favorable for the generation of electricity. The thunder storms of the interior states and along the Atlantic coast happen largely in spring and summer, he explained, when there are warm rains.

In the manufacturing districts of Eigland nearly four tons of dust and soot fall from chimneys to the ground each day.

GANDIER DENIAL

have to find somewhere else than in the "rules and forms of procedure" of the Presbyterian church authority for the power to change its creed. Those "rules and forms" were exclusively internal regulations and did not contain the substantive powers of the church. He claimed that this had been admitted in a report of a committee of the general assembly, of which Rev. Dr. Gandier had been convenor and Sir Robert Falconer a member. This report said these "rules and forms" were not church law.

"It is reasonable," he said, "to believe that these denominations (now uniting) that have been competing for fifty years, must have fundamental differences." It would be a grave loss to Canada if the Methodist and Congregational churches were done away with. Denominationalism had served this country well.

Mr. Campbell pointed out that the Westminster confession of faith was the doctrinal basis of the Presbyterian church and had stood the test of 300 years. In the United Church this was departed from.

Predestination Omitted.

Mr. Campbell did not attempt to point out all the items in which the new basis of union departed from calvinism. But he did call attention to the absence of predestination from it.

"The Presbyterians on the church union committee," he said, "apparently abandoned this doctrine, which is the corner stone of Presbyterian church."

The term Arminio-Calvinistic had been used to describe the new creed. "The wall of this room," commented Mr. Campbell, "might as well be called blacko-white.

"The Presbyterian church is a creedal church," he said. "The United Church is a church without a creed in the sense that there is no adherence to an organized body of doctrine."

The elders of the Presbyterian church took an oath to "follow no divisive course from the present" doctrine and Government. Was that a mandate to abolish and wipe out the church?

The Barrier Act gave no new powers. It was merely a procedure act. But if it did apply, it had not been complied with.

The basis of union had been submitted to the Presbyteries but the present bill had not been so submitted.

Question Not Answered.

On the constitutional question, Mr. Campbell maintained that Mr. Tilley had not answered the first submission of Eugene Lafleur, K. C., chief counsel against the bill. This was that the bill purported to incorporate into a Federal body provincially incorporated bodies, over which Parliament had no control. The bill was unconstitutional because it dealt with property and civil rights within the Provinces. Parliament would, under the bill, vest property over which it had no jurisdiction. Most of the colleges were incorporated by Provincial acts.

"When men create a trust it ill-becomes anyone to come to the Parliament of Canada and ask this body to violate it." As long as a group clung to the faith, Parliament of Canada and ask this body to violate it." As long as a group clung to the faith, Parliament could not violate a trust with the dead. It was not a case of minority and majority, it was a matter of obligation to those who were carrying out the terms of a trust.

Not Only Champions.

Dr. Pidgeon said that he would not concede to the opponents of the bill that they alone were championing the ancient faith. There were in the Presbyterian church three strata of opinion, the extreme conservative and the extreme radical or modernists and between them the great body of opinion. He was confident that there were no wide cleavages on this matter in the ranks of the unionists than in those of the anti-unionists.

"Is the church a mummy or a man?" he asked. "To refuse to the church the right to change its creed was to tie it by the dead hand of the past. It would be impossible he said to take another vote. The church was pledged by eight years of histody. The name of the new church was not intended to be all-inclusive. It described the history of the church but also described its spirit. Dr. Pidgeon closed by asking the committee "to enact this bill providing for the rights of all in the fullest way in which you can possibly devise."

Anonymous Letter.

Just as the committee was about to adjourn, E. Gus Porter, of West Hastings, rose to a question of privilege. He said that "the decency and intelligence of this committee has been seriously outraged by someone attending." He had received an anonymous communication which "had been originated by someone advocating church union or somebody in sympathy with that cause.

Chairman McGiverin here intervened to ask whether the communication had been signed. Mr. Porter replied in the negative and Mr. McGiverin said that as it had not been signed he thought it should not be brought before the committee. "I have put it into the hands of the Sergeant-at-arms," he said, "whose duty it is to protect the members of Parliament. We view a letter of that kind with contempt."

Mr. Porter said that he quite shared the indignity felt by the chairman. The letter was anonymous and cowardly. He would like to know whether there was anyone present who would say that he wrote it.

W. G. Hummell of Muskoka asked whether it was suggested that any member of the committee was concerned but this was promptly denied by Mr. Porter and by the chair.

"It would not be fair to blame it on either side, even if some misguided fanatic has done it," commented Chairman McGiverin in closing the discussionon the matter.

The committee then adjourned to meet at the call of the chair some day next week.

JAPANESE FARMERS OBJECTED TO THE RECONSTRUCTION OF TOKIO

TOKIO, May 10.—(Associated Press).—Rural voters in Japan are five times as numerous as those from the cities, according to figures published by the Home Office in anticipation of the general elections for the House of Representatives which will be held today.

These figures furnish the most convincing explanation of the Legislature's opposition to large-scale plans for the reconstruction of Tokio after the earthquake. The extraordinary session of the Diet which sat last December made impossible any plans which exceeded the barest necessities of reconstruction. The fact that five-sixths of the representatives were returned by country voters, who do not want the capital rebuilt at the expense of the rural districts, explains the Diet's opposition to the ambitious plans presented to it by Viscount Goto, then the Home Minister and President of the Reconstruction Board.

FARM LIFE AND ITS PROBLEMS

Efficiency in the Farm and Home Is Only a Matter of Common Sense

ANZEL H. GERBAZ.

By efficiency I do not wish to flash before your imagination a lantern-jawed efficiency expert who hovers over the employes of an industrial firm, an automaton who seems to think that real efficiency is where one's movements must be counted and there is to be no lost motion. That is theory. But it is to the man who blunders through a farm operation, that I want to offer a few practical suggestions

The need of efficiency on the farm is imperative, especially in these days of low selling prices of produce and high selling prices of necessities. City business and industries cannot dispense with efficiency. The farmer likewise must hire an efficiency expert, and that expert is himself. How can it be done? In the first place, there must be systematic farm management. Do you plan ahead? Do you know which crops pay and which do not? Do you use business methods? In fact, do you try to run the farm as you would a city business? But you may be bored already and be saying to yourself: "Aw, the fellow who is writing this article is only doing it to hear his typewriter rattle." But let me finish what I have stated. How is a busy farmer to devote much time to this efficiency business? There are three ways: Observaztion, experience, and by using common sense and horse sense.

To continue my discussion, I must divide farmers into three distinct groups, not politically, or geographically, but by their methods and habits of thought. They are: Radicals, conservatives and progressives. Farmers of the first group are not afraid of trying out new things; those of the second are well content to travel the old well-beaten paths, and those of the progressive group are the ones who use common sense and profit from the mistakes of the other two groups.

Buying Needed Machinery.

In purchasing farm machinery, the progressive will consider these four points: 1—Do I need such a machine? 2—Will it pay? 3—Is it the right one to buy? 4—Is it the right time to buy? The conservative will keep on patching the old machine, until it will be only half efficient. He is penny wise but dollar foolish.

The radical will go crazy over any new machine on the market. I know several farmers who used to buy nearly every new machine that was advertised. About a decade ago the papers were carrying big advertisements of a new hay baler that would bale the hay as it was mowed. This machine was going to revolutionize the hay baling industry. Of course, the radical farmer bought one and it proved to be a white elephant on his hands. It baled the hay, but the bales were round and hollow inside; moreover, they were so bulky that handling and marketing them proved very difficult, and besides, when stored in a hay shed, they molded. So the dream of the inventors of this machine failed to materialize.

When you buy a new machine if you seek perfection, you will be fooled. Very few perfect things exist, much less farm machines. But there is nothing to prevent you from buying the best, providing you go by some standard. This is a standard that a progressive farmer has used; you may find or invent a better one. This one has ten points: 1—Construction—Is the machine well constructed, strong and durable and yet not cumbersome? 2—Simplicity—Is it simple, with the fewest parts possible? 3—Ease of Operation—Is it easy to operate? 4—Draft—Does it pull harder than it should? 5—Oiling System—Is it easy to oil and are there sufficient oil holes? Are the bearings good, or do they wear out in spite of oil? 6—Repairs—Do you have to send to Alaska for repairs or are they made to order? 7—Stage of Development—Is the machine in the freak or crude stage of development? Do not buy a machine that will never get beyond the freak stage of development. 8—Opportunity to see a machine in operation—If you can see a machine work, so much the better; do not depend on the words of others as testimonials. Be from Missouri. Truth in advertisement is lacking far more than it should be. 9—Cost of Machine—It must be such that it will pay. 10—Reliability of Company—This must be taken into consideration. Is the company willing to back its machines? This does not mean to arrange petty differences but to adjust claims of flaws that are just.

Efficient Equipment in Home.

Last but not least, as the best is always saved for the last, I would make an urgent plea for the farmer's best partner or pal—his wife. She certainly deserves the best in labor-saving devices. Give her a handy well-equipped kitchen, water and bath in the house, electric lights, power churn, washing machine, etc. Harmony is what makes farm life worth living. Discord is sand on the bearings of life. Now which is the most harmonious home? One in which a woman slaves to lug water up a hill, three hundred and sixty-five days a year, or one in which water is had by turning a faucet? I will let you draw your own conclusions.

There is no denying the fact that there is a vast amount of lost motion on the farm. You can increase efficiency if you will keep in mind the following points in analyzing your work: 1—Things done that were not necessary to do; 2—Those that were not done right and had to be done over again; 3—Necessary things that were not done at all.

POTATO PLANTING MACHINE.

(By Dougal.)

Much has been said and written about "Manvers Potatoes," but the greatest test of their virtue is the appeal which they make to the appetite. It is a well known fact that the mode of preparing the ground, planting the seed, and general cultivation of vegetables will either enrich or impoverish their flavor.

This fact is quite marked in the cabbage, turnip, beet, radish, onion, celery, and all such vegetables as are characterized by a fleshy, rounded stem or root. But this article is to tell about the new potato planter which has recently made its appearance in Janetville district.

This machine is built on a frame about the size and shape of that of a gang-plough. There are two seats, one for the driver and one for the person who keeps continual watch that nothing happens to the even distribution of seeds or, as the seeds are called, sets. On the front of the machine is a large galvanized can which holds the fertilizer; and this element never comes in contact with the potato, but yields its strength through the medium of the soil. A very small plough runs along directly under the tube which conveys the fertilizer to the minute furrow just opened by the plough, and as soon as it reaches the furrow it is covered.

About three inches from the furrow containing the fertilizer, the potato sets are dropped in a row about twelve inches apart, and are immediately covered by another small plough, also directly under the machine; these seeds or sets dropping from a hopper and being automatically sorted on a horizontal wheel which revolves as the machine moves along.

The planting machine is drawn by a span of stout horses, and, as said before, is operated by two persons; but any one capable of driving a team can manage the machine.

The potato cutter, used in connection with this planter, will cut from the whole tubers three bags of sets per hour.

The owner and operator of this device will plant twelve acres of potatoes for himself this year—will cultivate and harvest them in addition to his other work, and will call it a light job. In this section of the country, potato plantings will soon be in full swing.

Wheat and Chaff

A great advantage of buying cheap seed is that it will leave more good seed for wiser men to buy.

Some cows pay 95c in return for every $1 00 invested in feed, others can make $3.00 in return for each dollar invested in feed. Which kind are yours?

Ike—Does your father have to pay much for coal?

Mike—Not a cent! We live near the railroad track and he makes faces at the engineers.

"Weed, breed, and feed," are the three essentials for success in dairy farming.

Agriculture is on the up-grade again. The farmer's dollar is beginning to buy more today than it has bought at any time during the past three years.

CAVAN CHICKS MEET COLD DAMP WELCOME

CAVAN, May 10—Seeding operations have received another setback from the recent rains.

The season is very backward for almost every phase of farm work.

This is the season when the majority of people are having their chicks hatched, and the weather is most unfavorable for them where brooders are not used.

Peas Sown

As the price of wheat has dropped so much of late years, farmers are trying to find other means of raising money to meet the heavy overhead expenses of the times. In Cavan last year, and again this year, more peas are being sown than for some years previous.

It is as essential that each dairyman keep a record of his cows' production as it is for the business man to keep books on his business.

Milking For Pleasure or Profit?

Five million farmers keep dairy cows. Twice a day the cows are milked. Some farmers are getting paid for their work. Others are not. Some are milking for profit. Others are doing it for exercise.

Less than 1,000,000 out of 25,000,000 dairy cows on the continent are pure bred. The average production per cow is 4,000 pounds of milk annually. The average production of pure-bred cows is more than twice that.

It takes just as much barn space and just as much labor in feeding and milking to care for a 4,000 pound cow as an 8,000 pound cow. The higher producers require a little more feed. That is all. Yet they bring double revenue.

Milk and cream are perishable products. They must be sold almost as fast as produced. As a consequence, cows produce a continuous cash crop. Milk and cream cheques come in weekly or monthly. Cows mean skimmed milk for the hogs and chickens; they add fertility to the soil.

Good cows—high producers, but not necessarily record-breakers—pay good, cash money for their care and their feed. Milking the average cow returns its owner not much more than the exercise he gets.

ENGINEER MADE NO INSPECTION NORWOOD ROADS

Declares Samuel Armstrong, Advocate of the Building of Block Road — Says People Who Signed Petition Entitled to Consideration.

FROM WRONG ANGLE.

With the starting of work on the much-disputed Norwood road there was revived today the discussion that has waged for months as to the widsom of the course being pursued by the Suburban Areas Commission in making the north road the main route of travel. This was heatedly protested at the last meeting of the county council, and also exercised the city council to no small degree. Resolutions were presented by a delegation from the sector affected and from the city council, asking that work be halted pending a thorough investigation by independent engineers, but the county council overrode the recommendation and failed to co-operate in representations to the commission. It is declared that thousands of dollars have been thrown away on the north road in work that can never bring it to the requirements of a provincial road, no matter how far the work may be carried out.

Samuel Armstrong, of Indian River, who is one of the opponents of the Suburban Areas Commission policy in building the north road, and the leader in the fight for recognition of the block road as the main artery between Peterborough and the east, was interviewed today by The Examiner. He had read, he said, the report of a meeting at which Alderman Morrison, chairman of the commission, was asked to report to the Board of Works of the city council on the merits of the respective roads. At that meeting Alderman Morrison, who is the city's representative to the commission, said that thorough investigations of the utility of the block road had been made by competent engineers, and they had reached the conclusion that the work on the north road last year was justified. "Surely," Mr. Armstrong remarked, "the angle of vision of five hundred or more farmers who have to use one of those roads every time they go to the city was worth considering. I have made careful enquiries among those who petitioned for the south road, and so far as I have been able to find out not one member of the county council, except the Otonabee representative, not one of the members of the suburban commission, not an official engaged by either body, nor any engineer or official of the highways department, has ever even seen the place we want the road, either from our angle or any other angle, much less investigated its merits."

Presented Petition

Early in 1923, Mr. Armstrong said, before there was any money spent in rebuilding the north road, a petition signed by 217 ratepayers was sent to the county council asking to have the leading road eastward from Peterborough built on or near the "block" road. He expressed the opinion that it would have been good business and common sense and courtesy to have gone over the proposed road with some of the 217 ratepayers who know both roads and who have to use one or the other everytime they come to the city. "They know which one they want, and merits of the question should surely have been investigated from their angle."

Mr. Armstrong has made himself well known in Peterborough this year through his advocacy of the block road as an alternative to the road now under construction. He has been to considerable trouble in preparing and obtaining charts and maps that illustrate the fact he wishes to bring out—the 12 percent grades on the north road and the uniform level of the proposed block road. He addressed the county council and the Peterborough branch of the Motor League on the subject.

Warsaw Crop Looked Well Before Frosts

WARSAW, May 10—One farmer on high land has completed his sowing. The majority have one field sowed, and more ready.

Until the last frosts, most of the fall wheat looked well. How the last few nights' frosts will affect it remains to be seen.

One farmer thought a field of sweet clover was killed as the roots were all heaved out of the ground about four inches, but with last week's warm weather the tips of the roots in the ground were growing well, so that he was quite pleased with the field, and unless these frosts of the last few days kill it, he expects a good crop.

Cheese Factory Busy

Warminster cheese factory has been operating for two weeks.

Warsaw factory opened for this season on May 1. They are 'making' every other day. A good lot of milk is coming in. Seven cheese were made today.

There are more patrons from the south. One new patron sent in over 500 pounds of milk in one day. Many patrons are still feeding their calves, and some think there is more money in calves, and have bought calves to raise after their own are done needing new milk.

Pastures are looking well; they have come on rapidly. The majority of cattle for back ranches were taken back last week. A few were back early. Some owners of smaller ranches near home are letting the grass get a start before putting on any cattle.

UNITED STATES LINES UP DISEASED CATTLE IN THE DITCH THAT IS TO BE THEIR GRAVE TO SHOOT THOUSANDS TO PREVENT SPREAD

Herds Infected With Foot and Mouth Disease Are Driven Into Deep Trenches and Killed by Riflemen—12,000 Destroyed in First Three Weeks

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—By quick, decisive action, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has taken in hand a recurrence of the foot-and-mouth disease which had not been threatening the livestock of this country since its devastating appearance in 1914.

This year the dread visitor was practically expected.

And, being expected, it had scarcely shown its symptoms here when government authorities were upon it. As a result, the disease that has caused the loss of thousands of head of cattle and other livestock in previous years, is now practically under complete control, infected animals are quarantined and rigid guard is kept against exportation of any stock from the confined area.

California is the only state in which this disease has succeeded in gaining headway, although reports of its symptoms have come from nearby states and close inspection of livestock is being made elsewhere. But less than three weeks after the outbreak was first reported in the region of Oakland, Calif., government veterinary inspectors had all known infected herds under ground.

Well Guarded

Despite this optimistic report, however, shipments of other livestock were made to Los Angeles and other parts of California, with the result that further quarantine had to be placed on new areas. According to Dr. John R. Mohler, chief of the Bureau of Entomology in Washington, who is leading the fight against spread of this disease, the situation is well under control.

"The foot-and-mouth disease," explained Dr. Mohler, "seems to recur every six or ten years. Its last occurrence in 1914 resulted in a loss of 172,000 animals, mostly in mid-western and eastern states, at a cost to the government and farmers of about $9,000,000. This year, we have already eaten into the greater part of our appropriation of $1,000,000 and the $270,000 left over to fight the disease."

Figures as to the number of animals killed to stop the spread of the disease this year have not yet been compiled, but the first three weeks of eradication brought the slaughter up to more than 12,000 animals, consisting mostly of cattle and swine.

Quick Start

In February of this year, it is Dr. Mohler's opinion, indications of the start of this disease near Oakland, Calif., led to a transport returning from the orient.

Within three weeks it had jumped into the range country, where large stocks of cattle had to be killed.

Rifle squads have slaughtered whole herds, where only one animal might have been infected, to be sure the disease could not have spread. Long trenches have been dug, where these animals have been driven to their deaths and covered with lime and soil. Farmers have been reimbursed for their losses, and the government, in co-operation with California, has stood the loss.

Warning to Farmers

Now with the disease fairly well controlled, Dr. Mohler issues the following warning to farmers, not only in the west but throughout the country:

"All livestock where infection is suspected, must be closely confined.

"Dogs must not be allowed to run at large.

"No milk, hay, feed or manure is to be removed from the farm.

"The farmer and his family should refrain from visiting other farms.

"Do not permit any visitors, stray livestock or dogs to come upon your premises.

"Expedite in every way possible the slaughter and burial of infected animals.

"The early cleaning and disinfection of your premises are highly important."

FRIENDLY HAND IN EAST EMILY

Twenty Teams Invade Farm of Mrs. McConnel, Recently Bereaved, and Do Spring Seeding

EAST EMILY, May 10—All the men in this district are very busy on the fields this week and are making good headway at the seeding.

The fall wheat is turning out very favorably and a great deal better than the farmers expected.

By the hum of the tractors in the neighbouring district, it sounds as though the spring seeding will soon be over.

Seeding Failed

The clover and timothy seeding is quite a failure in this district this spring. Quite a lot of the farmers have to plough up their seeding.

A Friendly Hand

The neighbours and friends of the late Mr. Joseph McConnell are very kindly lending a helping hand, and are having a bee this week putting in the spring seeding for Mrs. McConnell. About twenty teams invaded her farm on Thursday.

A thorough cleaning of old quarters with scalding hot lye water and a scrubbing of the sow before she is placed in the clean farrowing pen will do a great deal toward increasing hog production profits. An enormous loss results each year due to the infestation of baby pigs with round worms and other parasites found in old hog yards.

Silage is most valuable as a supplementary feed when the pastures are short during the grazing season. It should never constitute the whole of the forage ration but should be fed supplementary to pasture or some kind of roughage.

RICHARD ELMHURST IS TRAINING NEW HORSE

BETHEL, May 10.—The wet weather is delaying the seeding very much, clover and fall wheat are coming along very good, very little was winter killed, and if warm weather would set in, there would be a fair crop.

Charlie Fife is busy breaking in a colt.

Richard Elmhirst has a new horse in training that will likely be heard from this fall.

Fred Nelson is in Keene at present working in the garage.

OMEMEE FARMERS SHIP MANY CATTLE AND HOGS

OMEMEE, May 10.—Mr. S. D. Vaughan, shipper for the U.F.O. in this vicinity, made his regular trip to Toronto on Monday and disposed of a number of cattle as follows: Eight cattle at 4 to 5¼c per lb., and butcher beef at 6c per lb.; 69 calves, the majority of which sold for 10c, others 9c, and a few at 7c per lb. He also shipped 53 pigs on Thursday, the price being $7.50 per cwt. for 44, with 8 selects at $8.35 per cwt. Mr. W. J. Lamb shipped 58 hogs on Friday, the price paid being $7.75 for all grades.

APSLEY AUCTION SALE

APSLEY, May 10.—An auction sale of farm stock and implements, with Fred Bullied as auctioneer, was held at Ambrose Dingman's farm on Wednesday, May 7. Prices realized on cattle were low, cows selling at $20 to $40 each, two-year-olds fetching $13, while calves could not find buyers. Sheep went for $9.50 each. A finely-matched team of three-year-old colts was knocked down at $305. Farm machinery brought fairly good prices. A heavy downpour of rain somewhat dampened the ardour of the buyers during the afternoon.

FALL WHEAT UP ONE FOOT TALL

One Farmer Near Hastings Has Fourteen Inch Stalks--Lecture Course Opened.

HASTINGS, May 10—Most of the farmers in this district have nearly finished spring sowing, and are beginning to prepare land for the root crops. However, since the weather has been so cold and backward, very little of the spring grain sown is above the ground.

The fall wheat has apparently weathered the winter in excellent condition, and a farmer living on the main road between Hastings and Campbellford, reports wheat up at a height of fourteen inches.

Clover, hay and alfalfa covers the ground in most local places, and timothy is also progressing favorably.

Mr. W. J. Buck has recently purchased a new spreader from one of the local agents.

New Course Started.

Miss Hopkins, of Lindsay, has commenced the demonstration lecture course in food values and cooking, under Ontario Department of Agriculture. About sixty-eight members have already answered the roll call, which is called at the close of each class. Three lessons have been given, and seven more constitute the course.

TRENT RIVER PRICES.

TRENT RIVER, May 10—Dairy butter is selling at 30 and 35 cents. Eggs, 20 cents.

NORWOOD BEHIND TWO WEEKS

NORWOOD, May 10—On account of the cold and backward weather, the farmers in this district are about two weeks behind in their work. The fall grain and clover are, however, looking well.

Hay Crop Assured And Fruit Grower Has Cause to Joy

Toronto, May 10 (Canadian Press).—Heavy rains in Ontario during the past ten days have retarded seeding in some sections of the province but it is not anticipated that any damage will be done to spring crops unless the precipitation continues for a long period. The Department of Agriculture officials report that the season is backward, but seeding is practically completed in Western Ontario. In the eastern districts the farmers are not so well advanced.

Recent storms have assured an abundant hay crop while fruit growers are enthusiastic over the splendid showing of their crops. The strawberry yield promises to be again phenomenal.

Baby Chicks

With the arriving of the baby chicks, one of the most essential factors for their welfare is cleanliness. Fresh water and a good quality of chick feed should be kept before them at all times. Keep all drinking and feeding utensils clean and you will have a decided improvement in the death rate.

Get away from the idea that any old thing will do if you want a good healthy brood.

Give the hen and nest a generous sprinkling of a good vermin killer prior to the chicks being hatched. Thiswill leave the hen clean and the chicks will develop faster.

Be careful with fires in the brooder house. See to it that nothing inflammable comes in contact with the stove or pipe. Caution prevents loss of coops, sheds and barn.

Be sure to feed good buttermilk or sour skim milk. Many chicks are ruined each year by feeding milk in which there is washing soda or some other form of neutralizer.

The first week in the brooder house is the critical one. Watch the chicks carefully during this period. Most of the trouble is caused by overcrowding, piling in the corners, and by chilling.

Watch the litter in the hen house at this time of the year and change so often as it becomes damp and heavy. Damp litter causes the houses to be damp, and is the source of much disease.

It is a good idea to put clean sand on the floor of the brooder house underneath the litter. It should be placed in the house several days before the chicks are put in so that it will be thoroughly dried out.

A Real Test

Ethel—Jack is so eager to please me! He always agrees to everything I say.

Clara—Why don't you suggest a proposal, dear?

Care of Mare and Foal.

It is very important that the mare receives proper care at foaling time. If weather conditions permit let the mare foal outside. If she must foal inside give her a well-bedded stall, which has been made absolutely clean. Do not tie off the stump of the navel cord. As soon as the foal is born treat the cord with tincture of iodine and then apply some antiseptic powder. This precaution is to guard against the dreaded navel disease.

PRINCE'S RANCH ALL IN BUTTER AT EXHIBITION

Prince of Wales and His Horse Are Life-Size — Butter Situation In England Is Improving From Canadian Viewpoint.

UNITED EFFORT.

An interesting display in connection with the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley Park is the butter section, where a model is shown, constructed entirely of butter, of the Prince of Wales' Alberta home, with the Prince in the foreground standing by his horse. The Prince and his horse are life-size, the remainder being in proportion. A Canadian fruit farm is also a feature. In the foreground is a green lawn dotted with baskets of every sort of luscious fruit and away behind stretches a vista of orchards, with men on ladders gathering fruit from trees while women are packing it in baskets on the ground.

An interesting phase in the situation with regard to butter, particularly as it affects the export trade to Britain, which has been captured to a great extent of late years by Australian and New Zealand exporters, in direct competition with the Canadian marketers, is the advance made in Old Country markets recently by butter sent from western portions of Canada, as compared with the article shipped from the east. It is the opinion of experts that the advance made in the western article is due to the action of these provinces in getting together, appointing Government inspectors and having all cream graded alike, to obviate the difficulty of over-ripe cream and limed cream, complained of in Canadian butter by British buyers. The Grocer, of London, England, says:

"The present season has witnessed an unusually heavy import of Canadian butter. In a general way the butter from the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta proved superior to the article produced in the eastern provinces, and commanded a higher price This goes to show the value of united effort as exemplified by co-operation between the creameries and the provincial governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and these provinces have very efficient systems of government grading."

Sheep Enter Summer Quarters at Bethany

BETHANY, May 10—Grass through out the vicinity is very short, owing to the cool, backward weather and with few exceptions cattle are still being stall-fed.

Sheep clipping is practically done around this section, and a few flocks are turned into summer quarters.

Eggs and butter are still plentiful, the market price being 21 cents per dozen, with butter at 32 cents per pound

Farmers are getting their root ground in condition for this crop.

A number of farmers report that chickens are hatched, but are coming along slowly, fertility of eggs being much better than last year.

The Brilliant Novelist of Modern Society

LEADING CHARACTERS:

Prudence Page, a pretty country girl ... saddened from a brief and unhappy love affair with unreliable

Bert Traymore, a dfascinating philanderer, guest at the home of Mrs. Vansittart, wealthy women who owns Winston Towers. Another of her guests is

Virginia Dale, a blase beauty who has brought about a forced engagement between herself and

Peter Armstrong, brilliant young inventor, much attracted to Prudence, who, for her part, loves him deeply.

Virginia dreams of a wealthy future. And is furious when she hears that Peter has been meeting Prudence.

She makes a jealous scene with Prudence and the latter informs her that she is not worthy of Peter.

Prudence goes off alone in the woods for a walk, as dusk falls. She sees a woman walking through the woods making for a certain tree.

The woman proves to be Virginia who digs up some boxes of silver plate and jewelry. Prudence is discovered, watching her.

CHAPTER LXVI

"How Do You Account For This"

In girls of Prudence's character, there is an indomitable 'something' which will rise to meet emergencies, no matter how amazing may the latter be.

Now—as Virginia Dale's eyes glared upon her in the eerie lantern-light—that 'something' came to the surface in the younger woman, so that she didn't scream, or faint, or run away, or do any of the foolish, so-called 'feminine' things that a heroine of romance is supposed to do, in the astounding circumstances.

She stood her ground.

"Come out, you spy!" hissed Virginia, holding the lantern up, so that its rays fell full on Prudence.

The latter stepped forward, her footfalls making a crackling sound in the undergrowth.

An owl hooted eerily at that moment, and for a fantastic second it flitted through Prudence's mind that Virginia—distorted with rage and with frustrated scheming—was a witch, there in the queer shadows of the wood, behind the lantern's fitful light! The digging implements were a broomstick, weren't they? Would she fly off, over the tree-tops, and join that hooting owl amid the outer darkness?

"How dare you spy on me?" hissed Virginia, her eyes narrowed to a pinpoint, like a dangerous cobra that is going to strike. "How dare you sneak on my track, you—you woman?"

Prudence met the envenomed glare.

"I dare anything for the restoration of my own good name," she answered in a measured tone that gave no hint of fear. A great light was dawning on her spirit. The diamond earrings and the money found in her sash . . . Virginia had worn the gown before she did, that catastrophic night. Virginia had left the stolen goods there perhaps through carelessness, perhaps through deliberate wish to blacken her rival's character and chances . . . Bert Traymore had been innocent . . . no one but Virginia had been to blame.

"Your good name? Faugh!" Virginia burst into horrible laughter that had no slightest sound of mirth about it, only hysteria. "Who in the world cares what a—a common nobody like you does, or says?"

For answer Prudence, in a low, resolute tone, continued:

"Calling me names won't mend this matter. I've seen what I have seen, over there—"—she nodded into the darkness in the direction of the elm tree—"and I ask you what you are doing, hiding Mrs. Vansittart's property—her lost property, for I recognized the gold candlesticks, and several other things in the boxes—out here in this solitude?"

Virginia gave a high, angry laugh that again had the hysterical note about it.

"A chit like you dares to call me to account?"

"I do. I shan't move from here until you give an explanation."

"Ha! Ha! You won't? We'll see about that?" And Virginia took a furious step towards the speaker, arm upraised, and something gleaming ominously in it.

"I shouldn't advise you to use violence," went on the cool, unafraid voice of the younger girl, standing immobile on the spot. "If you injured me—if you even killed me, here where we stand—it would be the ruin of you, and you know it. Our footsteps are already over the mould and moss, and there wouldn't be the slightest difficulty in the police tracking you."

Police?

Virginia, deeply as she loathed this clear-eyed girl, shivered at the hateful word.

"I ask you," persisted the quiet, resolute young voice, "I ask you to explain why you are hiding Mrs. Vansittart's gold candlesticks and other property which I recognize, here in this wood in a box?"

"You can ask till Doomsday," hissed Virginia, fury again getting the upper hand. "You can——"

The words died on her lips, for in Prudence's eyes she saw a something that frightened her . . . something as strong as granite, pure with the uprightness of an unsoiled spirit, unafraid as the Christian martyrs were in face of danger.

"I insist upon an explanation." There was a relentless note in the young voice, and Virginia, cowardly at heart as are all bullies, recognized it.

"Why make a fuss? What's it to you what I do?" Her tone was suddenly flat and colorless, with a dragging sound about it.

There was a silence in which both girls neither spoke nor moved. Then Virginia, sullenly:

"Oh, if you're going to insist . . . I don't see it's any of your business . . . this stuff was left me by an old aunt who died . . . it was sent me through the trustees, the lawyers . . . I kept the boxes in my trunks up at the Towers . . . didn't want Mrs. Vansittart to know, because I owed her money . . bridge debts . . . and for a gown or two . . . you understand . ," she gulped and hesitated.

"No, I don't," said Prudence, in the tone of a judge arraigning a prisoner at the bar. "Go on."

"I started out to pawn the things," stammered Virginia, the words now tumbling over each other in her eagerness to be finished with the hateful interview. "I—I didn't want anyone to know—they all think me rich—I'm poor—wretchedly poor—and I didn't see why I should pay Mrs. Van. back the money, when I work like blazes to be gay and—and well-dressed—to entertain her dull guests—I mean, I'd pay her back later, but just now I wanted the money for something else, you see—so I started off with the boxes—and then I saw Bert Traymore coming, so I hid them in this wood, for he mustn't know—"

"Give me the trowel Prudence said and took it brusquely from the stammering speaker, and walked forward to the elm tree. Stooping down, she lifted one of the heavy gold candlesticks, holding it aloft. "You say an old aunt left you these?"

"Yes. Yes."

"Then," said Prudence coolly, tilting the candelabra backwards, "How do you account for this?"

She pointed to Mrs. Vansittart's name in full, engraved in small letters at the bottom of the candlestick.

COTTON STANDARD REVISION PROPOSED AS AN ECONOMY

CHICAGO, May 10.—If consumers of cotton goods desire maximum wear out of their sheeting ,belting, canvas and tires, cotton standards should be revised to include tensile strength in classing cotton for market, according t oresults of a 15-year field and tehnical study on the subject, announced by the Bureau of Industrial Research here.

Existing cotton standards also are responsible for much of the child labor in cotton fields and much illiteracy in cotton growing states, a report argues. Study of cotton fibre in the survey provided data which agreed in condemning the present mixture of unripe with ripe cotton in most of the bales which are ginned and shipped, the report added.

MAKING MAKE MONEY MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Much money can be easily saved, when home-building, if a liberal amount of common sense is used.

When you are planning on building a house, it often happens that the bids you receive run considerably higher than you had anticipated.

In such case several courses of action are open:

1. You may get new bids from other contractors. But care should be taken to deal only with responsible builders. A careless and irresponsible builder may bid low, but he is expensive in the end and most unsatisfactory.

2. You can change your plans, choosing smaller rooms and less expensive finishings. A certain amount of this sort of cutting may prove to be both wise and successful.

3. You may postpone the finishing of certain parts of the house. Oftimes a room that is ultimately needed may be left unfinished for the present. The purchase of some of the fixtures may be postponed. Or the house may be so planned that one unit may be built now and a second unit added later.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE TWINS VISIT HANSEL AND GRETEL

So the three travelers parked their car.

"Let's go to see Hansel and Gretel,' 'said Mister Muggs. "Oh, yes, let's do," cried Nancy and Nick. "Do you suppose they will be living in a house of cake and bread, with sugar windows?"

"Well, I should think not!" remarked the fairyman. "After the mean way the old lady in the woods treated them when they were lost! She built herself a cake house just to get them to come that way. And when they got there she was horrid to them. But the best way to find ou all about it is to go and see. I'm sure Hansel and Gretel will be ever so glad to see a little boy and girl like themselves."

So they all got into the nice little car and rode and rode and rode past seven times seven duck ponds and seven times seven barnyards, and came at least to a beautiful house.

And over the door it said, "Hansel and Gretel's House. Welcome!" '

So the three travelers parked their car under an apple tree and went up the steps and tapped on the front door.

It flew open at once and out rushed the children.

"Oh, we are so glad to see you!" cried Hansel and Gretel. "Now we can play."

Just then a maid in a stiff starched cap and stiff starched apron and stiff starched everything, came out and said, "Miss Gretel, you cannot play now. You must practice your music lesson and then do your sums, and then go for a walk in the park, and then take your riding lesson, and after that your dancing master will be here to teach you some new steps. And then you must be fitted for some new dresses, and after that the woman is coming to—"

"Oh, bother!' 'cried Gretel. "I don't want to do these things. I want to play."

"You are rich now and your father says you must do as I say."

And a man who looked as though he had been dipped in stiff starch all over, came and said to Hansel, "And you cannot play either, sir! You have even more things to do than Miss Gretel."

"But I don't want to do anything but play marbles," declared Hansel. "I'd rather be poor and not have anything to eat, like the Twins when father was a poor wood-cutter. I wish we hadn't found the old woman's treasure and become so rich."

"So do I," said Gretel. "I'd rather be poor and wear rags again."

"A pretty kettle of fish!" and there stood a poor little cottage with a thatched roof. Away in the distance they could hear the blooms of an ax. The poor woodcutter was at work again. Their riches had gone.

"The Fairy Queen must have heard you,' 'said Mister Muggs. "You have your wish."

"And now we'll be happy," cried the children. "Come on, Twins, and play."

FABLES ON HEALTH

YOU AND YOUR BABY

Mr. Mann of Anytown had never forgotten that morning when he walked into the office and announced: "It's a girl." He had rehearsed saying: "It's a boy," but had to change his speech when the doctor made the customary announcement.

The thrill was there, just the same. And though the second and third of the Mann babies were boys, the incident did not have the same epochal significance.

He had always loved children, but he suddenly realized how little he knew about babies and their care. He felt he should be able to act in an advisory capacity to Mrs. Mann. So he became deeply engrossed in child problems.

The family doctor supplied him with a brief background:

"It once was said that being a baby was one of the most dangerous of occupations," he observed, "but thanks to progressive tendencies in the past dozen years that condition has changed.

"As most parents have found out, the first year is likely to be the hardest. Saving of infant life has been effected largely through centering attention on the later months of that year.

"So just jot down these pointers: Complete and absolute sanitation; intelligent care on the part of the mother; skilled supervision in matters on which the parents are ignorant; careful check on the milk supply, particularly as to purity.

"Most babies are born normal.

"After that it's up to you."

NO MORE CORNS

Why be troubled with corns and callous spots on the feet when Chicago Corn Paint will remove them so easily? A few applications are generally sufficient to remove the most obstinate corn or callous. Get it at Bond's Drug Store, corner George and Hunter streets.

SMOKES

Americans are using 140 cigarets for every 100 used in 1922, judging by factory output.

Cigars and pipe tobacco continue slumping steadily.

The cigaret, made "respectable" by the war, is the National Smoke. Fifty cigarets a month are being manufactured for every man, woman and child in the country.

REVIVE INDUSTRY IN NEWFOUNDLAND

New Towns, Mills and Harbors Appearing--People Hopeful Again -Pulp, Paper and Lumber Trades Prosperous

Vivid descriptions of grea construcitonal and productive activity in former wildernesses in Newfoundland are given by Dr. Mark Fenwick as a result of a recent tour. Surveying the outlook, the superintendent of Methodists missions considers prospects for renewed prosperity to be unusually bright. Improvement since May, 1923, is notable.

The twelve months just ended in the "Ancient Colony," exhibit a more hopeful outlook than has been the case for the past three years. There is certainly a better heart obtaining among the people, and the absence of urgent claims of destitution lends encouragement for improvement in temporal welfare.

The fishery of 1923 was not up to the average voyage by a long way, but shortness of catch does not always mean a real loss, for it is often the means of creating a greater demand, thus making higher prices in the foreign markets. This fact, together with improved exchange, has made the fisheries more remunerative.

The "more hopeful outlook" is due also to new avenues of employment opening, whereby many hundreds of men found remunerative employment, and especially those who, by financial stringency, were unable to prosecute the fishery.

The Anglo Development Company at Grand Falls, and its auxiliaries at Millertown and Badger Brook, have added largely to the number of their employees, thereby increasing the output, by taking over the Terra Nova Mills and territory, situated on Terra Nova Lake.

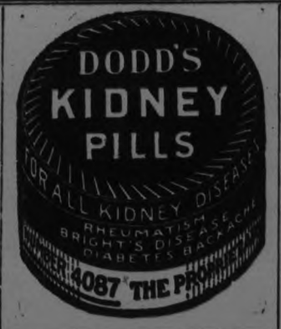
The Armstrong-Whitworth Company, whose huge pulp mills are being built on the Humber River, at Bay of Islands, began a series of undertakings that brought about the transformation of the country at Grand Lake, Deer Lake and Corner Brook. At the junction of Grand Lake and Deer Lake a huge dam has been built, and from the dam at Deer Lake the Deer Lake canal, of several miles in length, has been cut, ending with the flume at Deer Lake, where the power house is located. Around these centres hundreds of small houses have been erected for the temporary use of the workmen, and, in addition, at Deer Lake twenty splendid houses, with modern equipment, and a temporary hospital and other buildings for the community life of the men have been erected.

The greatest transformation, however, has taken place at Corner Brook, where the pulp mills will soon be grinding out pulp and manufacturing paper. A huge shipping wharf has been built with a depth of water of over fifty feet, so that steamers of large tonnage can be, with the greatest ease, loaded and unloaded. The space between the wharf and the main line of railway has been filled in by the removal of high land. To the onlooker, the steam-shovels, attacking the high table-land, seemed to be saying, "Give us this mountain," while to watch the hundreds of men, like so many busy ants, and the puffing engines drawing long trains of cars filled with rock and soil and gravel, to be dumped into the waters of the bay, forming dry land where once was a great expanse of water, one could see a wonderful literal transformation of the geography of the locality. Then, beyond all this, the forest has fallen before the keen onslaught of the axemen, and the site of a new inland town laid out, which will be the centre of throbbing life.

Not only is this true of the west coast, but, encouraged by favorable tax exemptions, a great milling and exporting lumber enterprise has been inaugurated by H. J. Crowe, one of the pioneer lumber kings of Newfoundland. White Bay, perhaps the least known of Newfoundland's great bays, almost a "no-man's-land," has received an impetus, and is being aroused out of many centuries of lethargy and sleep. A new town, called Hampden, has grown up in less than six months, and some hundreds of men, many of them bringing their families with them, are finding employment. This should also be said, that this new enterprise is characterized, as in all those previously undertaken by Mr. Crowe, by the provision of suitable educational facilities for the children.

Then, on the north side of White Bay, in the vicinity of Harbour Deep, another logging enterprise has been commenced, affording employment to a large number of those seeking it.

Newfoundland, in our opinion, after a knowledge of the varying experiences through which the colony has passed for many years, must, in an especial degree, be regarded as "the child of a benign Providence."



ASK US FOR AN INTERESTING BOOK ON INTERNAL BATHS

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell always claimed his life was saved by Internal Baths—chronic constipation was his bane.

And after they made him well, they kept him one hundred per cent. well and efficient for many years.

This is not hard to believe when physicians agree that most human ills are caused by accumulated waste in the lower intestine and no medicine has ever been found to keep it free from these poisons.

Dr. Tyrrell's book tells why and how this has been the means of freeing many thousands of progressive Canadians from "that tired feeling," as well as the more serious illnesses which follow if the pernicious poisons are not cleaned out.

Simple warm water, scientifically administered, will take them out and keep them out.

The J. B. L. Cascade is the perfected invention of Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York for Internal Bathing. It is now being shown and explained at The Warne Drug Co.

Phone or ask them for free booklet all about it, or write Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College street, Toronto.

SAVAGE.

The big game hunter, Carl Akeley, says: "One of my native boys speared a young gorilla. I came to it as it lay dying. Its mother was already dead. When it saw me, it stretched out its infant arms in appeal and cried when I touched it."

Some people call this sort of thing "soprt."

Some of them Were Unmarried Mothers

OUR Rescue Department—the department that takes care of the unfortunate girls and women — was taxed to its capacity throughout 1923. A total of 700.

Five out of every seven were "unmarried mothers" — an astonishing thing, you say, and yet the number was only limited by the accommodation available.

In order that we may continue this very important branch of Salvation Army service and vigorously pursue our preventive work, we need your financial assistance.

What we accomplish during the next twelve months will be measured only by the response to this Annual Self-Denial Appeal.

GRAY-DORT

Inspectors with a Conscience

TWO things make inspection valuable or valueless in an automobile factory.

First—the management's instructions to its inspectors.

Second—the desire of the inspectors to carry out those instructions.

The new management of Gray-Dort Motors says to Gray-Dort inspectors: "You must not pass a single thing in any Gray-Dort car which is not better than you would want in your own car".

And every inspector knows that those instructions must be carried out to the letter if he is to stay with this organization.

Today the inspection in the Gray-Dort plant is the most rigid ever established by an automobile manufacturer.

Go to the Gray-Dort showroom and examine the cars.

Drive the cars. Find out for yourself how smooth and powerful and quiet the Gray-Dort is.

CALIFORNIA TO BUILD SINGLE SPAN BRIDGE OVER GOLDEN GATE

Investment In the Vast Scheme May Cost Two Hundred Millions.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—Bridges and tunnels across San Francisco Bay, under construction or contemplated, call for estimated expenditures of approximately $100,000,000. Engineers say that before the completion of the various programmes for connecting San Francisco peninsula with the mainland opposite, the investments may reach $200,000,000.

The largest projects planned are the proposed tunnel and bridge between San Francisco and Oakland and a bridge across the Golden Gate, where the bay, between high steep bluffs, merges with the Pacific Ocean.

The Oakland subway and bridge still are in a nebulous stage, though engineers declare them feasible and a matter of necessity sooner or later. Plans for the Golden Gate span have been drawn, however, and submitted to the War Department war approval.

According to the plans the Golden Gate bridge, connecting San Francisco with a tier of northern California coast counties which are now accessible only by ferry or by a roundabout overland journey, will be the longest single-span suspension bridge in the world. Engineers say it will be longer by 1,040 feet than any other suspension bridge. For 4,010 feet of the total distance of 6,700 feet the water is 300 feet deep, on an average, with a swift current and a scouring action that is held to preclude the building of piers.

It is planned to make the floor of the bridge 200 feet above high tide, thus giving shipping ample space to pass underneath. The cost of the structure is estimated at $20,000,000.

San Francisco county and other counties in the bridge district have voted approval of the project and the state legislature, at its last session, passed a bill approving such a bridge. Eastern financial interests are reported to have promised capital for the undertaking, with the scheme of a toll system whereby the bridge would be paid for in a short term of years and then turned back to the state.

Three smaller bridges over narrower portions of San Francisco Bay, all at points some distance from the city, are under construction. They are the Coyote Point, Dumbarton and Carquinez Straits bridges. They are designed to help relieve the congestion of trans-bay traffic.

Thousands of persons commute daily ffrom their homes in Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley to their work in San Francisco. These cities, clustered directly across the bay, two and a half miles in width along this shore line, represent a population approaching the half million mark. Thus the commuters tax the community of the numerous ferries and the plea for bridge and subway has been general. The Golden Gtae bridge would not be of direct benefit to these people; the site is several miles distant and not easily accessible.

SHIFTING TEST.

The test of a good driver is n shifting from high to low without noise. The trick lies in speeding up the motor while the gears are shifting to neutral, until the motor runs at what the driver believes would be 20 miles an hour; then throwing the clutch and shifting to second at the same time.

Sudden shocks and rough roads

CULVERTS, rough roads, ruts, loose gravel, sand and holes—your tires get all the shocks and wear first, last and all the time.

Shocks cause internal friction; friction develops heat and heat is the enemy of tire durability.

In Dominion Royal Cord and U-cord Tires, built exclusively in Canada by the Web Cord process, internal friction and heat caused by cross threads, are now eliminated.

Sprayed Rubber used in the walls and treads of Dominion Cord Tires gives the greatest elasticity, strength and resilience to the tire.

When you equip your car with Dominion Royal Cord or U-cord Tires you will have tires which will give greatest mileage under the punishment of rough roads.

These new, exclusive improvements in Dominion Cord Tires add nothing to your tire costs—they are added values for your money.

More than ever Dominion Cord Tires are the standard of tires and tire values in Canada.

BAD BLOOD PIMPLES AND BOILES Banished By Burdock Blood Bitters

Miss Irene A. Matthews, Stayner, Ont., writes:—"I thought I would write and tell you of the experience and benefit I have derived from Burdock Blood Bitters.

Some few months ago I was troubled with bad blood which broke out on my face in the nature of pimples, boils and ring-worm, and I got so bad I really did not know what to do.

I was ashamed to go anywhere, and the itching and burning caused such a terrible sensation I could get no relief day or night.

One day a friend advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I used one bottle and felt quite a relief, and by the time I had taken 3 bottles I was completely relieved.

I cannot praise B.B.B. enough and I hope anyone afflicted like I was will get the same benefit I received."

FRENCH POLITICAL TREND IS TOWARD LIBERAL PARTIES

Party Lines Broken and Result of Next Sunday's Voting Hard to Prophesy

PARIS, May 10.— The French electoral campaign has been waged in greater political confusion than has existed in the country since, just after the fall of the Second Empire, a royalish parliament was sent to Paris to inaugurate the Third Republic.

Party lines are so broken and party politics so vague that political prophets are at a loss to find a basis for any sort of predictions. The only certain element in the situation is that for several months the pendulum has been swinging toward the Left, that is to say in favor of the more liberal parties, Radicals and Socailists, and against the moderate and conservative government majority.

All the special elections held since last fall, including parliamentary, city and departmental, have shown large gains for the Socialists and Radicals. Local circumstances entered into some of these results but on the whole they are accepted, even by the moderates and conservatives of the "National Block" as showing a decided tendency toward radicalism and socialism.

The Radicals and Socialists, however, have big gains to make if they wrest the majority of the chamber from the "National Block," which, in 1919 won 116 seats from them and constituted a government coalition of 400 members in the lower house, in spite of the fact that the Radicals polled 2,000,000 votes as compared to 1,800,000 in 1914, and the Socialists increased their vote of 1,400,000 in 1914 to 1,700,000. The Radical and Socialist coalition, however, will not go to the country with the full strength of the parties as polled in 1914. The Communists have sapped a great deal of the strength of the Socialist party. Only the result of the coming election will show just how many votes the Communists have taken, but surface indications are that the faction which takes its orders from Moscow will poll in the neighborhood of 1,000,000 votes. This would leave the Socialists with about the same number, supposing that the two factions together show a small gain over 1914.

The Radical party also has been weakened by the resignation or exclusion of a number of deputies who supported Poincare's foreign and fiscal policies. These men have formed a new "Radical Federation," which will co-operate with the other groups of the government majority.

The strength of the different groups in the present Chamber is as follows: Republican Democratic Entente (National Block), 170; Independents, mostly royalists, 27; deputies belonging to no group, 22; Republican and Social Action, 47; Republican Democratic Left, 88; Republican Left, 56; Republican Socialists, 32; Radicals, 82; Socialists, 32; Radicals, 82; Socialists, 50; Communists, 13.

Practically all the parties, excepting the Communists, Socialists, Radicals, Republican Socialists and afew Republicans of the Left, were were classed as part of the "National Block." The full strength of the Chamber was 626, but a number of seats were vacant and some deputies not inscribed on any list. The next Chamber will contain only 584 members. The Radical-Socialist-Republican Socialist coalition must win 115 seats from the government majority in order to gain control.

GIRLHOOD DANGERS

CAN BE AVOIDED BY KEEPING THE BLOOD RICH AND PURE.

The anaemia of young girls may be inherited, or it may be caused by bad air, unsuitable food, hasty and irregular eating, insufficient out-door exercise and not enough rest and sleep. It comes on gradually, beginning with languor, indisposition to exertion, and a feeling of fatigue. Later comes palpitation of the heart and headaches. In the majority of casescases constipation is present and the complexion takes on a greenish-yellow pallor. The treatment is quite easy and simple. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are just the tonic to remedy this wretched state of health. They act directly upon the blood and as it becomes rich and pure, strength and activity returns, the glow of health comes to cheeks, and soon the trouble will disappear and good health follow. Miss Pearl Parks, R. R. No. 1, Reaboro, Ont., has proved the value of this medicine and her statement will point the way to health to all other weak girls. She says: "I was very ill with anaemia. I could not sleep at night; my appetite was poor, my face and lips were very pale and my lips dull. I got so weak that I could not go up stairs without resting. I took dizzy and fainting spells, had no ambition whatever, and did not care to go about. I was in this condition for nearly a year. I had treatment from two doctors, but did not regain my strength, so my mother who was very uneasy about me, decided that I should try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After using the pills for a while I felt somewhat better and continued taking them until I had used about a dozen boxes, when I was again well and strong. I can strongly recommmend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the treatment of any suffering from anaemia."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c a box, from the Dr. Williams' Meditine Co., Brockville, Ont.

COLORED PICTURES NEXT IMPROVEMENT

The Western Drama Is to a Large Extent the Glory of the Past.

By Harold E. Swisher

HOLLYWOOD, May 9.—(United Press).—Color photography is coming into its own in the production of motion pictures, and will constitute the next marked advance in development of the cinema art, in the belief of several of those "in the know" in studio-land.

The Western drama is, to a large exten, a glory of the path. The costume play, some say is through. The crook stuff, with the regeneration in the last reel, has been overdone. The society plot, with the imagination, allowed any solution desired, is at its crescent. There must be something new.

Color photography will furnish it, many say. For some years past there have been efforts to work in colored footage in infrequent pictures, but the coloring has generally been too crude to be convincing. The art is being perfected, however, and offers a new field.

"For years the use of color in photo-play productions has been very much the exception," according to George Fitzmaurice, well-known director. "There have been short subjects in color which, however, have been looked upon as novelties. In photoplays an occasion touch of color has been employed to enhance the beauty of a scene. This however has generally had an unfavorable effect upon the black and white scenes, which were made less effective by contrast.

"The effect was the same as the use of soft-focus views here and there in a photoplay, which practice has now been practically discontinued for the reason that contrast betwen the soft focus effects and the sharp views tended to make the production an assortment of different photographs rather than a smooth method of telling a story.

Photographic Tricks

"In other words, the illusion was interrupted .The mixed use of treatments made one conscious of photographic tricks instead of keeping one's mind on the story. Photography should be used to enhance a story or a situation and not to overwhelm it, as it were.

"It is my belief that color will go a large extent replace other methods of registering contrasts in future photo-plays. This will prove only one of the many advantages in the use of color. One producer has just finished a production which will be colored in its entirety. This will prove another interesting experiment.

"Others are devoting more time to the though of color in productions than ever before. It is plainly evident that we must look to the use of color photography for our next step in the progress of motion pictures, and it is also apparent that the coming year will see the first signs of greater development of this factor in the film art than ever before."

The Woman's Career

Woman has her place in the home, but it need not interfere in any way with her career. This is the claim of Rupert Hughes, famous author-director, who deals with the problem of the woman in business in his latett Goldwyn production, "True as Steel."

"The woman who has her home, her children and her husband should not be deprived of these simply because she wants her independence," Hughes says. "Why should she be forced to spend her life between four walls doing things she can pay some one to do equally well. If she has ability it should not be shut out from the world."

Hughes declared the old theory of the sanctity of the home being wrecked once the woman became a breadwinner is bunk.

"Like most traditions," he declares, "this is all thin air. We talk about the beautiful days when mother and father spent every evening at home and the boys and girls never stepped out to go to the movies, as being an ideal existence.

"If such a condition had existed it would have been ideal. But young people were just as restless then as they are now. Going to the movies furnishes an outlet for their energy. We had just as many people breaking the laws and smashing the conventions then as we have to-day, only then crime was laid at the door of the nickel libraries the boys used to sneak into the house to read. Today the movies are blamed for the wickedness of the world."

Abraham Lehr, vice president in charge of production of Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, will become an independent producer following the merger of the Goldwyn, Metro and Louis B. Mayer interests. Lehr will make all of his pictures in Holly wood.

A quartette of famous European directors gathered at a local studio recently. Ernst Lubitsch of Germany and Svend Gade of Denmark came to visit Erich von Stroheim of Austria and Victor Seastrom of Sweden.

There were 214,583 ministers and 47,461,588 church members in the United States last year.

NATIONAL POLICY WOULD HELP TO DEVELOP CANADA

MONTREAL, May 10.—(Canadian Press).—A national policy for the development of Canada must be evolved and put into effect without delay if the country is to be prosperous, C. Howard Smith, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, declared at the banquet of the confectionery, biscuit and chocolate manufacturers here last night.

Mr. Smith said that confusion was created in the Dominion by the claims and counter-claims of different people put forward as pointing the way Canada should go. He stated that the country had prospered and developed under the policy of protection, and he thought this the only policy for Canada.

"I presume that possibly only a few anarchists do not want to see Canada develop," said Mr. Smith.

CHEAPER POWER FOR THE EAST, SAYS BECK

What St. Lawrence Development Will Mean to this Part of Country.

KINGSTON, May 10 (Canadian Press). — "You will have cheaper power in the East than at Niagara if development at Morrisburg takes place," declared Sir Adam Beck, the chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario, before a large assemblage in the city's Memorial Hall last night.

"Quebec has nothing to lose in the proposed St. Lawrence development, and I cannot conceive how the Opposition is trying to call a halt to the underaking which will bring about better navigation conditions at Montreal. I am convinced that in Quebec they do not understand the project. I am glad that the Hon. George P. Graham has been appointed chairman of the Canadian Commission to confer with the American Commission regarding the International waters.

"The people of this Province," said Sir Adam, in concluding his address, "should rise as one man and demand their rights and privileges in the continuing of the great work the Hydro-Electric Commission has undertaken of making our waterfalls yield t, the benefit of the people of the Province, and insist that it be not necessary to guarantee power to our great industries by steam development. In four years' time the difference between the cost of steam and water power would pay for the development at Morrisburg. We will build a super-power structure in Ontario when we begin development at Morrisburg."

This power was needed, the Hydro-Electric Commission had the means of financing the development of it, and, the water powers belonging to the Province, it only asked the Federal Government t, make way so that it could proceed with the work.

THE INVITATION WAS ACCEPTABLE

London Officials Pleased Over the Prospect

LONDON, May 10 (Canadian Press). — The quick acceptance which Prime Minister MacDonald got in response to his invitation asking Premier Poincare to come to England on 20th May has greatly pleased the officials in Downing Street.

The Premiers will confer at Chequers Court, where the informal character of the Prime Minister's meeting with Premier Theunis of Belgium last week will be preserved.

Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and perhaps another of Mr. MacDonald's Ministers, will be present, but there will be no secretaries with the conference, and no record of the conversations will be made.

HAVELOCK CASE WAS DISMISSED

Town Tried to Collect Income Taxes From Trainman.

Municipalities appear to be more and more seeking to assess persons who may be liable for municipal income taxes, which is resulting in varied interpretations of the word "resident."

On Friday at Havelock, before His Honour Judge Huycke, the case was heard of the Village of Havelock against Thomas Anderson, a trainman on the C.P.R., for income taxes for 1921, amounting to $86.78.

The evidence showed that the defendant was a bachelor without any home, but that for a number of years his headquarters was Trenton.

In the spring of 1922 he was transferred to Havelock for a couple of months, and while there the railway company forwarded his name to the Clerk at Havelock as liable there for income tax.

The defendant swore that his residence never changed from Smith's Falls, and the proprietor of the Armstrong Hotel gave evidence that he never brought t, Havelock a trunk or grip, 'not even a hair brush."

In giving judgment, Judge Huycke stated that the fact of the defendant not bringing a trunk to Havelock was strong evidence that his risedence has not changed, and he therefore dismissed the case.

N. A. MacColl, of Norwood, acted for the Village of Havelock, and Mr. Joseph Wearing for Thomas Anderson.

CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED IN HOUSE

Austen Chamberlain Asks Liberals if They Should Not Act as They Think Best.

LONDON, May 10. — (Canadian Press)—Austen Chamberlain, speaking before the Birmingham Conservative Association last night, appealed for honest co-operati on by the men of like thought in the House of Commons. "May we not ask our liberal friends to consider well and maturely whether the time has not come when it is folly for those who think alike to act in hostility?" he said.

The present subserviency by the bulk of the Liberal party to the Socialists, from whom they differed, was less creditable than the coalition between the Liberals and Conservatives would be, however discreditable this might be regarded by some people.

Nevelle Chamberlain,former Chancellor of the Exchequer, referred to the question of Imperial preference, and said if the Conservative party were returned to power again the Conservatives would reverse the present Government's policy and carry out an agreement between former Premier Baldwin and the representatives of the Dominions at the Imperial Economic Conference.

A Spring Poet

(By Jeannette.)

The gentleman in the illustration is a spring poet. He is suffering from a vernal malady that is peculiar to the spring season. He wants to write poetry and he has contracted a cold in the head. A combination like this is almost sure to prove fatal.

When Tennyson wrote about the "burnished lapwing," and the emotion that rhymes with "dove,' as symbols of the spring of the year, he started something. Anyone who suffers from the "writing itch" aims to turn off a few sonnets or at least a brace of triolets in the early portion of the annual twelvemonth. The subject of our sketch has provided himself with a large sheet of paper, and a pencil with a worthy point, in order to transcribe his spring thoughts. Character analysis is all the rage now. Let us see if he would be likely to write anything worth while.

This poet is evidently left-handed. That isn't any disgrace, but it might have something to do with the character of his poetry. Left-handed persons are supposed to use the right-hand portion of their brains, in converse fashion to those who use the left portion, and write with the dexter fin. His nose is extremely inquisitive and very sharp. It inclines toward the right side of his face, so we think he would be the sort of a lover who might write a sonnet to his lady, enquiring whether she was an expert cook, or something of the kind. Also a small button mouth, although admirable in a baby, is popularly believed to denote a meagre quality of intelligence in its possessor. However, his eyes are extremely soulful, and his hair is the proper cut for a poet.

His hat started out to be a Quaker type of tile ,but achieved a jaunty uplift at the sides on the way. It is neither one thing nor the other. His His writing probably would suffer from lack of continuity.

And the portion of his anatomy below his collar is a distinct disappointment. The torso is mostly collar and a stiff collar at that. The proper poetical habiliments would be decidedly different to this conventional apparel. Also his feet are small, which means that a man is stingy.

In passing we note too, that he has an extremely large cranium. As well as a cold, which would have plenty of space within which to percolate, he is quite apparently suffering from a common disease among poets, affectionately terr d "Cephalus megalitis," perhaps more commonly known as "swelled head."

Altogether taking him by and large we dont think this poet is of much account. We think he is the sort of person who would scribble all over the page and then turn and write on the other side of the paper, and have the printers saying all sorts of nasty things about him.

We think he is the sort of writer who would merit the criticism in the last two lines of the immortal bit:

"The autumn leaves are falling down,
The long-faced poet cries,
And would he have them falling up,
And cluttering the skies?"

EUGENE LAFLEUR OFFERED CHIEF JUSTICE POSITION

TORONTO, May 10.—(Canadian Press).—A special to the Mail and Empire from Ottawa says:

"Mr. Eugene Laflour, K.C., of Montreal, it is understood, has been offered the position of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, rendered vacant by the death of Sir Louis Davies. The Government is agreed upon the desirability of his accepting the position, but it is not certain that Mr. Lafleur will accept. If Mr. Lafleur declines, it is stated that Mr. Justice Idington, the senior member of the Supreme Court, will be made Chief Justice, and that Mr. E. L. Necombe, Deputy Minister of Justice, will be made a Judge of the Supreme Court."

CHANCES FOR ELECTION OF POINCARE ARE GOOD

PARIS, May 10. — (Canadian Press).—Victory at the polls tomorrow is being predicted to-day by Premier Poincare and his supporters, and it is believed that the chances of re-election of the National Bloc with Raymond Poincare at its head are better now on the eve of voting than at any previous time during the contest.

While less than usual interest has been taken in the political campaign, it is believed that the vote will be fairly heavy. Absence of any clean-cut issue has led to apparent apathy, but it is probable that the German situation will arouse them to-morrow to a sense of their responsibilities at the polls.

SERVICES AT THE CATHEDRAL

Last evening, despite the very unfavorable weather, the usual large congregation was punctual in attendance, and was congratulated by the preacher, who expressed gratitude and even surprise at the extraordinary devotion manifested by the women of the parish.

Rev. Father McCann, taking the text "There hath stood one in the midst of you whom you know not," made a very inspiring appeal to his hearers to increase their love and devotion to our Lord in the Blessed Sacrament. We all believe in the doctrine of the Real Presence; we are filled with admiration of God's love for us; we accept all His graces and favors—but do we bestir ourselves as we should to return love for love. Alas! I fear not, because poor human nature needs constant urging toward the good Sacrifice is the essential act of all religious worship. God prescribed the nature and manner of the sacrifice in the old dispensation. Every nation or tribe known to civilized man has its form of sacrifice. Their conception of sacrifice was often erroneous, and even sinful, because they had drifted far from God's law. Nevertheless, the idea of the necessity of sacrifice, as an external form of religious worship, remained.

The sacrifice of the new dispensation is the Mass. The Mass is the sacrifice of the body and blood of Jesus Christ really and truly present under the appearance of bread and wine. Here Father McCann dwelt at length on the promise of the Blessed Eucharist, as set forth in the sixth chapter of the Gospel of St. John.

Jesus Christ had prepared the minds of His disciples for this great mystery of His love by a series of stupendous miracles. He had cured the blind, had raised the dead to life, had walked upon the waters of Genazareth, and had multiplied the five barley loaves and two fishes so that they fed more than five thousand of His followers, and at this most propitious time He made the promise to institute the Bread of Life, the Sacrament of His love the Blessed Eucharist.

"Labor not," He said to them; "for the bread that perisheth, but for that which endureth unto life everlasting, which the Son of Man will give you. For Him hath God the Father sealed. . . . I am the Living Bread which came down from Heaven. If any man eat of this bread he shall live forever; and the bread that I will give you is My flesh for the life of the world."

Those who followed Him in such great numbers understood these words literally, because they murmured among themselves, for they found it hard to understand. Jesus said again to them: "Amen! Amen! I say to you except you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink His blood you shall not have life in you." Many of those present said among themselves: "This is a hard saying, and who can hear it," and they went back and walked no more with Him.

Our Divine Master, Who so loved men that He was about to offer up His life for their redemption, permitted these men to go away. Had they misinterpreted His words He would certainly have corrected their minds; but He did not, and turning to St. Peter, He said, "Will you also go away"; but He received the beautiful reply of faith, "Lord, to Whom shall we go, for Thou hast the words of eternal life."

On the eve of His death, when Jesus was in the supper room with His disciples, He spoke of His burning desire to eat the pasch with them. Taking bread, He blessed and broke it and gave it to His disciples, and said: "Take ye and eat: this is My body." And taking the chalice He gave thanks and gave to them, saying, "Drink ye all of this, for this is My blood of the New Testament, which shall be shed for many unto the remission of sins: Do this for a commemoration of Me." Therefore it is that the Catholic Church constantly renews this sacrifice in the Holy Sacrifice of the Masses.

Jesus Christ, God the Son, the Second Person of the Blessed Trinity remains constantly with us on our altars, hidden away under the sacramental species in our tabernacles. St. Paul tells us: "As often as you shall eat of this bread and drink of this chalice you shall show forth the death of the Lord until He comes."

In order to make amends for the coldness, irreverence and indifference of so many Christians toward the Blessed Eucharist, Father McCann had all present make a solemn act of reparation to Our Divine Lord in the Blessed Sacrament, and closed his instruction with the blessing of God Himself in the Blessed Sacrament.

SCOTTISH HOME RULE BILL WAS TALKED OUT

Scots Raised Uproar In British Commons When Their Efforts For Closure Failed—Need Legislature to Relieve Congestion In Parliament.

LONDON, May 10.—The House of Commons closed yesterday's session in an uproar because the Speaker allowed the Scottish Home Rule Bill, introduced by Mr. Buchanan, Glasgow Labor Member, to be talked out. The trouble arose when Sir Robert Horne, Conservative, was recognized by the Speaker to continue the debate. The Labor and Liberal members protested that Sir Robert was the third of the Opposition to be called on for remarks, and Sir Robert thereupon said he would reserve his remarks for a later occasion.

While Mr. Adamson, a Labor member, was speaking at one minute before four o'clock, which was closing time, a number of Scotsmen on the ministerial benches tried to move closure, but the Speaker declined to accept it, and the time for discussion expired.

Noisy Adjournment.

In the ensuing uproar David Kirkwood, Labor member for Dumbarton, was prominent, while Rev. Campbell Stephen, Labor member for Glasgow, and Mr. Buchanan, who previously had been suspended for defying the chair, were also vociferous. Pandemonium reigned for several minutes until the Speaker declared the House adjourned.

William Adamson, secretary for Scotland, on behalf of the government, approved the principle of the bill, which provides for the establishment in Scotland of a single chamber parliament of 148 members while Scotland continues her present representation in the House of Commons until a general devolution scheme is instituted for the United Kingdom.

Secretary Adamson said he hoped the bill would be given second reading by an overwhelming majority. However as it involved a vital issue of equal importance to the English and Welsh people the government was prepared to appoint a committee to examine the whole question and report thereon to the House of Commons.

Supported by Liberals.

The Liberals also supported the measure, which had been moved by G. Buchanan, labor member for Gorbals, Glasgow. The Gorbals member claimed that the Scots had favored the scheme almost unanimousiy in order to relieve the congestion of business that came up in the House of Commons.

Opposition speakers contended that Scottish home rule was not a proper subject for a bill introduced by a private member and in any case it was an imperial, not a local matter.

There was an amusing exchange between the Duchess of Atholl, Conservative member for Kinross, and the Scottish labor members. The Duchess opposing the bill criticized the expenditure involved therein and she declared that the North of reland parliament had cost £3,000,000.

Have Building Already.

N. McLean, labor member for Govan, Glasgow, retorted: "There's already a Scottish parliament building."

The Duchess replied that that building was devoted to a useful purpose.

D. Kirkwood, labor member for Dumbarton, suggested that a jail in Edinburgh was vacant.

The Duchess of Atholl suggested that Mr. Kirkwood might welcome election to such a parliament.

"I have been there already," replied D. Kirkwood.

"Well, I haven't," said the Duchess.

"Coming events cast their shadows before," quoted Kirkwood.

T. P. O'Connor favored an all round devolution and said the parish pump should not interfere with important imperial questions as it did now.

GERMANS URGE REFERENDUM ON DAWES REPORT

Suggested As Method of Determining Popular Opinion On Reparations Proposals — Objection Made That Voters Not Qualified to Decide.

WOULD BE ADOPTED.

BERLIN, May 10.—A popular referendum on the question of acceptance or rejection of the Dawes reparation report will be requested of the Government by the German Socialist Party.

In proposing a referendum as the surest method for determining popular opinion in Germany on the Dawes report, the United Socialists assert that they are moved by theconviction that last Sunday's Reichstag elections, which resulted in heavy gains for the candidates of the Extreme right and left parties, failed to reflect the actual state of the public mind on what the Socialists believe to be the outstanding issue in eGrmany as the Nationalists and Communists and General Ludendorff's "Freedom Party" 'all waxed fat on the malcontent vote.

Clarify Situation

The radicals now believe a referendum solely devoted to sounding the opinion to the German voter on the experts' report, will contribute materially to clarifying a situation which has become complicated through variegated lineups and differences of views.

The Executive Committee of the Socialist Party, which voted yesterday in favor of a popular referendum is convinced a national referendum would return an overwhelming vote in favor of adoption of the Dawes report. The origin of the Nationalists, DIE ZEIT, which is close to Foreign Minister Stresemann, is not enthusiastic over the action of the Socialists.

Problem Too Abstruse

It declares that a referendum would be unable to decide the issues which should be left to the new Reichstag. More pronounced opposition to the proposals of the Socialists is voiced by the Nationalists organ, DER TAG, the primary objection of which to the plan is indicated in an assertion that the average voter is wholly unqualified to pass on such an intricate economic problem as that involved in the experts' proposals.

WELLS ADVISED BIRTH CONTROL

Noted British Author On British Committee Whose Petition Was Rejected By Minister of Health.

LONDON, May 10—Limitation of the population is of vital importance according to the petition which H. G. Wells, the author, Miss Dorothy Jewson, Labor Member of Parliament, and others of Hon. Mrs. Bertrand Russell's Birth Control Committee presented to Minister of Health Wheatley Friday afternoon. The deputation asked that the doctors at the Government maternity and welfare centres should be permitted to give birth control information to those desiring it.

In refusing the request Mr. Wheatley said that in cases where birth control advise was advisable on medical grounds the patient should be referred to private doctors or to hospitals.

On hearing this Mr. Wells spoke up strongly regarding what he termed class distinction, saying that such women could get all the information they wanted and that the Labor Government, as a democratic body, should not continue the former "aristocratic" policy of the Health Ministry and regard working women as simply material for breeding.

Another Half-Holiday.

A majority of the stores and the three banks were closed Friday afternoon, but the barber shops and the other places of business that closed down Thursday were open as usual. The business men appear unable to agree on the question, and the general opinion is that unless some one half day is universally adapted that the weekly half-holiday will be abandoned altogether.

Inspect Hastings Road.

The members of the County Roads Commission, accompanied by several Seymour and town councillors, visited the curve in the Hastings road near Beatty's Grove yesterday afternoon. All agreed that the highway as that point needs widening, and the same is true of a section of the same thoroughfare within the town limits. If Campbellford receives a grant from the County Council this year, it is proposed to spend at least part of it for this purpose.

The road commissioners, however would not consent to any expenditure on the outside section of the road this year, and the culvert at that point, which the township asks to have widened will have to do for the present.

County Superintendent Greer states that it will be necessary to resurface the county highway from Campbellford to Moyersburg, otherwise the money already spent on it will be practically lost.

Superintendent Greer also says that over $5,000 was spent for shoveling snow on the roads last winter in order to keep them open for traffic. He believes that it would be good business to spend some of the money now laid out on the highways for the replacing of stump fences with others of wire, a policy that is authorized by statute.

News Notes.

Major J. F. B. Belford, M.L.A., will preside at the concert to be given in the Regent Theatre, Sunday night, by the members of the Northumberland Regimental Band. An attractive programme, including violin and vocal solos, has been arranged.

The local lodges of Oddfellows, including the Rebekahs, will hold their annual parade to Christ Church, Sunday night, when the sermon will be preached by the rector, Rev. G. C. Clarke.

KITCHENER LIBERAL

Mr. Euler said that he was not speaking particularly of members of the House. He meant that there was not sufficiently drastic reductions so far greatly to injure the bulk of Canadian industry. But certain industries probably had been injured. The chief objection he had to this Budget was that it violated principles in which he believed, in which other Liberals believed, and which the Minister of Finance last year practically endorsed in his Budget. If the utterance of the members of the Government had given any assurance that this was an isolated and final case of tariff reduction, it would not be serious. But the Acting Minister of Finance had given no such assurance and the Minister of the Interior had expressed the hope that this Budget would sound the death knell of protection. If that was what the Government was after then it was aiming to sound the death knell also of many basic industries.

Tariff For Revenue.

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King: "Did the hon. member say just now that he believed in a tariff for revenue?"

Hon. Charles Stewart: "And surely a tariff for revenue is not protection?".

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen: "I will leave the Prime Minister and the Minister of the Interior to explain themselves out of this later."

Sir Henry: "They came pretty fast that time."

Mr. Euler: "Have I the floor, Mr. Speaker? For all of the reasons I have given, I shall vote against the Budget."

Pay For Protection.

B. W. Fanaher (Progressive, East Lambton) objected to protection because it inevitably meant that if somebody was protected, somebody else had to furnish the protection. If financial aid was given to any person or group in the country, that aid must be taken out of somebody else's pocket.

The result of the protective policy had been the development of a few large cities at the expense of the rural sections of the country. Toronto doubled its population in every fifteen years, but rural Ontario had actually lost population. The cut in the sales tax would not prove nearly as beneficial to the Canadian people as a proportionate reduction in the tariff would have been. The reason for this was that the price of protected articles to the consumer increased in proportion to the protection given.

Give the Children Their Milk

Time after time it has been shown that undernourished school children improve mentally as well as physically after receiving a suitable milk ration each day. Not only does it bring plumpness and strength to their little bodies, color to their cheeks and the sparkle to their eyes—it also revives their power of concentration to such an extent that they learn more and faster and bring home reports that are a source of pride and pleasure.

Surely health, strength and happiness are the birthright of all children. Who would knowingly deny them the blessings that good milk bestows and the safety that pasteurization throws around the liberal use of this greatest of foods?

Give the children plenty of PASTEURIZED MILK every day.

PROSPEROUS

People of 1800 would have held up their hands in horror if they could have known how much money people would be spending in our day and age. But a New York bank figures that Americans SAVED more in 1923 than they EARNED in 1800. The bank includes, as savings, nine billion dollars spent for autos—on the theory that an auto is economy because it saves time.

SPENDING is what makes national prosperity. SAVING is what makes individual wealth.

MILITARY AIRDROME OFFICES HAVE PERFECT WEATHER MAN

Flying Weather Forecasts Are Regularly Issued by the Weather Bureau for the Benefit of Aviation Inferests.

By C. LeROY MEISINGER.

It is a revelation to visit the operations office of a large military airdrome. There one will be impressed with the vital dependence of aviation upon the weather and the weather-man's advice. One finds large blackboards bearing painted forms upon which are chalked up the latest reports of the state of the weather, the kind, amount and height of clouds, the strength and direction of the wind (not only at the surface but to considerable heights in the atmosphere), the condition of the landing fields, and other pertinent information, from various points along the airway. A large glass weather map shows the distribution of weather elements over the entire country. A pilot taking off for a cross-country flight must first certify that he has consulted the reports of weather conditions along his proposed course. The operations officer may forbid a flight, or delay a departure, until satisfactory reports have been received. The United States Weather Bureau, the Signal Corps of the Army, and the Navy maintain stations which make regular soundings and reports of wind conditions in the free air. Flying-weather forecasts are regularly issued by the Weather Bureau for the benefit of aviation interests, and special forecasts and bulletins are provided upon the occasion of the more important aeronautical exploits. Thus, it is found that there is today a close association between the weatherman and the aviator.

This association has existed in varying degree since the earliest days of aeronautics. In the pioneer days of the airplane, when those frail craft were being exhibited about the country, the pilots did not venture forth if the flags on nearby flagstaffs did more than flutter lightly in the breeze. The pilots were wary, and gave what would seem today extreme consideration to meteorological conditions. But the more audacious pilots and the tremendous increases of power and structural strength that came as a result of wartime development of airplanes produced a new attitude on the part of aviation folk toward meteorology. The weather was still regarded as something to be reckoned with, it is true, but the business in hand was such, as to foster an indifference toward weather phenomena,—a feeling that there was little to fear when one was flying behind a perfectly-functioning motor ,the rhythmic roar of which (to use an aviator's words) "is the sweetest sound the flyer knows."

This confidence, however, did not prevent accidents and did not avoid inconveniences that were directly traceable to the weather; and the successive years of warfare showed that more and more emphasis was being placed by all the belligerents upon meteorological observation and reporting. Gradually, the glamor of war-flying faded, and those pilots who have remained in the service, while not one whit less courageous, are manifestly less reckless in their disregard of Nature's forces. Aviation is becoming a business, even to the military aviator, and, like other businesses, it must be managed efficiently in order to be a success. Efficiency in military and commercial flying is, to a large degree, synonymous with safety, speed and regularity. The aviator keeps in touch with the weather today because he knows that it promotes his efficiency to do so.

One cannot predict with much certainty the course of future development in aeronautical meteorology. In Europe, where strictly commercial flying has been carried on for several years, there was at first an inclination on the part of individual aeronautical corporations to maintain their own private meteorological stations at flying fields, in a supplementary capacity to the regular services rendered by the Governmental weather organization. At present, however, at least in England, this is not being done; the Meteorological Office, in the British Air Ministry, details men for this duty. While such practice is probably highly satisfactory at present, when the volume of aerial traffic is not excessive, it seems quite reasonable to expect that later it will be quite beyond the ability and scope of the most complete Governmental service to furnish experts to flying fields, and to supply them with sufficiently frequent and detailed reports of weather along airways.

This does not mean that Governmental meteorological bureaus will decline in efficiency, for, indeed, the scope of their work will probably be greatly increased; but it anticipates the appearance of the professional aeronautical meteorologist who shall interpret for the particular needs of his company the weather data and forecasts furnished by the Governmental organization, in addition, perhaps, to more frequent reports radioed from points along the airway. The presence of Signal Corps meteorological officers at the various airdromes of the United States Air Service suggests the ultimate need for officials with similar duties when commercial enterprises have reached a similar state of development.

It is evident, also, that the flyers themselves must have a working knowledge of meteorology. Today, most aviators are very willing to confess a lack of satisfactory understanding of some of the weather phenomena they have encountered in flight. Many are eager for authentic information and explanations of their problems. One hears but little today of "holes in the air" and similar erroneous conceptions regarding the structure of the atmosphere; yet one finds numerous improvised theories, often at variance with scientific facts, advanced to explain certain flight experiences. This indicates the real need for adequate instruction in the essentials of weather science, not with a view of making professional meteorologists of aviators, but for the purpose of rounding out this important side of the flyer's mental equipment.

Aeronautical meteorology is thus being developed along three lines; the Governmental weather service is expanding its activities so that it may respond satisfactorily to the new demands that are being made upon it; the aeronautical meteorologist is finding his place as a meteorological middleman, supplementing the services of the larger organization and retailing weather in considerabie detail to the flyers themselves; and, finally, the aviator is evincing a real desire to perfect himself in the essential qualification of weather wisdom.

NEW ARTICLES LOCAL MARKET

Dairy Produce Continues Downward Price Trend—In the Fruit Stores.

In the local markets, dairy produce continuing its downward price trend. Creamery butter sells for 30 to 33c a paund, and dairy is 30c also, a drop of from four to five cents per pound during the last fortnight. Eggs are stationary at 23c per dozen in most of the retail stores. The majority of the dealers have ceased to keep up the attempt at conforming with the rigid and almost impossible "letter' of the Government regulations with regard to egg-grading. The "spirit" of the rules is still adhered to by the stores endeavoring to egregate the strictly fresh from a second or thirdgrade. Although most of the retailyers admit that the idea which promp ted legislation kith regard to egg-grading was an excellent one, they think that its manifold rules are almost impossible of execution, and add to the cost of the porduct.

"The proper way to sell eggs is to sell them by weight," the dealers say, pointing out that the fresher the egg, the heavier it is, and vice versa.

Live hogs have maintained their quotations for some weeks now unchanged, but the dead animals have decreased in price during the past week by 75c on the hunderweight.

Conditions in the grain markets, according to the dealers, will remain almost permanent for the next two months, until the alsike begins to come in.

In the fruit stores, new potatoes are on view, at ap rice of 90c a peck, a quotation similar to last year's opening price.

The onion, which has made Bermada famous, may also be bought now at 15c a pound, and the expensive cucumbers have come off their high perch and are down now to a quarter each for small specimens.

Canteloupes are another expensive addition to the bill of fare, at 40c for one, and blood oranges are in, at 25c a dozen.

The big orange crop in Califofrnia has sent orange prices skedaddling for some time past. Little samples may be purchased for 18c a dozen yet. The navel crop is just about done. Early Valencias are on the market now.

Strawberries remain at 25 and 30c for a pint box. They are good looking, rich, red berries.

The pineapple preserving season is on the way, and pines are coming in in plentiful numbers at Oke's fruit warehouses. Bananas are plentiful also, and cheaper than for some years past.

Fdactuations in producing seasons send the prices up or down as the case may be. Last week strawberries were slightly cheaper than at present, on acount of the supply being plentiful. This week there is a slight scarcity in the new carrot supplies on account of the crop in one section being thinned out and the next section of country producing the red tubers not being in shape yet to provide the market with sufficient quantities. So with tomatoes. The Texas crop is just about exhausted, and there will be a lull in tomato shipments until another section is ready to ship the "love apples." A tomato crop coming along in local greenhouses is not expected to mature until the first of June.

String beans are another noticed stranger to the menu. They sell at 25c a quart. And aspaargus is n, at 15c a bunch.

RICHES

After the Civil War, General Julian Shakespere Carr invested $4000 in the tobacco industry. When he died the other day, this $4000 had grown into millions.

But it wasn't altogether "luck" or "fortunate investment," not by a long sight. Carr went ino he business along with his money, became head of the company later. His millions were probably due more to his ability and industry than to his original investment. A dollar is never worth over 100 cents unless properly guided.

RUMRUNNERS ASK FOR PROTECTION

A Petition Drawn Up by the Bootleggers' Union Was Presented in the House on Friday.

WASHINGTON, May 10 (Canadian Press). — Bootleggers have petitioned Congress for protection for their infant industry, appearing for the rejection of the Bills to restore beer and light wines.

At least, Representative Griffin, Democrat, of New York, without a visible smile, presented in the House on Friday a petition drawn up in the customary form, declaring that the Bootleggers' Union, composed of Atlantic Coast local unions, had adopted resolutions at a convention held in New York on 1st May.

Reciting that an attempt was being made to break down the Volstead Act, the resolution said:

The enactment of such a measure would undermine and perhaps utterly destroy an important industry which this union with its affiliated locals has painstakingly built up at a great risk of an immense capital, not to speak of the risk of personal liberty, manw of its members having incurred jail sentences and the confiscation of their personal property in the pursuit of their chosen calling.

"We appeal to the Congress of the United States t., defeat the proposed legislation which, if enacted into law, would be tantamount to the confiscation of capital and the loss of property and investments of thousands of earnest and zealous men and through thousands of others out of employment."

QUOTATIONS FLASH FROM TRADE PITS

The Chicago Board of Trade Keeps the Farmers In the Closest Touch That Is Possible.

CHICAGO, May 10. — In less than five seconds after a transaction is completed at the Board of Trade here, farmers throughout the middle west, and farther, are listening in on dithe results by radio.

This exemplifies the outstanding advantage of wireless to the country folk.

It is a fixed institution here, so far as activities of Board of Trade are concerned. It is keeping the farmers up to the minute, almost up to the second, informed as to prevailing prices at which they might sell their crops or stock.

The pioneer in speeding up this information to those most closely concerned about it is the Chicago Board of Trade. Through its station WDAP, atop the Drake Hotel, the Board of Trade is keeping the farmers in closest possible contact with all factors that might affect the prices of his producers.

Owns Own Station.

The Board of Trade started broadcasting in the spring of 1922 through station KYW. Success was almost immediate. It encouraged the directors to buy WDAP for its private use. Results were so satisfactory that the station was remodelled so that it is now one of the most complete broadcasting stations in America.

This speed in letting the grower know what is being done to his produce is the result of co-operation between the telegraph ticker and the radio. Three and three-fifth seconds after a broker flashes a transaction to an official recorder, the quota ions are ticked off on the tape alongside the blackboard where they are recorded.

Radio Reporter.

The price is immediately chalked down, while through a large window a radio reporter looks directly at the blackboard and telephones the latest quotations through WDAP to those listening in.

Every hour, every day, except half day Saturday and all day Sunday, this operation is repeated. It is followed with important market ormation such as receipts and shipments, estimated cattle, hogs and sheep; live stock receipts and prices, weather forecast, and other useful information.

And in the evening, beginning at 7, the farmer may listen in on a musical programme, or lectures, from And n the evening, beginningthm

According to Henry A. Rumsey, of the Board of Trade radio committee, plans are being made to send out from station WDAP complete educational courses, ten - minute talks, covering various subjects in agriculture.

OSTRICH FEATHERS.

Ostrich feathers have returned with a vengeance this year, not for hats, but on gowns and wraps for afternoon and evening.

BALDWIN FAVORS M'KENNA DUTIES

He Told Women's Unionist Organization That the Government Showed Lack of Imagination and Understanding.

LONDON, May 10.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Addressing the women's unionist organization to-day former Premier Stanley Baldwin declared that the conduct of the government in regard to the McKenna duties and imperial preference showed lamentable lack of imagination and understanding. The government, he said, had failed to realize that the prosperity of the Empire stood as a whole. One part could not be hit without damaging another. "If we do not co-operate with the Dominions in trade they must inevitably, as time goes on, co-operate with others and it might well be that the same faults with the same results as occurred under the parliament of George III in regard to the North American colonies might occur in the 20th century under a democratic regime with no less evil effects to the life of the country," he concluded.

ALPACA FROCKS.

Plaid alpaca frocks have narrow white collars of pique or handkerchief linen and belts of bright colored patent leather.

A simpler or purer soap does not exist at any price.

VALUE.

A document bearing the signature of George Washington and his wife is sold at auction for $225. Most of us would sign our name 10,000 or more times for that much money.

The big price, however, was paid for RARITY rather than because of the Washington signatures. If George and Martha had left a million signed papers they'd be worth less than a dollar apiece. That's why collectors pay fabulous sums for scarce coins of modern times, while coins minted 2400 years ago and still existing in great quantities are worth next to nothing.

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, May 10.—The Finance Committee of the Cobourg Town Council has drawn up the estimates for the year. The total assessment for local improvement is $2,943,705; general rate, $2,825,305; public schools, $2,543,305; separate schools, $400,400 —total $2,943,705.

Exemptions are as follows:—Cobourg Felt Co. Ltd., $25,600; Longslow Ltd., $67,200; Rice Lake Canoe Company Ltd., $25,000—total $118,400.

The total expenditure announced for by the committee was $164,021.52. This would necesitate a rate of 44.26 mills for public school supporters, and 43.48 mills in Separate Schools Supporters. This it was felt should be reduced, and Council went into committee of the whole to see what could be done.

The streets committee's estimate wer reduced $750, cutting of repairs to stable.

The pavilion estimates were reduced $618, paring off the estimated cost of an addition.

The Town Hall estimate for coal was reduced from $900 to $700, saving $200.

$50 was deducted from the estimates of the manufacturing committee, and $50 off the amount allowed for election expenses.

$600 for new hose was eliminated from the estimates of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

This made a total reduction on the estimates of $2,255.

Under these conditions it was decided to strike the rate at 43 mills, one mill more than last year.

Mr. Joseph Joice, a well-known and esteemed citizen of Haldimand Township, entered into rest at his home at Eddystone on Sunday evening about 10 o'clock. Mr. Joice had been in very poor health for several years, and some time ago suffered a stroke. The Thursday before his death he was seized with another stroke while sitting in his home, and did not again regain consciousness. Mr. Joice was a progressive agriculturist and a prominent member of the Eddystone Church. He married Miss Delina Cornelius, oldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Cornelius. A great grief came to them a few years ago in the death of the daughter, Mrs. Frank Sherwin, and again, a little more than a year ago, when their eldest son, Mr. George Joice, of Haldimand, died after a short illness with pneumonia.

Mr. Joice is survived by his widow, two sons—Ernest, of Haldimand Township, and Stanley, at home—and by three daughters—Mrs. C. E. Bradley, Grafton; Mrs. (Dr.) W. R. Stackhouse, Ridgeway; and Miss Olivia Joice, at home.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon from the family residence. A memorial service was held in Eddystone Church and interment was in Centreton Union Cemetery. Mr. Joice was in his 69th year.

I.O.D.E. DELEGATION TO HASTINGS UNVEILING

The Campbellford Chapter Will Be Represented at War Memorial Ceremony On May 24 — Nursing Classes Planned For Next Two Weeks.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 10.—The monthly meeting of the I.O.D.E., Campbellford Chapter, was held in Public Library on Wednesday afternoon—Mrs. W. H. Ashton, the Regent, presiding.

During the afternoon arrangements were made for the members to attend the special Memorial Day of the Hastings Chapter on May 24, 1924, where the War Memorial will be unveiled.

A committee was appointed to confer with the members as to how many would be able to go to Hastings for that day.

Another item of interest was the planning for the courses of the classes for the next two weeks of Miss Osborne, nurse for the Provincial Board of Health. These classes will begin on Monday, May 12th, and be held five days each week, Saturday omitted. Mothers with small children are asked especially to come and receive the benefit of these lessons, which are free to all and no charge whatever made.

It will not be necessary to attend every lesson if not convenient, as each lesson is complete by itself. The hours are from three to four every afternoon. The following is a list of the subjects taken up:—

1. Introduction: Hygiene of Sick Room.
2. Different ways of taking Temperature: Bed making.
3. Baths—Reasons, and how to give (a) Cleansing Bath. (b) Sponge Bath.
4. Communicable Diseases, How to prevent: General principles in Nursing case of Measles, Scarlet Fever, Diptheria, Smallpox, and Tuberculosis.
5. Pre-Natal Hygiene—What it is—What it means.
6. Child Hygiene.
7. Feeding the Sick.
8. Hot and Cold Applications.
9. First Aid in the Home.
10. Review.

The four-months-old baby girl of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clarke, Kent Street, died on Wednesday, and the funeral was held on Friday. The officers of the Salvation Army had charge of the service.

The confirmation class of Christ Church, under the direction of the rector, Rev. G. C. Clarke, B.A., is busy preparing for the confirmation to be held June 30, 1924.

Christ Church ladies are planning for a rummage sale on Saturday, May 12th.

Rev. G. C. Clarke, B.A., will preach to the I.O.O.F. Lodge and Rebekahs on Sunday night, May 11th, in Christ Church.

In Campbellford items, May 3rd, in Monday's paper, the date of the W.M.S. Convention at Warkworth should have read "Friday, May 16th,' instead of May 10th.

MILLBROOK SCENE BASEBALL ANNUAL

League Opens a New Season--Officers Elected at Annual Meeting.

MILLBROOK, May 10. — The annual meeting of district baseball league was held in the town hall here and the following places were represented at the meeting: Bethany, Janetville, Pontypool, Nestleton, Kendal, Elizabethville, Garden Hill, Newtonville and Millbrook. Notices were sent to Mount Pleasant, Bailieboro, and Yelverton, but these three clubs were not represented at the meeting. It is understood, however, that Yelverton intends putting a team in the league.

President W. Hannah opened the meeting by expressing his appreciation of the support that he had received from the teams in the league during the past year, and the class of ball played was a credit to any rural community.

Minutes of the last annual meeting and all special meetings held during the past season weer read, and also the financial balance sheet. A copy of the financial statement had been mailed to all the teams previous to the meeting so that the same could be checked by the treasurers of the various clubs. The error in Bethany and Elizabeth staremens were corrected by the Secretary-Treasurer and the statement was accepted as correct.

Dr. J. J. Hamilton of Bethany was asked to take the chair for the election of officers, which resulted as follows:

Hon. Pres., W. Hannah, Bethany.
Pres., R. J. Wright, Garden Hill.
1st Vice-Pres., K. Sisson, Bethany.
2nd Vice-Pres., C. Mercer, Elizabethville.
Sec.-Treas., P. Stinson, Millbrook.

Mr. R. J. Burn declined the honor of accepting the Presidency on account of being an active player in the Janetville team, and Mr. Burn believes that the Presidency should be held by one who is not a player on any of the teams concerned.

It was decided to have two sections again this season; north section, Bethany, Janetville, Pontypool, Yelverton and Nestleton; south section, Newtonville, Kendall, Elizabethville, Garden Hill and Millbrook.

Moved by Dr. Hamilton and P. C. Brown that north section hold meeting at Yelverton on May 14th to arrange the schedule.

Moved by P. Stinson and C. Mercer that the south half hold meeting at Elizabeth, May 16 to arrange the schedule.

Moved by W. Hannah and P. Waker that the balance of $3.65 due each of the teams n the league last year as per financial statement be held as a membership fee for this year and that any other teams entering this season pay this amount. In In case of any team with drawing from the league this amount to be refunded.

Plans for the coming season were then discussed and open discussion on many points in the rules and bylaws of last season, particularly the 7-mile limit clause. It was felt by the teams in the south half that this was was too large a territory to cover for a team especially where Kendall, Elizabethville and Garden Hill are all so very close together, and it would give Newtonville the right to draw from the village of Newcastle, if they cared to do so, although delegate Pethick said that it was not their intention to take advantage of this ruling but play only Newtonville players. Bethany objected to this change very strongly on the grounds that three of their best men lived over 6 miles from Bethany village and owing to a number of their players moving away since last year it would be impossibe to carry on if the mile limit was changed from 7 miles to 5 miles.

After a very lengthy discussion on this point it was moved by Mr. Pethick and Rev. Gervain that the same rules and bylaws govern this year as in 1923, which leaves the 7 mile limit in effect.

Moved by Mr. Pethick and P. Walker, that if a player is known by any team to be over the 7 mile limit at the beginning of the game, protest must be made to the umpire before the game is called.

Moved by P. Walker and A. Payne that all games be called for not later than 6 p.m.

CONCRETE for Dependable Motor Transportation

TRANSPORTATION facilities have a direct bearing on the prices we pay for most of the products used in our homes. More paved roads will mean a more complete use of automotive transport — resulting in lowered costs of getting goods to market.

To improve our transportation facilities, we require to further extend our concrete pavement yardage.

Provincial and Municipal Governments — keenly alive to the need of more and greater national highway systems — are also awake to the importance of Concrete in this inevitable highway development. They know how Concrete has answered the challenge of modern conditions. They have seen it outlast years of wearing, grinding traffic. They realize that anything less durable, less rigid than Concrete requires costly and continued maintenance.

So, out of actual experience, they now pin their faith to Concrete for the road-building that will increase the radius of motor traffic and ultimately extend its benefits to all communities.

EXHIBITION GROUNDS AVAILABLE IF TEAMS CAN DEFRAY EXPENSE

Two Diamonds For Ball Leagues and Cricket Club Also Accommodated — Sum of $500 Needed, and Field Day of Sports Is Suggested.

LIST OF TEAMS.

At the meeting of the City League held last night in the Holy Name rooms the different series in the city were well represented.

The greater part of the discussion was directed to ways and means of raising $500 which is needed by the league to defray their expenses in connection with the Exhibition Grounds. It was finally decided that a field day would be held on the 31st of May at the Exhibition Grounds. The different teams in the city are practically all ready to start their games and with two promising looking diamonds like those that have been laid out at the Exhibition Grounds the league should be a success. Besides the City League, the Midland League, East Peterboro League and the Cricket Club will use this park. The Lakeviews and the Crescents in the Junior City League will play their games at Riverside Park on Wednesday evenings and the Mercantile League have secured Tuesdays and Thursdays for their games at Riverside.

Mr. Vince O'Connell was appointed to the position of secretary-treasurer which he fulfilled very successfully last year.

The home team is held responsible for all collections at these games and they are held responsible to see that a collection is made to help defray the expenses which will be high this year.

Campbellford Enquiry

Mr. P. Stinson's application for a juvenile entry from Campbellford in the city series was discussed and it was decided that Mr. O'Connell would write to Mr. Stinson and find out all particulars, whether they want to play all their games here or not.

Lakefield have also applied for an entry in the Bantam series but nothing was done in this line.

All Bantam, Midget and Juvenile game will be played at the Exhibition Grounds while the C.G.E., Raybestos, George Street, Cognawaga and Mackey's Bread Company will play their home games there. Two skinned diamonds will be made and a caretaker has already been employed to look after the grounds.

Schedule Drawn Up.

The schedule for the Midland League has been drawn so that it will not interfere with the Central League games in any way and it is also the wish of the association that the field day will not interfere with the game at Riverside on the 31st.

It was proposed that the City League approach the City Council for a grant to help carry on the healthful sport in this city but nothing definite was done. Mr. Mackey said that he did not see why the league should not get a grant as well as the Male Voice Choir who were given $200 to go to Toronto to sing.

Tickets will be sold for the field day before hand and it is hoped that the $500 which is needed to pay the caretaker at the Exhibition Grounds will be raised. Several clubs guaranteed to sell so many tickets and if they are not successful in their work they will have to dig down in their own pockets to make up the balance which they agreed to do.

No Opposing C.O.B.L.

Mr. Sullivan, president of the association, said he did not think that they were bucking against the Central League by holding their field day on the same day as the seniors played and said that some means had to be taken in the very near future to raise the $500 needed or the league would be a failure. It was also decided that an effort would be made to try and get the Nicholls Oval for one night on which the East City Classics could play their home games and practice.

Walter Jackson has offered his services to the league as an umpire this summer while "Curly" LeBarr is always willing to help the advancement of sport in this city and will be available.

League and Teams.

The following are the teams in the different series that have entered and that have a manager to handle them.

Bantam—Curlers, Alex Kay; Rotary, J. Primeau; Kiwanis, R. Mackey, and Belmonts, Stan Lowe.

Midget—Sacred Heart, A. Brioux; Curlers, Alex Kay; Maple Leafs, Charles Curtis, and Classics, H. Vinnette.

Junior—Lakeviews, L. LeBarr, and Crescents, A. Brioux. Bill Prindible will assist Mr. Brioux with his two squads.

The following men were appointed to look after each series:

Bantam series, R. Mackey; juvenile series, Alex Kay and midget series, A. Brioux. Another meeting will be called, likely next week to decided what line of sports will be held at the Field Day on the 31st.

MIDLAND LEAGUE OPENS MAY 24TH.

Will Likely Affiliate With the O.B.A. But Will Not Affect the Central League In Any Way.

A meeting of the Midland League Executive was held in Cobourg on Tuesday night to discuss the matter of affiliating with the O.B.A., but the entry into the O.B.A. was not accepted. Mr. J. J. Solomon, 2nd Vice-President of the O.B.A.A., was commissioned to take the matter up with the officials of the Midland League, and if dates did not conflict with the Central League games at Peterboro, it is thought that there will be no trouble about the Midland League affiliating with the O.B.A.A.

JUNIOR CHAMPS GO AS INTERMEDIATES

The Owen Sound Hockey Champions of Canada May Go as a Team Into Intermediate Class Next Year.

OWEN SOUND, May 9.—Owing to the fact that several members of Owen Sound junior hockey champions of the Dominion will have exceeded the age limit for juniors in a short time, the suggestion has been made that an intermediate team be entered in the O.H.A. next season, and the idea has met with much favorable comment. There is already the nucleus here for a fast team, with "Cooney" Weiland, "Work" Graham, and one or two others to fill important places, and there is plenty of other good intermediate material at hand.

The Hockey Committee of the Owen Sound A.A.A. is meeting this week, and will made a definite decision regarding the matter. The committee for the year is composed of Messrs. Gray, Hay, Earl Hicks, William Young and Earl Pratt. "Jimmy" Jamieson, who was on the committee last year, and who managed the junior champions, declined to accept a place on the committed for business reasons. It was decided to present each member of the Greys and their executive with large photographs at the expense of the association.

The association presented to Howard Fleming, manager of The Daily Sun-Times, a handsome golf bag and complete set of golf clubs as their appreciation of the exceptionally fine bulletin service given during the playing of the semi-finals and finals and during the western trip of the team, the presentation being a complete surprise to Mr. Fleming, who replied feelingly.

FLOYD JOHNSON BEATS ROMERO

Referee Stopped Bout In Seventh of Ten-Round Match—Chilean's Face Cut to Pulp.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Floyd Johnson, Iowa heavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Quintin Romero in the seventh round of a scheduled ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden last night. It was a furious, bloody battle, the Iowan's vicious rights and lefts cutting the South American's face to a mass of pulp. The referee stopped the bout to save Romero further punishment.

OLYMPIC TENNIS TEAM SELECTED

Davis Cup Committee Include Richards But Not Tilden In Men's Four.

NEW YORK, May 10.—(Canadian Press).—The United States will be represented in its first attempt to lift Olympic tennis laurels by one of the strongest teams she is capable of mustering. This was revealed yesterday when the Davis Cup Committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association announced that the men's team would consist of R. Norris Williams II., of Philadelphia, as captain; Vincent Richards, of Yonkers, N.Y.; Francis T. Hunter, of Beckley, W. Va., and Watson M. Washburn, of New York.

The women's team, selected some time ago, includes Miss Helen Willis of Berkeley, Calif., national champion; Miss Eleanor Goss, of New York; Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup, of Wilmington, Del., and Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, of Boston, as captain.

Richards was included in the men's squad after a brief controversy over his status as a player-writer. His engagement to cover the Olympic Games as a reporter for a news agency at first created a barrier to his selection, but this was solved when his employers consented to a leave of absence for him during the week of Olympic tennis competition, July 13 to 20, thus enabling him to compete and still comply with the Olympic player-writer rule.

C. S. Tanner of Lakefield was elected president, succeeding J. J. Howden. Other officers are; E. H. Barnes of Keene, 1st vice-president, Ed. Wright 2nd vice-president and executive Secretary.

The clubs gave their approval to the proposal to take over the Exhibition grounds for baseball and other sports and will give their support to the undertaking. KINGSTON SENIORS LOOK LIKE CHAMPS

The Kelly-Ryckman Battery who Have Worked Out Several Times ahd Look Better Every Day

KINGSTON, May 10.—(Special).—Cold weather and rain has been playing high jinks with the training of the Kingston team in the Central Ontarion League but in spite of the inclement weather the boys have been at it. The material is here in such sterling performers as Harry Batstone, Rice and Cherry, not to mention the other seventeen odd eligible players which will don a Kingston uniform this season. The Kelly Ryekman battery looks better every day. The recruits from the city league, Purvis and Compeau, are shaping up nicely ,while the new comers play like veterans. The management of Kingston's Cobl team has spared nothing to produce a good team, and the city has provided a wonderfully good diamond.

Billy Evans Says

What do you regard as the winning factors in baseball?

I put that question to Connie Mack the other day as we sat on the bench watching his rejuvenated Athletics in action.

"You must get consistent hitting and combine it with good pitching," was his immediate reply.

Don't get the impression that Connie Mack no longer figures fielding highly essential. He does.

It is his opinion, however, that pitching plus hitting are the two best weapons, offensively and defensively.

Good pitching, he believes, is the one great asset, because it creates a feeling of confidence and makes for betetr hitting and fielding.

The value of good pitching is made manifest in the brand of ball that a club usually plays behind its pitching ace.

When Walter Johnson is working for Washington there is a dash of the play of the club that seems lacking with the ordinary pitcher on the mound.

The players feel that the making of an error doesn't upset Johnson, and that usually he can pitch out of a hole that some teammate has dug for him by a misplay.

The players feel that the making of an error doesn't upset Johnson and that usually he can pitch out of a hole that some teammate has dug for him by a misplay.

Te team also realizes that Johnson doesn't need much of a working margin, that is they are able to give him a lead of a few runs, he will invariably hold it.

The Philadelphia Athletics, with Eddie Rommel pitching, are in much the same boat as Washington with Johnson working—just a little better ball club than ordinarily.

Prior to the opening of the major league season, Mack predicted that his club would run second.

That was a rather strong statement to make about a club that finished sixth last season. While he hasn't seen the west in action as yet, he stands by his original prediction.

His greatest fear is that his pitching will falter. On his club are several pitchers who have the ability to be stars, yet who may falter badly.

If he gets the pitching he hopes for he is positive his club will always stick around the first division.

Mack hopes to strengthen his pitching by always having a twirler read to act as relief twirler. The slightest indication of faltering on the part of an Athletic pitcher means that another pitcher will start to warm up immediately.

Derrick them before it is too late is to be the Mack motto as to his pitchers this year.

MERCANTILE LEAGUE TO PLAY AT RIVERSIDE

The Mercantile Baseball League have secured Riverside Park for their games. The days given to the league are Tuesdays and Thursday. The league is fortunate in securing the park for their games this year, as last year most of them were played on the Oval.

Mr. Harry Cobb has been appointed umpire-in-chief for the season. He will likely have an assistant to umpire the bases.

Now that the dates which they can use Riverside Park are known a meeting of the league will be held to arrange the schedule and look after other business.

Canadian Stock Exchange and Mines | New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

TO-DAY'S QUOTATIONS AND OPINION AND REVIEWS OF THE MARKETS.

No more effective demonstration could be given of the scarcity of good mining stocks than the advance of Hollinger yesterday. This morning Hollinger sold at 12.90 and closed there. The changes in the rest of the list were fractional. McIntyre was off 20c; Dome 10c; Keely 1c; Vipond off 1c, while Indian was up 1c to 22c; Lake Shore unchanged at 3.75; Minng Corp at 3.03; Tough Oakes 66 and Teck Hughes 1.15; Wettlaufer 26.

The selling in any of these issues came from weak or tired holders, while the buying came from the best sources. The mining industry is running at 100 per cent., and a reflection is bound to come at any moment.

Toronto Boards Strong

The Toronto and Montreal boards were the strongest and the most active in months. Under the leadership of Smelters and Montreal Power, which got up to new high figures for the year, the whole market joined in the advance with one or two small exceptions. Steel of Canada came off ½ point from the opening. All the papers were strong. Spanish River sold at 103. Smelters opened this morning at 38, sold up to 40c and closed at 39½; Toronto Rails were strong at 89, while Montreal Tram opened at 155 and closed at 159½.

MOVIE EARTHQUAKE RIVALS REAL THING

"Torment," Maurice Tourneur's newest production, which will be presented by M. C. Levee at the Royal Theatre next Thursday, is a timely offering in which the Japanese earthquake is an important factor.

The climax of the plot takes place when the characters of the story, a group of American crooks with their intended victims, are entombed in the vaults of the bank. Then the true character of each is brought out while an unusual romance develops.

The stage at the United Studios in Hollywood where the earthquake scenes were taken was reinforced to withstand the tons of falling walls and marble pillars following the first shock. Other shocks, with the players struggling in the debris, follow, and at the conclusion practically the entire set is destroyed.

The scenes staged by Mr. Tourneur, aside from their timeliness, are said to offer one of the most thrilling spectacles shown on the screen in recent years.

A number of players suffered minor injuries while working on these scenes, but nothing serious occurred, due to the carefully planned mechanics. Among the players participating were Owen Moore, Bessie Love, Jean Hersholt, Maude George, George Cooper, Morgan Wallace and Joseph Kilgour.

"DON'T MARRY FOR MONEY"

A Matrimonial Drama That Fills the Heart and Fills the Eyes.

House Peters, whose characterizations of honest-to-goodness he-men tha won him a niche all his own in the hearts of discerning film fans, adds another splendid portrait to his gallery of notable creations with his performance of Peter Smith, courageous fighter and timid lover in "Don't Marry For Money," his latest picture.

"Don't Marry For Money," which will be shown at the Royal Theatre next Monday represents the new order of the day in film productions, being credited with a story that carries a moral and a message, yet never for a moment diverging entertaining entertainment.

Photoplay patrons the world over have evinced a decided preference for stories that carry an appeal to adult intelligence and basing their programme on this demand, "Don't Marry for Money" was selected, after an exhaustive process of elimination by L. Lawrence Weber and Bobby North, as the fore-runner of a series of productions designed to stimulate and satisfy the growing hunger for adult fiction in picture form.

"Don't Marry For Money" briefly tells the story of a beautiful girl who did; and the inevitable consequences which ensue when she finds that though she sacrificed herself on the altar of Mammon, outraged Nature refused to let her part with her heart.

Apparently the happiest of wives and actually the most miserable, with an aching heart and an accusing conscience, she finds herself the principal protagonist of a condition which every woman in greater or lesser form, sooner or later must face for herself.

How she solves her problem and finally finds her happiness, makes "Don't Marry For Money" a story that fills the heart and fills the eyes.

In addition to House Peters, the cast includes Rubye De Remer, Cyril Chadwick, Wedgewood Nowell, Aileen Pringle, Christine Mayo, George Nichols, Hank Mann and Lydia Knott.

AT THE CAPITOL

GEORGE MELFORD, PRODUCER OF "THE DAWN OF A TOMORROW," MAKER OF MANY SUCCESSES.

George Melford will go down in history as the director who could make a reverberating, world-beating success such as "The Sheik," and then have the versatility to create an entirely new genre in appealing, romantic melodrama of love and regeneration. His latest picture, "The Dawn of a To-Morrow," which comes to the Capitol Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, is considered one of the finest productions of the year.

However much you have enjoyed Jacqueline Logan in the past, you will know for a fact, after seeing her in "The Dawn of a To-Morrow," that she has taken her place among the foremost emotional actresses on the screen to-day.

In David Torrence we have the other side of the famous Torrence family, the serious side as compared to the inimitable Ernest, pastmaster of pantomime.

Then there's young Raymond Griffith, a newcomer to the ranks of Paramount, but a veteran in the art of characterizations.

Alma Bennett, a new "find," helps provide the feminine charm about which the principals circulate.

Some of the big scenes in "The Dawn of a To-Morrow are:

The slum girl preventing the greatest man in England from taking his own life; the great man eating food bought by a prostitute and a thief; Glad's story of her philosophy, which is really Coue stuff under a thin disguise; young Holt's passionate attack on Glad and her rescue by her sweetheart, a fugitive from justice.

The settings are the drawing-rooms of London society, behind the scenes in British politics, London on a foggy night, the Limehouse river front, the slums of Cheapside.

The downright humanness of this story, its wholesome outlook, the meldramatic highspots, the great advertising the title already has had through its appearance as a novel and play, and the lovable character played by Miss Logan, makes this production stand out. Her role is that of a pretty little ragamuffin of the London slums who, though she doesn't know where her next meal is coming from, is always cheerful and confident of "the dawn of a tomorrow" of happiness. It is somewhat similar to the role she had in "The Light That Failed." Miss Logan is marvelous in the part.

DOG BATTLES INVISIBLE FOE

Fights Apparition of Death to Save the Master He Loves.

Dogs have always been credited with superhuman ability to recognise approach of death. Superstitious people, and a great many of those who disavow any such beliefs, will shudder at the unexpected howling of a dog, for it is deeply ingrained in the human race that a dog's howl presages death.

Without taikng sides in the controversy, Laurence Trimble, producer and director of the pictures starring Strongheart, the wonder dog, has seized upon this belief for a dramatic scene in his latest First National production, "The Love Master," which will be the attraction at the Capitol Theatre, beginning on Thursday next.

Mr. Trimble himself states that undoubtedly dogs can sense death, but whether it is merely a physical appreciation of waning life or the sensing of something invisible to the human eye or intangible to the human senses he declares he has no certain data to base a decision on.

The scene in "The Love Master" is there only for its sheer dramatic power, although the superstitious and the unbelievers will find plenty in it of clear logic to think about. David, the "love master" of Strongheart, is dying of pneumonia. His human nurses are merely holding a death watch. Strongheart has been uneasy, and suddenly he leaves the cabin and, going outside, sits down in the snow and utters a long howl. Then he returns, backing into the house, his hair bristling, as if to repel an enemy. He makes a last stand with his fore feet planted over the shoulders of his unconscious master, and wages a fierce physical fight against something neither of the human watchers can see. Slowly the enemy seems to retreat, and Strongheart follows out through the door and watches something disappear over the horizon.

Then he returns, his uneasiness gone. But the humans have examined David and can find no sign of life. Strongheart tries desperately to get David to show a sign of life. Finally there is a flicker of the eyelids when Strongheart strikes his face with his paw and a weakly whispered

"I heard you, old fellow, and I am coming back."

That's the scene. It leaves the controversy wide open as to whether Strongheart actually saw death in a tangible form and kept it from reaching his master or whether his barking merely registered on his master's ears and aroused him to the effort that was necessary to pull him through the crisis of the disease.

ORILLIA TO JOIN LEAGUE IN NORTH

This League Will Include Some of the Large Towns of the County of Simcoe.

Orillia News Leader:—Orillia is out of the Tri-County League, but in all likelihood will play in a stronger and higher-class association. At the meeting of the Tri-County League at Sunderland last Thursday, Orillia, Lindsay and Newmarket, the strong teams of the league, were forced into one group. Newmarket then withdrew considering that the distance to Lindsay was altogether too long. This left only Orillia and Lindsay ,and the suggestion was made that a trip schedule between the two teams should be played. Both from the standpoint of sport and for financial reasons, the Orillia Club considered such an arrangeemnt undesirable. They there fore set about organizing a league to include the large towns of the County of Simcoe. A most encouraging response has been met with; both Midland and Collingwood having signified their willingness to enter a league. No definite word has been received from Barrie. It is the intention to have the league affiliated with the O. A. B.; thus making the winning team eligible for the Ontario championship series. On account of a motor accident the Orillia representatives did not reach the Tri County League meeting. It is the general opinion that the action was calculated to "squeeze out" the strong teams. However, if the proposed league materializes—and the prospects are most favorable—Orillia will see a better class of baseball than the Tri-County teams would have provided.

YORKSHRE WON CRICKET.

LONDON, May 10.— (Canadian Press Cable.)— In the county cricket championship matches today Yorkshire won from Glamorgan by an innings and 177 runs, Yorkshire securing 275, Oldroyd 64, Glamorgan was first at bat and scored 48 and this was followed by 0, a total of 96 runs.

SCORED A KNOCKOUT.

NE WYORK, May 10.—(Canadian Press.) — Floyd Johnson, of Iowa, knocked out Quentin Romero of Chile, in the seventh round of a scheduled ten round bout here last night.

Romero had nothing but a courageous heart; he knew nothing at all about boxing. He took a terrific beating; he was almost blinded by blood and his face and body were pummelled into red pulp, but despite the fact everything was going against him, Romero kept plunging in and for a short while in the sixth round it looked as though he had a chance when Johnson tired badly, from battering his head and body.

FRED BRITTEN ONCE A BOXER

Instead of a Fighter, He is Now Congressman Fred A. Britten of Illinois.

By Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON, MAY 10.—When he was a kid in San Francisco, little Freddie Britten (now Congressman Fred A. Britten of Illinois) climbed his parents' backyard fence one day to like one Johnny Flynn, for some reason the nature of which he does not now recall.

Instead, Johnny licked him in the highest style.

"This," said Freddie, as his mother was putting a beef poultice over his left eye, "is not going to happen again."

And he sought out Walter Watson, who was responsible for Joe Choynski, Jm Corbett, Young Mitchell and other celebrated scrappers of bygone days. It wasn't so long after that until he won the lightweight championship of the Olympic Club.

Coast Champion

He never passed from the amateur into the professional class, but if he had, according to such authorities as George Siler and Nels Innes he'd have made good.

In due season, back from a Cape Horn voyage, stronger than ever, willing and tough, came Johnny Flynn. Once more Britten fought him. And that time it was Johnny who had to wear the poultice.

In 1892 Britten won the amateur lightweight championship of the Pacific Coast. In 1893 he visited Chicago with a team from the San Francisco Olympic Club and won the central championship.

Moreover he changed his residence to Chicago, and has lived there ever since.

Kayo in 12 Seconds.

In all, Britten has victories to his credit in about 30 big fights. He still holds the record or the speediest amateur victory on record.

It was in a go with Johnny Mackler. Mackler was bigger and stronger than Britten, but as he was setting himself for a right hand swing, Britten smote him on the chin, knocked him through the ropes. It took him just 12 seconds to pull off this stunt.

The congressman's a swimmer and a fancy diver, too. Likewise a sprinter. Once he won a 100-yard dash from John B. Crum, who afterwards made the same distance in 9⅕ seconds.

Crocodiles grow quickly for the first few years of their lives; then their rate of growth slows down to about one inch a year.

VICTORIA COUNTY MAY FORM LEAGUE

Since Lindsay Has Been Refused Application to the Tri County League a New One May Be Formed.

Lindsay's application for admittance to the Tri County Baseball League having been refused, an effort will be made to form a Victoria County Baseball League, In this connection the officers of the Lindsay Club purpose getting in touch with Clubs at Oakwood, Valentia, Little Britain, Woodville, Coboconk, Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon and Omemee.

A League such as above would no doubt be a good drawing card for the fans and would provide considerable use for players. The idea is one that should receive encouragement.

It is hard to understand just why the Tri County league should disapprove of Lindsay being admitted. Such teams as Uxbridge and Sutton have nothing whatever to fear from Lindsay judging from the brand of baseball they played in the Tri-County League. On the other hand Lindsay should be a good drawing card in the League.

Orillia was no doubt barred because of the feeling existing amongst the Executive officers that Orillia had imported one or two players.

LOCAL ARTISTS IN A CONTEST DRAWING

Some copied the entire Advertisement by Means of Garbon

Harold Lloyd, the popular film star, besides providing plenty of laughs for Peterborough citizens in his latest picture this week, has been the reason for much industry in the drawing line among the children.

The list of entries in the Capitol contest amounted to almost 300 attempts to transfer the countenance and expression of he genial star to paper. The three best in those submitted are on view in a George Street window.

A peculiarity about many of the drawings is the Semitic cast of countenance portrayed. Whether the children think that Harold is of Hebraic descent or whether they just naturall incline toward drawings of this type, is not explained.

However, one entry had a decided Celestial atmosphere, with a pair of slanting eyes and ascetic outlines.

They did them on bits of drawing paper and linen note and scrap, in ink and crayon and pencil, with one futuristic effect in heavy black chalk.

One young man endowed the hero with a coatless suit which showed a regular battery of pens and pencils contained in the star's vest pockets, his sleeves caught by nifty armbands.

The mouth drawings seemed to be the poorest portions of the attempts.

The eyes expressed all sorts of emotions, but the mouths were very bad, in most cases. Plenty of teeth and thick red lips were notable characteristics. One small man had painstakingly squared the newspaper face of the young man and enlarged his own drawing several times on a squared formation. The forehead got away from him, however, and became an elongated slope. Another copied, manifestly by aid of carbon, the entire advertisement. A cubist creation had a very "minister's son" effect, and one chubby "Harold" looked like Dickens' fat boy.

Many of the drawings, however, in fact the majority of them, showed considerable attention to the subject and painstaking work on the part of their originators.

MISLEADING THE CREDULOUS

In one of Hans Christian Andersen's stories, two rogues offer to weave for His Majesty a suit of extraordinary beauty, which, however, will be invisible to all who are stupid and to all who are unfit to hold their present offices. The rogues are awarded the contract and set to work with nimble fingers pretending to weave a fictitious fabric on empty looms. Courtiers and high officials visit the weavers and see nothing, but dare not say so, since such a confession would prove them dull or unfit for office. For the same reason the king pretends to see and to admire the invisible fabric on the empty looms, put on the imaginary clothes, and sallies forth to exhibit them amid the hypocritical applause and fawning enthusiasm of his courtiers. "But he has nothing on!" said a child, who saw him from a doorstep. How often we follow like sheep, and how we deliberately blind our eyes to truth to please someone above us. Years take us far from the truthfulness of childhood.

AT KNOX TO-MORROW.
Special Mother's Day services. At 11 a.m., "Mother and Your Cross," a scene from Calvary.
"Who ran to help me when I fell,
And would some pretty story tell,
Or kiss the place to make it well?
My Mother,"
Think of your mother. Recall her love and care. Wear a colored flower if she lives here, a white one if she has gone across "the bar." If possible, bring her to church and sit beside her. If she is in the distance write to her; tell her again that you love her, and thank her for her love.
At 7 p.m. another scene from Calvary. Some mother's wandering boy, on another cross, finds Hope, an unexpected Hope, a startling Hope, a certain Hope for the life beyond death. When he has died the death of shame, what awaits him? Paradise? or Hell? or what? and when? Let's hear Jesus on this matter.
Choral music—"Lead me, Lord," Wesley; "O Lord, How Manifold are Thy Works," Barnby.

Society

A Saskatoon paper of recent date carries a cut of a former resident of Peterboro, Miss Irene Noble, of Indian Head, Sask., who was elected first vice-president of the Saskatchewan Educational Association at the convention of the organization held last week in Saskatoon. Miss Noble was a pupil in Peterboro's public schools, where she had an excellent record for proficiency in her studies, and later taught for a time in the public schools here.

Miss Winifred Eaton, of New York City, is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Scott, Hunter Street.

Tamworths of energetic appearance. A collie dog, guaranteed a good watch dog, "with a loud bark," and one white eye "just like the mother," was priced at $2.

Transient remarks heard in passing on the market are sometimes interesting. "I thought the muskrat season was over," said a big resident of the Curve Lake Reserve to his brown-skinned companions this morning; "I've had her thirty years and she's a good horse yet," boasted a proud owner to a group, and "You don't take anything to drink at all, do you?" enquired one elderly gentleman of a mild-looking, white-haired neighbor.

TRANSIENT TALK ON LOCAL MARKET

Red Haired Boy Had Longing for a Barred Rock Chick.

"Gee, I wish I had another dime, and I'd buy one," said a small, red-haired boy, looking longingly at a tiny Barred Rock chick at the farmers' market this morning. The last five of a feathered family hopped about a big box. A large gentleman with a covered basket from which issued a concert of faint cheeps aroused much interest on his way down the stairs.

Butter was priced from 30 to 35 cents a pound in the basket section this morning. Eggs were selling at 22 and 23 cents a dozen and chickens from 30 to 33 cents per pound. Huge goose eggs were a quarter apiece, and duck settings, in pale green and cream, were 75 cents a dozen. Cream was 30 cents a pint.

Flowers were plentiful, real and artificial. The lady with the simulated wax sweet peas had a brisk sale for them, and the roses in the baskets made by blind soldiers. There were real daffodils and white, three-finger'd trilliums, also blanched white bleeding hearts at a nickel a bunch. Little green aster plants were "20 flowers for a dime"; rose slips were 10 cents each and red geraniums the same. Tiny tomato plants were 20 for 10 cents also. Seed onions were ten cents a pound.

Several absent-minded gentlemen warmed themselves industriously at the cold stoves. There was an energetic sale of home-made cooking and several pamphlet distributors, advertising special sales, conferred their slips on upcoming patrons.

On the open section, green onions and rhubarb were popular commodities. The fish man had a particularly odoriferous stall this morning, with some savage-looking pike as chief specimens.

Potatoes this morning were $2 and $2.25 a bag, with rumors of a price of $2.50 for the Irish Cobblers. Pork was 14 and 16 cents a pound, one dealer generously throwing in the tail for the same price.

The vanguard of the roots were present in small quantities on the carts, and the apple stock is diminishing also. Baldwins may be had at $3.75 a barrel, also Ontarios and Coopers at 35 and 40 cents a peck.

Little green plants of flowers and tomatoes were having a quick sale. Iris are 3 for a quarter, tomato plants 20 cents a box.

Little pigs were $6 and $7 a pair, with one crate containing tiny ruddy

LATE E. B. WAYTE

At the funeral of the late E. B. Wayte, which took place on Tuesday morning, G. J. A. Reany, the superintendent of agencies for the Mutual Life Assurance Company, the concern with which Mr. Wayte was identified, was present, and referred in kindly terms to the character and work of the deceased. Mr. Reany expressed, on behalf of Mrs. Wayte and his company, appreciation of the kindly courtesy extended by the people of Peterboro and their expressed sympathies. He referred to the fact that Mr. Wayte had come among the Peterborough people as a stranger about eighteen months previous to his demise, and the spirit shown by the citizens to the bereaved family was a demonstration of their kind qualities of heart.

Mr. Reany spoke of the late Mr. Wayte as a man of unusual executive ability, with sound business judgment, of striking resourcefulness, having many good business ideas with the energy to put them into effect. He said that Mr. Wayte had been a pronounced success as manager of the Peterborough agency, that he was a man of high ambitions, having set his mind upon accomplishing certain things at certain ages in his life, that he was looking forward to a higher position and responsibilities and that the company regarded him as one who would, in due course, with more experience, go far in the company and occupy one of the higher positions.

Mr. Reany said that no doubt people were inquiring for a cause for the unfortunate ending of so promising a life, that there might be those who would seek for a cause in business irregularities. He assured those present that the late Mr. Wayte's conduct of his business had been eminently satisfactory and successful and that it was distinctly free from irregularities, also that it was needless to look for any explanation for his sad and untimely death outside of the fact that he was a man of excessive energy who did not know well how to rest, who did not spare himself in the working out of his ambitions and whose physical constitution apparently was not able to bear the strain, so that his nervous system had doubtless temporarily sagged to the breaking point. Mr. Reany stated that what had occurred was only what might occur to any other man present who might overstrain his nervous energy in his business and social life, and again emphasized the fact that the company had looked forward to great achievements by Mr. Wayte, and that his loss was one of the greatest disappointments that had come to the company.

Mr. Reany concluded his remarks by once again thanking those present for their expressed sympathy to the bereaved and by suggesting his certainty that they would continue, while the opportunity lasted, to make as light as possible the grief of the mother and the two little boys.

NO SETTLEMENT IN IRISH BOUNDARIES WILL GIVE PEACE

Premier Craig Says He Will Do Anything to Attain a Proper Enduring Settlement.

BELFAST, May 10 (Canadian Press). — No settlement of the Irish boundary question "can give any assurance of peace and comfort" unless it is reached by the mutual agreement, and "there is no use pretending to the contrary," Premier Craig of Ulster declared to-day.

"So strongly do I desire a proper and enduring settlement," he said, 'that I will do anything, in reason, to attain it. My wish for a settlement is so great and so real that if an agreement of the kind I have described could be reached, even at the expense of my dropping out of public life, I would be willing to make that sacrifice.

"If President Cosgrave and I could settle this and clear up the other little difficulties outstanding we would have done a good day's work for our country. I am ready to begin upon the effort any time, and I know that if we cannot settle it here upon the ground and by the two interests concerned, it cannot be done by what I may call outsiders in the sense that they are outside the country and cannot know the facts as we do.

"We want peace, and the way I have described it is the way to get it."

LEAVE TO APPEAL WAS NOT GRANTED

Mr. G.N. Gordon Appeared in Case in Ottawa Yesterday.

OTTAWA, May 10. — Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., appeared before the Supreme Court of Canada yesterday in the matter of an application by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, and the Toronto and Niagara Power Company, for leave to appeal from the Court of Appeal of Ontario, against the judgment confirming the assessment of the Commission and Power Company's property in the Townships of Thorold and Pelham, in the County of Welland. Mr. A. C. Kingston, K.C., appeared for the applicants. Leave to appeal was refused, and the motion dismissed with costs.

The question in point is a new one and that is whether or not, when property of a corporation is taken over, and the Hydro-Electric Power Commission appoints its members as President and Board of Directors, the property of that Company is entitled to the benefits of the Assessment Act in favor of Municipal and Public Service Commissions. The Court of Appeal of Ontario decided that the property was assessable by the Municipality, and that judgment now stands, as the leave to appeal was refused.

"DIANA" MAY BE AERIAL!

NEW YORK, May 10.—At last the famed "Diana" atop the Madison Square Garden tower may become modernized. There's talk of converting her into the "world's most exquisite antenna."

James F. Kerr, manager of the first radio world's fair to be shown next autumn, is originator of the idea. He believes Diana can make herself useful in broadcasting and receiving.

Now three wireless engineers are conducting experiments with the view of converting the Saint-Gaudens masterpiece into a radio aerial.

LONDON FINANCES GERMANY'S TRADE

English Banking Institutions Are Making Loans to German Traders at Extraordinary High Interest.

LONDON, May 10. British United Press. — London is now financing a considerable amount of German trade and European state banks, including the Bank of England, are granting cerdits to Herr Schacht's new institution.

Whatever may be the outcome of the reparations problem, this one thing is clearer every day: namely, the extent to which German merchandize business is being financed abroad, especially in London and Amsterdam. Germany is a vigorous industrial nation, temporarily at all events, without a working international currency.

Hence the extraordinary demand for outside accommodation to finance foreign trade.

The assistance being furnished is of three kinds: European state banks (including the Bank of England) apparently are granting credits to the new German sterling bank.

English banking institutions are also making short loans to German traders at extraordinary high rates of interest, thus indicating how low must be the German cost of production to make such loans profitable.

THE JUDGMENT BEWDLEY CASE

Rice Lake Trapping Case Disposed of by Magistrate Floyd.

COBOURG, May 9.—Police Magistrate Floyd this week handed out judgment in the case of Nelson Guyatt v. Walter McClung and Kennedy, which was heard at Bewdley, and in which judgment was reserved. The defendants were charged with trespassing upon the plaintiff's lands at Rice Lake for the purpose of trapping game or fishing.

The finding of the magistrate is as follows:

In this action, counsel for the defence, entered the pleas as to the jurisdiction of this court to try this case, on the ground that the title to the lands is in question, and that the defendants had a right to go where they were.

The question as to the title of the said lots 32 and 33 in the 9th con. of the Township of Hamilton in the County of Northumberland what are the facts? From the records it appears that a grant or patent for land was issued to Miss Stella Grant for some 1200 acres, 'together with all the woods and waters lying thereon,' dated the 14th day of December, 1798, the said grant or patent being composed of lots numbers 31, 32 and 34 in the 8th, and 32, 33 and 35 in the 9th con. of the Township of Hamilton.

From the records it appears that on the 1st day of March, 1888, Julia Ann Kent and Hugh Kent became the owners by deed of lots 32 and 33 in the 9th con. of the Township of Hamilton, and on the 9th day of June, 1920, Nelson Grant purchased the said lots 32 and 33 in the said Township of Hamilton for the sum of $3,000, the said lots 32 and 33 containing 400 acres, more or less, except on island heretofore sold to one Hannah.

The deeds for the transfers aforementioned having been duly registered in the registry office of the district, and as the defendant McClung in his evidence did not claim ownership of the said lands, or claim any right of ownership, and the defandant Kennedy in his evidence, did not claim ownership or any right of ownership, therefore, as neither of them, or any person up to this date claimed ownership, this court finds that no question as to the title of Nelson Grant to the said lots 32 and 33 in the Township of Hamilton is raised and overrules the contention of defendant's counsel aforesaid.

As to the question of trespass, sec. 23 of the Ontario Game and Fisheries Laws, forbids trespass in the pursuit of game. Sub-sec. 3 of section 23 states how notice forbidding trespass may be given. Sub-sec. A of sub-sec. 3 of section 23 says notice may be given verbally or in writing.

The defendants were told (and admitted it) that they were not to trespass on this property, the evidence is quite clear on that point, verbal notice was supplemented by printed notices bearing these words: "Notice. No Trespasing, Hunting, Shooting or Trapping on These Premises. Trespassers Will be Prosecuted According to Law. By Order, Nelson Grant, Owner."

Some fifteen of these notices were erected around the premises and the defendants saw these notices. They so admitted in their evidence.

This court finds the defendants guilty of trespass and imposed a penalty of $5 on each defendant, together with the costs of the court, $40.95. Ten days is allowed for payment of fine and costs.

CHINESE LADY BANDITS CAUSE PLENTY TROUBLE

PEKING, May 10.— (Canadian Press.)— A lot of "rough country ladies" turned bandits, says the Asiatic News Agency, have raided towns along the Peking-Hankow Railway and have carried off many young men of rich families whom they are holding for ransom.

Picked soldiers have been sent to suppress the outlaws, said to be armed with modern pistols and iron clubs, and who are "more heartless in treatment of their captives than the men in the interior districts."

Some of the captives, the report continues, have been forced to marry the "lady" bandits and thereafter have become leaders.

MILITANT DISPLAY OF GERMAN NATIONALISTS GREATEST SINCE WAR

Prince Oscar of Hohenzollern House Accompanied Ludendorff and Large Company of Generals and Admirals in Chauvinistic Demonstration — Reminder of Rebirth Fatherland Party As Shown In Recent Elections.

ELEVEN DEATHS REPORTED.

HALLE, Germany, May 12 (Canadian Press).—"Red Halle," nominally the citadel of German Communism and the incubator of Communistic insurrections, was invaded yesterday by a German Fascist army, led by General Ludendorff and a score of ex-army and navy leaders, behind whom trailed 25,000 Swastika knights and troopers, of whom the heaviest contingent hailed from Bavaria.

While the gathering of Nationalist clans was ostensibly devoted to unveiling the restored monument to Von Moltke, which was overthrown during the Communistic riots, the muster of German Chauvinists was primarily intended to remind political opponents throughout Germany of the Nationalistic renaissance, the fruits of which was reflected in last week's Reichstag elections.

Not since the late World War has Germany witnessed an equally resplendent gathering of generals, admirals, and militant Nationalists under the old monarchical colours.

Royalty Represented.

The House of Hohenzollern was represented by Prince Oscar, who was the centre-piece of a bevy of generals and admirals.

The Nationalists were given an eleventh hour tip by Dr. Hergt, Chairman of the German Nationalist Party, in the nature of a suggestion that "all needless provocation be avoided," and as the Socialist Party leaders had also instructed their following to keep out of sight, the unveiling ceremonies, which occupied about an hour, passed off without interruption, barring vocal clashes between Communists and the younger Fascisti.

The only disturbance reported up to three o'clock occurred in the outskirts of the city, where police patrols engaged in dispersing Communistic units, were forced to use their firearms. One policeman was killed and five wounded.

"Uber Alles."

Most of the out-of-town delegations arrived Saturday night, when the Fascist conclave was opened with divine service in the city churches and a score of mass meetings. The newly erected monument is the gift of the Nationalist societies "to all citizens who place the honor and glory of Germany, the Fatherland and its proud past, above all other things."

Lieut.-Col. von Deusterberger, who made the dedication speech, said:

"Neither the conscience of the world, the League of Nations, nor the Second nor Third Internationale saw fit to prevent the enslavement and disenfranchisement of Germany, despite the solemn promises made to us. We need no revanche. We Germans have victoriously stood off world foes on all battlefields."

Eleven Killed.

CABLE TO MELBOURNE LABOUR LEADERS REVEALED AS BOGUS

Statement on Naval Squadron Visit Which Premier MacDonald Refuted Was Concocted By Newspaper to Trap Rival.

LONDON, May 11. — The origin of the extraordinary "cable" sent to the Parliamentary Labor leaders in Melbourne, Australia, last February, stating that instructions had been issued (presumably by the Labor Premier of Great Britain) that there were to be no warlike demonstrations or theatrical displays when the British Special Service Squadron visited Australia, has at last been revealed. It is stated that the so-called message was wilfully concocted by one of the Melbourne newspapers in order to trap a rival newspaper, which it suspected of "lifting" news from its columns.

It is stated that the bogus despatch was printed in only a few papers, but as events showed this item got further afield than the instigators of the plot had intended.

The message in question purported to have been from an "official British Labor source,' and said: "Had it been possible to cancel the tour of the Special Service Squadron Mr. MacDonald says that course would have been adopted. Instructions have been issued which would considerably nullify the jingo patriotism that the visit of the vessels had been intended to inspire."

Further, the bogus message said that officers of the Royal Navy were not to make any political distinctions. "Where a Labor Government is not in power they are to pay their respects to Labor leaders and the opposition, and they must give as much public recognition to the Trades Hall as to the Town Hall.'

This message was cabled back to England, and at once Premier MacDonald gave an explicit denial to the despatch.

FRENCH VOTERS SWARMED ABOUT POLLING BOOTHS

Apathetic Spirit Toward Electoral Campaign Supplanted By the General Interest In the Act of Electing Representatives — Surprisingly Heavy Vote Recorded.

EARLY REPORTS.

APATHY DISAPPEARED

PARIS, May 12. — (Canadian Press).—The French voters, who remained apathetic to the end of the campaign, thus causing despair to the electoral managers of the different parties, surprised all the prophets Sunday by showing unexpected interest in the general elections; they crowded the polling booths as soon as the guns began booming in honor of Joan of Arc made it known that eight o'clock had arrived.

Superb weather and celebration of the national fete of the French heroine brought out great crowds everywhere and the indifferent voters found it so difficult to cast their ballots that they did so in larger numbers than in previous elections.

Many Voted Early.

Early voters were most numerous in Paris, hurrying to get their ballots in the boxes so that they might be free for an afternoon at Longchamps or the Olympic Stadium, or for an excursion in the country.

President Millerand, who usually is one of the first to appear at the polling place, was behind time yesterday, for he did not cast his ballot until about 10:30, in the Elysee district along with his son, Jean.

Premier Poincare, accompanied by Mme. Poincare and Mme. Lucien Poincare, arrived just before noon at the polling place in the Sampigny district. With care, M. Poincare prepared to cast his ballot with the same formalities as the other electors.

Early voting was general in the working men's strongholds about Paris also, but the trouble threatened by Communists at campaign meetings fortunately did not materialize.

All Parties Confident.

When the polls closed at 6 o'clock not a single incident had been reported to the police or the Ministry of the Interior, despite the unusually heavy voting. All the parties seemed inclined to interpret the heavy vote in their favor. The Conservatives particularly lay stress on the fact that their forces customarily were the greatest abstainers and they relied on the increased vote to help out their candidates.

This confidence on all sides contributed to the good feeling and was was undoubtedly responsible for the quite election day.

Those who remained in town and those who had returned from their Sunday outings began to gather as soon as dinner was over around the newspaper offices in the hope of getting first indications as to how the election was going. They had long to wait, however, as the multiplicity of condition and split tickets complicated the compilation and made the returns very slow.

NATIONAL BLOC CLAIMS

PARIS, May 12. — (Canadian Press).—The National bloc holds a strong majority in the Departments of Manche, Meurthe-et-Moselle, and Vosges, according to late advices from the Provinces.

In three districts in Paris the National bloc also is in the lead.

MINISTER SUPPORTED

PARIS, May 12. — (Canadian Press).—According to the first information reaching the Ministry of Interior, the list in the Meuse Department, headed by Andre Maginot, Minister of War, was elected in its entirety.

The list in the Eure-et-Loir, headed by Maurice Maunoury, former Minister of the Interior, was defeated by the list headed by Maurice Viollette, Socialist, which obtained an absolute majority.

RADICAL SWING

LONDON, May 12.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The London Observer's Paris correspondent says there is little doubt that the result of the election in France will show a swing to the left. How far that swing goes rests with the French peasant "who certainly remains radical in general sympathy while in home politics he is catholic and at the same time anti-clerical." Considerations which may keep the peasant from giving his whole support to the left which was formed to defeat the government must be supported abroad and secondly the fear of some kind of confiscation or taxation of capital for he is not only a peasant proprietor and nearly always the owner of a small farm.

Both these feelings have been ful-

Eight Inch Wire Found in Heart

INGERSOLL, May 12.—(Canadian Press).—A strange discovery was made recently by a local butcher, while removing the heart from a cow that had just been slaughtered. Firmly embodded in the heart was a piece of small wire about eight inches in length. The knife came in contact with the wire which could not be plainly seen at the time. Investigation showed that the wire had entered the heart at one side and had been forced almost completely through that organ. The wire was of the kind that is used on baled hay and it seem remarkable that it did not prove fatal to the animal which is supposed to have swallowed it.

GRAIN STOCKS ARE REDUCED

Storage at Fort William Less Than at This Date Last Year — Opening Rush Subsiding.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., May 12. —Stocks in store in the elevators at the head of the lakes have already dropped down to a point below one-half of what was here at the opening of navigation, there being approximately 32,000,000 bushels of all grains now on hand here. The very heavy movement of the first week or two of navigation has subsided a little and receipts were three and a half million bushels below the previous week, while shipments were six million bushels lower. The decrease in stocks by over eleven and a half million bushels has brought the stocks now in store below those of the corresponding date of last year. A heavy forward movement in oats reduced stocks of that grain by a million and a half bushels during the week, the low freight rates possibly assisting the movement, the rate being 1 1-2 cents to Buffalo and 6 3-4 to Montreal.

STATEMENT BY GANDIER SWORN TO UNDER OATH

Rev. W. G. Brown Files Affidavit to Hearing Statement on Union — Says He Took Down the Words Immediately Afterward.

OTTAWA, May 12.—(Canadian Press.)— Rev. W. G. Brown, Red Deer, has filed an affidavit declaring that Rev. Alfred Gandier, D.D., actually made the statement attributed to him in regard to the proposed United Church of Canada. Dr. Gandier later denied that he had made the statement which was as follows:

"This is the beginning of a national Protestant Church for Canada, and no Governor would dare to resist the demands of such a church."

The affidavit filed by Mr. Brown reads as follows:

"In the matter of a petition to the House of Commons of Canada to incorporate the United Church of Canada and of a hearing of the same before a committee of the said House of Commons, I, Walter George Brown, of Red Deer, in the Province of Alberta, a minister of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, make oath and say:

"(1) At an annual meeting of the Presbyterian Church union committee held in the room in the rear of St. James' Square Presbyterian Church, Toronto, I was present and heard the Rev. Alfred Gandier, D. D., make the following statement in the course of an address on the proposed United Church of Canada: 'This is the beginning of a national Protestant church of Canada, and no government would dare to resist the demands of such a church.'

"(2) I at once took down the words and make an affidavit that the statement is as I have represented above."

The affidavit was sworn to before George F. MacDonnell, of Ottawa.

MARTIN AND MECHANIC EMERGE SAFE OUT OF ALASKA'S ICY WASTES

Commander of United States Airplane Squadron Attempting Flight Round the World Crashed Into Mountain In Fog — Plane Was Completely Wrecked—Lived On "Concentrated Food and Nerve" Until They Reached the Coast.

MISSING SINCE APRIL 30.

CORDOVA, Alaska, May 12 (Canadian Press). — Major Frederick L. Martin and his mechanic, Staff Sergeant Alva L. Harvey, who have been missing since 30th April, when they left Chignik on their round-the-world flight, are safe at Port Moller, Alaska.

A radio message was received here from Major Martin yesterday morning.

The plane struck a mountain near Port Moller an hour and a half after leaving Chignik, according to Major Martin's message. Although the ship was completely wrecked, neither of the aviators was hurt, he said.

Port Moller is 199 miles west of Chignik.

Found Food and Shelter.

The aviators owed their existence, the radiogram said, to "concentrated food and nerve." Exhausted, the flight commander and his mechanic finally reached a trapper's cabin at the southermost point of Port Moller Bay on the morning of May 7. There they found food and regained sufficient strength to walk the beach three days before they were rescued. The message from Major Martin, which reached here at 1.15 o'clock yesterday morning, came from Port Moller via St. Paul Island, and was worded as follows:

"Crashed against mountain in fog on 30th at 12.30. Neither of us hurt. Ship a total wreck. Our existence was due to concentrated food and nerve. Arrived at a trapper's cabin southmost point of Port Moller Bay morning 7th exhausted. Found food, rested three days, walked beach. Awaiting instructions."

Nothing in the message indicates, as it was understood here, how many miles Major Martin was from Port Moller Bay when his machine, the flagship Seattle, was wrecked against a mountain. Thus, it was not known here how many miles he and Sergeant Harvey forced their way through the wilderness before they reached the trapper's cabin and found something more to eat than the concentrated rations they carried. It is known, however, that they were at least a week on their journey.

Still Under Snow.

South of Port Moller Bay the peninsula is only twenty-five miles across to the Pacific Ocean, the bay being a branch of the Bering Sea on the north side of the peninsula. The country is still under snow and no food is to be found.

Major Martin's plane as last seen by an authentic observer when a trapper on Lake Chignik saw him flying about four hundred feet above the frozen waters of the lake about a half hour after he had left Chignik.

The air fleet commander left Chignik in so great a storm that the other members of the expedition, then waiting for him at Dutch Harbor, and Lieut. Clayton L. Bissell, who made all arrangements for the flight from Seattle to Attu Island at the western end of the Aleutian chain, had considered it certain that the commanding officer would not fly that day. Although the day had dawned fair and clear at Dutch Harbor, northwest gales soon started and violent winds carrying much snow, arose almost the moment the Seattle had taken the air.

Lost in Storm.

Major Martin had flown to Chignik April 25 from Kanatak. This journey of 150 miles was made in such a storm that he alighted midway in Kunlik Bay for thirty minutes, with snow beating into his face, studied maps and the surrounding landscape in an effort to get his bearings.

The next day he went down with a leaking crankcase and was found in Portage Bay, near Chignik, by the United States destroyer Hull. At Kanatak he installed a new engine in his plane as it rocked and plunged in the water.

Crossing to Asia.

The three remaining planes of the expedition, under the command of Lieut. Loweli H. Smith, reached Attu Island Friday, and according to latest advices, were awaiting a favorable moment to make the jump of 878 miles across the Bering Sea to Paramashire Island in the Muriles, at the north end of the Japanese Empire. This hop is the longest in the 27,0000-mile circuit of the earth as being made by the fleet.

The planes Chicago, piloted by Lieut. Smith; the Boston, by Lieut. Leigh Wade, and the New Orleans, by Lieut. Erick Nelson, are 1,300 miles from Seattle. Major Martin is at Port Moller awaiting orders.

NEW YORKERS REACH OTTAWA WITH FUR COATS, FIND SPRING

Two Hundred Girl Employes of Insurance Company Disillusioned, Settle Down to Work After Vain Attempt to Shock Capital.

OTTAWA, May 12. — Four hundred odd employees of an insurance company, who came here from New York when the companys Canadian headquarters were established in Ottawa a few weeks ago, are now settling into the swing of business and social life in the Canadian capital. Among the 200 young girls of the party are many who are disappointed. They have been disillusioned.

Part of the paraphernalia and the baggage brought to the "North country" included skates, heavy seal coats, and such articles of winter attire. The girls ould hardly wait for the train to reach Ottawa to try out their blades and vaunt their fur coats. What was their surprise to find a concert hall laid out in the bowl of the large skating auditorium, and the Ottawa flappers wearing their suits and spring coats! The skates were tucked away in the new trunk, and the coats in the moth balls.

Vie With Ottawa Girls.

For several days the invading femininity and the resident French-Canadian belles vied in a hotly contested attack on the drug stores. Paint and powder, cold cream and lip-stick, and such requisites of female warfare on the weaker sex were in huge demand. The French-Canadians won, for the newcomers soon turned back to business, when they found that the youth of the Capital didn't care a great deal how short or how tight their skirts were, how high the slit was, or whether it was Coty's or Quelques Fleurs they used.

There is no Eighteenth Amendment in Ottawa; the Ontario Temperance Act stands for much the same thing. However, it is not quite the joke which John Barleycorn's adversary is in the States. One can get the stuff, but one must know where and how, and must be ready with the $200.00 and costs, if there is a hitch in the plans.

Attempt to Shock Fails.

And the old town refused to be wakened up! An invasion of an Ottawa hotel ballroom by the girls was looked upon with pleasure, but when, to the strains of "Strut, Jenny, Strut," the girls and their "men" "did their stuff," the staid authorities called a halt, with the kind invitation to "cut it out!" The city refused to be shocked, so what was left for them but work?

But they can work, too, and their new Canadian headquarters are buzzing with life. Many organisations have been set under way among the workers, and a very active athletic association is now puzzling whether tennis, baseball, or golf will be the recognised game for the newcomers.

However, it is a fact that the young New Yorkers lend to the atmosphere of Ottawa a touch of American bustle. They are beginning to like their new home, and citizens have hopes that they may yet number the newcomers among the best "sets" of the city.

Abandoned Auto Owned By Bandits?

CHATHAM, Ont., May 12.—(Canadian Press).—An automobile without a license number, abandoned on the Longwoods road near Kent Bridge, is thought to have been owned by four Detroit bandits, who Monday last crossed into Canada with $5,000, following a street holdup. County Police, investigating found that the four men shipped a trunk at Kent Bridge to an address in Montreal which may prove to be a valuable clue to the Detroit authorities.

FRENCH PLANE BREAKS RECORDS

Speed and Cruising Range of New Bregnet Machine Offers Proof of France's Power In the Air.

PARIS, May 12.—Lieut. Pelletier Doisey, the French aviator, who is flying from France to Tokio, left Bangkok, Siam, at 7:15 o'clock on Sunday morning for Saigon, Cochin, China, according to a despatch received at the Air Services Office from Bangkok.

LONDON, May 11.—Two weeks out from Paris on ain air dash that has shattered records across two continents, a French aviator piloted his machine to earth at Rangoon, Saturday, one of Britain's strategic gateways to the Oriend.

Catching their breath after their first amazement at the French feat, Englishmen are beginning to realize that there is ground for the French claim that France possesses the fatest ariplane engine in the world.

Lieut. Pelletier Doisy, who arrived at Rangoon Friday, after flying from Calcutta, is piloting a special Breguet machine equipped with a Lorraine engine. The realization of what this French machine and French engine has already done is causing uneasiness in every air ministry in Europe.

France is supposed to have ordered a luarge number of fighting bombing and reconnaisance airplanes of the Breguet XIX model, fitted with a 360 horse-power Lorraine engine, which gives the machine a speed of 157 miles per hour, even when carrying a full military load.

An even faster machine is being perfected by Breguet, a fighting two-seater, which can make 165 miles per hour when loaded.

Doisy, using this type of engine, has shown that the new French air fleet would have any other existent enemy air force almost hopelessly handicapped. Such French bombing planes could easily travel 1,000 miles a day, and could possibly make from 1,500 to 2,000 miles. Thus, operating from a base in France, the French machines could make morning and afternoon round-trip bombing flights to almost every European capital.

When the French airman started his trip he also started something else— renewed fea in European ministries on the question of French air supremacy. The alaram that the flight must cause may speed a new disarmament conference.

GOT A TROUT IN A PAIL OF WATER.

New Method of Catching Fish Tried Out at Hanover

HANOVER, May 12.—(Canadian Press).—Fish can be caught in buckets as well as bucket shops. John Morlock, prominent Hanover manufacturer out trout fishing Saturday, went to river "to get a pail of water" and returned with nice speckled trout, measuring 11 1-2 inches—so far.

Mr. Morlock explains the phenomenon in his own word: "As I stepped on the bank of river and dipped the pail into the water, a big fish scurried out from underneath, struck its head against the inside or bottom of the pail and was momentarily stunned. I jerked pail up quickly, and there was a speckled beauty.'

This was second largest fish caught during the day's expedition of Fishing Club to which Mr. Morlock belongs.

BUDGET DEBATE ENDS THURSDAY WITH MAJORITY

Assured of Progressive Support the Government Has Nothing to Worry From the Labor Amendment--Avoids Opposition That Made Division Close Last Year — Leaders Likely to Speak.

UNION DISCUSSION.

OTTAWA, May 12 (Canadian Press). — The long, lingering debate on the Budget ends this week—on Thursday night, unless there is further interference with present plans.

The debate this year has not been productive of much excitement, although the last few days may see some livelier episodes, should both the Prime Minister and the leader of the Opposition, as is likely, enter the lists.

That the Budget resolutions will be carri d by a large majority is, however, accepted as a foregone conclusion.

Last year the Government had to face the Opposition not only of Conservatives but also of the main body of Progressives and was able to carry the main Budget motion with a majority of only eight. This year, as has already been indicated by Robert Forke, Progressive Leader, Progressives will vote with the Government, thus ensuring the passing of the Budget, although there will be a few dissentions on the Government side.

The Labor amendment is not expected to receive much support on either side of the House.

Church Union Bill.

But, it is rather outside the House itself the chief interest lies. Day after day the Railway Committee room has been crowded for the battle over church union. Formal hearings on the preamble of the bill have closed. There now remains discussion by members of the committee before the vote on the preamble and consideration of the bill's provisions in detail. The general impression apparently is that the preamble of the bill will be adopted, although amendment of some of the clauses is probable. A number of amendments are stated now to be under discussion.

Home Bank Discussion.

In a double sense the Home Bank crash will be under discussion during the coming week. On Tuesday the Banking and Commerce Committee opens its inquiry into banking inspection and how far the Bank Act needs to be further amended by members of the committee are to be submitted, and the adoption of some form of independent audit is a likelihood. On the day following the McKeown Commission will continue its hearings on the Home Bank, hearing argument on the first phase of the inquiry.

On Wednesday also the Railway Committee of the House will continue its consideration of the remaining branch lines bills for the Canadian National Railways.

3,000 IMMIGRANTS ARRIVE IN QUEBEC

The Greater Part of These Left for Toronto and the Prairie Provinces.

QUEBEC, Que., May 10. — Immigration and other port officials were kept busy throughout the morning handling the large number of passengers landed here from five steamers, which docked since 7:30 yesterday evening.

Almost 3000 third class passengers, for the most part going to prairie provinces, had departed on trains, or were being attended to in the immigration building.

There was a party of 70 in the third class passengers on the C.P.R. Steampship Montlaurier, coming to this country in charge of the Salvation Army. The party left on the first of two C.P.R. trains which left early in the afternoon for Toronto and western points.

There were 367 adults and 63 children amongst the third class passengers who came under the Canadian government bonus arrangement.

The majority of the cabin passengers remained on the Montrose for the trip to Montreal, while the third class were placed on two west-bound trains in the afternoon.

Deaf mutes in the United States number almost 45,000.

AWAKENED CHURCH CAN BRING PEACE

Inspiring Message Delivered at St. Paul's Anniversary Services.

"The Divine Challenge," was the subject chosen by Rev. D. C. McGregor, D.D., of London, for his anniversary address in St. Paul's Presbyterian church yesterday morning. Large congregations worshipped at both services yesterday, marking the birthday of the church that was organized in 1835, and moved into its present home in 1859. Although 65 years old, St. Paul's church is one of the most comfortable of the city churches, and its congregation and pastor, with the best traditions of presbyterianism in Peterborough behind them, display a youthful zeal that binds them in a harmonious entity, working for the good of the community.

Assisted by Miss Nellye Gill, of Toronto, the choir rendered special selections last night that added to the beauty of the special service. The annual concert will be given to-night and with the augmented choir heard to so good advantage last night a musical treat is assured.

A Call to Christians.

As an anniversary message, Rev. Mr. McGregor brought a command from God to "Awake, awake, put on thy strength." The order issued to Israel has been resounding throughout the world down the ages, and it has not been heeded. In this age a new era has been ushered in by the greatest war in history. A new spirit is abroad. Humanity has heard the call, and in the dim light of a new day she is seeking her bearings.

China, Japan, India, Ireland and Russia, all are seeking after a new order. In the social world labor is restless; men are not willing to be considered as machinery, but demand a greater share of that which labor produces. As a cure for the unrest of the times some people say "If we only had pre-war conditions!" Can they forget that it was pre-war conditions that made war inevitable?

Others look at the old order as nothing but tyranny and oppression. They wish to get rid of everything that savors of the old, but it is being demonstrated in Russia that there is no virtue in a thing because it is new.

Between the two extremes humanity must choose her bath. Statesmen (the greatest in history) have formed their policies for reconstruction, but frankly admit it is impossible to put them into effect. Economists have to confess their inability to stabilize the world. Reformers have splendid plans but have not the power to give them effect. There is only one leading to take Jesus Christ seriously, for the world can trust. It must Men who denied the practicality of the sermon on the mount led the world to the hell of 1914.

"Is it not time," the speaker demanded, "that men began to consider whether there is a possibility that Jesus Christ knew what He was talking about in His sermon on the mount? Everything else has failed and His plan has never been tried."

Church must Awake.

God is looking to His church to lead the world back to Jesus. The challenge to the church is "Awake!" The church has the only message to save mankind. It has the opportunity with the leadership that will fulfil the world's highest destiny. Everywhere men are looking to the church, and so far the church has been asleep to the magnificence of the opportunity that is open to it.

"When the church, in response to the call of the world, and of her God, arises and is willing to sacrifice everything to declare the Gospel of Jesus Christ then and not till then, can she become the leader of humanity. God is calling to you and to me 'Awake, awake, put on thy strength.' Let us rise up in our might ,and no power in heaven or hell can stay the progress of the Christian church."

THE GUMPS—HELLO! GOOD BY

LODGES ATTEND CHURCH SUNDAY

Campbellford Oddfellows and Rebekahs Hear Good Sermon By Rev. G. C. Clarke.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 12.—Members of the local lodge of Oddfellows and of Rebekah lodge marched from their rooms in the Ferris block, last night to Christ Church, where the annual services of the order were held, the sermon being delivered by the rector, Rev. G. C. Clarke. The Rebekahs, marshalled by D. Montgomery, headed the parade to and from the church, making their first appearance on such an occasion since their organization. Sergt. George T. Salter was marshal of the men's lodge and among the marchers were Oddfellows and Rebekahs from Brighton and Havelock.

"Who Is My Neighbor?"

Rev. Mr. Clarke welcomed the visitors to the church, speaking of the great object of the organization, helping the unfortunate, than which no higher earthly mission could be undertaken. His sermon was based on the story of the Good Samaritan, as told by the Saviour as an answer to the question of the lawyer as to who was his neighbor. The highest kind of sympathy he said was that which is extended to anyone in need. The care of the unfortunate is the important work of the Oddfellows and the preacher prayed that in the carrying out of this work the Lord would bless and prosper the order.

The Good Samaritan Car

Relating the parable to the opportunities of the present day for doing good, the clergyman said that there were church people who like the priest who passed the wounded traveller on the other side of the way, failed to render help to those who stood in need of it. On their way to public worship they often passed others who seldom or never attended church and to these no help to do so was offered.

"How many of you "who have cars,' continued the preached, "have ever offered the use of them to cripples and other shut-ins who are unable to walk to church. Why not make your auto a Good Samaritan car. If you do you will derive pleasure from this service yourself, you will give pleasure to your clergyman and to the people whom you help.

Both Scripture lessons were read by E. A. Jenkins ,lay reader, and a fine musical programme, including besides the usual hymns an anthem rendered during the collection, was given by the choir.

After the services the members of the order marched back to their halls where an informal gathering was held the usual resolution of thanks to the preacher of the evening and to the officers of Christ Church being adopted.

Band Concert.

Congratulating the people of Campbellford upon the support which they have always given their band, Major J. F. B. Belford, who presided at the Sunday concert held in the Regent theatre last night, said that the band was more than a local institution. As it is the official band of the Northumberland Regiment, it can be regarded as a county institution. Campbellford residents were proud of the band, and the Major could assure them that this feeling of pride was shared by the people of the county. The town residents are to be congratulated upon the manner in which they have always patronized these concerts.

"Perhaps," said the speaker, "there may be some who are not in favor of holding these concerts on Sunday evenings. The greatest way to worship God is the musical way. You will be elevated to-night just as you have always been, by the splendid music which you will hear."

The programme contained a number of selections never before heard in the town and several of the old favorite tunes that were rendered by special request. The special features were solos by Mrs. L. Parish, a comparatively new resident, but who has already established a reputation as a gifted vocalist, violin selections by Cecil Sarles, and two solos, "Son of the Desert" and "Mother Macree" by Herb Leonard. The latter selection was given by special request of some of Mr. Leonard's admirers, who believed that the melody was one specially suited to his voice and their highest expectations were more than realized.

At every concert this season there was standing room only. Last night the attendance was larger than ever, which means that more people than usual were unable to gain admission.

Mother's Day at St. Andrew's

Mother's Day was observed by St. Andrew's Sunday School yesterday afternoon, the order of service followed being the one suggested by the Ontario Pilgrim's Education Council. J. A. Anderson, superintendent of the school presided and the address of the day was given by Dr. H. B. Longmore. Mrs. D. W. Douglas led in the responsive reading of one of the scriptural lessons and Mrs. A. Haig in the other.

Six little girls were called to the platform and were presented with white flowers to be given to the six eldest mothers in the congregation.

At the Regent

"Nero," perhaps the greatest picture ever flashed on a screen, bigger and more dazzling even than the "Birth of a Nation,' will be shown at the Regent Theatre the first three nights of this week. It is a picture of historic interest being one of the most thrilling chapters in Roman history and showing as it does the destruction of Rome by fire to the music of that heartless and profligate monarch, "Nero."

On account of the time required for presenting the picture the programme will begin at 7.45, the doors to be open at 7.15.

"A Chapter in Her Life," will be the feature for the last three nights of the weeks with the usual Saturday matinee. Another episode of the serial "Speed," will be shown on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings and at the matinee.

Dr. John Macoun died last evening after an extended illness. He was born in Seymour township about seventy years ago and was one of the first graduates of the High School here. He was well known throughout the district. A widow survives.

FARMER THROWN FROM HIS BUGGY

Alfred Wright of Manvers Had a Narrow Escape.

JANETVILLE, May 12. — What might have been a very serious accident occurred here, when Alfred Wright, who in company with a neighbor, was driving some cattle to Lindsay. He was thrown from his buggy to the ditch. One of the herd having bolted back Mr. Wright turned the rig quick and short, and the road being wet and slippery with the mud, the buggy was thrown on top of him as he landed in the ditch.

Though down and injured, he held the rearing horse till the other men came to his rescue. Mr. Wright having changed the harness for a safer set, proceeded to town, not much the worse for the exciting episode and thrilling experience.

CANADIAN LABOR A BURDEN TO U.S.

Samuel Gompers Admits Affiliation is Benefit Economically.

MONTREAL, May 12.—(Canadian Press.)—Canadian labor is a financial burden to the United States' organizations, rather than the reverse, said President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor in referring here yesterday to the relations between American and Canadian organized labor.

Mr. Gompers added that there had been much talk of the United States dictating, "But not long since I had a questionnaire sent out to officials in both Canada and the United States and we found that for every hundred dollars Canadian labor sends to us it gets three hundred dollars back in benefits of one kind or the other. Financially Canadian labor is a burden. Economically the alliance is of benefit to both."

WIFE OF COMPOSER DIED LATE SUNDAY

Mrs. Ella Beatty Harriss Passed Away In Ottawa After An Illness Dating Back to Last Christmas.

OTTAWA, May 12.—(Canadian Press.)—Mrs. Ella Beatty Harriss, wife of Dr. Charles Harriss, prominent Canadian composer and musical conductor, died at her home here yesterday after an illness dating back to last Christmas. A generous patron of both the theatrical and musical arts, Mrs. Harriss was also known as one of the capital's greatest philanthopists.

Born in Cobourg, Ont., the daughter of Dr. John Beatty, former Professor of Chemistry at Victoria College, Mrs. Harriss moved to Ottawa with her husband soon after her marriage and had resided here up until the time of her death.

Dr. Harriss, at the time that his wife's illness became serious, was in London, England, making preparations for the musical festival to be given at the Wembley Exhibition by the Imperial Choir on Empire Day, and which he is to conduct. He left for the Dominion immediately, however, and only arrived in Ottawa on Saturday, just one day before Mrs. Harriss succumbed. It is expected that he will be able to return to England in time to conduct the festival.

Funeral services will be held here Tuesday after which the remains will be taken to Cobourg for interment.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Town Council May Settle Dispute Over the Half-Holiday — How the Act Reads.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 12. — If the business men of Campbellford fail to reach an agreement on the half-holiday question, it is likely that the Town Council will be asked to settle the dispute. The feeling is general that it is impossible to carry on business in the town successfully if part of the stores are closed on one day and the remainder on another.

It is nothing unusual to hear it stated here that the Council has no say in the matter of a weekly half-holiday, and that its power is limited to setting a closing hour for the stores and other places where labour is employed on the petition of those interested.

Council Has Jurisdiction.

By an amendment to the Factory Act passed at the 1921 session of the Provincial Legislature an amendment that was fathered by O. E. Swazie, Labour Minister at that time, from Niagara Falls, and which received the Royal assent on 3rd May of that year, the Councils of municipalities were given practically unlimited power in such matters. The Council has the right to set the day of the week on which the half-holiday is to be observed. One element of contention is thus eliminated so far as the people are concerned. All that the latter have to do is to petition for a half-holiday without necessarily naming he day which they prefer. If there is any dispute on this point the settlement rests with the Council.

The Amendment.

The text of the amendment to the Factory Act is as follows:

"If an application is presented to the Council of a city or town, praying for the passing of a by-law requiring the closing of any class of shops situate in the municipality and the Council is satisfied that such application is signed by not less than three-fourths in numbers of the occupiers of shops within the municipality and belonging to the class to which such application relates, the Council shall within one month after the presentation of such application, pass a by-law giving effect thereto, and requiring all shops within the municipality belonging to the class specified in the application to be closed and remain closed on one particular day of the week during such time or hours between 12.30 o'clock noon and five of the clock of the forenoon of the next following day and during such periods of the year as are named in the application."

It will be noted that the selection of the day is a matter resting entirely with the Council. The business men, however, can agree as to the hours their stores are to be closed, and can ask for a weekly half-holiday during as many months of the year as they please.

The amendment quoted above is part of the Factory Act, and an extension of the scope of that measure which has been in force for years. In the main Act the widest interpretation is given the term 'shop," which is defined as any place where labour is employed.

If such a petition were presented to the Council, it should contain the names, in separate sections, of the men engaged in the various lines of industry. Factories or manufacturing concerns of any kind can join in the movement, but as there is usually not more than one of these of a particular class in a community, the question of a weekly half-holiday really rests entirely with the management.

The amendment quoted above may be found on page 267 of the Statutes of Ontario for 1921. The Factory Act is given in the Revised Statutes of Ontario, on page 3 074.

The Act provides that the by-law shall take effect not earlier than one week or later than two weeks after being passed by the Council.

How By-law is Enforced.

A half holiday by-law is enforced just as are any similar measures passed by a council. The Chief of Police is required to see that all stores or shops included in the by-law are closed and to summon to the police court all those who violate its provisions. The council can set the penalty to be imposed on those convicted, authority to do so being given in the following provision of the Act.

"The provisions of the Municipal Act as to the penalties which may be imposed for contravention of by-laws and the recovery thereof shall apply to by-laws passed under this section."

Department Stores.

If a store sells both dry goods and groceries, or handles two or more lines of any kind, the Act provides that such stores shall be classed according to the amount of business transacted or revenue received from the several lines. The man who sells groceries and dry-goods can really decide for himself whether to sign the petition of the grocers or the dry goods dealers as he is supposed to know which of his lines is the more profitable.

As it Affects Druggists.

If the druggists by a majority, ask for a half holiday and are included in the by-law, they are, owing to the nature of their business, allowed a certain latitude. During the closed hours they may provide a customer with drugs and medicine, but they must not open their store or allow any one to enter it.

The town of Renfrew and other municipalities in Ontario adopted this system of securing a weekly half holiday soon after the amendment took effect in 1921.

British Premier Inspires Trust

LONDON, May 12.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The Sunday Times which is by no means enamoured of the present British government remarks on the spontaneity wherewith Premier Poincare of France accepted Premier MacDonald's invitation to visit him as a striking testimony to the genius for inspiring confidence "which is the British premiers outstanding characteristic.'

While it would be idle to deny that considerable obstacles to complete agreement exist between the two governments says the Times "it is eminently satisfactory to learn that the Premiers have decided to get together for discussion of the Dawes report before encountering one another in solemn inter-allied conclave.'

With this arrangement a person might not get a prize in some particular race but will yet obtain a certain number of points that will count towards the winnng of the cup. A person winning the cup three years in succession will retain the cup permanently a stheir own property.

With the addition of the Girls' ball game and suitable change in the list of races the field day committee have made plans that should ensure the most successful field day yet held. The Maple Leafs of Peterboro as winners of the men's cup last year are expected to be present in full force this year with a determined effort to again win the honors from the Keene team. GRATEFUL PARENTS POUR OUT THANKS TO TANLAC

Five In One Family Are Helped — Mother And Father Give Details.

The value of Tanlac as a family medicine and tonic is again very forcibly demonstrated. This time in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Kaake, 2436 Kirby Avenue, West, Detroit, Michigan, where father and mother and every member of the family have been benefited by the wholesome and helpful ingredients of the famous preparation.

Recently in speaking for herself and children, Mrs. Kaake said: "For more than a year our three little ones—John, age 6, Elwyn, age 4, and Margarite, age 2, had been so peaked and lifeless that we were seriously worried about them. Their stomachs were upset, appetites poor, the color had left their cheeks, their nights were restless, ad during the day they would just mope around taking no interest in their play or anything else.

"They began to eat and sleep better almost from the first dose of Tanlac and have picked up until now you could not find three healthier or more active children in all Detroit. They eat ravenously, the color of health has returned to their cheeks, and they just want to be on the go all the time. I have also taken Tanlac to build me up and it never seems to fail."

"As to my personal experience with Tanlac," said Mr. Kaake, "I simply can't express in words the great help it gave me. About a year ago I was a victim of boils, actually having 51 on me, and was so played out that I could not do a bit of work for weeks and my suffering was almost unbearable. I cared little for food, suffered with severe headaches and stomach pains, and got so weak and nervous that I felt discouraged.

"Tanlac corrected my stomach disorders, woke up my appetite, cleansed my blood and toned up my system so that the boils went away, and nothing of the kind has bothered me since. I have gained 28 lbs., and I eat, sleep and feel like a brand new man. We have given Tanlac a fair trial and found it wonderful, and if anyone doubts our statement they can write personally. We wouldn't think of being without Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Premier King has announced that legislation will probably be brought down this session to make the pension bonus permanent. There should not be a voice raised in objection in the House.

With trout fishing in full swing the season of the fish story has arrived.

Rumour has it that the plebiscite on the Ontario Temperance Act will take place in June. A hot month for a hot battle, as it were.

Now that Mothers' Day is over, when does Dad come into his own?

Members of Parliament who thought that political arguments were bad enough now realize that a theological fight makes the ordinary kind seem tame.

Day by day, in every way, Budget debaters talk the time away.

In clearing the brush and shrubs from the southern point of Riverside Park the city staff has greatly added to the appearance of the picturesque athletic ground.

THE FALLEN HEROES.

In planting maple trees in memory of her sons who fell in the Great War the village of Omemee is following the example of a number of other communities who have adopted this beautiful method of keeping the memory of war heroes ever green.

It is well that such means should be taken to preserve from oblivion the names of the fallen.

Public memory is short; the war days have gone, the promises are forgotten, the suffering and the anxiety have faded into the past.

Who would have talked during the days of war of ever trading with a German again?

And yet the first freighter to arrive at a St. Lawrence port this year carried a cargo of German goods.

Our children made merry with German toys on Christmas morning.

The boy with a mouth-organ over on the street corner plays none the less cheerfully because the instrument was made in Germany.

It is fitting that we should plant trees and erect monuments to save the names of the men who gave up everything for Canada from being forgotten.

MORE PARKING FACILITIES.

A local problem that should attract some attention from the city authorities is that caused by the ever-greater increase in the use of the motor car for purposes of business and pleasure, i.e., the problem of parking facilities.

Automobiles are being more and more used, and the question of where they are to be parked in the business section is becoming a serious one.

The market square is available most of the time, but the accommodation there is not enough to take care of the problem, and the result has been that cars are parked anywhere on the streets where the owners consider it safe to leave them.

The time has come when definite parking areas should be established.

In many centres this has been done by designating certain streets as a zone, the centre of the roadway being used for parking purposes.

Simcoe street has been suggested as suitable for such an arrangement, and several other streets have been named in a similar connection.

The problem should be looked into by the City Council, and some recognition given the fact that the growth in motor traffic has created new conditions which must be dealt with.

THE SOUTH AFRICAN SITUATION.

Although it is difficult at this distance to judge the situation accurately, it is evident from the despatches from South Africa that General Smuts' is engaged in the hottest political fight of his career, and that the result of the present election campaign is by no means certain.

Canadians are not as interested as, being citizens of the British commonwealth, they should be in the South African election or in the policies of the parties.

Briefly, it may be said that General Smuts stands for the British connection and is supported by leaders of thought among the British and Boers.

The Nationalist Party is headed by General Hertzog, one of the old Kruger school, who would unreservedly support a severance from the Empire and the formation of a republic were it not for the fact that he cannot hope to secure power without the assistance of the Labour Party.

The latter has at its head an Englishman by birth, Lieut.-Col. Creswell, who in coming to an agreement with the Nationalists insisted that the Republican plank of General Hertzog should be dropped.

Thus we have on one side the Government, strong for British connection, and on the other a queer alliance of extreme Nationalists, almost all Dutch-speaking, and Labour, composed for the most part of British workers, but both opposed to the middle party.

THE COMMUNITY FESTIVAL.

The announcement of a community musical festival in which the Peterborough Symphony Orchestra, the Male Voice Choir and Messrs. R. A. Brown and M. H. Park, prize winning vocalists, will be heard in the test numbers used in the recent Ontario Musical Festival, will, the Examiner is sure, be received with pleasure by the citizens generally.

The splendid showing of these organizations and of Messrs. Brown and Park in the Ontario competition brought much honour to their home city, demonstrating as it did the progress made along musical lines in Peterborough, and their fellow-citizens should show their appreciation by liberally patronizing Friday's festival.

A musical organization cannot be carried on without considerable expense.

The Symphony Orchestra, for example, has had to purchase a number of instruments, while both the choir and orchestra found the trip to Toronto a heavy drain upon the available funds.

It is hoped that Friday night's event will be sufficiently successfully financially to meet these obligations.

There is not the slightest doubt about the artistic success of the occasion, and music-lovers of Peterborough, by rallying to the support of the festival, can be sure that they will hear a most enjoyable programme and at the same time do honour to those who have worthily represented this city in competition against the rest of the Province.

MISTAKEN ECONOMY.

The reported cut of $50,000 from the Federal grant to the Provinces for the control of veneral diseases was referred to by the Examiner not long ago as a mistake in policy.

The reasons given for attacking the grant are that the Government must economize, that the grant is unconstitutional under the British North America Act and that the Provinces ought to look after health matters themselves.

As to the first of these reasons surely it is false economy for Canada to follow any policy which means more inmates in the asylums and hospitals and a high death rate, just as it is true economy to adhere to a policy which will further the ends of health.

The British North America Act does not place the responsibility for health matters on the Provinces as a casual reading of that Act will convince any observer.

The truth of the matter is that with the establishment of the Federal Department of Health Canada came to the parting of the ways insofar as health in the Dominion is concerned.

In 1919 it was definitely decided that for the Dominion to co-operate in a Dominion-wide health programme is not only constitutional but good, patriotic common sense.

The point at issue then, as now, was whether Canadians think the health and happiness of the people of Canada of paramount importance and, therefore, worthy of a real co-ordinated scheme planned for the attainment of such ends, or whether they think that a slip-shod, go-as-you-please, unco-ordinated plan, such as existed before, is good enough.

The decision then arrived at was a momentous one, which was looked upon as constituting the fruition of the ambitions and ideals of thousands whose point of view had been arrived at only because they had dreamed of the day when parliamentarians would welcome an opportunity to concentrate on definite plans for the health and welfare of the people.

The decision was sound and right.

The fine piece of work which has resulted by reason of the venereal disease grant is ample proof of that.

And now it seems that this grant is in danger, and by virtue of that danger the whole principle to which the Federal Department of Health owes its being.

THE TATTERED EMBLEM.

Many strange things have come from Chicago. We have had pressed beef, the poetry of Carl Sandberg—and wind. But perhaps the strangest thing of all is the protest from a bishop of the American Episcopal Church against the large number of service flags reposing in European churches "commemorating service to country and all that," to quote His Lordship's airy phrase. This shocked the bishop; hence his protest.

Surely there is some weird error here. Surely Bishop Anderson of Chicago has made a strange mistake when he describes the flags as commemorating "how one set of Christians killed another set of Christians." It is difficult to grasp the viewpoint, particularly when we recall that in his own country the flag is the supreme symbol, the one thing above all others to which the whole nation bows, the power before which even the President doffs his hat. It cannot be that he conceives the flag stands for different ideals in different lands, nor is it possible that a foreign flag should seem to him any less sacred than his own.

What is possible is that Bishop Anderson has never taken the trouble to examine any of these emblems of faith held high before the uttermost test of human suffering, these colors blessed by priests of many churches—including his own—and sanctified by the life-blood of hundreds of thousands of the finest flowering youth who died because they believed they were fighting for a cause sacred to the God the bishop serves. Had Bishop Anderson taken the trouble to examine any one of these service flags, and had he found out what the men who omade the regiments of which these colors are now in many instances the sole surviving memory did, in what they believed to be the cause of world-freedom, he might have hesitated before suggesting that they commemorate slaughter.

Or should the bishop, by any happy chance, find time to drop in to the dim, cool spaces of the old Abbey at Westminster next time he goes to London, he might note hung high upon the time-stained walls, dark, tattered remnants of flags—some of them centuries old. And he might care to hear what they stood for in a day when the Faith men held admitted of less argument and stood for a less complex ideal. And if he should come to realize, in the end, that the service flag is not a memento of slaughter, but of sacrifice, made to the end that slaughter may be less and less possible on earth among men, then we feel confident that the bishop will be genuinely glad to find that his sense of shock was, after all, merely a misinterpreted realization of the magnitude of man's capacity for service to his fellow-man.—Montreal Star.

A FEW KIND WORDS FOR THE ENGLISH SPARROWS

CHAPEL HILL, N.C., May 9.—(United Press).—The North Carolina Geological Economic Survey finds some good in the English sparrow, "ornithological outlaw," "a veritable Hun for fecundity." Millions of the birds infest America. They multiply rapidly.

The survey "gives the devil his dues." The sparrow is keenly insectiverous, according to the State's experts, and plays an important part in ridding the earth of superfluous bugs. Sparrows have been noted running down cabbage rows and gobbling worms with wild enthusiasm. They have been known to clean a tobacco patch with equal gusto. They do their part in helping keep down insect life on trees.

The English sparrow has also been slandered by the assertion that it drives off native birds. This is largely a fable, the survey says. Many song birds do not worry about the sparrow. "The bluebird, for instance, can whip many times his weight in sparrows."

All in all, the survey holds, the sparrow is a great nuisance, but "he bears his death sentence lightly, knowing it cannot be executed. To such a man of family the question of posterity is an easy oyster!"

"A few pairs were brought into this country in the seventies. These now number two or more billions," the survey estimates.

A Thought

COURAGE

Where is your record of yesterday?
Is it near the top or low?
Well, what does it matter anyway,
If you've watched the score and know?

The biggest men in the world to-day
Began—and some jobs were mean—
But they won because they were willing to play
The game out fair and clean.

They cared not a whit that the odds were long
For their faith in themselves was fine;
They faced the mark with a courage strong
And headed straight for the line.

It's playing the big game right that pays,
It's not what you win, but how.
So forget to regret the wasted days,
Start right on a new one Now.

RUSSIAN SINGER IN MISSION WORK

Prima Donna of the Pre-Bolshevist Days, Maria Karinskaya Escaped to China and Became a Missionary.

WINNIPEG, May 12.— Station workers, travellers and passers-by were thrilled at the Canadian National depot here Saturday when Madame Maria A. Karinskaya, Russian prima donna, sang the only hymn she knew in English for a group gathered around her in the depot. Madame Karinskaya, the popular idol of both society and peasant class before the revolution in Russia, was forced from her country three years ago by the Bolshevist who sought her life. She escaped to Honan, Honan China, and there took up missionary work. She has renounced her past life, and declared to reporters: "I am going to serve God."

The Russian singer is en route to Toronto to study missionary work before returning to the Orient. She will be introduced to church authorities by Rev. J. Goforth, a missionary of the Presbyterian church, who is returning to his home in the east.

Children Victimized By Health Authorities.

SARNIA, May 12 (Canadian Press): — Sarnia children who have been absent from school through refusal on the part of their parents to have them vaccinated are not so lucky as they might have thought.

Following the arrangement of the Medical Health Officer, Dr. William Logie, the Board of Health has decided that they shall attend school for the summer term in order that examinations will not be missed.

At the commencement of the school term, however, these children must present certificates of vaccination before they will be admitted to school.

MONTREAL TO DEMAND DEEPER SHIP CHANNEL

Harbor Commissioners Intimate Pressure to Be Directed to Government For Use of the Dredges Lying Idle at Sorel — Affected By Chicago Diversion.

MONTREAL, May 12.—(Canadian Press).—Public notice that the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal intend to bring pressure to bear on the Government to have the ship channel deepened in accordance with the growing needs of the port was given by Dr. W. L. McDougald, President of the Harbor Board, at a staff dinner here Saturday evening at which the guests of honor were Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and Hon. E. M. MacDonald, Minister of National Defence.

The dinner was also the occasion of the bestowal by Hon. E. M. MacDonald on behalf of the British Admiralty of the Reserve Decoration of the Royal Naval Reserve, on Lieut. Commander J. F. Symons, Harbor Master of Montreal.

"I wish to serve notice upon honorable Minister, Mr. Cardin, that we are not satisfied with the present depth of the channel and that we propose to start a campaign to have it deepened," announced Dr. MacDougald. "It seems to me a pity to allow a fleet of dredges to lie dormant at Sorel when they might be doing such good work."

The harbor President said the present depth of water in the ship channel was becoming more and more inadequate by reason of the greater tonnage of vessels coming to the port and because of the diversion of water from the Great Lakes which lowered the level here.

Hon. P. J. A. Cardin spoke in French and English and said that as regards the Ministry of Marine and Fisheries, he could state positively that all officials from the Minister and Deputy-Minister downwards were fully alive to the importance of maintaining the present and past efficiency of the port of Montreal.

Hon. E. M. MacDonald touched on the St. Lawrence waterways question and said that the Government had appointed a national committee made up the most able men in the country and that the matter was safe in their hands.

Ready For Third Assault On World's Highest Peak

The British Expect This Year to Scale Mount Everest, the Great Unconquered Goddess Mother.

By CLIFFORD L. DAY.

LONDON, May 12 — (United Press).—Out in the cold and wind and crags of the Himalayas, thirteen explorers are pushing forward in final preparations for the third British assault on Mount Everest, the great, unconquered Goddess Mother of the Snows, whose heag is the highest ascertained point on the surface of the globe.

In a race with the annual southwest monsoon, the schedule for this year's attempt was advanced nearly two months on that of the second expedition of 1922.

The party two years ago was balked by gales and rains, resulting in physical exhaustion, after it had climbed to within a half-mile of the summit. Four oxygen cylinders, dumped by these climbers about 1,700 feet below the top of the 29,000-foot giant, mark the greatest height ever trodden by human footprint.

The present expedition is headed by Brig.-Gen. Charles Granville Bruce, who is 58 years old. Doctors' orders and his age do not permit the General himself to go higher than 16,500 feet or live in parts where the thermometer registers much below zero. He expects, therefore, to direct operations from a base camp about three-quarters of the way up.

Accompanying General Bruce are five other veterans and seven new members. The old-timers are Major E. F. Norton, second-in-command; George Leigh-Mallory, Dr. T. Howard Somervell, Captain Geoffrey Bruce, transport officer, and Captain J. B. Noel, photographer and cinematographer. The three first-named broke the world's climbing record two years ago by reaching 26,985 feet. Captain Bruce is a cousin of the expedition commander. The only member who has taken part in all three expeditions is Leigh-Mallory.

Th remaining seven principals are Major Henry Treise Morshead, N. E. Odell, geologist; Bentley Beetham, ornithologist; A. C. Irvine, J. de V. Hazard, Major R. W. G. Hingston, medical officer, and E. O. Shebbeare. All are experienced climbers excepting Irvine, who is the youngest member. Irvine rowed in Oxford boat against Cambridge in 1922 and was in line for the presidency of the Oxford University Boat Club, when he decided to walk up Everest instead of running for office.

Part Taken by Natives.

Four Gurkha non-commissioned officers, two of whom were in the 1922 climb, also are in the party, besides a number of native porters. General Bruce had seventy-five coolies with him on the previous attempt. The mule-men play a big part in the success of a venture such as this, and these are selected from among natives who work regularly seven months of the year carrying wood from Tibet down to Kalimpong. They are men who understand thoroughly the art of unloading and driving mules.

After General Bruce returned from his former venture he paid a high tribute to these native assistants.

"I do not think ever before in the history of Himalayan exploration," he said, "have men been called on to do harder, or even as hard, work. I think their performance was aboslutely without precedent. The track itself was very rough, the elevation was very great, and yet these men put a full month's stores into these camps four or five, ranging from 16,500 to 21,000 feet up) sufficient to keep twelve Europeans and fifty of themselves. They also carried the great oxygen outfit, tents and Alpine equipment, and an immense mass of stuff.

"Further than that, as soon as those camps were established they moved what was required to form the base at Chang La, Camp 4, and there carried loads for the first climbing party to 25,000 feet, and for the second party to 25,000 feet. I may point out that only one one occasion before has a camp been slept in for one night at 23,000 feet. The camp on Chang La was continually occupied by quite large parties, as mountaineering parties go. One man even made four trips to the 25,000 foot camp, on one occasion carrying as much as 40 pounds."

The 1922 party were camped on the very edge of tremendous precipices, falling away to the East Rong buk and Main Rongbuk glaciers, when they were overtaken by a terrific storm. Although they braved its fury and continued the climb, the battle and an insufficient supply of food weakened them so much that shortly afterwards they abandoned the assault.

Mountain Had Won

"The great mountain, with its formidable array of defensive weapons, had won," was the way George I. Finch, a member, finished his narration of the struggle. Stored oxygen, "English air," the natives call it, saved the attackers from freezing or worse on more than one occasion. The average pace of Major Norton Leigh-Mallory and Dr. Somervell on the last stage of their record-breaking climb in 1922 was about 400 feet an hour.

Several experienced members of this years' expedition were in Darjeeling as early as March 1. By the last week in March plans had been perfected for forwarding all the heavy stores and the oxygen apparatus to Phari Dzong .General Bruce expects to leave the main road to Lhasa at this point for the journey westwards. Stopping places have been mapped out all the way from the grand base at Rongbuk Camp up to the Alpine base at North Col Camp.

The expedition's commanding officer expresses the utmost confidence in the success of this attempt. He believes it has resolved itself mainly into a race with the monsoon Provided the march across Tibet is made without a hitch, it is expected there will be a week's more time for the final preparations than was the case two years ago.

FRANK HODGES SCORES CURZON

Typical Example of the Aristocracy, Says Labor Minister — Government Playing a "Wonderful Game."

LONDON, May 12.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Frank Hodges, civil lord of the admiralty, speaking at Wiltshire Sunday concerning Viscount Curzon's occupancy of the foreign office in the two former ministries, described him as a typical example of the aristocracy, a real blue blood, proud, arrogant, aloof and distant who was regarded by conservative institutions as the backbone for all that was orderly and progressive.

For three years, said Mr. Hodges, Curzon outlawed the great nation of Russia and kept her from the family of nations but Premier MacDonald recognized Russia at once.

"It is a wonderful game we are playing," exclaimed Hodges. "We number only 192 out of 600, yet we are the greatest government in the world made up of men from the railways, the mines and the desks. The country is no longer run by the sons of those God-given persons who claimed to alone possess the capacity to govern."

RICE LAKE LEVEL LOW THIS SPRING

Marshes Have Not Been Flooded — Most of Fish Spawn May Be Saved.

BAILIEBORO, May 12. — Ever since the ice has moved off the lake last month, the water has been unusually low. Other springs the water has been held back by the locks at Hastings, and this caused the water to become so high in the lake that it overflowed the banks and filled the marshes with water; also quite often covering the wharves completely over with water. As soon as the first warm weather arrives the larger fish that inhabit Rice Lake find their way into the water in the marshes and there they lay their spawn, but before the time the spawn was hatched the water in the lake was lowered to its normal height, thus the fish spawn was left on dry land, and in this way there have been thousand of fish spawn wasted yearly. This year, however, on account of the water having been kept low, the fish were unable to get over the bank into the marshes, and it is generally thought that the majority of the fish spawn will be saved this season.

One of the pioneers of South Monaghan has stated that before the locks were built at Hastings, the water in Rice Lake was so low that while paddling a boat from the north shore to Stoney Island, a distance of about two miles, that nearly all the way he was hitting the bottom

Presented Play

On Friday evening the play "Aunt Susan's Visit" was presented with great success by the "Cheerful Worker's Class of the Methodist Sunday School. In spite of the inclement weather a large crowd filled the auditorium of the hall and the receipts came to about $73.

The play itself was full of fun and humour, "Aunt Susan"—Miss Jennie Smyth—adding greatly to the humorous side of the play. A number of local jokes were added. The play was concluded by a real old-fashioned programme given in honour of Aunt Susan by local talent aided by Mrs. Herrington of Cordova.

Mr. B. Airhart spent Thursday in Millbridge on business.

BEAUTY SHOWS, REVUES CONDEMNED BY WOMEN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 12. "Unscrupulous exploitation of young womanhood in beauty shows, pageants and revues" was deplored in a resolution adopted unanimously by the thirtieth annual convention of the New Jersey state federation of women's clubs here Saturday.

"These unspoiled flowers are attracted as butterflies to the light,' Mrs. Sophie Irene Loeb, chairman of the national child welfare association, said in speaking of girls who participate in such competitions.

Orchid Growth is Hastened Two Years By Bottle-Feeding of Sugars and Salts

ITHACA, N. Y., May 12.—Orchids that are maturing two years sooner than under natural conditions and treated bacteriologically so as to obtain practically 100 per cent. germination are being grown by Professor Louis Knudson, botanist of Cornell University, at the State College of Agriculture here.

These bottle-fed flowers were planted in sterilized tubes five years ago. By feeding them essential salts and sugars and eliminating micro-organisms which ordinarily prove destructive to plant life, Professor Knudson is hopeful of almost perfect germination.

After a few month's growth in these tubes, the seedlings are transferred to large flasks containing the same culture medium. Under such favorable conditions, the plants grow rapidly, and when they have five or six leaves, and roots an inch or two in length they are transplanted to open pots.

Professor Knudson, who will address the American Orchid Society at Horticultural Hall in Boston on May 10, in speaking of his process to-day, said:

"The great advantage of growing the seedlings in this way is that a high percentage of germination is assured, and once the seeds are sown or transplanted, no further attention is required until time to transplant the seedlings to pots maintained in the open.

"Furthermore, during the first year or more of growth under these conditions there is no danger from insects or parasite fungi. Another advantage is that it is possible to get larger seedlings at the end of a year than by the ordinary methods.

SHINGLED-HEAD CRAZE MAY DISCOURAGE HAIR

Inventor of Nestle Wave Claims Barber Shears Should Be Banned.

A few more years of the bobbed hair craze and the women of this country will be as bald as the men.

This is the warning which Charles Nestle, originator of the Nestle wave, broadcast to all shingle belles in an address before the sixth annual convention of the American Master Hair Dressers' Association.

Mr. Nestle has passed the greater part of a long life in the study of hair from the roots to the split ends. And he does not lack scientific data to back up his ominous prophecy of to-day.

Hach separate hair, he explained, is supported by a tiny muscle at the base of the hair follicle. As the hair grows longer, and so heavier, the muscle grows proportionately stronger.

Deprived of Exercise.

But if the hair is cut, the muscle is deprived of its normal exercise and grows weak, like an unused arm, until it eventually loses its function, and the hair falls out. That, says Mr. Nestle, is why men grow bald.

"The bob will wear itself out of its own accord when people discover the folly of it," said Mr. Nestle. "The bobbed hair flapper will probably be a bald-headed old lady. The most beautiful hair is that which is allowed to grow unhampered by the clippers from babyhood on. As long as the barbers rule the waves, woman's hair will never be her crowning glory."

NOT GUILTY.

The prisoner at the bar looked anxious.

"Does dat mean I have to give up the watch?" he asked.—Pearson's Weekly.

For You—A Free Test

The way to prettier teeth, new safety, new delights

This offers your home something everybody prizes—whiter, cleaner, safer teeth. It has brought these benefits to millions, the world over. The results are seen in every circle now.

Make this free test. Learn what this method means to you and yours.

Film must be combated

Film is the great tooth enemy—that viscous film you feel. Under old-way cleaning methods, much of it clings and stays.

Film becomes discolored, then forms dingy, clinging coats. That is why so many teeth look cloudy.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

You can better escape those troubles by efficiently fighting film.

Dental science has now found effective film combatants. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities have proved these methods effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

People the world over have adopted this method, because of evident results. Leading dentists of some 50 nations are advising it today.

None who see can doubt

Pepsodent effects are seen and felt at once. It does more than fight film. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the ptyalin in saliva, there to digest starch deposits on teeth. These combined effects bring at once a new conception of clean teeth.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Then you will realize what a tooth paste should accomplish. Cut out coupon now.

Prctect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

SAYS LANGLEY PUT $105,000 IN BANKS

Prosecutor in Liquor Plot Case Charges Money Was Accumulated in Three Years.

COVINGTON, Ky., May 8.—Representative John W. Langley, of Kentucky, deposited in Washington, D.C., and Kentucky banks during his three years as a member of Congress, sums totaling $105,000, although his salary as Congressman is only $7,500 per year, United States District Attorney Sawyer Smith told a jury in Federal Court here Tuesday, where Langley, with four other defendants, are being tried on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Government through the illegal removal of whisky from a Government warehouse.

The District Attorney's statement was made following the reading of the indictment returned against the defendants April 7, and while he was making his opening remarks to the jury which had just been selected. Talking for thirty minutes, Prosecutor Smith outlined the Government's case and told the jury of the evidence against the defendants.

Langley, with M. E. Hutch, Alliance, Ohio; Walter B. Carey, Canton, Ohio, and Milton Lipschutz and Albert F. Slater of Philadelphia, were indicted of three counts, Smith told the jurors. The first count charges conspiracy to defraud the Government of taxes on the whisky, and the second charges conspiracy to sell the liquor, while the third alleged conspiracy to transport the whisky from the belle of Anderson Distillery, near Lawrenceburg, Ky., to Philadelphia and other points in violation of the law which provides that liquor cannot be transported from a Government warehouse by truck.

Removed for Medicinal Purposes.

The whisky, Smith said, was removed from the distillery ostensibly for medical purposes, but was really sold for beverage purposes, thus defrauding the Government out of $4.40 per gallon in taxes. The defendants, it was charges, removed 1,400 cases and defrauded the Government of more than $17,000. The indictment charged the whisky was removed by illegal permit.

"Before that liquor could be taken from the distillery," Smith told the jury, "the records had to be fixed to make it appear it was used for medicinal

LAWLESSNESS CAUSES LARGE PART OF AMERICA'S ADVERSE BALANCES

If it Had Not Been for the Smuggling of Liquor in U. S. in 1923 Their Balance Would Have Been $150,000,000.

Lawlessness of a particularly notorious kind accounts for at least 20 per cent. of America's "adverse balance" in international payments for 1923, as officially computed by the Department of Commerce.

The Department, adding up all exports of merchandise, precious metals, services and capital, and subtracting them from the sum total of all similar items imported, finds that the 1923 balance against the United States was $150,000,000. To the item of merchandise lawfully imported is added "$30,000,000 for smuggled liquors." If it had not been, therefore, for the flood of bootleg liquors pouring into this country, the adverse balance, as computed by the Department, would have been only $120,000,000.

Thus in one department of the government compelled, in order to make an accurate analysis of the nation's foreign trade, to record formally the inability of other arms of the government to put a stop to what amounts to a massed violation of a section of our criminal law, especially dignified by specific authorization in the Constitution—"the supreme law of the land."

"Rum Row" Business increased 50% .

It is particularly significant thatd the Department finds violation materially on the increase, for whereas it estimates the value of illicit liquor importations in 1922 at $20,000,000, it places the figure for 1923 at $30,000,000—an increase of 50%. Even this figure is held to be considerably below the mark of actual bootleg imports drawing payments out of the country during 1923, since, as the Department points out, a large volume was brought in through channels and from sources impossible to include in its estimates. In regard to this most "invisible" of imports, paradoxically added to the chief "visible" item, that is, to merchandise imports, the Department's statement says:

"The figures given for imports and exports of merchandise are somewhat larger than those reported in the Monthly Summary of Foreign Commerce of the United States, as they include an allowance for unreported imports and exports. Even so, there is little doubt that the actual values of both imports and exports were larger than stated in the table, both because official valuations for suctoms purposes are likely to be low and because conservative estimates have been used for the values not officially recorded.

"The chief unreported item of imports is smuggled liquors. Estimates of this vary widely. The only possible statistical check is the amount of liquors officially reported as exported from those countries suspected of furnishing the bulk of the supply and the amount imported into neighbouring countries in excess of their estimated local consumption. On this basis we reckoned the amount imported in 1922 as $20,000,000. By a similar method of reckoning the amount in 1923 was about $30,000,000. This, however, must be considered as little better than a guess, and since it omits entirely the liquors manufactured in neighboring countries for sale in the United States is probably below the truth."

The moral significance of this item is not negatived by its economic insignificance amid merchandise imports of nearly four billion dollars, for whatever oue's attitude toward the liquor question, there is something peculiarly humiliating to national pride in the spectacle of a cordion of foreigners thrown about the country by land and sea for the specific purpose of flouting our laws—to the tune of more than thirty million dollars a year for more Mr less deleterious, and uniformly inferior, liquors not worth a tithe of that amount.

Excess of Foreign Investments Here.

In an entirely different category of especial interest falls the analysis made by the Department of the movement of capital between the United States and other parts of the world during 1923. As Secretary Hoover points out: "The outstanding feature of the balance sheet for the year is the rather anomalous movement of a large amount of capital to investment in the United States, which can be readily accounted for as the 'flight of capital' from countries of unstable currency to us in order to secure itself on a gold basis."

Whereas, by all the anticipations of the after-war international economists, of which there has been a bumper-crop, the United States should now be lustily supplying capital to the rest of the world in large amounts through dollar foreign loans and the purchase of foreign securities, as a matter of fact, the capital movement was in the opposite direction during 1923. Americans took foreign investments to the amount of only $410,000,000, which was less than half the total taken in 1922, while foreigners bought American securities and repurchased their own obligations held by Americans or the American government, to an aggregate amount of $485,000,000, an item $160,000,000 greater than the similar figure for 1922. As a net result, whereas the United States on balance advanced the world $638,000 000 in 1922, and even more in the two years before that, in 1923 the world technically advanced $75,000,000 to America, which did not need a cent of outside credit.

United States Likely to Lose Gold.

This over-turn in the "balance of capital," which has become equal in significance to the time-honored "balance of trade" must be looked upon as a special phenomenon, and not as a return to the old-time currents of international finance that normally brought great volumes of foreign capital into the United States each year to build our railroads and exploit our natural resources. As to the cause of the phenomenon, Secretary Hoover says:

"Although we did not maintain our position as the chief lending country of the world, that was due, not to lack of capital on our part, but to the unsettled conditions abroad, making foreign investment less attractive to American investors."

It is fair to assume that, with the establishment of better conditions abroad, the flow of capital for a period at least will normally be out of the United States, on balance, rather than into it. Such events as the $100,000,000 Morgan loan to France to support the franc, arresting as it did the flight of capital from that country, and the Dawes plan, aimed to bring order out of financial chaos abroad and implying as it does not only more stable conditions in Europe but American participation in credits to Germany, are influences tending to promote the flow of capital out of the United States rather than into it.

MORE THIS

More Financial Aid to South America.

Another significant feature of the Department's analysis of the international capital movement in 1923, is the fact that Latin America took the lead away from Europe in attracting American investments. In 1922 European government and corporate securities of all kinds issued in the United States aggregated in point of new capital, $229,000,000. Latin-American issues totalled $205,600,000. In 1923 European issues totalled $112,600,000. The Latin-American total was $115,700,000. European financing by America thus fell off by nearly 51%; Latin-American financing by 43%.

The Trade Balance Sheet.

The effort of the Department of Commerce to supply a scientific analysis of the foreign trade balance sheet of the United States marks a distinct advance over previous efforts to perform this important service, whether by the Department or by others. To summarize the Department's findings: America in 1923 exported $4,210,000,000 worth of goods and imported $3,820,000,000 worth. This created a favorable commodity balance of $390,000,000. America rendered financial, freight, personal, charitable and other services amounting to $1,160,000,000. This on balance called for payments from the United States of $370,000,000. This obligation was covered by the favorable merchandise balance of $390,000,000, still leaving a favorable item of $20,000,000.

In the trading of capital, the United States extended to the world credits calling for the payment by it of $410,000,000; and the rest of the world, through the investment in American, American-held securities, made payments to the United States of $485,000,000. This, on balance, called for net payments due to the United States of $75,000,000. In addition, other countries purchased United States currency, which as notes, is in effect a security item, to the amount of $50,000,000.

Thus on the three major trade items of goods, services and securities, the world's total open obligations to the United States during the year were: Goods and services, $20,000,000; securities, $125,000,000, or a total of $145,000,000. To cover this the world sent, net, about $295,000,000 in gold and silver, leaving excess payments from the world to the United States of $150,000,000 above current obligations. This excess went to pay off pre-existing obligations of foreigners to American banks and merchants.

Foreign Debt Payments and Investments Saved Our Gold.

Had the world, particularly Europe, been able to borrow in the United States at the same rate of the immediately preceding years, these pre-existing obligations would have been funded instead of being partly liquidated with gold. Funding would probably have prevented the flow of gold into this country. Another viewpoint, advanced in the Department's analysis, is that if there had not been such a flight of foreign capital to America, evidenced by the purchase of foreign interests of securities here, there would have been no net flow of gold here. If both of these contingencies had developed,—that is a larger funding of pre-existing debts and an absence of foreign capital shipments here,—the probability is there would have been a large flow of gold out of the United States.

REMEMBER MOTHER EVERY DAY

My thoughts wander back to yesterday,
To that law-selected Mother's Day;
That it should be thus, in our dear land,
Is something I fail to understand.
For in my youth, and my father's, too,
If the blood in a fellow's veins ran true—
To-day, to-morrow, and yesterday
Were each, without question, Mother's Day

Though riches and pleasures are her share,
She still has a mother's cross to bear;
And the child she bore, the debt should pay,
By words and acts of love each day.
If her hands are worn with toil, and red,
Careworn her face and bowed her head;
To-day, to-morrow, and every day
We are double bound the debt to pay.

A rose on her breast, while that breast is warm,
Is without price—for the still, cold form
With its load of flowers is but the clay
That in life had hungered for Mother's Day.
What a farce! One day from out the year,
A purchased token for mother dear,
To express our love—she can read you through,
But she's grateful, bless her—because it's you.

—Carrie Hodgson, 315 Rubidge Street.

TRADE OUTLOOK IN STATES

How about business conditions in the States? Things have slowed down a bit lately in several of the basic industries. But there's nothing in the situation to make us uneasy. All indications are that the slow-down is temporary.

Business is a lot like a man hiking across the continent. He can walk fast just so long, then he has to stop and rest. That's the real business situation—production was on too big a scale, so now there's a lull to "size things up."

These lulls come periodically even during long-range periods of prosperity. Trade goes up and down. It always has, and it always will.

* * *

Take steel. This giant industry is operating at about 80 per cent of capacity, maybe 85. But in recent months production was smashing all records. Now the industry slows down to catch its breath.

Then, too, buyers are buying hand-to-mouth, holding back for lower prices. Makers are slowly making January and February and March, made the factories turn out more cars concessions—small price cuts to serve as bait. This also is a periodical and inevitable reaction. When prices stabilize, lots of orders.

* * *

Auto industry also is quieter. Buying movements by the public come in waves. The last big wave, during than ever before. A lull now, but only temporary. Place your bets on another big buying movement, to start soon. A lot of the lessened activity in business generally is seasonal—always come at this time of year. That's one reason why coal production is so low. Spring always brings a dull spell. Furthermore, there's a tremendous over-production of coal—and no national strikes in sight to create a shortage.

But business leaders are expecting good times. They're getting ready for it—providing the capital to carry on work. In April 298 million dollars worth of new stock and bonds were floated, compared with 305 millions in April last year.

In the first three weeks of April (latest figures available), the railroads of the whole country loaded and moved 2,620,318 cars of revenue-producing freight. This was a bit less than in the corresponding weeks of last year, but away ahead of 1922 and 1921. From the first of the year to April 20, the roads moved 142 cars of freight for every 141 a year ago in the corresponding period, and 120 in 1922 and 111 in 1921.

This is the long-range tendency, not only in rail traffic but in general business. That's what really counts—the long-range activity, not temporary lulls.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

TARIFF QUESTION

Editor, Evening Examiner.

Dear Sir: I have been reading the budget speeches on the tariff question. It is claimed that the Budget will not affect the industries of this country. I do not see how intelligent men such as Forkes, McMaster and others, can make such statements.

Manufacturers of woollen goods, such as cloth and knitting of hosiery from cross-bred wool, are certainly being forced into liquidation, and if they do not go into liquidation, they will be compelled to discontinue business.

It is also claimed that manufacturers have been making large profits. If the intelligent men, mentioned above, think this the case, I would suggest the Government taking over these industries and putting these men, who are advocating the low tariff, at the head of them, and see what success they would make of it.

If they would look over the situation properly and take into consideration the amount of goods shipped into this country at the present time, with the tariff reduction, and low exchange, they would find that it is impossible for industries to go ahead.

Some claim the Government is taking a step in the right direction. No doubt they are, in deadening the industries of this country and booming the industries of Great Britain. The textile industries in Great Britain and Europe are certainly flourishing. They are anticipating putting on night shifts, while we are standing idle and our citizens going to the United States.

They talk of the farmer not getting a square deal. If the textile industries were given as square a deal as the farmer, we could go ahead. The farmer has experimental farms, agricultural colleges, is sold land at a low price, is advanced money and has both home and foreign market. Manufacturers have neither home nor foreign market at the present time, no experimental schools, no technical colleges, are not loaned money at low rates of interest.

There is only one way to keep the textile plants going, especially plants knitting worsted rib hose, and cloth, that is, for the public to refuse to buy foreign goods from the merchants, and for the merchants to refuse to buy from jobbers, who handle foreign goods, thereby increasing employment for the public, and increasing business for the merchant. The sooner the public and merchants realize this, the better it will be for us all.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain,
—W. A. Lavoie.

Editor The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I read Mr. Butcher's reply to my letter on "True Religion," and as he suggested my coming forward with my full name, perhaps I should reply and state why I wish to remain incognito.

In the first place, I did not mean to pose as a martyr nor do I feel that I am one, and as to giving my name to draw to myself sympathy that would be painful to me in the extreme, I am thankful for the privilege of writing in The Examiner occasionally as it gives me the opportunity of giving what I would like to be helpful thoughts to others without appearing personally before the public, and I am glad when I hear sometimes of those who like what I write, but I feel sensitive and even pained when some are not content to allow me this privacy.

I am a wife and mother, and I hold old-fashioned views of what that should mean, and I lose respect for myself and for others if I or they take all kinds of liberties in the name of religion. It will be perhaps for this reason Christ will say, Depart ye that work iniquity, I never knew you when we appear before Him with our works that have attracted to ourselves but not to Him.

Thanking you, I am, yours very truly,
M. B.

WORLD BETTER NOW THAN EVER SAYS SPEAKER

Rev. James Gordon Explodes Fallacy That Old Days Were "Good Old Times."

ROTARY LUNCHEON

The idea that conditions were better in what are commonly referred to as the "good old days," was condemned as a fallacy by Rev. Jas W. Gordon, of St. Andrew's church, in a stirring address before the Peterborough Rotary Club today on "The Bad Old Times."

Rev. Mr. Gordon thoroughly demolished the soundness of the impression that the world was better in the old days, referring to some of the conditions that existed then as compared to the present day. Even the Victorian period about which our fathers and grandfathers were so proud to boast, had many defects in comparison with the conditions we enjoy to-day and in pointing out some of these Rev. Mr. Gordon asked his hearers if they would care to go back to those days.

The speaker then passed on to discuss the failure of the world to progress along religious lines as in other departments, stressing the necessity of being as truthful and progressive in religion as scientific men were in the world of science. In business every new discovery was tested and used only in religion were men conservative. Many of them preferred to have their religion shaped by the dead hands of the past satisfied to take their beliefs and doctrine from men who lived hundreds of years ago, men who had never seen an automobile, or an aeroplane or a telephone, who knew nothing of the problems and temptations of the present day. At Ottawa to-day the spectacle was seen of men arguing that the religion of four hundred years ago should be preserved exactly as it was laid down by men who knew absolutely nothing of the conditions under which the men of to-day would have to live.

Rotarian Rev. W. Harold Young moved a very hearty vote of thanks to the speaker for his splendid address.

Rotarian John Crane called the attention of Rotarians to the community musical festival on Friday night and pleaded for the support of the members.

The proposal was made that a canvass be taken at once, with the result that practically every member bought tickets in support of the commendable effort.

President Wren in announcing that next Monday's meeting would be an "On-to-Toronto" meeitng, informed the members that efforts were being made for a Peterborough camp in connection wth the International convention, the proposal being that the Peterborough members should have a tent colony for the occasion.

PROPOSES CENTRAL BANK IN DOMINION

Would Have Functions of Re-discount and Inspection of Banks--In Parliament on Tuesday

OTTAWA, May 12. — The establishment of a central bank is to be proposed in a resolution to come before the Banking and Commerce Committee of the House of Commons to-morrow.

The resolution, of which notice has been given by J. T. Shaw, independent member for Calgary West, proposes to transfer to this bank the functions of re-discount now being carried on by the Minister of Finance under the Finance Act. It has also been suggested the Central Bank might have charge of a system of bank inspections.

Another phase of the banking problem to come before the committee is the proposal of L. J. Ladner, Conservative, South Vancouver, for the guarantee of savings deposits.

FIRE IN SHAVINGS GAVE FIREMEN RUN

Chemical line and Water line used to Extinguish Blaze

A fire this morning at 12.15 at the Dick and Carew Lumber Company, was said to be of incendiary origin and was making good headway when the firemen arrived at the scene. The fire started in a shaving bin on the north end of the building near McDonnell street and had a good start before it was noticed. A chemical line and a water line was used and the fire was extinguished before much damage was done. The damage was estimated at about $25.

Street Car Fire

On Saturday night about 11 o'clock, some excitement was caused when some oil on the roof of one of the steel street cars caught fire and was blazing high into the air before it was noticed. No alarm was sent in but the conductor on the street car headed for the barns and before he got there the fire was out. No damage was done.

Two False Alarms

Yesterday two false alarms were received and answered. The first one was at 7.18 in the morning at J. J. Turner and Sons factory on George street.

Later on in the afternoon at 2.36 another false alarm was received from 295 Aylmer street.

MOTOR LEAGUE IS A HUGE SUCCESS

Ontario Motorists Touring In the States Can Do So Without Buying a New American License.

Automobile License Exchange between Ontario and most of the States in the American Union which went into effect in recent years was a direct result of the persistent campaign carried on for years by the Ontario Motor League.

Previous to License Exchange going into effect Ontario motorists when touring to the United States were required to purchase automobile licenses for the State in which they desired to travel. Now, the Ontario license is honored in practically all States of the Union and Ontario motorists are consequently spared the cost of purchasing State licenses.

In addition to saving the motorists of the Province a great amount each year, license exchange has greatly increased the flow of American tourists to Ontario. In 1915, the year before this went into effect, 5,685 foreign cars were registered. Last year a total of 882,926 cars from the United States entered the Province of Ontario.

To further increase this flow of traffic the League through its efforts had two bothersome regulations altered.

Up to the present time cars crossing into Canada from the United States which carried a radio outfit were compelled to make a deposit of $75 before being allowed to take it into the country. As a result, those who did so had $75 less to spend here than would otherwise have been the case. The League authorities got into communication with the Dominion Department of Customs at Ottawa and the result has been that the Department has consented to consider radio outfits carried by visiting tourists as part of the car equipment, without any expense attached whatever.

The League followed up this effort with a request that Ottawa admit trailers under the same conditions. It has now become more or less of a custom for tourists wishing to take their own camping outfit along to do so with the aid of a trailer car, but when those from the United States attempted to do so they were refused admittance unless duty was paid on the trailer. The League was successful in having this regulation rescinded and it will do a great deal to encourage more of the camp tourists to come here.

The Ontario Motor League and the majority of its affiliated clubs maintain touring bureaus and are more than doing their part in encouraging tourists by supply them with information regarding roads, hotels, camp sites and garages.

The majority of the public are not fully alive to the possibilities of tourist traffic as a revenue producer, nevertheless it is a fact that it means money to the Province and that every citizen in the Province benefits by it, either directly or indirectly.

MUSIC FESTIVAL FRIDAY EVENING

Prizewinners at Toronto Festival Will Take Part

In connection with the Community Festival of Music which will take place on Friday evening in the Grand Opera House, when the Peterboro Symphony Orchestra and the Peterboro Male Voice Choir will give a concert, assisted by other prizewinners at the recent Toronto Festival, Messrs. R. A. Browne and M. H. Park, it is interesting to note the unusual character of several of the test pieces.

The overture "Fidelio," the test for the Symphony Orchestra section, from Beethoven's opera of the same name, is a difficult but attractive number, calling into play most of the orchestral resources. It was the only operatic composition of Ludwig van Beethoven, the great German composer, of whom it has been said that "he had the head of Jove on the body of Bacchus, and there was in him a strong dash of what in a lesser man would be termed insanity, with an alternation between the highest elevation of genius and the conduct of a fool or buffoon."

The opera "Fidelio," originally "Leonore," was composed in one of his best periods. For it, he wrote three overtures, one of which was the test piece in the Toronto Festival this year. The story deals with the adventures of Florestan, a Spanish nobleman, who has dared to blame Don Pizarro, the governor of the state prison, a man as cruel as he is powerful, with certain misdemeanors. Pizarro has Florestan thrown into a dungeon, and reports his death. Florestan's wife, Leonore, refuses to believe the reports, and, taking the name of Fidelio, and disguising herself as a man, gains admittance to the prison, where she makes friends with the jailer's daughter, Marcelline, who becomes enamored of the gentle youth. Pizarro resolves to kill Florestan, and orders the jailer, Rocco, to make away with him. The jailer, who is kindhearted, refuses to do this, and is then ordered by Pizarro, who decides to do the killing himself, to dig a grave for the prisoner. Rocco enlists the aid of Fidelio for the work, and the two find Florestan in a semi-unconscious condition in his dungeon. Fidelio overpowers Pizarro when the latter comes to kill her husband, and the opera ends happily, with the cruel governor led away in chains, by command of the newly-arrived minister of state.

"When You Come to the End of a Perfect Day--"

MRS. CHARLES SULLIVAN (LE FT) AND MRS. PETER FENSTER

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 12. — A golden sunset is promised in the lives of Mrs. Peter Fenster, 72, and Mrs. Charles Sullivan, 69.

All their days they have toiled hard, with little material health to show for their labors.

Now they have been informed that a $21,000,000 estate in England has been left to them.

Mrs. Fenster, an inmate of the City Home, crippled by rheumatism, was asleep when the news was received. Awakened by her sister and nurses to be informed of the happy tidings, age seemed to fall from the shrunken form. She rose from her bed in sheer joy, crying: "I hope it is true! I do hope it is true!"

Mrs. Sullivan, the sister, took the news calmly. For a year she had waited in confidence; for she had been told at a spiritualist meeting that "money would come from over the sea."

More than 50 years ago the two sisters had come to America, with two brothers from England. Trace of relatives was lost. The brothers moved west.

Year by year the sisters drudged, hoping against hope for a turn in their fortune.

Then, after half a century, an advertisement appeared in a Boston paper. It read:

"Will Mrs. Peter Fenster and Mrs. Charles Sullivan, once of Liverpool, England, and Cambridge, Mass., communicate with Mrs. Sarah E. Elliott, nee Holmes, of Woodburn, Ore. Important information."

Charles W. Sullivan, son of Mrs. Sullivan, read the advertisement. Mrs Elliott was found to be the daughter of one of the brothers who had moved west. And the "important information" she wired was the first step in placing undreamed of millions into the hands of two women who had toiled to the sunset of life.

FICTION WRITER HAS DISAPPEARED

It is Believed That His Fingers Will Stretch Prom His Grave to Wrire About His Mysterious Death.

By A. H. FREDERICK.

SAN JOSE, Calif., May 12. — A strange fantasy was born in the brain of Homer Eon Flint, writer of fiction, and he put it into print.

Now his mysterious death parallels that fantasy.

There remains but one phenomenon to complete the similitude—that his fingers will stretch from beyond the grave to write full explanation of the mystery.

His typewriter, standing in his former workroom, awaits his touch, a sheet of paper ready.

* * *

The highmark in Flint's career was reached in a short story, "The Greater Miracle," published in 1922.

Flint was a firm believer in spiritualism, and the central character in the story returned from the grave to clear his name.

The spirit character wrote his message upon a typewriter which had been prepared for him.

* * *

Flint's body was found at the bottom of a precipice under the wreckage of a taxicab.

"He hired me to drive from Oakland to a small village several miles away," says the owner of that taxi, L. S. Handley. "Everything went along all right until we came to a lonely road.

"Then he drew a gun, made me throw up my hands, robbed me of my money and made me get out of the car. "He drove away up the road."

* * *

Handley's story is scoffed at by those who best knew Flint.

"He was happy and carefree when he left me," sais his brother, with whom Flint spent his last afternoon.

"He was in no immediate need of money," add his friends. "In fact, he had just completed arrangements to sell a serial story for a good price."

"It is absurd to believe that he would have committed such a crime," declares his widow, now teaching school to support her three children.

* * *

So, those who know him have left his typewriter in his workroom, with paper in it, ready for Flint to answer the statement of the taxi driver, to explain his death and remove suspicion from his name.

Each day they look at that paper, but its smooth white surface is not touched. Flint has not explained.

MILLINOCKET, Maine, May 12. — (Canadian Press). — Mrs. John Bragan and four of her children were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home here to day. The father, John Bragan, millworker, and two sons jumped from the upper windows. They were taken to Bryant Hospital, where it was said two of them probably would die.

Survivors were in too serious a condition to be questioned, but so far as could be learned, Bragan used kerosene to start the kitchen fire, and the flash of flames ignited the paper of the wall. In a moment the entire house was ablaze.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Prudence Page—a pretty country girl has awakened from a brief and unhappy love affair with unreliable

Bert Traymore—a fascinating philanderer, guest at the home of Mrs. Vansittart—a wealthy woman, owner of Winston Towers. Another of her guests is

Virginia Dale—a blase beauty, who has brought about a forced engagement between herself and

Peter Armstrong—a brilliant, young inventor, who cares for Prudence, but thinks she is still fascinated by Traymore. Virginia has been thieving from her hostess, has flung the blame of one theft on Prudence, and now the latter finds her in the woods, digging up valuables which prove to have Mrs. Vansittart's initials on them. How do you account for these? demands Prudence, pointing to the initials.

CHAPTER LXVII.

The Whole Truth.

"I—I don't know," blurted out the accused. "It—it's a coincidence, that's all."

Prudence—the lantern in one hand and the heavy candelabra in the other—looked at the speaker as though she would read her very soul.

"You do know," she said quietly, her young face showing no emotion, not even scorn of this cringing woman, who was lying to her—lying very badly and unskilfully, too! "You know as well as I do that your story of an aunt leaving you these valuables is a trumped-up one. The contents of these boxes belong to Mrs. Vansittart, just as these candlesticks do. I've no doubt you did intend to pawn them, or to sell them, but you hadn't the right."

Virginia made a queer, whimpering sound, as though begging for mercy. She was terrified of this new, strong Prudence. How loathsome it was that such a 'contretemps' had happened, just when everything was running smoothly and life was opening up new vistas even beyond all her scheming hopes. If Peter Armstrong got to hear of this . . .

"I—I'll confess everything if only you'll promise not to tell!" She sank down on her knees at Prudence's feet, a despicable spectacle in the eerie lantern rays. "You—you wouldn't be so cruel as to give me away?"—and she clung to Prudence's skirts, her face white under its make-up, the rouge standing out in startling contrast on her cheek-bones, giving the face a grotesque appearance.

Prudence hated the contact of that touch.

"Get up, please." She drew back a little, but Virginia remained as she was, her eyes wild with terror.

"Never until you promise not to tell! It would ruin me! I—I swear I'll shoot myself, if you won't promise! And then my blood would be on your head and you'd never know a good night's rest——" She waxed hysterical, her voice rising higher and higher.

"Hush! Hush!"

"I won't! I don't care what happens now . . . if Peter Armstrong is to know this! Rather than he finds out, I'll kill myself——"

It flitted through Prudence's mind, grimly and ironically, that if this thieving creature were to shoot herself, it wouldn't be such a great loss to the world, after all!

"Oh, I daresay it would please you—you've always hated me . . . you tried to get Bert Traymore . . . and then you wanted Peter . . . and now you'd like to see me off the earth . . . and if you tell Peter, I vow I will——"

"Stop!" The younger girl's voice was like a bucket of cold water on the rising hysteria. Stop for a moment thinking only of yourself! Put yourself in my place for an instant!"

Virginia groaned.

"I know you want Peter——"

"Listen!" Prudence shook her by the shoulder. "This is no time for hedging. We're speaking woman to woman, and you shall hear what I have to say. I want Peter's happiness, not my own—not yours—d'you hear?"

Virginia raised her face.

"Peter's happiness?" she repeated blankly, stupidly.

"Just that—and nothing else. The question is, if I tell him the truth about you, wouldn't the knowledge be for his greater happiness, his ultimate peace, even though it hurt him at the time?"

"He loves me," wailed Virginia, and baulked desire forced great tears to her eyes, which trickled over the made-up lashes, so that the black mascara ran in murky rivulets down her ashen cheeks.

"Ah! Does he?" Prudence's voice had the clear ring of a seeress. "If I were only sure of that! It's a love that hasn't brought him peace, I know. The last time he talked to me, he gave me the impression of a deeply unhappy man. If he does love you, Virginia Dale, he's learning, to his sorrow, that his idol has feet of clay."

"He—he worships me!" Virginia seized on the likeliest weapon to melt this strange, upright girl, who could think of Peter's happiness and not her own. "If you keep this dark . . . I—I'll give back all the things—if you won't disillusion Peter! . . . It would kill him, he's so honorable . . . he loves me, heart and soul . . . he has said so a million times. . . . If only I can get out of this awful scrape——"

She had risen to her feet now and was facing Prudence in the little wood. Overhead, the trees were sighing eerily, and the owl hooted again, as though it laughed at the frail promises of the wretched woman.

"You have admitted the whole truth yet," said Prudence, her young eyes on the haggard features that at this moment seemed to have no trace of beauty. "Tell me, it was you who slipped the diamond earrings and the bills into the sash of the frock I wore at Mrs. Vansittart's party?"

The other bowed her head, and murmured assent.

"You didn't stop to think how wickedly cruel and unjust it was?"

Virginia mumbled:

"They were in the frock all the time. I'd forgotten to remove them. I didn't mean to throw the blame on you."

"Oh, yes, you did," went on the level accusing young voice. "If you'll take your memory back, you'll recollect that it was you who came and told me Mrs. Vansittart wanted me. It was you who laughed, who tried to shame me——"

"Forgive me!" Another burst of hysteria seemed imminent. "If Peter knew, it would kill him, and I—I love him so!"

"Ah! but do you?" Prudence looked into the made-up eyes as though she'd read the soul beneath, if such a soul existed. "Does a woman like you know what real love means, I wonder? Is a woman like you capable of giving a man like Peter Armstrong what his heart and spirit cry for? If I thought you couldn't, believe me I shouldn't spare you! His happiness comes first with me. I frankly tell you so!

"You love him?" said Virginia, light dawning on her.

"That," replied the other, "is a question which doesn't in the least concern you. But let me tell you this,"—her great eyes resting on the woman before her—"you'll never know real happiness until you learn that true love is unselfish, long-suffering, and something infinitely greater, infinitely stronger than yourself!"

Tammany Hall May Have James Foley For Leader.

NEW YORK, May 12.—(Canadian Press.)—James A. Foley may have the leadership of Tammany Hall if he will accept the sacrifice of leaving the bench.

This assurance came last night from the district leader who has been fighting Surrogate and was considered one of the strongest factors in battle to elect "practical politician" to throne vacated through the death of Charles F. Murphy.

Surrogate has not expressed to his most intimate friends his views on the matter of leadership. He is known to be reluctant to accept for personal reasons.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

PUSS-IN-BOOTS TELLS A STORY

"Will you tell us about it?" asked Nancy.

"I'm going to take you to see a most important person to-day," said Mister Muggs to Nancy and Nick.

"Who?" cried the Twins excitedly.

"No other than Puss-in-Boots," remarked Mister Muggs, polishing the lamps on his little automobile. "He lives in Once-Upon-a-Time Land, not far from his master, in a nice little house with a catnip garden. He spends his time raising mice to sell in the cat market. They say he has made quite a fortune for himself—as well as his master."

"That will be loads of fun!" said Nick. "Let's start right away. Is it far?"

"Let me see," said Mister Muggs. "The kingdom of the Marquis of Carabas, his master, is in Once-Upon-a-Time Land, right near the kingdom of Snow White. The cat lives near the Marquis of Carabas, who is his master."

So they all jumped into the majic automobile and whizzed away.

They soon came to the kingdom of the Marquis of Carabas and to the little house where Puss lived, and knocked on the door.

Goo evening good sirs and Madam said Puss-in-boos when he saw them. "Come in and have a cup of catnip tea. I was just wishing for company, as I am getting old and a bit lonely, now that my master has a beautiful wife and a palace and a rich kingdom to look after."

"Will you tell us about it?" asked Nancy when they were seated in the little house,

"I should like nothing better," said Puss, stroking his long whiskers thoughtfully. "It was this way:

"My master was a poor boy—the youngest of three sons. And when his father died he left each of the older boys a share of his fortune, but to the youngest he left only me. So I felt responsible for his fortune.

"I used my wits—and wits, my friends, are worth more than gold.

"The first thing I did was to give my poor master a grand name. I called him the Marquis of Carabas.

"Next I caught a brace of partridges and gave them to the king in the name of the Marquis of Carabas.

"Next I went to a wizard's house. A bad wizard, he was, a very bad wizard!

"That wizard changed himself into a mouse and I ate him. Then I took his house and lands and gave them to my master.

"After that the king's daughter married my master, and they are very happy indeed. My days of adventure are over. Once a year my master rides to my door and gives me a new pair of boots. It's time for a new pair now."

"Thank you for being so hospitable and kind," said Nancy, finishing her tea and getting up to go.

"You're welcome," said Puss-in-Boots, "but if you hear of anything that cures indigestion, I wish you would let me know. I have had indigestion ever since I ate that wizard!"

BRITAIN LEADS WORLD IN FIGHTING STRENGTH

WASHINGTON, May 12 (Canadian Press). — Admission that a fair comparison of the present fighting strength in ships of Great Britain, United States, and Japan would appear to be 5-4-3, with the United States Navy in second place, is made by Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, in a report to Chairman Butler, of the House of Naval Affairs Committee.

The opinion that the United States Navy thus has fallen below an equal ration strength with Great Britain, as provided in the 5-5-3 formula adopted under the Naval Limitation Treaty, was expressed by Mr. Roosevelt in the report.

Commenting at Chairman Butler's request on the recent article in the New York Times by W. B. Shearer, naval expert, the association in the article that the ratio of the naval strength between the three Powers is 5-3-1, with the United States Navy in the last position, was declared by the Assistant Secretary to be greatly exaggerated.

Keep posted on the value of your securities from fear to year. It will not take much of your time and may save you considerable money.

It is a good thing to show your banker or investment broker your list of bond holdings once or twice a year. Let him advise you as to whether any of your securities should be changed.

It sometimes happens that business conditions will change to such an extent over a period of time that the standing of a company's security obligations in the market is affected unfavourably. It is in such cases that your banker can be of great servic to you. He may suggest a change to a better form of investment.

PERMANENT WAVE ON MOTHER EARTH.

Scientist Discovers Wave In the Outer Crust.

GLASGOW, Scotland, May 12.—Old Mother Earth has a permanent wave. She has had it all along, but it was noticed only recently by a mere mortal —Ludovic MacLellan Mann.

Mr. Mann, who is a member of the Royal Antrophological Institute, the pre-historic society of East Anglia, and other scientific societies, told about his discovery in an address before members of learned associations in Glasgow.

There is a large wavy, slow motion within the body of the earth, said Mr. Mann. It moved around the planet once every 8,800 years, causing a slight movement in the axis and the poles, and gives rise to changes in climate. This discovery was made by him in comparing many ancient with modern astronomical observations.

The wave causes the terrestial crust to pulsate, which accounts for raised and sunken land surfaces. The velocity, direction and amplitude of the wave have been ascertained. Thus the ages in all ancient land surfaces and in prehistoric surfaces can be determined.

Knowledge of the 8,800 year mutation, Mr. Mann said, had enabled him to read astronomical registers found in most parts of Europe and America sculptured on rock surfaces. The same key had been successfully applied to solve the mysteries of the Stonehenge, the celebrated prehistoric monument in Salisbury Plain, England, which is shown to be a calendric monument which registered astronomical events occurring in a period of twelve saros, which is the cycle of time in which the sun and moon nodes recur in the same relative positions.

Epinard Won First Race in New Class.

PARIS, May 11. — Epinard, the champion 3-year-old of France last season, made his initial bow on the French turf to-day as a four-year-old and won in the proverbial "walk" at Longchamps in a seven furlong race The mere statement that Epinard would face the starter caused the withdrawal of all the other entries, but three.

Alma Vive, ridden by Steve Donoghue, finished second. The other contenders were beaten off. Guy Garner, who had the mount on Epinard, held the colt back and trailed the field for five furlongs All the time, although Garner was holding the colt under a hard pull, Epinard was fighting for his head. After passing the five furlong pole, Garner let down the big bay, which simply galloped over the field to win pulled up by four lengths.

Jack Renault Next to Fight Floyd Johnston.

NEW YORK, May 12.— Floyd Johnson, blond Iowa heavyweight, who staged something of a comeback Friday night, when he knocked out Quintin Romero of Chile in the seventh round of a ten-round match at Madison Square Garden, will battle Jack Renault, hard-hitting Canadian, in the next bout of a campaign which may put him again in the ranks of title contenders from which he was dropped a year ago.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., May 12.—Tom Gibbons arrived here Sunday to open training quarters at Grand Beach for his match May 31 with Georges Carpentier.

Gibbons visited the arena and said it looked like a great spot to box the Frenchman. He will take up quarters in the Convention Hall Annex of the Golfmore Country Club and will have both an indoor and an outdoor ring

WET GROUUDS GAME WAS OFF

Petes Will Meet K. and S. Team Saturday—Opening Draws Near.

The heavy rain of Friday resulted in the calling off of the benefit baseball game between the K. & S. team of Toronto and the Petes at Riverside Park Saturday. The game will be played this Saturday instead.

The weather conditions on Saturday were favourable, but the diamond in places was ankle deep in mud and a good game would have been out of the question. In spite of the conditions, however, the Petes and Lakeviews had a practice game of five or six innings with Whitehouse and Lebarr pitching and Collins catching for the Lakeviews and Serth, Swanston and Shaughnessy pitching and Legon catching for the Central Leaguers. Last year's junior champions proved the best mud-horses and had the better of the argument.

The Petes hope to be able to get down to real hard work this week, with the opening of the league season in sight. Last week was practically wasted on account of bad weather, but practices are called for every night this week, and with a game Saturday the squad should be ready for the opening tilt at Belleville on the 21st.

The local opening will take place on May 24th, with Kingston as the drawing card. The publicity work of the Kingston squad has stirred up the fans and they will all be out to see the much-touted Ponies in action. As it is a holiday there here for the game, Cobourg, Port will be a flock of out-of-town fans Hope and Lindsay sending large delegations to see the Central Ontario lid pried off.

Bowling

RESULTS IN FIVE PIN HANDICAP TOURNAMENT

The five pin handicap tournament ended Saturday night, and was the most successful bowling event staged this year.

The five-man team event was won by Cressmans, with the Examiner second, the Brinton Carpet third and the Belmont fourth. These were the money teams.

In the doubles first prize was won by Cressman and Rattenbury with Dunkley and Pearse second and Murray and Bishop. These bowlers win the money.

In the singles, Tom Curvin was first with 744, Rattenbury next with 731 and DeGraw third with 686. These three bowlers win the money.

The tournament was one of the most successful ever staged and the interest taken by the various bowlers helped to make it a success. All the prizes were cash and were well worth bowling after. Some of the bowlers ran in hard luck during the rolling and the teams that looked like winners never even got in the money. Some of the Cressman store bowlers were more than lucky. H. Cressman came in for two prizes. He was on the team that won the five-man event and came first in the doubles with Rattenbury. Mr. Rattenbury was more lucky than his partner. He finished on the winning team, came first with Cressman in the doubles and came second in the singles. He comes in for three prizes.

Bob Pearse was on the team that came second and came second in the doubles with Dunkley. Maurice Dunkley was also on the team that came second and he finished second with Pearse in the doubles. Both these bowlers come in for two prizes.

The large handicap some of the bowlers got was a great asset to them, but some of the boys with smaller handicaps came in for the prizes.

The following are the scores rolled in the doubles

Cressman and Rattenbury	1426
Dunkley and Pearse	1396
Murray and Bishop	1376

(These three win the prizes)

Oke and Johnson	1336

BELMONT CLUB TO HOLD FIVE PIN TOURNAMENT

On Wednesday night the Belmont Club will hold a big five pin tournament. This will be a straight tournament with no handicap and the list of bowlers already entered points to this event being as great, if not greater, than the ten pin tournament they held recently. The boys have been over at the alleys lately practicing up for this big event.

IT'S HARD TO HIT EITHER ONE OF THESE GENTLEMEN

LEFT, WALTER JOHNSON. RIGHT, TOMMY GIBBONS.

Any batter in the American League will tell you it is tough to hit Walter Johnson, the fire-ball king of pitchers. And any fighter—not excepting Mr. Dempsey himself—will tell you it is no cinch to hit Tommy Gibbons, best defensive fighter in the ring. This picture was taken the other day at the Washington park when the fighter went down to the dugout to greet the noted pitcher.

MASSEYS LOST TO GREY BIRDS

A Stubbornly Contested Soccer Game Decided Just Before the Final Whistle—Score Was 2-1.

The C.P.C. Grey Birds Defeat the Masseys by 2 to 1.

A very evenly contested game was the result of the meeting of these two crack Junior Teams on King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon, the Grey Birds winning by 2-1. They introduced a new comer in Lindsay at full back, and his play was a treat to witness.

The Masseys won the toss and Edgar was soon in evidence with a dash up the wing. His centre was met by Lindsay who sent well up the field, Cross testing Saunders, who threw out Naish, out Griffin in possession, and sending in a beautiful shot, which Jenkins cleared at the expense of corner, which went outside. From the goal kick Batley gave to Killenbeck, but his final effort went over the bar. The Masseys were having slightly the best of the argument. Vinit was very busy and placing nicely to Laughlin. This grand young player beat Jenkins. From the centre kick the Grey Birds by a nice combined movement got in close touch with Saunders, Grant relieving with a huge return. The game was fast and exciting, both goals having narrow escapes. Half time arrived, with the Masseys leading by one goal to none.

Upon resuming the Grey Birds faced the game and kept the ball moving by some nice short passing which was a treat to witness. The Masseys defence were very sound. Cooper and Grant were playing a great game and backed by good goal-keeping were able to keen the invaders at bay. The citadel however was captured by the tricky Killenbeck, who beat Saunders with a nice shot. The Masseys, nothing daunted, went at it with a will, and Lindsay was kept busy. Hir returns were a great advantage to the Grey Birds. Both goal keepers were kept very busy and the game was from now until the call of time very even Edgar and Griffin the extreme wing men of the Masseys were conspicuous for some beautiful runs, but their counters often went begging. Just before time arrived Killenbeck started up the field and beating Slaughter sent out to Cross, who sent in a shot which beat Saunders and scored the winning goal. Time was called, leaving the Grey Birds the victors of a very keenly contested game by 2 to 1.

The Teams:

Grey Birds — Jenkins, Lindsay, H. Bradley, H. Hotson, Batley, Feeley, Cross, P. Vinet, Killenbeck, J. Edwards, A. Anderson.

The Masseys — Saunders, Cooper, D. Grant, Naish, Vinet, Slaughter, Griffin, Baker, Laughlin, Goldie, J. Edgar.

Referee — S. Calladine.

St. Louis Win First Two of Series at Home—Carlson Pitched Fine Game For Phillies While Brooklyn Slipped.

ST. LOUIS, May 11.—Driving the first ball pitched by Gearin into the bleachers for a home run, Blades started the scoring for St. Louis, which made it two straight from New York in the second game of the series, here to-day. Hard hitting by both teams and the excellent pitching of Stuart in the pinches featured the game. Score:

THISTLES WON LEAGUE GAME

Trimmed the Quakers By Five Clear Goals—Lack of Training Is Evident.

The league game between the Quakers and Thistles was played at Nicholls Oval, before a somewhat thin attendance, when the latter defeated the former by five goals to nothing. The Quakers have an excellent team but lack training and were weak in front of goal. Curtis was brilliant in goal for the Thistle.

The teams:

Quakers—Williams, goal; Metcalfe and Butler, full-backs; W. Logan, Pattison and Croft, half-backs; Mayette, G. Logan, Honour, Craig and R. Willshaw, forwards.

Thistle—Crutis, goal; Rae and Anderson, full-backs; Richmond, Dawson and Ross, half-backs; McPhail, Hotston, Melville, A. Williams and T. Williams, forwards.

Referee—J. L. Howarth.

The day was ideal for soccer. After a dilatory start, the Thistle mustered enough players to make an eleven and Quakers at full strength. In the early stages "Wag" Hotston tried twice in succession to open the soring, Metcalfe and Butler in turn intercepted moves by the Thistles attack, and then Melville retaliated by manoevring through the defense, slipped the ball to Richmond who drove a fast low ground shot between the posts for the opening goal. A break away by Honour on the right transferred the play to the other end where the Quakers forwards flashed the ball past the outside posts, when close in on goal. The Quakers continued to dominate the play, and Craig and Logan, with Anderson in close attendance, cut past. A little later a goal was imminent when Melville got clean through, but to his own surprise lifted the sphere over the bar. A long pass out to Mayette saw the outside right shoot across the goal. Craig jumped at the opening, to miss the upright. Geo. Logan repeated the same performance immediately thereafter. He dribbled the ball close up on the defence, tried to pick the far end of the goal. Curtis threw himself across the goal to touch the effort round the post for an unproductive corner. Then Mayette sent over the bar when a goal looked positive. Dawson relieved the pressure. Melville and Croft tackled, the Thistle player gaining advantage, travelled into the Quaker's defence, to repeat "A la" amidst great laughter. A visit to Thistle area saw Curtis in his element, stopping splendid shots from Willshaw, Craig and Logan. At this period, both teams were battling hard to gain a superior verdict, in fact Anderson nipped the ball of Geo. Logan's toe at the opportune moment. Play was hard and the defence players had their work cut out in the respective teams, and the Jags were fortunate to have a goal advantage at half-time. Half-time—Thistle 1, Quakers 0.

Half-Time

The second half was scarcely a minute old when the Thistle added the second goal. By sheer daring, Hotston took the ball down into Quakers' territory, tricked Croft, and although several tackled him he contrived to slip it to Williams, who banged it into the goal, as Williams failed to grasp the sphere properly. Quakers later were in action when G. Logan shot from 20 yards out to make Curtis save in the nick of time. McPhail, Dawson and Ross then added vim to the attack as they drove the forwards up the field. Quaker's defence men held them in check, until a faulty clearance by Pattison left Ross with the ball. He drove hard for goal, Metcalfe headed out, but Williams outwitted Williams with unsaveable shot. Not to be denied, the Quakers made very promising raids on the Thistle goal. Four corners in succession, well placed by Mayette caused a great amount of excitement, while Curtis was kicking, fisting and handling shots from all angles. The Quakers deserved to score but the Thistle goalie was unbeatable. Dawson time and again would beat player after player, then finish very weak in front of the goal, no doubt the timely shoulder of the Quaker's defence preventing a score. Ross was more fortunate later, the half-back let drive from midfield, Metcalfe made a great mistake that gave Melville the fourth goal. From now on the Quakers peppered Curtis in goal but could not find the vacant spot to score. Five minutes to go, Melville added the last goal. Full-time—Thistles 5, Quakers 0.

Goal scorers—A. Williams 2, Melville 2, Richmond 1, of Thistles.

Timely Tips To Amateurs

(Says, Red Faber, Pitcher, Chicago White Sox.)

Figure every player on the opposition a dangerous batsmen. That is the only safe system.

I have lost many a tough ball game simply by letting up on some supposedly weak hitter and have had him crash out a safe hit.

Of course there is very often a decided difference in the ability of the various batters. Most pitchers are weak hitters, yet it is foolish to consider them too lightly.

Some pitchers have the faculty of only working their best in the pinch. Except when working carelessly on a weak batter I have always made it a point to bear down on every pitch.

Of late years I have got over the habit of figuring certain hitters easy, but I still keep putting my stuff on each pitch.

Unquestionably it is harder on the pitcher, but each one of us has certain peculiarities. And while I do not recommend my style in this respect, still it is often best to work along original lines. It is at least safer.

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

QUESTIONS

1. When is the batsman automatically out on strikes?
2. What happens when the batsman strikes at a ball, but misses, and the ball touches some part of his person.
3. What is the proper ruling when the batsman interferes with the teacher when a runner is stealing second?

ANSWERS

1. The bataman is automatically out on strikes if first base be occupied by a base runner, and the third strike be called, unless two men are already out.
2. The ball becomes dead and no runners can advance on such a play.
3. The batsman is out if he interferes with the catcher trying to get a man stealing second. The runner returns to his original base, which is first.

OTTAWA MOURNS MAYOR'S DEATH

Henry Watters Died Saturday After Illness Resulting From Ptomaine Poisoning.

OTTAWA, May 11. — All the capital is in mourning to-day for the death of its mayor, Henry Watters, who succumbed Saturday afternoon to an illness brought on two months ago by an attack of ptomaine poisoning. The mayor was in his 71st year.

Although Mayor Watters' illness in March was not considered serious it was thought best that he give up his official duties in order that he might rest. He became steadily worse until a few days ago his condition was reported as serious.

Mayor Watters served only two months in the office to which he was elected at the beginning of the year. He had practised his profession as a druggist in this city for over fifty years and at the time of his death conducted one of Ottawa's largest drug dispensaries.

The late Mayor Watters was prominently identified with the work of the Ottawa Reform Association. He was president and vice-president of the association for a number of years and was considered for the Liberal nomination for West Ottawa in the last provincial elections.

Mayor Watters was president of the Eastern Ontario Branch of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada and took an active interest in the affairs of the branch.

He is survived by five daughters.

"COLONIAL DAYS"

TEN DEAD AS RESULT OF A DEMONSTRATION

Germans Goosestep Ber for the Mighty Wa-Lords--Many Arrests.

(By Carl D. Groat, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

HALLE, Germanyl, May 12. — Ten dead, several seriously injured, and more than 500 arrested, was the toll of yesterday's mighty monarchist demonstration in which 70,000 goose-stepped in parade past General Ludendorff and the ex-Kaiser's son, Oskar.

They were Communists attempting to interfere with the demonstrations, who paid with ther lives for the attempt.

Police from behind barries poured a volley into a Red mob, which marched on the outskirts of the city.

Folkist speakers advocating a return of Monarachists in such phrases as "We never will rest until we again have a Kaiser," harangued cheering throngs at the Halle race track.

It seemed like pre-war days as the strains of "Deutschland Uber Alles" were lifted by the throng.

Halle was bright with colors of the old Monarchists, not a single Republican Germany nor a red banner to be seen.

Col. Duesterberg sent a responsive thrill through the crowd at the monument when he exclaimed:

"We intend here again to form a mighty Kaiser's empire."

Outside the gates of the city, the Communists were bearing in vain against the police bulwarks.

At the level green sward of the race track legions of Fascisti were marching with sharp cries of "Hoch, Hoch, Hoch."

Prince Oskar, Ludendorff, Admiral Scheer, General Maercker and other Royalist notables stood at attention in the grandstand as the ranks swept past. Iron crosses and Imperial decorations sprinkled the breasts of full dress uniforms.

The familiar Pickel Haube of the Imperial armies glittered in the sunshine.

Some of the marchers in their enthusiasm used canes and umbrellas as they were swords and rifles.

The Communists after they had carried away their dead and wounded, who fell when the police opened fire, were rounded up and many of them were locked in a small park on the outskirts of the city. Many of them were freed during the night, a majority of the prisoners proving to be mere youths.

BELLEVILLE JUNIORS LOOK LIKE WINNERS

BELLEVILLE, May 12. — Junior baseball team candidates had a snappy work-out Friday night at the High School grounds. As one looks them over one comes away each time more firmly convinced that they will cut a wide swath in the junior series this year. The infield is real classy, to say the least, and if they can hit then the other pitchers in this league will holler for relief.

The outfield has had no chance to show its real worth, but this week will be different. The works will move to the Fair Grounds on Tuesday night and from then on till the season opens batting practice will be the order.

Fifteen men are to be carried, including three pitchers, two catchers, five infielders, five outfielders.

BELLEVILLE INDIAN SOLD TO BINGHAMTON

Johnny Williams, erstwhile pitcher for the Grand Trunk ball team of Belleville and during the spring training and part of the campaign with Rochester, of the International League, as a professional, has been sold outright to the Binghamton Club of the Tri-State League. This report emanates from the secretary's office of the Rochester Ball Club.

He was loaned to the Pittsfield club some time ago, but they having no use for him, returned him to Stallings, who has finally disposed of Williams. The road is sure rocky in professional company.

OWNERS HAVE A FINGER IN PIE OF HOMEMAKING

Building Permits Totalled $5,290 in First Week in May--Many Residents Doing Their Own Building, or Helping.

ANOTHER NEW HOUSE

One permit for a new dwelling was taken out in the first week in May, covering a house on Homewood avenue to be built by Fred H. Rowan at a cost of $3,000. The usual spring epidemic of garage building is under way, permits for six having been let last week, one of them a double garage. They are at 176 London stret, H. Gainey; 430 Park, A. J. Eaton; 487 Gilmour, John Corkery; 505 Rubidge; 560 Homewood, S. A. de Laplante; 471 King, Nelson Pogue.

The total value of permits issued for the first week in May was $5,290, most of the twenty-one permits being for repairs and re-roofing. Two were permits to move houses, and they indicate strikingly the ease with which difficult feats are assimilated as every-day affairs. A few years ago when a house was moved from one location to another in Backyard, New Mexico, every paper in the country carried at least one picture and a half a column of descriptive matter. Today, when Dr. W. T. Holloway takes out a permit for moving two houses at 183-185 London street, he writes on the application, "Just moving two houses to different location." One can imagine atter the first pyramids had been built, one of the later Pharaohs ordering his few thousand slaves to "Just throw up a pyramid."

Reg. H. Turner is in the moving business this month, too, according to the building permits, which record his moving a store building at the corner of Wescott and George, at a cost of $500.

Many Amateurs.

A visit to some of the work in progress in the city shows that probably the majority is being done wholly or partly by the owners. Not in every case is this through a desire to save money in building, but in many cases the amateur builders wishes to have a hand in building his own nest. Many are finding that a supply of tools, lumber and nails does not make a carpeter, and men who can make perfect strikes on the golf links or who made records for hitting the pill on the baseball diamond are suffering from bruised fingers through their inability to hit a nail straight.

There is the same urge to have a hand in building his future home that impells a man to beautify it when it is completed, and when he has put his time and effort and thought into its building there is a strong probability that he will not allow it to go into disrepair very soon. A thought that arises out of this is that a home owner can increase the cash value of his property greatly by devoting a few hours to its improvement. When a man owns his own home he is naturally interested in making it a better place to live. He wants it a little more home-like; so he spends part of his vacation and many odd moments each day at such "homey" tasks as repairing the doorstep, painting the house, trimming the trees of planting a bit of shrubbery.

By doing these things he not only builds a better home for his family, but the resale value of the property is materially increased, which makes the property a better investment. An improvement that costs a few cents may add a few dollars to the house, and one that costs $300 may increase the value of the house $1,000. Every man has a certain amount of spare time every day, and a great many in Peterborough are evidently turning it to account in either building their homes or in improving them.

"DONT MARRY FOR MONEY"

Nine Known "Names" Each with a Faithful Fan Following Vitalize Splendid Society Story

Nine known "Names," each a personality that is a synonym for success, constitute the cast of "Don't Marry for Money,' the most recent of the series of "adult emotion" pictures sponsored by L. Lawrence Weber and Bobby North, which will be shown to-night at the Royal Theatre.

House Peters, Rubye De Remer, Cyril Chadwick, Christine Mayo, George Nichols, Hank Mann and Charles Wellesley, all on one roster, give definite assurance to those who know who's who on the screen that here indeed is a cast whose assemblage can do naught but deliver a series of artistic performances and under the gifted direction of Clarence L. Brown, these nine mosaics of characterization form a pattern, which in very truth is a pattern of a picture for other directors, less gifted, to imitate in a hopeless endeavor to emulate.

"Dont' Marry for Money" sounds a warning, as its title would indicate, to the credulous and the unworldly who are innocent and unsophisticated enough to believe that the possession of wealth is a panacea for the cure of all the ills that flesh is heir to.

A poor girl marries a man for his money. He gives her gifts beyond the dreams of avarice. She tries to make herself believe that she pays in full by a perfunctory performance of her matrimonial obligations, but there's the Devil to pay too—through her guilty conscience, which makes her an easy prey to a coterie of clever crooks who take advantage of the fears which her conscience plagues her with.

Enmeshed in a social scandal through her reckless disregard of her husband, careless of his opinion, because she had married him for his money, too late she realizes his sterling worth, too late she realizes it is really he, not his money, she loves.

How she wins him back with the world against her makes "Don't Marry for Money" a picture one reall cannot afford to miss.

ROYAL GETS MASSIVE TOURNEUR PRODUCTION, "TORMENT," THURSDAY

Thrills, breath-taking spectacles and poignant drama are mixed with a fascinating love story in the splendid photoplay which the Royal Theatre will offer to its patrons next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

It is the M. C. Levee presentation of "Torment," filmed under the masterful direction of Maurice Tourneur and released by First National with an exceptional cast, including Owen Moore, Bessie Love, Joseph Kilgour, Jean Hersholt, Morgan Wallace, George Cooper and Maude George.

The story deals with the efforts of a band of international crooks operating from America to steal the Russian crown jewels, and unfolds the romance and reformation of one of its members.

High lights of this vivid drama include scenes from the Russian revolution, a train robbery and the Japanese earthquake.

The production is particularly well named owing to the torment, mental and physical, that its leading characters go through.

It is picturesque, exciting, and through it all runs a theme that will linger long in the memory of all who see it.

"Torment" is worth while. It is superior entertainment in all that the word implies. And that is putting it conservatively.

AT THE REGENT

GREATEST OF SCREEN PLAYS TO COME HERE.

Announcement Made That D. W. Griffith's "Way Down East" Will Come to the Regent Theatre.

Announced as the most remarkable production with which the name of David W. Griffith has yet been associated is his "Way Down East," made from the famous stage play of the same name and which will be shown in this city for the first time at the Regent Theatre, beginning to-night, for a run of three days.

As is expected, the usual Griffith effects and embellishments are said to be found in this latest work in abundance. It will be presented here with an augmented orchestra furnishing musical accompaniment which even the most spectacular of stage offerings could hardly afford to offer on tour; disgressing from the stage version he will take his audience from the simplicity of countryside to the lavishness of city mansions and thus display in a new series of color schemes an array of elaborate gowns and surroundings typical of wealth. At the end will come the famed terrifying New England blizzard and the break up of the ice gorge in the Connecticut River, scenes which in other cities have made audiences grip their seats.

Mr. Griffith has set for himself such a pace and a standard to follow that he must need supply the most wonderful in spectacle and the most finished in production. However, there may be those who in anticipation of such things, overlook the greatest of achievements of this master artist in screen production. Griffith seized upon "Way Down East" and paid a pretty sum for the screen rights alone, not for the spectacular opportunities it offered. Any play that can enjoy a vogue among American theatregoers for a period of more than twenty years possesses something more than pastoral humor and striking scenes and "Way Down East" has even in times when most stage offerings had hard sledding.

That the pure love of Anna Moore, her betrayal and subsequent sufferings were the big thing in "Way Down East" and is what has made it endure through all these years, there can be no doubt. It was this that appealed to David W. Griffith in selecting it as his medium of production. Her story is that of a woman from time immemorial and Griffith has spared no effort to bring this forth in all the strength of his vision and art. In doing so he has moulded a moral for mankind and strikes home to the so-called stronger sex a lesson which has often been forgotten as concerns a single standard for male and female, probably since the age of sin.

To Lillian Gish has fallen the task of essaying AAnna Moore for the screen and very likely to posterity. Hers is a more far-reaching and human Anna Moore than the spoken stage drama could permit and is such a person as has existed almost from the time of Mother Eve and existed in every community on earth where flourishes the varity and egoism of humanity and the innobility of man. That Miss Gish has made the most of her opportunity in the role is probably best attested by the fact that in New York alone the leading actors and actresses of the day have flocked not once but twice and thrice to view her work and marvelled at the same.

Every lover of dogs should see Strongheart, the greatest canine on the screen in his newest and most exciting picture, "The Love Master," at the Capitol next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. In this picture, Strongheart is supported by his 'wife', Lady Jule. This is her first appearance in pictures with her mate.

"THE DAWN OF A TOMORROW" IS GREAT STAGE SUCCESS

Paramount promised us, and George Melford in his latest production, "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," which opens at the Capitol to-day, has given us an even greater success than both "The Light That Failed" and "Flaming Barriers."

He has produced the picture with an all-star cast, headed by Jecqueline Logan and including David Torrance, brother of Ernest; Raymond Griffith, leading man; Guy Oliver, popular character actor; and Marquerite Clayton, one of the most beautiful blondes in pictures. Miss Logan, Torrence and Griffith have featured roles.

The story is a love melodrama by Frances Hodgson Burnett—a popular novel and successful stage play. The settings are the drawing-rooms of London society, behind the scenes in British politics, London on a foggy night, the Limehouse river front, the slums of Cheapside.

It's human and wholesome, with many melodramatic high-spots, one of the most interesting films we have ever seen.

And Jacqueline Logan—she just reaches right into the hearts of her people in her characterization of Glad.

SERVICES AT THE CATHEDRAL

With unmistakable zeal, devotion and fervour, the week's renewal of the Mission closed for the women of St. Peter's Parish, on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

On Saturday evening Father De Coste spoke very sympathetically on one who is dear to every Catholic, the Blessed Virgin Mary, the mother of God, our spiritual mother. He exhorted his hearers to strive to imitate the life of our Blessed Lady, her purity, her humility, her charity, her perseverance. Jesus Christ, her Divine Son, gave her to us for our mother in the last hour of His agony on the cross, hen He said to His apostle St. John, "Son, behold thy mother." The life of our Blessed Lady should be the model of our lives, for she has taught us how to perform the ordinary duties of life extraordinarily well. It is the constant strain upon our charity, humility and patience which comes into the Christion home every day that wears us out. She has taught us how to sanctify this daily routine of duties.

Predestined by God from eternity to be the Mother of His Divine Son, she was conceived immaculately free from all stain of sin; she remained sinless throughout her life, increased her merit by her devotion t God's service, and at death was assumed into heaven. Pray to her fervently for help. She is our most powerful advocate, and is above all the angels and saints. She has a mother's love for us, and a mother's influence with her Divine Son.

On Sunday afternoon Father Crowe preached the final sermon to the women, and made a fruitful appeal to them to persevere in God's service. He impressed upon each and all that they should not only avoid sin and the occasion of sin but that they should be active in doing good. The service closed when the whole congregation in earnest voice renewed their baptismal vows.

The Men's Renewal of the Mission.

On Sunday evening the men of the parish came out in full strength to spend the coming week in meditation on the eternal truths.

Father McCann made a strong personal appeal to each man present to think seriously on the one thing necessary, the salvation of his immortal soul. "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and suffer the loss of his soul?"—Mark viii:36.

It is necessary of course in these days that we be active in worldly pursuits; we must live and provide for our own, but we must take care not to become wholly engrossed in the things of the world to the detriment of our immortal souls. In all things remember first that your soul is priceless, made to the image and likeness of God, the very perfection of God's creative act of love here below.

If you wish to arrive at some estimate of the value of your immortal soul consider the lives of the saints and martyrs and try to picture to yourself how they toiled day and night to serve God, and how fearful they were of the remotest risk in their eternal salvation. Consider the activity of Satan, who goes about continuously, tirelessly, seeking whom he may ensnare. Consider the passion and death of Jesus Christ. Consider the love of God the Father, who gave up His only begotten Son to the death of the cross, for your redemption.

Our life we may say, is a bridge made up of seconds supported by God's providence. Not a single second is our own; we may be called to an accounting at any moment.

If you put your mind entirely on earthly things you may acquire influence, fame and wealth, but if in doing so you neglect your soul then what an awful price you have paid. There will come a time when no one in this world will ask who or what you have been, how you died or where you were buried; what is more no one will care.

You are reasonable men. I place the matter before you in a reasonable light. I ask you to consider the question in a sensible manner.

There is a time to Stop, Look and Meditate—a time to take an inventory of your state to see how your credit stands with heaven. You know the landmarks on the road to heaven; you recognize the milestones on the road to hell. Be honest with yourself, and ask squarely the question:

"What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and suffer the loss of his soul?"

A PROGRESSIVE MAY VOTE NAY ON BUDGET

GALT, May 12 (Canadian Press). —William Elliott, Progressive M.P. for South Waterloo, who was home for the week-end, said to-day that he was hesitating about voting for the Budget because two Cabinet Ministers, Hon. Charles Stewart and Hon. Mr. Motherwell, had said the Budget was the first step towards the abolition of protection, and therefore looking to the interests of his constituency, which included working men, manufacturers, and farmers, he was considering where that policy would lead. He was in favour of low tariff, just as low as would let industries succeed. He felt Canada needed the tariff.

He predicts that the next Federal election will be the greatest Canada has ever seen on tariff. He favoured a permanent tariff commission, and said there was no doubt the Budget would carry.

IMPROVISED BROILER.

BLUNDERS

WHY IS THIS WRONG?

Thousands of letters are delayed in delivery from two to ten hours in big cities because business men do not place their return street address on letterheads and envelopes. Even though a company may be an important one, all postal employees do not have its address committed to memory. Consequently its mail will surely be delayed if persons who must reply to its letters are given no street address.

EXTREME CARE MAKES SILENT PERIOD SILENT

Noted Engineer Tells How Elimination of Broadcasting Noises Is Accomplished.

BY L. C. F. HARLE

When the broadcast engineer lays out his station, he must see that no sounds exist in the studio except those which he wishes to broadcast.

He makes his studio walls very thick and of very dense material. He lines the inside of his studio with some sound-absorbing material.

Even then he may have rotating machinary, the vibration of which gets into his studio through the vibration of the building. He supports the machinery on elastic material, such as heavy sheets of cork or rubber, and finally gets his studio free of noise.

He then faces the problem of transmitting his broadcasting program with absolute fidelity. How much he loses of the original music in one phase of his problem which he solves through the design of equipment which will produce all sounds without the slighest departure from their original nature.

An essential part of such apparatus is a distortionless microphone which converts the sound into electrical energy. Microphones are extremely inefficient and require that the electrical energy which they make available be greatly amplified.

Slight Noises

The amplifying system multiplies the energy from the microphone several billionfold before it delivers it to the antenna system. If accidental noises enter the earlier stages of such an amplifying system, they may be extremely minute and still be sufficient to utterly destroy the nature of the sound which is being amplified.

To overcome these, the broadcast engineer makes all electrical connections permanent. He makes all parts which support current-carrying conductors of the finest grade of insulating material, and he keeps his amplifier system warm by artificial heating so that no condensation of atmospheric moisture can occur.

To eliminate the influence of nearby electrical disturbances requires different treatment. He accomplishes this by completely housing the entire system in an absolutely continuous metallic housing. His microphone is enclosed in a metal casing. His amplifier and batteries are in a metal-lined cabinet and all interconnecting conductors are enclosed in flexible metal tubing.

Sending Troubles

There remains the problem of applying his sound energy to the radio frequency transmitter and sending it off without the addition of any noises. When he listens to his station he will probably hear irregular crackling or crunching sounds, or musical hum, or both.

If the former, some irregularity in the operation of his equipment is taking place—mechanical shock, improper insulation, or moisture. He corrects these as he did in the amplifier.

Elimination of the hum is a bit more difficult. The cause invariably harks back to the source of power.

CIVIC ELECTION IS REQUIRED IN OTTAWA

OTTAWA, May 12 (Canadian Press). — The death of Mayor Waters will necessitate an election to fill the vacancy, as the Municipal Act provides for new election in the event of a vacancy before the 1st of July.

Should one of the present Controllers be elected, the vacancy on the Board of Control would be filled by the City Council forthwith, the appointee not necessarily being a member of the Council.

MONEY DOES WORK FOR CAR MAGNATE

A Man Earning $4000 Per Year is Practically in the Same Boat as a Man Earning $100,000 a Year.

It must make Henry Ford dizzy when he rounds up a flock of adding machines and figures out what he is worth.

The Ford Motor Company, in its latest financial report, reveals that its earnings were at least 82 million dollars during the twelve months ended February 29.

This is equivalent to 4 per cent interest on more than two billion dollars—which figure may not be far from the real total of the Ford fortune, on the basis of earning power.

* * *

Along this line, you can do some interesting figuring about yourself. Take your income for a year. Multiply it by 25, and you have the amount you are really "worth."

Income (salary, wages, etc.) is to the individual what interest is to money in the bank or invested in bonds.

For instance, a man able to earn $4,000 a year is in practically the same boat as the man with a fortune of $100,000 earning 4 per cent interest. (Except that one works for his money while the other has his money work for him.)

* * *

The Ford Motor Company lists its combined assets as worth over 568 million dollars, compared with about 400 millions two years ago.

Such a sum is beyond the imagination of most of us. It is tremendously large. And yet the elder John D. Rockefeller, according to some estimates, has given away nearly that much for education, science, charity and so on.

* * *

Rich men, like Ford and Rockefeller and Mellon, are unable to figure exactly what they are worth. Value based on earning power might shrink a lot, or it might expand, if the properties in which the fortune is invested were liquidated—sold.

You may have furniture that would cost $1,000 to replace. In selling, you might have to let it go for $500. Or, if it were old enough, antique collectors might pay $2,000.

Frozen wealth and liquid wealth are different things.

* * *

The "good-will" of the Ford Motor Company is listed in its statement at nearly 21 million dollars. But "good-will" includes reputation, prestige, and the value of the Ford name as created by advertising and business methods.

Many corporations would pay 10 times 21 millions to be able to duplicate the Ford "good-will" for their own businesses.

TREATS PASSENGERS.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Instead of dumping excess liquor overboard at the 12-mile limit, Captain Feliz Murass, of the French liner Paris, treats all the record and third-class passengers on the ship. Thus, he says, he disposed of 500 litres of wine, cordials and beer at the end of the last voyage.

RUSS EMIGRANTS BACK.

RIGA (Russia), May 12.—Hundreds of Russians who emigrated to Australia and the Americas before the war are returning to their native country to re-establish themselves in trades they learned in foreign countries. One group that went to Australia has applied for permission to return to Russia to develop sheep-breeding.

STATUE FOR NAVAJOS.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—A Navajo national monument is being established within the great and little known Navajo Indian reservation in north-eastern Arizona, the Department of the Interior has announced. The reservation comprises three separate tracts of land, each of which contains the ruins of a prehostoric cave, pueblo or cliff dwelling.

Mistaken Identity.

Smith was taking his usual Sunday afternoon stroll with his latest acquisition—a dog that would certainly have taken no prizes.

One of Smith's acquaintances met him.

"That's a frightful-looking mongrel," he said frankly.

"Sh-h-h!" said the owner warningly. "Don't let him hear you. He think's he's a fox-terrier."

Canadian Stock Exchange and Mines | New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

TO-DAY'S QUOTATIONS AND OPINION AND REVIEWS OF THE MARKETS.

MINING MARKET.

The mining market was devoid of any feature other than the spectacular rise in Canadian Lorraine which opened at 41, shot up to 68, and then closed at noon at 60. The rise was due to a discovery on the Maiden's property on Saturday, and we are informed that it is the most important that has been made so far in the South Lorraine Camp. The balance of the list was practically unchange with Castle off 1c. Crown Res. and Keeley also were off 1c, while Hattie advanced to 6½. Tough Oakes moved up to 66 and Lake Shore was unchanged at 70. There was a good demand for Indian mines all morning around 23.

The Toronto and Montreal boards were considerably quieter than the week-end, Montreal Power was up to 164, Smelters at 38, and Toronto Rail at 89.

New York Market.

Once more the New York market ignored the news of the unfilled steel tonage of U. S. Steel caused a decline in the steel and oils but outside of these issues it was completely ignored. The Rails and Coppers were strong, but the changes were small.

To The Citizens Of Peterborough

I wish to direct your attention to the Musical Festival arranged by the Male Voice Choir and the Symphony Orchestra, to be given in the Opera House, on Friday, May 16th.

This will give the public an opportunity to express appreciation of the honours brought to the city by this splendid galaxy of artistes, and will also assist the two organizations to discharge heavy liabilities for instruments, travelling expenses and music.

I trust the Opera House will be filled, including the upper gallery, as evidence of pride in the achievements of the musicians whose work has carried the name of Peterborough throughout the Dominion, and as an expression of appreciation of the work these organizations are doing in the city.

THE PETER ROBINSON CHAPTER HAD MEETING

A well-attended meeting of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held in Green Room of the Young Women's Christian Association on Saturday afternoon.

The Regent, Mrs. F. C. Weber, presided.

Discussion of several matters of interest to the Chapter occupied the attention of the members during the business session, which was followed by service of afternoon tea. Miss Olga Johnston presided at the table, prettily decorated with pansies and lily of the valley.

An interesting report of the recent Provincial meeting at Hamilton was given by Mrs. F. Hooper. Discussing the coming Dominion convention of the I.O.D.E., to be held in the suggestion of Mrs. Weber, the expenses for as delegate were estimated. The amount arrived at will be divided between four members of the Chapter, who will have an opportunity of attending the convention, paying a portion of their own expenses.

Mrs. Weber, the Regent, will be the official delegate, and carry the vote of the Chapter, and Mrs. F. Hooper, Mrs. N. Geale, and Mrs. N. Birks will also attend.

It was decided, on request of the manager of the Grand Opera House, to continue the ushering service of the Chapter at the Grand during the months of June and July, for the picture and vaudeville programme. Miss Marion Grieve was appointed convenor for the two extra months.

Miss Helen Howson, convenor of the Child Welfare Committee of the Peter Robinson Chapter, gave a comprehensive report of the work done in this connection during April.

A standing vote of sympathy was given by the Chapter for the recent bereavement suffered by a member, Mrs. E. B. Wayte.

Mrs. Angus Richardson and Miss Kathleen McCarthy were elected honorary members of the Chapter for one year.

New members welcomed to the Chapter roll on Saturday were: Misses Gladys Graham, Lella McClelland, Marguerite Holmes, and Jean Wilgar.

VOL. LIV., No. 113 — PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, MAY 13, 1924 — PRICE THREE CENTS

FIVE YEAR NOTICE OF CUT IN H.C.L. BONUS TO SOLDIERS IS ADVISED

Ralston Commission's Report on Pension Act and Soldier Settlement Tabled in Parliament By Hon. Dr. Beland—Declined to Recommend Consideration of Commuted Pensions — Suggests That the Widow Who Re-marries and Loses Her Second Husband Should Receive Pension Within Certain Time Limit.

ENLARGE WIDOWED MOTHER LIST.

OTTAWA, May 13 (Canadian Press). — Hon. Dr. Beland, Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, tabled in the House yesterday the third report of the Ralston Commission. The report deals entirely with suggestions made by ex-service men for amendments to the Pension Act, and with Soldier Settlement matters.

The recommendation by the Commission of outstanding interests as to pensions are probably those on four subjects:

(1) The right of pension of a widow who married a soldier after disability had been incurred. Under this head the Commission suggests an amendment to the Pension Act to make it clear that the pension is not to be refused even if the injury or disease exists, so long as its presence and seriousness could not have been reasonably known. The Commission also thinks that special consideration should be given where there was a betrothal before the man went overseas, even though the husband had a disability when the marriage finally took place.

Remove Time Limit.

(2)The Canadian Pensions Act contains an unusual provision which pesmits payment of pension to the widow and children of men who are, at the time of death, receiving pension for an eighty per cent. or greater disability, even though death was not caused by the disability from which the man suffered.

It was in effect life insurance for those seriously disabled cases, but it was limited to those who died within five years after dischargo or commencement of pension.

The commission after going into the matter exhaustively recommends that the time limit be removed, but that pension only be paid when the widow and children are without earnings or income sufficient for their maintenance and not automatically as in an ordinary case.

Widowed Mothers.

(3) In reference to widowed mothers, a distinction has always been made in Canadian pensions between widowed mothers who were actually supported by their sons at the time of enlistment, and those who have, since death, become dependent and would, in the pension board's opinion, have been supported by their son had he lived.

The commission recommends that the same principles apply to both cases, the widowed mother in each case having been deprived of the support of her soldier son by reason of his death.

(4) A vexed question in pensions, which has been repeatedly raised, is as to whether the widow of a soldier who remarried and whose husband after war died leaving her without maintenance, should have her pension restored. As the Canadian law now stands, she gets a bonus of one year's pension at the time of re-marriage and then her pension ceases forever.

Recommend Pension.

The commission, after discussing the provisions of the law of other countries and the principles involved in the suggestion, recommends that pension be paid to women in this class, subject to two conditions: (1) If the second husband dies within five years, and, (2) if the widow is left without earnings or income sufficient to provide maintenance.

Strong representations were made to the commission for the removal of the time limit within which application of pension must be made. This is not recommended, but the committee does recommend, however, that if there is an entry on the man's documents of his death or of the ailment which gave rise to the subsequent disability for which pension is claimed, this is to be regarded as if an application had been made on the date of entry.

Commuted Pensions.

The practice of commuting small pensions by lump sum payments was under strong criticism before the commission at various places and it was urged that the practice should be done away with, with all settlements made should be opened up. The report goes thoroughly into the circumstances leading up to the legislation, and considers that a recommendation of this kind is not warranted. The commission, however, recommends relief in certain cases in which men may have been misled into refusing the settlement on account of their disability having been classed as permanent.

The report declines to adopt the suggestion that the pension of widowed mothers be granted on the same principles as those to wives.

Other important recommendations are made. There has been some fear among ex-service men that a fifty per cent. pension bonus which has been granted from time to time to cover the increased cost of living would be cut off, and there has been repeated requests that this be made perpetual. This bonus expires on September 1, 1924. The commission recommends that in order to afford reasonable security and opportunity for making permanent plans, the bonus should not be cut off or reduced without at least five years' previous notice.

The commission recommends a revision of the table of disability as it effects amputation cases and the blind.

In tubercular cases the commission recommends full pensions for two years after discharge from the sanitorium.

Proposals Rejected.

Proposals which are not endorsed are:

That on the re-marriage of a widow the pension of the children be automatically increased; that the provision as to not counting pre-enlistment disability against the pension should be extended to those who did not serve in the theatre of war; that the other exception to the rule that pre-enlistment disability are not to count against pension of those who served in the theatre of war should be struck out; that disability pensions be continued to the dependents, even after death; that pensions be rated on the basis of pre-war occupation.

The commission in its report then takes up soldier land settlement. On the question of revaluation of

BRIAND MAY BE NAMED PREMIER BY LEFT GROUP

Poincare's Day of Glory Entering Eclipse As the Radicals Claim Large Majority and Expect to Cast Him Out of Power —Royalists Fared Badly

261 NEW MEMBERS.

PARIS, May 13 (Canadian Press). —It appeared last night as if a new Government would take direction of affairs in France. The general elections, held on Sunday, have brought about an unexpected state of affairs.

Premier Poincare's forces are in the minority, and the Oppositionists are counting upon putting him out of power completely.

There was a widespread sweep throughout the country for the parties comprising the Left, and they gained sufficient seats in the Chamber of Deputies to place them in a commanding position.

It is possible that M. Poincare may find a way out of his impending difficulties. Thus far he has had little to say on the subject of the people's mandates as delivered on Sunday, and from an apathetic state of mind the people of France have been aroused to interest and speculation to as what the future holds in the way of a new ministry and a new Chamber of Deputies.

Latest Figures.

Latest figures give the Poincare Parties 229, and the Opposition 342, but the adherents of the Premier believe that he will retain the votes of many of the Oppositionists, at least in his foreign policy.

The Deputies re-elected number 310, while thus far 261 new members have been elected.

The campaign of the successful Coalition was waged against the occupation of the Ruhr, against the law authorising the Government to carry out economies by decree, and against the recent increase of 20 per cent. in direct and indirect taxes.

Whether the new Chamber will take the initiative in repealing the tax laws and authorisation for a reduction in the number of public officials by decree is a subject of speculation, because the needs of the French Treasury make any diminution in the receipts or any check on the proposed economies dangerous.

May Retain Policy.

Some impartial political critics are of the opinion that the new majority will go slow in changing the French policy regarding evacuation of the Ruhr, since the collection of reparations will devolve upon it, and the realisation of something of France's claim is all the more necessary because of the promises made by the new deputies to increase the salaries of all the civil employees of the lower grades 1,800 francs a year, which would add about two billion francs to the annual budget.

Promises were also made by what now constitutes the majority in the Chamber to continue the reconstruction of the devastated regions, which has practically been suspended for a considerable time on account of lack of funds. The necessity of finding money for this purpose and other needs, is expected to make the new Chamber reluctant to go very far in changing policies that have to do with Treasury receipts.

Stalwarts Missing.

The sweeping victory of the Radicals will entirely change the Chamber. Some of the most picturesque figures and some of the most ardent debaters disappear in Leon Daudet, leader of the Royalists; Georges Mandel, leader of the Clemencists; Andre Tardieu, fervent critic of recent governments; Andre Lefevre, former War Minister, and one of the most earnest advocates of military preparation by France; and Emmanuel Brousse, who earned the title of "Watchdog of the Treasury," by his unfailing keenness in detecting unjustified appropriations in the Budget.

The defeat of the two vice-presidents of the Chamber, M. Lefevre and Francois Arago, leaves an important vacancy in the Chamber organisation, as they were considered

Hebrideans Have Stayed on Farms

OTTAWA, May 13.—(Canadian Press).—Of the 580 settlers from the Hebrideas brought out under the auspices of the Federal Government, all have been placed on farms except four families; all those placed have remained on the farms; none are in arrears for the repayment of their passage money and none have gone to the United States. These facts were brought out in answer to a series of questions in the House of Commons Monday.

The answer points out that in addition to this 580, two parties were brought out by the Ontario Government.

Three Prospectors Burned to Death

STEWART, B.C., May 13.—(Canadian Press).—Three prospectors, Sam Fry, Wm. Murphy, and Frederick Doey, were burned to death in a shack on Murphy's mining claim in the Thumb Creek district 32 miles from here last week, according to word which reached here Sunday night.

The bodies were burned beyond recognition but there is no doubt as to who the victims are, it is stated. It is believed the shack caught fire while the men were asleep.

AEMILIUS JARVIS UNDER ARREST

Father and Son of Bond Firm With Harry Pepall, Their Manager, Charged With Conspiracy to Defraud.

TORONTO, May 13 (Canadian Press). — Aemilius Jarvis, Sr., and Aemilius Jarvis, Jr., of the well-known bond firm of that name, and their manager, Harry Pepall, were arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of conspiracy to defraud.

The defendants were taken to detective headquarters.

The meshes of the provincial bond scandal already holding the late Drury Government Treasurer in criminal prosecution, yesterday involved in a like fashion Aemilius Jarvis, Sr., bond dealer, and internationally known capitalist; his son and business associate, Aemilius Jarvis, Jr., and Harry Pepall, the manager of his firm.

They were taken into custody upon instructions of the Hon. W. F. Nickle, K.C., upon the charge of conspiracy to defraud the Government.

Following the arrest the Attorney-General said that the Jarvis-Pepall charges were in part identical to those upon which the Hon. Peter Smith was being arraigned.

Asked then why the arrest in their case had been so long delayed, he intimated that the Peter Smith scandal had recently taken on significant developments.

"Two people," he said, "may conspire together to do one particular thing and they may also do another."

Bail Was Granted.

Following the arrest of the three men at the Jarvis Company's place of business, Bay Street, bail was granted, a bond of $50,000 for Mr. Jarvis, Sr., being supplied by Alf. Rogers; bond of $50,000 for Harry Pepall supplied as follows, $20,000 by G. T. Pepall, $15,000 by W. E. Pepall, and $15,000 by Bryce B. Hunter; and bond of $25,000 being supplied for Mr. Jarvis, Jr., by Col. Walter Gow.

The charge which faces the three accused reads that they "Did unlawfully conspire together with one another, A. Pepall, Peter Smith, and other persons unknown, by deceit or falsehood or other fraudulent means, to defraud the public, His Majesty in the right of the Province of Ontario, and the Government of the said Province of Onario, or to affect the public market price of the succession duty free bonds of the said Province of Ontario, contrary to the Criminal Code."

To Sell Business.

It is stated authentically that Aemilius Jarvis & Company, Toronto, bankers and bond dealers, are selling their business.

Details relating to the change in the control are not yet completed, and yesterday the name of the purchaser was withheld.

Aemilius Jarvis established his present business 32 years ago, in 1892, and for many years the company has been one of th most prominent bond houses in the city.

In Court To-day.

Aemilius Jarvis, Sr., Amilius Jarvis, Jr., and Harry Peppall, manager of the firm, appeared in the police court this morning, before Police Magistrate Jones, charged with conspiracy to defraud the Ontario Government, and were remanded until May 21st. The proceedings in court lasted only a few minutes.

Mr. Jarvis and his son were represented by R. H. Greer, K. C., and Harry Peppall, by A. G. Slaught, K.C.

WESTERN SPRING WORK HAS MADE GOOD PROGRESS

Indications Promise As Early Conclusion As Last Year — Seeding Is Well Advanced and the Soil Amply Supplied With Moisture For Some Time.

C.P.R. CROP REPORT.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 13.—(Canadian Press).—Spring work has been carried on under favorable conditions and rapid progress has been made during the past week in most sections of the West, states the weekly crop report issued today by the Agricultural Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Although showery in some sections, splendid drying weather has prevailed, and notwithstanding the fact that seeding is from ten days to two weeks later than the average year, indications are that the work will conclude quite as early as last season.

In Manitoba wheat seeding is probably forty to fifty per cent. accomplished and excellent progress has been made during the week. Indications are that there will be a slight decrease in wheat acreage in Manitoba with a corresponding increase in oats, barley and flax.

Wheat Up Five Inches.

Land and weather conditions in Saskatchewan are now favorable for a successful seeding season. Early wheat is now four or five inches above the ground and looking well. Forty-five to fifty-five per cent. of the wheat acreage has been seeded. A slight decrease in the acreage of the under wheat is anticipated with corresponding increase in coarse grains.

Fifty-five per cent. of the seeding is completed in Southern Alberta and thirty to forty per cent, in the balance of the province. Early grains are well above the ground in many southern districts.

Excellent Condition.

With the exception of a section in southwest Alberta, in the Coutts-Grassy Lake districts, the seed bed throughout the West is in excellent shape and practically every district has sufficient sub-soil moisture to carry the crop along for some time to come.

On the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway about fifty per cent. of the wheat is sown, and the complete acreage should be in by the end of the present week.

The weather in British Columbia during the past week has been moderately cool and quite seasonable. It is estimated that the potato crop will be much larger than last year.

THE WEATHER

Rain has again come, this time to .43 of an inch. Farmers say that while considerable of the high land has been seeded little has been done with the lower lying land, and the late rain will retard seeding still further. Heavy rain also came last spring, but at a later date than this. Rain fell from June 3rd to 9th to the depth of over 4 inches. On May 14th last year we had white frost and ice, and with the thermometer down to 25 degrees. The spring was late, and the maples were not in full leaf until the end of May.—W.P.

C.N.R. Annual Report Forthcoming Soon.

OTTAWA, May 12.—(Canadian Press.) — The annual statement concerning operation of the Canadian National Railways will be made shortly in the House of Commons. This was foreshadowed today when Hon. George P. Graham asked Hon. Arthur Meighen not to press for the production of an official income of the railways. He would like to "embellish his annual remarks" with the information now called for, and he indicated Mr. Meighen would not have to wait long. Mr. Meighen agreed to let the matter stand.

U. F. Y. P. O.

The regular meeting of the U.F.Y.P.O. will be held on May 13th at 8 o'clock in the Simcoe street rooms.

"Soul Kiss" of Screen Causes Girls' Ruin

MONTREAL, May 13.—(Canadian Pres).—Seeing the "long kiss" in the movies has been the first step downwards with young girls, according to Judge Lacroix, of the Juvenile Court, in commenting here yesterday on the films presented in Montreal. He thinks it should be banished from the pictures. Not a few of the young girls who appear before him have told him, he said, that it was the desire to experiment and see what the kiss was like that led to their downfall.

And now the girls are starting to wear glass hair! Delicately tinted spun glass wigs, colored to contrast with complexion or costume, may be all the rage soon. Madame Lou ise, a Chicago beauty expert, who fashioned them, is displaying one here.

LIBERALS FREED C.N.R. OF POLITICS ASSERTED SECRETARY OF STATE

Hon. Mr. Copp Says the Government Adopted a Policy of Non-Interference In Management By Sir Henry Thornton — Spoke of Difficulty In Evolving a Policy Suitable to All Parts of Canada.

Give Farmers Chance.

OTTAWA, May 13.—(Canadian Press.)—Hon. A. B. Copp, Secretary of State, continuing the debate on the budget in the House of Commons Monday afternoon, referred to the difficulty of finding a tariff policy which would be suitable to all parts of Canada. He drew attention to the size of the country, its diversity of occupations and interests and other factors which contributed to the difficulty of devising an equitable fiscal policy.

He replied to the charge of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Conservative member for Vancouver Centre, that the present Government was an opportunist Government, by saying that if an opportunist was one who strive to satisfy the wishes of the great majority of people in a country, he was glad to be one. The Government hoped by the budget to give the struggling agriculturist a chance to pay his debts.

C.N.R. Out of Politics.

The Liberals had found the present organization of the National Railways as a child on their doorstep and intended to give the Board of Directors a free hand independent of politics. Regarding the regional division of the National lines he hoped that the directors would see their way later to enlarge the Atlantic Region and he would be glad to help the movement. However, that was a matter that was not vital to the success of the whole system.

L. H. Martell (Liberal, Hants), asked if Mr. Copp wanted to tie the Maritime provinces down to the Intercolonial Railway as it was and have no expansion.

Mr. Copp said the Government policy of no interference with the railway board left the matter to that board which he felt sure would give sympathetic consideration to the province's claims for expansion.

Mr. Martell asked if the Maritimes were not entitled to demand expansion on equitable and legal grounds rather than sympathetic ones. The Intercolonial belonged to them, and they had certain rights under confederation.

Mr. Copp said he could only reiterate his stand that it was a matter for the railway board to decide. He personally had been opposed to the linking of the Intercolonial with the Canadian Northern and its inclusion in the National system.

Routing of Grain.

Mr. Copp referred to the complaint that Canadian grain was being routed over the C.N.R. to Portland, Maine, instead of to Maritime province ports. Some people, he said, took the ground that the Canadian National had the right to route grain in the most convenient way while others stated that this was a matter for the shipper to decide.

"We will never get anywhere by sitting down and grouching about it," Mr. Copp said in reference to the complaint. He advised the people of the Maritime provinces to look at the matter from a business point of view. A committee representing the Maritime provinces interested should be organized for the purpose of visiting the west, interviewing the farmers and shippers and endeavoring to arrange for a larger proportion of the grain crop to be shipped through the Maritime provinces.

He believed that much more could be done along these lines.

Sir Henry Thornton and his board of directors were trying to operate the Canadian National as a business propostiion. Mr. Copp

LONDON CROWD'S ROYAL WELCOME TO QUEEN MARIE

Reigning Beauty of the European Royalty Pays State Visit to Grandmother's Old Home At Buckingham Palace — Young Princess Left Behind.

MET BY PRINCE.

LONDON, May 13.—(Canadian Press).—Queen Marie of Rumania came back to Great Britain Monday to pay a state visit to her grandmother's old home, Buckingham Palace, and the welcome she received was truly Victorian in its splendor.

Battalions of brilliantly uniformed troops and mounted bands lined the route from Victoria Station to the palace. Behind the soldiers surged thousands of pageant-loving Londoners, to whom the sight of royalty in carriage is ever a signal for enthusiastic saluting, gentlemanly hat-waving, and decorous cheering which although not too loud-voiced, indicates the warmth of heart of loyal subjects.

King Ferdinand, very much like King George, in military uniform and trim grey bread, rode in the front carriage, followed by Queen Mary and Queen Marie. All eyes seemed centered on the beautiful woman whose romantic political exploits and heroic war efforts in her middle European kingdom made her as well known in Great Britain as at home.

Vivacious Personality

Queen Marie wore a wine-red, fur-trimmed cloak, with a small red and black hat pushed close down upon her head. She seemed a vivacious friendly sort of person beside the stately, dignified Queen Mary, who was dressed in a silver-tissue brocade coat and her usual upstanding gray toque.

After introductions at the palace, Queen Marie donned a gown of more sombre hue and with King Ferdinand, went to Whitehall, where they laid a wreath on the cenotaph.

Today the Rumanian rulers visit the Guild Hall and receive the Freedom of the city. The four days of the state visit will be crowded with balls, receptions and dinners.

Princess At Home

The Prince of Wales met the visiting King and Queen at Dover and accompanied them to London, but, as the young Princess Ilena, whom gossipers insist on listing as a possible wife for the Prince was left at home in Bucharest, there is no cause for reviving rumors about such a match, according to influential persons who should know what is going on at court.

According to the Foreign Office there is no political significance attached to the Rumanian visit, despite the fact that M. Ducas, the Rumanian Foreign Minister, accompanies the sovereigns. It is stated that Anglo-Rumanian relations are already most friendly and that further treaties are not likely to be needed.

Starvation Seen In Wake of Ruhr Strike.

ESSEN, Germany, May 13.—Unless the lockout of miners in the Ruhr and Rhineland, resulting from the refusal of the workers to accept a lengthened working day, is settled quickly, the workers face starvation, itis indicated here.

Mayors of cities in the Ruhr and the district governors declare it is illegal to pay unemployment doles from the communal funds since the miners have failed to accept an arbitration award.

The shortage of coke will soon lead to a cessation of the Essen coal supply, it is believed. Seventeen trains running into Essen have been suspended.

APPEAL FOR FUNDS.

BERLIN, May 13.—The General Labor Federation has issued an appeal to all workers to contribute to funds for the miners locked out in the Ruhr and Rhineland. The Communists are appealing to British, Belgian, Polish and Czech transport workers to refuse to move coal into Germany.

LOCAL MOTORISTS IN HANDS OF LAW

Left Their Cars Parked Without Lights and One Man Passed Standing Street Car.

Several more citizens were fined in police court this morning for infraction of the new Highways Traffic Act, and many more are on the police records for summonses. These regulations being now a provincial statute must be strictly observed.

G. L. Webster was fined $10 and costs $5.50, with an alternative of ten days in the common jail, for passing a street car standing at Charlotte and George streets. This is contrary to section 38 of the Act, which forbids vehicles, bicycles or horses passing a street car stopped for the purpose of taking on or letting off passengers. Not only must the driver of a vehicle not pass, but he must not approach nearer than six feet from the entrance to the street car until all passengers have boarded the car or have safely reached the sidewalk. Nor may the driver of a vehicle pass a street car on the left hand side. The minimum penalty for any of these offences is a fine of $10 for the first offence, and $20 for the second, and in addition the license may be suspended. For third and subsequent offences the fine is not less than $50; imprisonment may be given up to 30 days, and the license may be suspended up to six months.

No Parking Lights.

Four citizens were fined, with the alternative of ten days in jail, for leaving their cars parked on George street without the lights required by Section 10 of the Traffic Act. those who trespassed the act and were in court this morning were: A. A. Haskill, fined $ 2 and costs $4; John Darling, fined $2 and costs $5.50; A. Woods, fined $2 and costs $4.45; and A. C. Darling, fined $2 and costs $4. The section requires that parking lights as specified by the act must be carried even on lighted streets.

Michael Kane, of Swamp Lake, charged with housebreaking and theft, pleaded guilty and was remanded until Friday for sentence.

WESTERN CANADA NEEDS THE PURCHASING POWER

HAMILTON, May 13 (Canadian Press). — The industry of Eastern Canada, said the Hon. T. A. Crerar, to the Canadian Club last night, can have no greater guarantee of prosperity than by giving to the expanding market of Western Canada all the purchasing power for which the latter has the capacity.

Mr. Crerar spoke of the economic relationship of Eastern and Western Canada. His message in effect was that prosperous agriculture in Western Canada is certain to be the cause of industrial prosperity in Eastern Canada.

As proof of this, Mr. Crerar declared that industry in Ontario and Quebec from 1898 to 1912 was never so prosperous. Yet this was only the natural reaction to the development of and prosperity in Western Canada during the same period.

FEEDING FOR MORE MILK

The dairy cow uses the feed given her for three important purposes—to maintain her body, to produce milk, and to produce a calf. First of all she will use the feed for body maintenance. She will then require feed to develop and produce a calf being bred. Then if there are any feed nutrients left she will use them for the production of milk. From this it can be easily understood why it is important to feed the dairy cow liberally if she is to produce a maximum amount of milk.

VIRGINIA FLOODS ARE CAUSING MUCH DAMAGE

RICHMOND, Va., May 13 (Canadian Press). — One death and widespread property and crop damage in Virginia has been reported as a result of the flooding of the Shenandoah, Rappahannock, Rivanna, and other rivers and streams in the State by the steady rains of the last few days.

Much movable property and live stock has been saved, however, due to adequate warnings.

William Lucas was drowned at Fredericksburg, where the Rappahannock had risen 25 feet last night, and was still swelling.

A large dam and a number of buildings had been wiped away there.

FRENCH NOTE SHOWED OPPOSITE EFFECT TO GERMAN, BERLIN VIEW

Germans Foster Nationalism In Their Political Ignorance, Says the Tageblatt, While French Re-act Against It At Time When Negotiations Could Begin.

Opinions On Elections

BERLIN, May 13. — Most of the newspapers on Monday afternoon rejoiced over what they termed the discomfiture of Premier Poincare in consequence of the French elections. None of them, however ,was hopeful of any real change in the French policy toward Germany.

The Berlinger Tageblatt expressed the opinion that the French people realized that they would be economically ruined and politically isolated by a "continued policy of hate and violence."

The newspaper precdicts that M. Poincare "will crash from the height of power to the level of impotence."

The Tabeblatt considers it pitiable that the moment when the French people send Nationalism to the devil, and when real negotiations could begin, "should have been chosen by political ignorance in Germany to foster Nationalism."

Germania, the Centrist organ, thinks that any important change in the French policy can scarcely be expected from a Left government in France.

De Zeit, Foreign Minster Stresemann's organ, considers the results in the French elections prove that Germany was right in recognizing the report of the reparation experts as a suitable basis for a solution of the reparation problem.

A LIBERAL VICTORY, SAYS LLOYD GEORGE.

LONDON, May 13.—In the course of a political speech in London last night, David Lloyd George, former British prime minister, alluded to the results in the French elections as a great Liberal victory—an event of great significance and deep moment, which he firmly believed would conduce to a much needed pacification of the word.

Lloyd George said that the Liberal wing in France would provide a lesson in unity and action for the British Liberals.

After declaring that Winston Churchill's attempt "to make British Liberalism a wing of the Tory bird" was unlikely to attract many Liberals on account of the inherent irreconciliable antagonism between the two parties, Lloyd George referred to the refusal of the Labor party to listen to suggestions for co-operation with the Liberals in Parliament, and in the country, and declared that the only course for Liberalism, was to stand alone with a vigorous policy, and with the watch word "liberty" which was assailed by the Conservatives on the one hand and the Labor party on the other.

DOUBTS COMPLETE CHANGE

PARIS, May 13. — Though the movement towards the Left in the general elections is marked, the Temps questions whether it denotes a complete change in the direction of the country's policy, but adds that if the political orientation is modifed less than appeared likely at first, the political composition of the Chamber will be transformed.

The Temps foresees early loss of strength among the Left deputies, owing to the impossibility of the various groups co-operating.

Typical provincial comment is found in the Toulouse de Peche, as follows:

"Sunday's elections indicate that France rejects all attempts at a dictatorship and all more or less disguished efforts at Mussolinism. She dismisses those reckless politicians who would not scruple to falsify our laws, to the benefit of their personal ambitions. France has cried aloud that she is ready to consider the solution of international problems in a spirit of peacefulness."

ITALIAN OPINION.

ROME, May 13. — The unexpected outcome of the French elections caused great surprise and created animated discussion in Rome political circles last night. The general opinion seemed to be that the fall of the Poincare Cabinet might facilitate a solution for the bitter controversies now pending, and especially the situation regarding German reparations.

The Tribuna, in an editorial, asks: "Will Poincare's fall also drag down President Millerand?"

The Giornale D'Italia says editorially:

"The verdict of the French people has enormous importance for the European situation. This newspaper sees in the re-election of M. Briand an omen tending toward closer friendship between the allies for the safety of France and for the attainment of reparations.

COASTAL BOATS WAGES CHANGED

Canadian Merchant Marine Increased Pay in 1921 and Australian and Oriental Decreased.

OTTAWA, May 13. — Wages paid to firemen and sailors on the Dominion Government Merchant Marine increased on the coastal service boats in 1921 and decreased in the Australian and Oriental services.

Answer to a question asked in the House of Commons to-day shows that the coastal service paid $60 per month previous to October, 1921, when the rate was increased to $67.50, and has not been changed since.

In the trans-Pacific service wages were reduced from $75 pe. month to $60, in July, 1921, and have not been changed since. In the Vancouver to United Kingdom service which began last November, the monthly wage is $60.

BUDGET DEBATE RAISES HEATED TALK IN HOUSE

Maritimes and West Urge Their Claims, British Columbia Member Saying the Policy of the Government Will Drive Out Industry.

NIGHT SITTING

OTTAWA, May 13.—(Canadian Press.)—William Elliott, Progressive, South Waterloo, enrolled himself shortly after midnight in the ranks of those who are unable to support the present budget. Mr. Elliott said he was opposed to either reduction or increase in the tariff without investigation and therefore he could not support the budget.

This declaration came toward the end of day in which the chief feature had been a statement by Hon. A. B. Copp, secretary of state, that no one was seriously suggesting that Canada should adopt free trade.

Mr. Copp spoke of manufacturers willing to jump over the border to save their lives before they were even threatened by storm.

Turning to the railway situation he siad he hoped the directors of the Canadian National Railways would see their way later to enlarge the Atlantic region. And on the matter of routing grain on the Canadian Atlantic ports, Mr. Copp suggested that a committee from the Maritime provinces should be organized, visit the west, interview farmers, and endeavor to arrange for the shipment of a large proportion of grain via the Maritime provinces.

This argument of the Maritime province development was later taken a step further by another Liberal member, R. E. Finn, of Halifax. Mr. Finn held that it was the duty of the Canadian Grain Growers to see that their products were shipped via Canadian ports.

L. J. Ladner of Vancouver South, expressed a conservative view from British Columbia, arguing that the budget contained a message of utter disregard for the industrial and manufacturing interests of Canada. It was a stab at the industrial life of British Columbia. The policy of the government, he said, was to drive out of Canada not only the industries but people who worked in them,

M'KENNA DUTIES EXPIRE AUGUST 1

Britain's War Measure of Protection Will Disappear Unless Baldwin Motion of Censure Carries.

LONDON, May 13.—The House of Commons last night formally agreed to the budget resolution abolishing the McKenna duties on August 1. Thus, the duties will disappear except in what is considered the extremely unlikely event of Stanley Baldwin's censure motion to-day being carried.

The former Conservative Premier's motion calls for retention of the McKenna duties, but Premier MacDonald has considered it as a motion of censure, and it will be discussed along these lines.

The so-called McKenna duties were imposed as a war measure on imported automobiles, foreign films, motorcycles, clocks, watches and other manufactured goods.

CARRIED ALOFT BY BIG KITE JAPANESE LAD FALLS TO DEATH

TOKIO, May 13.—Kite-flying is not generally considered a dangerous sport, but its fatal possibilities have been revealed by a strange accident in Gumma prefecture.

A 12-year-old boy was helping three men fly a kite measuring 12 by 9 feet. The line was attached to his waist. A gust of wind carried the line out of the grasp of the men and the boy was whirled 30 feet in the air before his belt broke and he fell to death. The three men are held for investigation on charges of manslaughter.

Flowers Presented to Two Oldest Mothers

HASTINGS, May 13.—A Mothers' Day service was held in the Methodist church on Sunday morning, 'Go to Sunday School' Sunday was also included in the service. After the opening exercises an invocation for the blessing of mothers was given by Mr. Hinton. Responsive reading from Luke 2, verses 40-52. Little Miss Georgina Beavis of Norwood, recited "My Mother." The scholars of the Sunday school sang in unison, "God Sees the Little Sparrow Fall," Hayden Kelley recited "Mother Mine," Miss Madeline Bonds sang, "He Loves Me So." A recitation was given, "The Mother." An impressive occasion was the presentations of bouquets of carnations to two of the oldest mothers in the church who were Mrs. S. Carter and Mrs. Roberts, the latter being ill and unable to be present, her daughter, Mrs. M. Baker, received the flowers. The flowers were presented by two of the Sunday school classes, "The Sunbeams" and the "Jewel Seekers." The addresses as read were as follows:

Dear Mrs. Roberts,—The girls of the Sunbeam S.S. class, representing the church and Sunday school, wish you to have these flowers on Mothers' Day, a token to signify that we honor you as one of the mothers of our church. Read by Yvonne Sharpe. Presentation made by Aletha Brownell. Signed on behalf of the "Sunbeam class."

Dear Mrs. Carter—As to-day is a day set apart to bear tribute to our mothers, we the "Jewel Seekers" thought it quite fitting to present to you, the mother of the Hastings Methodist church, and also the mother of our dear teacher, this bouquet of carnations. We trust that you will be spared to enjoy many more "Mothers' Day" with us.

Signed, H. Macdonald, president, K. Simpson, secretary, Jean Macdonald, treasurer, Mrs. Brooks, teacher.

The hymn "When Mothers of Salem," was the closing chorus of the service.

Automobile Collided With a Team of Horses --Lost a Finger.

OMEMEE, May 13.—A accident was narrowly averted on Sunday o'clock on King Street West, when a car driven by Mr. Leslie Parker collided with a team of horses on a democrat belonging to Mr. Joseph McCallum, of Bobcaygeon, while passing another car. As a result, the horses received several cuts and both vehicles are damaged, but the occupants escaped unhurt.

Lost a Finger.

Mr. Ernest Hazelwood, an employee of the Omemee Tanning Coy., is suffering from a painful accident which he received last week. While performing his duties his hand became caught in a leather roller, thus severing the first finger of his left hand at the first knuckle.

Horse Fatally Injured.

On Sunday morning, Mr. Walter Magee, the local carter, was leading one of his horses to water and another horse was following. The latter, feeling it was free, began to kick up its heels and rear up, with the result that its front feet vecame entangled in a wire fence, causing the animal to fall to the ground. The veterinary surgeon was called, but medical aid was of no use. The animal could not move and had to be drawn to the stable, where it died the following morning.

SWITCHMEN'S UNION WILL DISCUSS ESCH-CUMMINS ACT

DENVER, May 13.—Revision of the Esch-Cummins transportation bill, providing for the elimination of the so-called "politician group," the representatives of the public on the board, and a general discussion of wage and working conditions as they now affect the switchmen on the railroads of the counrty, are some of the matters to be touched upon by the delegates to the triennial convention of the Switchmen's Union of North America heer this week.

No formal program for the convention has been prepared and none will be, according to W. J. Trost, vice-president, who is in Denver assisting in the completion of the arrangements for the entertainment of the 3,000 delegates expected to attend.

ELECTIONS HIT FRANC'S VALUE

Break of Fifty Points on Monday In Price On Exchange--Sharpest Decline Since March.

NEW YORK, May 13.—(Canadian Press).—The outcome of the French elections, foreshadowing Premier Poincare's retireemnt and modification of France's foreign policies, brought a sharp break of more than fifty points in the price of French francs Monday, the most drastic decline since the collapse of the currency early in March. From Saturday's level of 6.06 cents, the rate dipped as low as 5.52 cents, and then fluctuated erratically between 5 1-2 and 5 3-4 cents. Selling of the currency originated abroad and losses there were extended in the local market shortly after the opening. While bankers and foreign exchange dealers were inclined to believe that a change in Ministry would hasten rather than retard a reparations settlement, they pointed out that English and German operators embraced the opportunity to sell francs short in view of the absence of French support. Sterling was depressed more than a cent to around $4.36, and Belgian francs yielded about 25 points to 4.76 cents.

Mr. Fred Elliott Thrown from his Buggy in collison with an Automobile

FRASERVILLE, May 13. — Mother's Day was observed in the Sunday School here. Both attendance and collection exceeded last year. A special programme was provided.

The recitations given were: "My Mother," by Miss Ruby Cunningham; "Mother Mine," by Miss Mary Atchison; "The Mother," by Mr. Ray Finlay.

Everyone was glad to welcome back the Sunday School organist, Miss Kathleen Waterman, who has been ill for some time.

Miss Melvina Hutchison, nurse-in-training at Cobourg General Hospital, is holidaying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Hutchison.

Rev. and Mrs. R. M. Patterson motored to Bowmanville on Friday last to attend the funeral of Mrs. Patterson's uncle, the late Mr. McLaughlin.

Mr. Fred. Elliott met with an accident last Saturday evening. While driving home from the village with his horse and buggy, a car hit him, throwing him from the buggy and stunning him. Owing to another car coming from behind, the driver was unable to see the buggy. Luckily no serious damage was done, except for the horse getting away from Mr. Elliott.

Miss Bessie Parks entertained a few friends on Friday evening last. The evening was spent in music and dancing. A dainty lunch was served which was much enjoyed by everyone.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Johnson spent Sunday with Mrs. Johnson's father, Mr. H. Adamson, Peterboro.

CHILD SCALDED.

COLERAINE, Que., May 13. — (Canadian Press). — The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Leroux, of Coleraine, aged 2½ years, died Sunday a few hours after she had fallen into a pan of boiling water. No "Last Minute" Failures With Green's Sponge Mixture

THE dinner under way, the company coming any minute, you lift from the oven the cake over which you have spent so much time and trouble — a failure. Just a little too much of something or not enough of another ingredient — so easy to do when you're rushed — and your cake is a disappointment just when you wanted so badly to have it turn out well.

You'll have no such experiences with Green's Sponge Mixture. It's as certain as it's easy. With it, you simply whisk 2 eggs together, beat in a packet of Green's Sponge Mixture and bake in medium-sized tins for about 8 minutes. You'll get as fine a cake as you've ever tasted—tempting, wonderfully appetizing, wholesome. No guesswork or failures, because the very finest cake-making ingredients are embodied in the correct proportions in Green's. Absolutely certain—therefore economical.

Green's Sponge Mixture has been famed in England for years as a product of the highest quality and the greatest time saver on busy bake days. Millions of packets are sold there every year.

Green's Sponge Mixture is made in six different flavours — Plain, Vanilla, Orange, Lemon, Almond, Maderia — offering you a wide choice. Recipes are given on the back of every packet. Ask your grocer for it, 20c. a packet. Cut your baking time and trouble two-thirds by trying it now.

Strawberry Short Cake
Take a packet of Green's Sponge Mixture (any flavour preferred). Make up in the ordinary way for a sponge sandwich.
When sponge is cold, cut some strawberries in halves and place on one half of the Sandwich (well ripened strawberries should be used).
Whip some cream with a teaspoonful of fine sugar. Spread the whipped cream lightly over the strawberries. Place the other half of the Sandwich on top and sprinkle with sugar. The fruit should not be placed upon the Sandwich until shortly before it is required for use. When strawberries are not in season, use other fruit, or strawberry jam.

Ask your grocer for, or write for free recipe booklet, to

THE SENATE'S SUGGESTION.

Elsewhere in these columns today the Examiner publishes a somewhat sarcastic reference from the Ottawa Journal to the Senate's effort to pose as economy experts.

At the same time the suggestions made by the Senate Committee which is considering Civil Service reform in a letter to the Deputy-Ministers of the various departments are worthy of consideration.

The reference to the housing of the department staffs touches one of the glaring defects of the present system.

With the staffs at present located in 65 different buildings, 53 of them rented buildings, costing the Government for rent alone near seven hundred thousand dollars a year, it is evident that the Senate Committee is on sound ground in advocating a change.

Reasonable, too, is the objection to the waste of money represented by duplications of service, and to the overhead of the Department of National Defense, which requires 253 officials at a cost of $493,854 a year in salaries to control a permanent force of 2,500 men, a small air force and a still smaller navy.

There may be something amusing in the Senate advocating economy, but after all good advice is good advice no matter what its source.

THE SENATE AND THE CIVIL SERVICE.

Canada pays 96 Senators $384,000 a year. She supplies them with a Chamber that has as much gold and glitter and luxury as King Tut's tomb. She gives them free railway passes, and stenographers, and clerks, and free stationery, and honors and pomp and circumstance galore, says the Ottawa Journal.

In return the Senators have an occasional casual meeting during six months of the year, in the course of which they amuse themselves by looking over a few bills from the Commons and indulging in a few abstract debates.

It is a sort of expensive luxury—for Canada—but few people object. Even the best of democrats enjoy a bit of swank; and the Senate's a great show-place to take strangers who want to become initiated into the mysteries of Government and in the elasticity of representative institutions. So this "old gentlemen's club" goes undisturbedly on its way; a haven of rest for deserving Grits and Tories, a place where the good politicians go—if they don't die young.

And now—entirely unsolicited—the Senate has tried to repay us for our generosity. Ranging its dim but experienced eye over the nation, it has said to itself: "Our beloved country is too melancholy, too depressed. What it wants is something to make it laugh: let us come out for economy."

We are grateful for the Senate. It has added to the gaiety of the nation. It has made its contribution to what Mr. G. K. Chesterton has called the "gigantic inspiration of laughter."

ONE OF THE LEAKS.

An item discussed by the House of Commons in committee of supply on Friday strikes the Examiner as furnishing a typical example of how the Government service becomes overloaded with employees doing work that is of little or no benefit to the people of this country.

A vote of $15,000 for the International Institute of Agriculture was proposed.

The explanation of the item was that agricultural statistics of the world are compiled by a body located at Rome, representing some 32 countries.

The figures so obtained show the amount of grain and other products produced in the various countries.

Canada pays about $7,000 a year toward the maintenance of the office in Rome, and in addition, keeps a staff of five men in the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa compiling the statistics at this end.

This arrangement was not made by the present Government, but was inaugurated during the regime of Hon. Sydney Fisher as Minister of Agriculture.

It has been maintained ever, since, although there is nothing to show that the institute is of the slightest value to Canada or that the information is ever used by a single farmer in this country.

Not a member in the House during the discussion was enthusiastic about the matter, some Farmer members admitting that, although they had received some reports, they have not read them "very carefully."

The chances are that they have not read them at all.

Yet year after year this money has been paid out by Canada and a special office maintained at Ottawa for a service about which the Minister of Agriculture himself says: "Personally, I think we could dispense with it today, and we would not know tomorrow that we had lost anything very substantial."

It is one of the many leaks that add to the cost of government.

PETERBOROUGH TO THE FORE.

That Peterborough in the matter of supervised playgrounds is well to the fore among Canadian municipalities is evidenced by the fact that this city is one of fourteen Canadian cities mentioned in a report by the Playgrounds and Recreation Association of America as furnishing information to the association in regard to directed public recreation.

The other Canadian cities are Hamilton, London, Ottawa, Toronto, Welland and Windsor, in Ontario; Montreal and Quebec, in Quebec; Moosejaw and Regina, in Saskatchewan; Winnipeg, Manitoba; Lethbridge, Alberta, and Vancouver, British Columbia.

Peterborough people will be interested in knowing that the fourteen cities, including Peterborough, spent $342,921.68 for public recreation last year, a sum more than three times the amount spent for the same purpose ten years ago.

The total expenditure reported to the association by cities in the United States and Canada was more than $14,000,000.

In the fourteen Canadian cities there were 300 playgrounds and recreation centres under leadership last year, as compared with 78 ten years ago, while the number of supervisors employed jumping from 275 to 547.

The growth in popular interest in supervised playgrounds is indicated by the fact that the total number of such playgrounds in the United States and Canada has grown from 2,402 to 6,601 in 1923.

Six Canadian cities, including Peterborough, reported maintaining public bathing beaches, giving healthful summer recreation to thousands of people.

Another recreational activity which has not yet reached Peterborough is the maintenance of a municipal golf course. Residents of Winnipeg, Toronto, Hamilton, Montreal and Regina enjoyed golf under such conditions at prices within reach of the lean purse, and Winnipeg reported a surplus of $10,000 from green fees.

This interest in healthy recreation is an encouraging sign, and Peterborough with its supervised playgrounds and municipal swimming beaches is one of the leaders among Canadian cities in recognizing the importance of providing facilities for her citizens to engage in recreation under proper conditions.

It is good advertising to be listed in such a report as has been prepared by the Playgrounds and Recreation Association, and the Examiner believes that the money spent on these things earns rich dividends.

IMPORTANT PROBLEMS.

Reference was made by the Examiner not long ago to the organization by the Citizens' Research Institute of a new branch of research in civil service administration to study the best methods of employing, paying, promoting and retiring public employees and of purchasing and contracting for supplies, materials, equipment and public works.

The committee will consist of Principal W. L. Grant (chairman), Prof. G. M. Wrong and Sir John Willison.

There is a splendid field for such an effort, and as the committee is described as non-partizan, impersonal and with no strings on it of any sort, the results will be watched closely.

The whole question, as the Examiner sees it, may be stated as follows:

Is our administration, Federal, Provincial and municipal, as honest and efficient and as economically conducted as you would like?

The revelations in Ontario and in Newfoundland would suggest that in these cases at least an improvement in the system and the personnel of the civil service is imperative.

Are there any Provinces, or indeed any modern Governments, which are not in need of improvement in civil service administration?

Every one is shouting for a reduction in taxation.

Every one realizes that there can be no such reduction unless there is a reduction in expenditure.

Every one, however, perhaps does not know that our Governments probably spend more money in salaries and wages than for any other single object.

It is by no means exceptional for a Canadian city to spend 35 per cent. of its total income in salaries and wages.

It stands to reason that if any serious cut is to be made in total expenditure, and therefore in total taxation, radical economies will have to be effected in the civil service of municipalities, Provinces and the nation.

Can this be done?

Apparently no adequate machinery exists for control of personnel and expenditure thereon, and there is gross avoidable waste in salaries and wages in various public services.

This does not necessarily mean that all public servants are overpaid; in many cases they are underpaid.

It may only mean that there are on the public payroll more people than are necessary to perform the work of government.

It does not necessarily mean that all public servants are underworked; in many cases they are overworked.

It may only mean that the conditions of employment and management are such that it is impossible for an employee to give a full day's work for his day's pay.

Similarly in regards to the purchasing of material and the letting of contracts.

Are these contracts let and these purchases made to the best advantage?

If the new branch succeeds in improving conditions in regard to such problems it will amply justify its existence.

OUR NATIONAL ANTHEM.

During the month a school inspector in Ottawa aroused considerable attention in his denunciation of the use of "O Canada" as a national anthem. His criticism of this beautiful poem, to say the least, is very much out of place, as whatever his objection may be to the use of "O Canada!" as a national anthem, will live as long as the nation endures. One of his objections is that it is a French-Canadian effort. Might we ask the gentleman in question whether he recognizes the French-speaking section of the Dominion as Canadians? Of recent years there has been a better spirit abroad in Ontario in regard to the people of the Province of Quebec, but, judging from the views expressed by the gentleman referred to, the antagonism which at one time showed itself in Upper Canada still exists.

Strangely enough, it was our intention, prior to the publication of the criticism, to publish a new translation of the "O Canada!" which is rapidly gaining ground in the Province of Quebec. We refer to that by Miss Bellelle Guerin of Montreal.

There have been many English adaptations of "O Canada!", but so far they have all differed widely from Judge Routier's beautiful hymn. Miss Guerin's almost literal translation has succeeded in preserving all the original sentiment and at the same time making it adaptable for use amongst the English-speaking people. This has filled a long felt want. The necessity of a uniform national anthem in which the same song would be sung by all Canadians without distinction of language of creed is clear to all. Miss Guerin's version has already been adopted in many of the schools and is destined to be heard throughout Canada.

O Canada! Our Fatherland, our own,
Thy brow is crowned with glory and renown!
For thine arm that knows how to raise the sword
Knows how to uphold the Cross!
Thy valour is a glowing word
On history's page across!
Honour and Faith like sentries stand
To guard our liberties, our laws, our Land!
To guard our liberties, our laws, our Land!

Neath the eyes of God, beside a giant stream
We Canadians dwell wrapt in a golden dream;
Our land, we know, below the skies
Is fairest of the earth,
By heroes' deeds and martyrs' sighs
'Twas blessed at its birth!
Raising our Flag proudly on high,
We swear, for it that we will live and die!
O Canada, for thee we'll live and die.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, May 13. — The cattle run at the Union tSock Yards yesterday was just a little heavy. The receipts were 290 cars, 4,246 cattle, 1,085 calves, 4,895 hogs, and 301 sheep and lambs. In addition 422 cattle were in the market on through billing. Of the latter most were for export and included some from the West. The exporters are not in need of as many as last week, and the, with the heavy run, was not good for prices. Export prices were lower, and on the average this was about 15 cents a cwt. Tops paid for choice exports were about $8.35 a cwt.

One load of export heifers around 1,300 pounds each went at $7.35 a cwt. The change here was not material, and did not exceed 5 cents a cwt. from last week. Choice cows were well up to $6.00 a cwt., and extra good ones made $6.25. In the baby beeves the range was from $7.00 to $9.00 a cwt., but only an odd one made the top figure. There was an over-supply of steers not quite finished.

For the choicest load of export steers $9.00 a cwt. was asked, and these were wanted by both the exporters and packers. In all the exporters had only taken about 250 head yesterday morning.

Choice medium weight butcher steers sold at $7.50. Good butchers at $6.75, and medium quality handyweights at $6.00 and $6.25. Butchers' cattle were generally easier with the export stock, and buyers were holding off in the belief that prices would recede 25 cents a cwt. from last week.

The calf run was also heavy, and prices were easier. For an odd fancy calf 12 cents was asked, but real good calves in bunches went at 7 1-4 cents and real common ones at 4 1-2 cents. Prices on an average were down 50 cents a cwt.

The supply of spring lambs was heavier, but this market was comparatively steady. Bunches of moderately good lambs sold at $13.50 each, and $16.00 was asked for one extra choice.

Sheep and yearlings did not show any material change. Kit Waugh bought a bunch of 1923 clipped lambs at 14 cents. This was as good as 16 1-2 cents with wool.

It was generally understood that packers would guarantee $7.25 a cwt. f.o.b. for yesterday's hogs, but except for those absolutely under contract, yesterday morning's bids were reduced to 7.00 a cwt., the lowest this year. Heavy runs and poor trade in the Old Country are cited by the packers as a reason for lower prices.

A Thought

YOUR JOB

How do you like the job you're at
Throughout your working day;
When the whistle blows and you're ready to quit
Do you think you've earned your pay?

Do you think you have given the best you've got
To this job that is yours to do:
If you had to sit down and balance accounts,
What credit is comin' to you?

Are you puttin' your shoulder behind the wheel
And pushin' with all your heart;
Or are you just layin' down on the job,
Lettin' someone else do your part?

Do you think of the fellow beside you,
The one who'll contest your crown;
He may look to you for example—
Are you helpin' him up or down?

Are you thinkin' in terms of to-morrow,
In this job that is yours to do;
Do you know that the world is dependin'
On just such chaps as you?

There's only one way you can answer,
Keep pluggin'—your pulses will throb
When you find you're on top of the ladder—
Through stickin' right close to your job.

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, May 12.—Cobourg merchants did not start the regular summer holiday the first Wednesday in May, as has been the custom some other years. About twenty merchants signed a petition which came before the Council at its last meeting, asking for a by-law closing all butcher shops, groceries, and fruit stores at 12.30 noon every Wednesday during June, July, August and September, excepting during those weeks when a publicholiday occurs. The Council, however, declined to act in the matter, and referred the matter back to the merchants to decide for themselves. Last year the weekly half-holiday was observed every Wednesday beginning the first week in May, throughout the summer and early fall.

Ask for 7.30 Closing Hour.

The Cobourg merchants also appointed a committee to wait upon the Town Council and ask for enforcement of a by-law which compels merchants to close every day at 7.30 excepting Saturdays, when the closing hour is 10.30. The latter hour also applies to days preceding public holidays. The Council referred this matter to the By-law Committee to report on at a later date.

Injured Man Improving.

Mr. Hamel Benn, the young man who was seriously injured last Sunday when the auto which he was driving was struck by a freight train at the William Street crossing, is reported to be doing as well as can be expected. He is at the Cobourg General Hospital with a broken hip and a badly injured leg. The crossing is regarded by many as a dangerous one, and several fatalities have occurred there. Mr. Joseph Anglin was driving the car, and it is said he had no idea that there was a level crossing just north of the subway until he was practically upon it. There were two young ladies in the car, but they, happily, were practically uninjured. There is a zig-zag signal at this crossing.

Able to Take Pulpit Work.

Rev. S. C. Moore, pastor of Bowmanville Methodist Church, who has been unable to take his pulpit work for a few Sundays, is now again fulfilling this duty. He is a former Millbrook pastor, by the way, and many friends in the district are glad to know that he is better.

Bowling at Newcastle.

Newcastle lawn bowling club is starting off the season with a membership of thirty, but hope to increase the number to fifty during the next week. The club has planned to meet on May 17th to elect skips. Following officers have been elected for the season:—

Hon. President—Thomas Montague.
President—Dr. J. A. Butler.
Vice-President—F. W. Pligg.
Sec.-Treas.—F. Allen.
Grounds Committee—John Garrod and George Jamieson.

Rev. Scott-Howard has very kindly offered the club the use of his fine lawn until such time as the green is put in readiness. Newcastle bowlers are preparing for the season with a great deal of enthusiasm.

At Victoria Park.

At Victoria Park, Cobourg's playground, there has been considerable activity this week. Work is in progress putting the bowling green in shape. The tennis courts have been rolled and are being got ready for the season's play. At the ball diamonds there are groups of baseball enthusiasts every day trying a workout and getting in readiness for the game.

The Late Mrs. John Jeffrey.

The funeral of Mary Sutherland, widow of the late John Jeffrey, who died at her home, Warren Road, Toronto, on Sunday, took place on Tuesday afternoon from the C.N. depot to the Cobourg Union Cemetery. Mr. Jeffrey, who was in the hardware business here for some years, died at Owen Sound, to which place he had removed thirty-four years ago. Mrs. Jeffrey lived later in Toronto and then came back to Cobourg, where she resided for some years. She is survived by three sons—Robert, of Toronto, and John and Fraser, of Milwaukee, Wis.—and by two married daughters, one residing in Winnipeg and the other in Montreal. The sons were here attending the funeral.

The Late Herbert Williams.

Cobourg citizens learned with deep regret that Mr. Herbert Williams, a former popular and esteemed resident, had passed away at San Jacinto, California. For many years Mr. Williams held the responsible position of chief accountant at the Crossen Car Works. He was a son of the late Rev. Dr. Williams, who preceded the late Rev. James Allen as pastor of the Cobourg Methodist Church. In the environments of this old university town, Mr Williams's boyhood days were happily spent. He married Miss Cunningham, who was, for some time, in charge of Henson & Co.'s milling department.

About 1905, Mr. and Mrs. Williams left Cobourg, carrying with them to their new home good wishes from a host of friends. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary Williams, of Los Angelos; by his widow, and by three children—Jean, Douglas and Margaret—also by three brothers—W. J., Norman, and Edward—all residing at Los Angelos.

Death of Mr. George Turk.

The funeral of Mr. George Turk, a veteran resident of Haldimand Township, took place at Centreton on Thursday, and was attended by friends from Oshawa, Norwood, and other points, as well as those of the locality. A service was held in the Methodist Church at Centreton. Mr. Turk was in his 82nd year.

Military Reunion.

Local members of the Second Heavy Battery, C.E.F., held a reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Denton on Thursday evening. The gathering was featured by reminiscence, song and story. Luncheon was served and a very pleasant social time spent.

Customs Duties Increase.

A hopeful sign is evident in the fact that Customs duties at the post of Cobourg show an increase for April over the corresponding month of the preceding year. For April, 1924, they were $42,557.60, and for April, 1923, they were $39,730.05.

County Council.

The County Council for Northumberland and Durham is called to meet here on June 9th at 2 p.m. At this meeting the matter about the towns and villages forgoing road grants in favor of the townships for a time will come up for discussion. There is apparently a great diversity of opinion concerning this proposal. Some few municipal representatives regard it as a step in the right direction, while others oppose it.

It appears to be definitely decided that there will be the annual Warden's excursion this year, probably about Wednesday, 11th June, although the date is as yet has not been mentioned. These excursions in former years have proved to be very enjoyable.

JAPANESE ELECTIONS.

TOKIO, May 13.—With returns in from all but 39 seats, the Opposition is assured of a substantial majority in the lower House of the Diet, over the Kiyoura Cabinet. Three parties pledged to fight the present cabinet— the Kenseikai, Seiyukai, and Kakushin Club—have already secured 260 seats in a House of 464.

EXEMPLARY CITIZEN WAS DR. JOHN MACOUN

Served His Country Overseas, His Town, Campbellford, As Chairman For Years of Light and Power Commission, and Community As Doctor.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 13.—Dr. John Macoun, a brief notice of whose death appeared in The Examiner yesterday, was born sixty-eight years ago on the homestead in Seymour West, on the Havelock road, the farm which is now occupied by his brother Charles. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred Macoun, his father for years being reeve of the township.

The deceased spent the early years of his life on the farm, and in his youth decided to learn the machinist trade. He went to Belleville, and after serving all but one month of his apprenticeship, suddenly returned home and announced his intention of studying for the medical profession, a decision in which he was encouraged by his parents.

The late Dr. Macoun was one of the first and brightest students of the Campbellford High School, which at that time had been established only a short time. Among his classmates were Judge E. C. Huycke, of Peterborough; Rev. James Rollins, formerly of the same city; the late Dr. McGrath, of Peterborough; Drs. A. Haig and E. J. Free of this town, and a number of others, all of whom have reached distinction in their various callings. His teacher was A. G. Knight, at present living retired in Picton and who still remembers the late doctor as one of the brightest boys who ever passed through his hands. To his dying day the late Dr. Macoun spoke in the highest terms of his high school instructor and in appreciation of what he owed to him. The ambitious young student walked from his home to the school every day, a distance of four miles, regardless of the weather or conditions of the roads. His first success was in obtaining a third-class certificate, and while teaching he qualified himself for a second-class certificate. He taught successfully in various schools in the district before entering the Toronto school of medicine from which he graduated. In 1886 he took up the practice of his profession in Campbellford, and at the time of his death was, in point of service, the oldest physician in town. He took a post-graduate course in London, England, and was a member of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons. In the department of surgery his skill was recognised by members of the profession all over the Province.

Went Overseas.

The deceased, in spite of his advancing years, enlisted for medical service overseas, being accompanied by his wife, formerly Elizabeth Senior, whose father at one time operated a woollen factory in the building now occupied by the Western Shoe Company, and who served as nurse. The late doctor, who held the rank of major in the militia, being for years surgeon for the Northumberland regiment, had a distinguished record in the Great War. There was no danger too great to dismay him, and many a Canadian soldier received first aid from him when wounded in action either in trench or on the field. The doctor and his wife were five years in Europe, and on their return here he resume the practice of his profession.

A Model Citizen.

The late Dr. Macoun, while devoting himself whole-heartedly to the duties of his calling, found time to devote to athletics and to the public service. He was a man of massive and powerful frame, and was one of the members of the old Campbellford baseball team, his favorite position being that of pitcher. In an exciting game he broke a bone in his arm while delivering the ball.

When Campbellford went into municipal ownership, Dr. Macoun was appointed a member of the first water and light commission, and for years was chairman. When the commission was abolished in 1901, and the management of the water and lighting plant placed in the hands of a committee of the Town Council, Dr. Macoun gave up public life. When the commission was restored in 1912 he was again appointed a member, and in the same year was once more elected chairman.

A Distinguished Family.

The late Dr. Macoun was not the only member of his family to attain distinction. His father is still spoken of as one of the best reeves the township ever had. A brother of the latter, and consequently uncle of the deceased, the late Professor John Macoun, was a member of the Geological Survey of Canada, and a book which he wrote is now regarded as a standard treatise on the work of that department. W. T. Macoun, son of the late professor, is Dominion horticulturalist at Ottawa. That the deceased shared in the love of flowers displayed by his cousin is shown by the taste with which his own garden here has been arranged and kept up.

The late David Macoun, brother of the deceased, was for some time head of the experimental farm at Indian Head, Sask. The surviving brothers are George, a dentist in Toronto, and Charles, on the homestead. The only sister is Mrs. John Socke, of West Seymour. Mrs. Macoun, wife of the deceased, survives, but the couple never had any children.

The deceased was a prominent member of the Masonic order. The funeral, which will be held this afternoon, will not be under Masonic auspices owing to the absence of so many of the local brethren at the gathering of the order in Peterborough. Rev. G. C. Clarke, rector of Christ Church, will conduct the service at 2.30 p.m., and the remains will be interred in the Anglican cemetery.

Girls Worship Looking Glass

CHATHAM, Ont., May 13 (Canadian Press).—In the course of a sermon, Rev. D. H. Marshall, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, deplored the immodesty and lack of dignity on the part of girls.

"They have become worshippers of the looking-glass, the powder box, and the paint tube," he said.

"I often wonder what will become of the modern young woman of the present age who walks the streets with decorated legs, bared breasts, and painted faces."

Such conduct, he declared, was designed to attract men and had produced unhealthy conditions.

BRIAND

the two best presiding officers the Chamber had.

Briand to Return?

There is much guessing as to the probable composition of the new government. Aristide Briand, the former Premier, is generally conceded to have the best chance of being asked to succeed M. Poincare, with M. Herriot, leader of the Radicals, and ex-Premier Painleve, leader of the Republican Socialists, as members of the Cabinet.

If the Socialists are represented in the new combination, as is expected in view of the important part they took in the defeat of the national bloc, Paul Boncour, former Minister of Labour, and Leon Blum, one of the newer hopes of the Socialist Party, are regarded as most likely to receive portfolios.

Some of the old parliamentarians advise caution in predictions as to the formation of a Radical-Socialist Cabinet; they point out that similar coalitions in the past have disintegrated before the time for a division of the honours.

Loucheur Elected.

Louis Loucheur, former Cabinet Minister, and negotiator of the Wiesbaden agreement with the late Dr. Rathenau for reparation deliveries in kind by Germany, was elected in the Department Du Nord.

Others elected in this Department included Father Lemire and Daniel Vincent.

Of the 24 seats in the Department, the Poincare supporters won 10, the Socialists 10, and the Communists 3, with one seat in dispute.

M. Inghels, Socialist candidate, who based his campaign on the devastated regions scandals, which he characterised as another Panama affair, was defeated.

Paris refused to elect a single deputy from the Royalist lists which had been entered in each of the four districts of the city. Daudet's list was the best supported, but he only polled 1,000 votes, whereas the successful competitors polled from 40,000 to 60,000.

The Royalists appeared on the ballots as candidates of the "National Revision" Party.

M. Jonas, an antiquity dealer, and a ticket including Yves Mirande, author, and Frentz Reichel, secretary of the French Olympic Committee, were snowed under.

BRITISH PRESS COMMENT.

The landslide of Liberal votes beneath which the National bloc in France lied buried demonstrated, so far as British opinion was concerned, that Poincare's voice was not the voice of France.

Although increased taxation undoubtedly had considerable influence in the result of the French elections, Poincare's defeat, which was hailed with delight in British Governmental and Liberal circles, is generally regarded here as repudiation of his Ruhr policy. Predictions are freely made on all sides that the new leadership in France cannot fail to promote European peace and economic stabilization and go far to restore that Anglo-French friendship which the Ruhr venture so seriously damaged.

The British press is almost unanimous as to the beneficial effect of the removal of Poincare. Even Lord Rothermere's pro-French Daily Mail admits: "France has shown her overmastering desire for peace, even at the price of great sacrifices."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, in an eloquent editorial, characterized Sunday's vote as "belated recognition of the fact that coal cannot be extracted with bayonets nor a nation made to pay by the creating of industrial paralysis."

Lord George's Daily Chronicle says: "We do not believe that any British Prime Minister or any party could have successfully negotiated a lasting settlement as long as Poincare was Premier."

FRENCH TRADE IS PROSPEROUS

Imports and Exports For First Quarter Greatly Exceed Those For Same Period Last Year.

PARIS, May 13.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters)—Whatever may be the effect of Sundays' election results evidences are forthcoming that national prosperity is now on the up grade.

France's foreign trade figures for the first quarter of the year 1924 give the value of imports as 9,000,000,000 francs and exports nearly 10,000,000,000 francs. These figures greatly exceed those of last year for the corresponding period and if the comparison is unfair owing to the recent cheapness of the franc it is significant that the trade balance for the period was favorable to France to the extent of 750,000,000 francs while last year for the same period theres was an adverse balance of 400,000,000 francs.

The general fall of prices was more marked in wholesale than in retail figures. The index for wholesale prices shows 459 at the end of April campared with 555 at the end of February while the cost of living in aPris to-day is indexed at 380 compared with 384 at the end of February.

The annual Paris fair which opened Sunday has been planned on a larger scale than in previous years. There are 300 more exhibitors than last year and 3,000 more than in 1919 The problem of preventing the clash ing of internation al fairs is engaging the attention of delegates from most of the European countries now meeting in Paris under the auspices of the international chamber of commerce. They hope to adjust trade exhibition dates to avoid overlapping.

CLERK REACHES TOP.

NEW YORK, May 13.—(Canadian Press). — E. H. H. Simmons, who entered the finanical district as a brokerage clerk 27 years ago, yesterday was elected president of the New York Stock Exchange. He succeeds Seymour L. Cromwell, who retired after serving three consecutive terms.

MILITARY CONTROY.

ROME, May 13. — (Canadian Press).—A despatch to the Giornale D'Italia from Tirana, Albania, says that in consequence of the situation growing out of the recent murder by bandits of the two United States citizens, Robert L. Coleman, of San Francisco, and George B. De Long, of New York, a military dictatorship in Albania, is believed to be inevitable.

FIVE YEARS NOTICE

land the commission makes no recommendations in view of the fact that the question is one "of radical change in general policy and not simply a detail in connection with the policy already laid down."

The commission recommends a regulation to permit the soldier settler under certain conditions to dispose of personal property during the currency of the loan from the soldiers settlement board.

The commission does not recommend the intervention of an independent tribunal between the settlers and the soldiers settlement board but recommends that the settler have the benefit of advice and assistance of soldier advisors appointed by the D.S.C.R.

For Small Plots.

An important matter dealt with at lentgh is whether the soldiers settlement act should be extended so as to permit the making of loans to men for intensive farming of small plots of less than five acres. Particular claims were made concerning certain sections of British Columbia thought to be particularly adapted for small fruit growing.

The conclusion of the commission is in effect, but, contrary to the prevalent idea, the difficulties surrounding this sort of farming are greater than the ordinary mixed farming, and the small holding, generally speaking, requires selected localities, specially trained, industrious and reasonably fit men.

The commission points out that a provision for small holdings might be part of a re-establishment scheme to provide part time employment for seriously disabled men, but that for the country to invest in a plot of ground for each man would in effect be the establishment by the State of a separate open air workshop for every individual.

MARRIAGE ONE OF DANGERS ELUDED BY LONELY SAILOR

CAPETOWN, May 13.—(Associated Press).—For the fourth time within the last few months, Table Bay has been visited by adventurous souls bent on daring journeys in tiny craft. The latest is an American, Harry Pidgeon, who is sailing round the world alone in the "Islander," a four-ton yawl.

When Mr. Pidgeon left Los Angeles nearly three years ago, he did not intend to go farther than the South Sea Islands, but he has since been to Samoa, Fiji, the New Hebrides, New Guinea, Australia and Mauritius. Then he crossed to the African Continent, where his first port of call was Durban. His trip from Durban to Capetown occupied 18 days.

From Capetown the "Islander" will go to the West Indies, by way of St. Helena, returning to Los Angeles through the Panama Canal. By that time Mr. Pidgeon estimates he will have covered 35,000 miles. He has had one or two narrow escapes, and is proud of the fact that he has so far escaped matrimony. A woman in Natal wished to join him, but he refused "as she might have made trouble aboard."

LIBERALS FREED

did not think that there was anything in the charge that Sir Henry was unsympathetic to the Maritime provinces. If the people of any section of Canada felt that they had reasonable ground for complaint against the railway either in the line of excessive freight rates or for other reasons they should make the complaint to the board of directors. He believed that the Canadian National would ultimately be a paying proposition but he advised the people of the Maritime provinces to refrain from abusing Sir Henry Thornton and the C.N. R. board.

Manufacturers Ignored.

L. J. Ladner (Conservative, Vancouver South) stated that nearly all the great countries of the world had adopted the protective principle. Even Great Britain under the Kay Industries Act derived a large revenue from the tariff. The outstanding message of the Budget as indicated by the Minister of the Interior (Hon. Charles Stewart) was "the death knell of protection" the Budget contained a message of utter disregard for the industrial and manufacturing interests of Canada. Parts of it were almost identical with the language of a memorandum which had been presented to the Government by a delegation from the Canadian Council of Agriculture on April 2, 1924.

The conclusion of that memorandum had stated that the farmers "looked forward to when tariff should be altogether abolished" and in the meantime it should be kept on the revenue basis.

The United States was prosperous and was in a position to exclude people seeking admission, while Canada was spending thousands trying to get immigrants because the United States had maintained a consistent protective tariff and the standards of living had been kept up. The standard of living was higher in protective countries and the competition for the home market resulting from protection kept the cost of living down.

The tariff had been made in order to gain the support of the Progressive group, Mr. Ladner maintained. He referred to the effect which the reductions would have on his own province of British Columbia saying that they were "a stab at the industrial life of British Columbia." The policy of the Government he said was "to drive out of Canada not only the industries but also the people who work in them."

U. S. Farmers' Case.

A good humored exchange of question and answer ensued between the Progressive benches and Mr. Ladner, who was asked to justify his argument for protection and a home market for agricultural products with the fact that farmers in the United States were not prosperous. Mr. Ladner said that policies could not be framed on a temporary condition. Over-production was at the root of the trouble with the farmer of the United States. The situation would adjust itself. Industry must be protected in times of depression to prevent its annihilation.

With reference to the British preference on boots and shoes, Mr. Ladner quoted a prominent Canadian manufacturer as saying that the Canadian shoe industry was going to pieces. Canada could not compete with British factories which paid half Canadian wages and used leather brought from Germany. If the British preference operated against Canadain industry it should be modified. British people recently rejected certain Canadian proposals for preference. Canada could do the same.

COAL MINE IN IN OPERATION AT EMPIRE EXHIBITION

LONDON, May 13.—A "life sized" coal mine actually underground and demonstrating coal mining as conducted in Wales and Scotland, is one of the interesting education exhibits which is now in full swing.

The "Palace of Neptune" is another of the amusement park attractions which, under a Coney Island city, affords a remarkable exhibit of strange denizens of the seas.

Taken as a whole this feature of the exhibition is on a larger scale than London has ever seen. The park was designed by experts and covers over 40 acres. The booths, exhibits and shows have been built in groups and each has a special design. One is called "Toyland" and is on a House-that-Jack-built plan, with gigantic wooden soldiers as supporting columns. Then there is the "Alice in Wonderland" section, the "Garden of Flowers" and many others in addition to the usual water and dry chutes, crazy racers, Ferris wheels and dance halls without end.

MRS. LINDQUIST TELLS WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Her

Kansas City, Mo.—"I was left in a very serious condition after childbirth and no one thought I could ever be any better. Then came the 'Change of Life' and I was not prepared for what I had to suffer. I had to go to bed at times to be perfectly quiet as I could not even stoop down to pick anything from the floor. I did not suffer any pain, but I was decidedly nervous and could not sleep. For nearly two years I was this way, and the doctor was frank enough to tell me that he could do no more for me. Shortly after this I happened to see in a newspaper an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a few days the medicine was in the house and I had begun its use and I took it regularly until I was well. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to others when I have the opportunity."—Mrs. MAY LINDQUIST, 2814 Independence Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

MANY PROBLEMS ENGAGED MINDS CIVIC FATHERS

Board of Works Discussed Oiling of Streets and Received Tenders for Paving -- Minor Improvements Decided Upon.

NEW REGULATION

That Peterborough is a big enough city to have the City Council decide what streets need watering and oiling without waiting for the citizens to present petitions was the sentiment expressed by Alderman J. O. Fife at last last's meeting of the Board of Works. He thought that a report of what streets are now being oiled should be presented to the Board of Works, and needy districts should be added. Alderman M. J. Maher suggested to relieve sections that may otherwise go without oiling this year certain streets that have been oiled for several years might be omitted for one season. City Engineer Roy H. Parsons will report on the matter, although he last night disparaged the plan, saying that the good obtained from several consecutive oilings will be lost by one year's neglect. The spare oil-wagon will be hired to Lakefield this year as usual, the city obtaining a reasonable rental.

Lafayette avenue was the only new street definitely named last night for attention this year, although several others were mentioned.

Following the report on the Board of Works' annual tour of the city, which took place last week, several small repairs were referred to the City Engineer's department for attention, and others were discussed and disposed of. The building of a bridge at Clifton street was laid over, and the roadway from the Norwood road to this street will be treated with gravel. This will give a means of access and will at the same time lay the foundation for a good roadway when the building in that section warrants its construction. The fence on Antrim street between Water and Harvey will be rebuilt and the roadway on Harvey street will be repaired. Notice will be given of the Council's intention to build a sidewalk on the west side of Park street from Wescott street. A request from Mr. Carpenter for a sidewalk from Clifton to Douro on Armour road was left over for a year on the Engineer's report that the newly-graded foundation is not in condition this year to bear concrete.

Smith Street Bridge.

That Smith street bridge needs paving to preserve the concrete structure from steady destruction through seepage of water has been reported several times by the City Engineer, and the subject was broached again last night. The cost of paving is estimated at $2,000, and a detailed report has been asked for.

Hunter street east from the end of the concrete paving at the Westclox factory to the Lift Lock will be repaired and graded so as to carry the surface water from the concrete and provide a better road for visitors to the Lift Lock.

Alderman Joseph Crowe reported that Weller street at the school requires attention to relieve the flooding in that section, and he thought a culvert under the roadway would serve the purpose. The City Engineer remarked that there is already a culvert in place and it would carry off the water if the children did not fill it with stones and sticks. The Chairman of the Board of Works and the Engineer will investigate.

Are Ruining Paving

A step was taken toward preserving the permanent paving in the city when a regulation was put on the minutes calling on all persons who intend breaking the surface of a paved street to obtain a permit from the city engineer. Alderman E. M. Turner drew attention to the condition of the pavement where it has been torn up, and Mr. Parsons remarked that the only persons who ask permission are the Gas Company. In future a permit to break the road surface will be as necessary as a building permit.

Sherbrooke street floods again held the attention of the councillors, but again the debate ended without hope of immediate remedy. The only solution, it appeared, is the construction of a storm drain such as is planned by the city engineer, and this cannot be completely constructed this year with $9,000 appropriation The trunk drain will in time relieve the situation, with a feed drain from the top of the hill.

Cannot Change Plans

A suggestion from the Hydro Electric Power Commission that George street north be paved instead of Water street was found impracticable. The commission desired to avoid the expense entailed in laying permanent track. It was pointed out that George street is at present in good condition and that the greatest part of the work, such as laying drains, has already been done on Water street.

Paving Tenders

Fifteen firms tendered on the paving to be done this year, some entering bids for both asphalt and concrete, and the tenders numbered in all twenty-two. Of these eleven were for concrete, eight for asphalt and three for materials according to the contractors' own formulae and specifications. The prices will be tabulated by Mr. Parsons and presented to the Board of Works on Wednesday night, when the contract will probably be let.

Gas Savers that Cut Your Cooking Bills

NO Gas Ranges at any price is economical unless it makes your gas money yield maximum returns in cooking.

There are solid reasons why Moffats Ranges are gas-savers that reduce cooking bills. The Moffat burner requires a small amount of gas to produce an intense heat. It not only heats the oven quickly, but retains the proper temperature for baking, with low consumption of gas.

In beauty of design and modern improvements, Moffats Gas Ranges are ackowledged leaders. Porcelain panels and splash, thermometer, glass oven door, gas lighter and closed top are typical Moffat innovations.

To save money, choose a Moffat at your gas office or stove dealer's. Our catalogues will be sent free on request. Write for them today to Moffats Limited, Weston, Ontario.

Russian Peasants Demanding Theatres.

By JOHN GRAUDENZ
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, May 13.—The Russian village is slowly but steadily awakening to the demands of modern life. All over, the inhabitants are having electricity installed, using small streams, waterfalls, etcs., as power sources.

One of the things for which the peasant has always envied the city dweller was the theatre. Recently inhabitants of a small town, near Leningrad (Petrograd), visited the Leningrad theatres and decided to have one of their own. The school house was selected as the best location. The building of a stage didn't take long. The school benches were put together and covered with planks The curtains was made of an old sail. Admission prices are taken in grain. A seat costs from 2 to 4 pounds; standing room, 1 to 2 pounds.

The Russian peasant takes his plays very seriously. The villain in these country theatres frequently has to rely on his legs for safety after a play, as the audience will not confine its markmanship to soft stuff, like eggs.

MILLERS TO MEET IN DENVER

DENVER, Colo., May 13.—The Association of Operative Millers will hold its twenty-ninth annual convention in Denver during the week of June 2 to 7, according to a recent announcement. Membership in the association includes representatives from all parts of the United States, Canada and England, and even China and Japan. Arrangements are being made for the entertainment of 1,000 millers and their families.

Technical problems of milling operation and allied subjects will make up the major part of the convention program.

Simple Application That Dissolves Blackheads

No more squeezing and pinching to get rid of those unsightly blemishes, blackheads. There is one simple, safe, and sure way to get them out, and that is to dissolve them. Get about two ounces of peroxine powder from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub briskly over the blackheads for a few seconds—wash the parts, and every blackhead will be one. Pinching and squeezing out blackheads make large pores, and you cannot get all of the blackheads out this way—while this simple application of peroxine powder and water dissolves every particle of them and leaves the skin and pores in their natural condition

CAVAN CHURCH MOTHER'S DAY

Mrs. David Hunter, the Oldest Mother Present, Received Bouquet--Seven Children Baptized.

CAVAN, May 13.—The services in Cavan Methodist Church on Sunday were of unusual interest.

In the afternoon Fairmount and Cavan Sunday Schools joined for a "Mother's Day" programme.

After the opening exercises, Mr. James Douglas, Cavanville superintendent, gave a brief address and presented a bouquet of flowers to oldest "Mother" present, Mrs. David Hunter. Miss Mary Tinney carried it. Then the regular programme was broken to allow the baptismal service.

Seven children were baptized by Rev. R. T. Richards, and they were:

Leon Rex Carr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Carr.

Lloyd Ephriam White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will White.

Charles Murray Newton and John Douglas Newton, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Newton.

Olive Bernice Richards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Richards.

Melville William James Davis and Clarence Gordon Davis, sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. Davis.

Mr. W. W. Staples of Lindsay gave an interesting talk. He addressed himself to the boys and girls. He gave them several thoughts to take home. One of these was a quotation from Emerson "Hitch your wagon to a star.' This star must be some high ambition in life.

During the offering Harry McArthur, Fairmount, gave a selection on his violin, accompanied by Miss Annie Tinney, and later in the programme Miss Marie McBain and Mr. Weston Fallis sang a duet.

Miss Muriel Matchett, little Doris Tinney and Elsie Gaugh, gave suitable recitations and Miss Muriel Howson sang.

Mr. and Mrs. Fee, Mount Pleasant attended Mother's Day services at Cavan; also Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clarke, Frazerville.

The church was well filled, Fairmount being well represented.

Evening Service.

Rev. R. T. Richard's evening service was a continuation of the theme of the afternoon.

He did not choose a text but delivered an address especially prepared for "Mother's Day."

His topic was "Flowers that bloom in the family garden."

He showed how the home was a Divine institution and emphasized the fact that never before was the influence of good Christian homes more needed.

Some of the flowers that if cultivated tend to make the home happeir and lives better, were, "Manners or culture, sympathy, religion and a flower of other worlds.

The success of our lives does not depend on the extent of our possessions and bank acount, but rather on the way we live, and the influence for good which we exert.

The choir contributed appropriate music.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Janes, Port Hope, visited at the home of her father, Mr. J. Newton, on Sunday.

Mr. Harry Lang has finished seeding.

FEWER MEN TEACHERS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13.—(Associated Press).—Teaching as a profession for men in California is on the wane, judging from the enrollment at the state teachers' college here. The college has 633 women and two men. Members of the faculty attribute the dearth of male teachers to the increasing opportunities for profitable work that carries men outdoors.

Dominions Flouted Russians Welcomed

LONDON, May 13.—(Canadian Press Cable).—In an outspoken speech Monday delivered in course of a visit to the Birmingham section of the British Industries fair, Sir Philip Wrey, chief commissioner for Southern Rhodesia, expressed astonishment, in view of what had happened that representatives of the Dominions had been invited to visit Great Britain in connection with the Empire exhibition. He said the British government was prepared to extend the hand of friendship to Bolshevists while refusing to encourage or support the Dominions. The government was also preparing to further handicap the British motor industry.

LETTER FOUND ATTRIBUTED TO THE SAVIOUR

A letter purporting to have been written by Christ after the crucifiction and deposited by him under a stone at the foot of the cross, is being given wide circulation by the newspapers of the country. A Provo woman has clipped it from a Denver Post, and asked to have it reprinted.

An injunction to have the letter published has frightened some into whose hands is has fallen, and, like the old chain prayer, it threatens misfortune on those who deliberately withhold it from others. The belief that Christ really gave the letter to be spread broadcast, has inspired many to aid in giving it publication. The story is that a little child turned the stone under which the letter was hidden, and that the document was given to a convert of the Christian faith.

This convert kept it as a sacred memento of Christ, and down through generations in his family it was until 1,000 years were passed. Misfortune attended the family always, according to the tale, and at last one of the members came to America, bringing the letter with him. Mrs. Fanny Wortman, of Marion, Ind., claims to know the history of the document from that time on. According to her the owner of it went to Virginnia and after a series of misfortunes the last of the family took the letter and had it published in the Rome (Ga.) Tribune, of October 31st, 1891. Mrs. Wortman cut it out and kept it in her home. She made no attempt to have it republished until lately, and says that she was punished by her failure to give it publicity.

Mrs. Rubin Crutchfield of Trezevant, Tenn., is another who says she suffered misfortune until she printed the letter. The document reads:

Sabbath Observance.

"Whosoever works on the Sabbath day shall be cursed. I command you to go to church and keep holy the Lord's day without any manner of work. You should not idle or misspend your time in bedecking yourselves in superfluities of costly apparel and vain dressing, for I have ordered it a day of rest. I wall have that day kept holy that your sins may be forgiven you.

"You will not break my commandments, but observe and keep them they being written by my hand and spoken from my mouth. You shall not only go to church yourselves but also your man servant and maid servant, Observe my words and learn my commandments.

"You shall finish your work every Saturday at six o'clock in the afternoon, at which hour the preparation for the Sabbath begins. I advise you to fast five Fridays in the year, beginning on Good Friday and continuing the Fridays following, in remembrance of the five bloody wounds I received for you and mankind.

Blessings Promised.

"You shall love one another and cause them that are not baptized to come to church and receive the holy sacrament—that is to say, baptism and then the supper of the Lord, and be made member thereof, and in so doing I will give you long life and many blessings. Your land shall be replenished and bring forth abundance, and I will comfort you in the greatest temptation, and surely he that doeth to the contrary shall be cursed.

"I will also send hardness of the heart on them, and especially on hardened and unpenitent unbelievers. He that hath given to the poor shall find it profitable. Remember to keep holy the Sabbath day, for the seventh day I have taken as a resting day to myself.

"And he that hath a copy of this letter, written by my own hand and spoken from my own mouth, and keepeth it, without publishing it to others, shall not prosper but he that publisheth it to others shall be blessed by me, and if their sins be as many as the stars at night, and if they truly believe that they shall be pardoned, and they that believe not this writing and my commandments will have my plague upon you, and you will be consumed with your children, goods, cattle and all wordly enjoyments that I have given you. Do but once think of what I have suffered for you—if you do, it will be well for you in this world and in the world which is to come.

"Whosoever shall have a copy of this letter and keep it in their house, nothing shall hurt them, neither pestilence, lightning or thunder, and if any woman be in birth and put her trust in me, she shall be delivered of her child. You shall hear no more news of me, except through the holy Scripture, until the day of judgmert All goodness and prosperity shall be in the house where a copy of this letter shall be found. (Finished).

HEARTS AFIRE

The Brilliant Novelist of Modern Society

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Prudence Page—a pretty country girl has awakened from a brief and unhappy love affair with unreliable

Bert Traymore—a fascinating philanderer, guest at the home of Mrs. Vansittart—a wealthy woman, owner of Winston Towers. Another of her guests is

Virginia Dale—a blase beauty, who has brought about a forced engagement between herself and

Peter Armstrong—a brilliant, young inventor, who cares for Prudence, but thinks she is still fascinated by Traymore. Virginia has been thieving from her hostess, has flung the blame of one theft on Prudence, and now the latter finds her in the woods, digging up valuables which prove to have Mrs. Vansittart's initials on them. How do you account for these? demands Prudence, pointing to the initials.

Virginia begs Prudence to keep her guilty secret, and Prudence, to save Peter disillusionment, agrees. Janet Mercer

Janet Mercer—a trained nurse, who is masseuse to Mrs. Vansittart's delicate child, is in love with Will Ogilvie.

CHAPTER LXVIII.

An Engagement Ring.

Will Ogilvie stood in the chintz-bedecked sitting-room that was Janet's haven after working hours.

He was a diffident young man, but to-day his diffidence was heightened by a little package he kept twisting in his hands.

Why didn't Janet come?

She was a 'sensible' creature, not given to 'prinking' before mirrors and such feminine weakness!

But Janet was in love, and that upsets the sternest characters. At this moment she was indeed before the looking-glass, subconsciously trying to induce some coquetry into her severe unrse's uniform.

She stared grimly at her unbeautiful, though honest, countenance, with its small, twinkly, greenish eyes and the absurd pug nose that sat so comically in the wide expanse of her freckled face.

"What he can see in me, God knows!" she murmured under her breath.

If only he would speak right out! If only—only there could be a 'definite' engagement!

Men were so strange.

Take Peter Armstrong! Janet at one time could have sworn the man was head over heels in love with Prudence Page.

But he had thrown the gold for the dross, and definitely allowed that vain, shallow, deceitful Dale girl to enmesh him!

"What fools men are!" Janet's mood changed abruptly, and she stalked away from the mirror as though hating her own past weakness, and on into the sitting-room where Will was waiting.

"Hello, there!" She favored him with an ungracious nod. "Can't ask you to sit down, as I'm due at the Towers."

A dull flush rose to the young man's sallow cheeks. He had come here, full of romance and of tender thoughts. Why must Janet be so brusque? Why must there mutual moods so often jar?

"Don't let me detain you. Sorry if I've intruded!" he lifted his hat from the settee, preparatory to departure.

"Oh, I can give you a minute, I daresay." Janet saw the hurt pride on his face, but for the life of her she couldn't say the soothing, tactful word. "It's nothing at all. I—I brought you a present. Was fool enough to think it might—interest you."

"What is it? Her heart started to pound with a new, swift hope. Was it—oh, joy of joys—oh! symbol!—was it a ring?

Apparently it was!

But, having dashed Will's romantic mood with proverbial cold water, the chances were he wouldn't now produce it.

"Don't let me keep you. I might have realized you wouldn't have the time to spare for me."

The words were gruff, but Janet was, no fool, and sensed the real pain underneath them.

She did the only possible thing.

"Oh, Will, dear, I'm a crusty, prickly old maid, and those ungracious speeches just naturally trip off my tongue, but I don't a bit mean them. It's just my way. If you only knew it, I'm delighted to see you. Truly, I am," and she put her two hands on his shoulders and looked up at him with the dumb love of some faithful animal.

Will Ogilvie thrust the little package into her hand.

"Open it. It's sort of—pretty. You don't have to wear it if you don't want to."

A spark was burning in his dark eyes, just the same, as he watched Janet's deft fingers undo the wrappings and bring to light a really beautiful red ruby ring.

"Oh, Will! For me?"

All the pent-up feelings of the unsought woman were concentrated in the rapture of the words.

A ring! For her! At last!

Oh! blessed symbol of emancipation! Oh! crown of womanhood!

"For you." He moved awkwardly, grabbing her right hand. "Let me stick it on. It's the third finger, isn't it?"

"The—the left hand, Will. Unless," —her heart sank suddenly—"unless you just mean it for a present—between friends——"

"Friends be blowed!" was the inelegant though utterly satisfactory answer, as Will drew the circlet over the correct finger. "There, now, you're tied up to the dragon good and proper."

The radiance of unshed tears sprang to her eyes.

"Oh, Will! You mean it? You want me' Truly?"

He drew her towards him, gazing down with unwonted tenderness at the homely, honest, face.

"I've never wanted any other woman. And I'm no boy, my dear. I'm thirty-three next month."

"And I am nearly thirty. Her head dropped against his waistcoat.

"I hate girls anyhow. I mean—the young ones. It's you I'm fond of, Janet. Give us a kiss."

A few minutes later, re-arranging her nurse's bonnet, her face irridated with love triumphant, she breathed: "I'm late, Will; I must go. Walk to the bus with me."

"Of course," he strode along beside her, her arm in his for all the world to see. "And I'll call for you at the big house when you're finished with the little girl."

"That'll be fine."

They parted.

Later, at the Towers, Mrs. Vansittart came into the nursery to talk to Janet.

"Do you think Lucia any better?" The little girl was sleeping, and the mother bent over the cot.

"Yes, quite a bit. The doctor thinks with careful treatment—she'll outgrow her weakness."

The mother looked relieved.

"Lucky she's taken such a fancy to you. You're a wonder nurse." She gave Janet a look of gratitude, and then she added:

"You look ten years younger tonight. What's happened?"

"This." Janet held out her left hand, blushing nearly as deeply as the ruby that sparkled thereon. "I've one and got engaged——"

But, instead of congratulating her, Mrs. Vansittart was staring speechlessly at the ring on her third finger.

"Where did you get it from?" she gasped, moving nearer.

"From my young man, Will Ogilvie." Janet displayed it proudly. "A beauty, isn't it? So quaint! Did you ever see a lovlier setting?"

Mrs. Vansittart's reply was enexpected.

"Never! I ought to know! Because that's the very ring I lost six weeks ago, and hunted high and low for! I'd know it anywhere It's mine"

FIND RICH COPPER MINES.

BERLIN, May 13 (United Press).—New copper mines are to be opened up in Bavaria in the spring. They are reported to yield ore much superior in quality to that of the other mines operated heretofore in Germany. The prospecting in the Alexander mine near Munich has just been finished. A lode of 5 meters in thickness has been found, 5 per cent. copper. A further vein of yellow copper ore yielded an average of 14 per cent. Hoverer, this vein is only 2 meters in thickness. This percentage is extraordinarily high in German copper mining.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

RED RIDING HOOD'S HOUSE

And there stood a little house with a neat sign.

"Would you like to go and call on Red Riding Hood?" asked Mister Muggs as Nancy and Nick seated themselves in the magic automobile for their next adventure in Once-Upon-a-Time Land.

"Shall we see the wolf?" asked Nick.

"I'm not so sure about that," answered Mister Muggs. "You see, the wood-cutters chase him so far and give him such a beating that he may not have felt like coming back."

Chug, chug, chug! they went over seven counties and seven towns, and in the twinkling of seven eyes they came to the forest where Red Riding Hood had met the wolf.

And there stood a little house with a neat sign which said, "Granny's Cottage—Lift up the latch and walk in."

So they all walked in—and there stood the old wolf.

"Oh, my!" cried Nancy, rushing for the cupboard where Red Riding Hood's grandmother had hidden long ago when the wolf chased her out of bed.

"Come here, Nancy," said little Mister Muggs bravely. "Don't be afraid of this fellow. I never did believe that he meant to hurt Red Riding Hood or Granny either!"

Suddenly two big tears fell out of the wolf's eyes. "Oh, no, sir! I wouldn't have hurt a hair of their heads! I've been away for fifteen years on the other side of the world, and I've just come back. I'll tell you the truth now. I'm not really a wolf at a l, but an enchanted prince. A wicked fairy put me under a spell for fifteen years. The fifteen years are up and I'm waiting for the spell to be broken. This is my kingdom and I own this forest."

"Well, well, well!" declared Mister Muggs. "Who would have thought it? I shouldn't, for one."

"And I never forgot the sweet little girl I met in the woods picking flowers. Do you know where she lives?" asked the wolf.

"We are just on our way to her house now," said Mister Muggs. "If you care to come you may follow us along the path."

Red Riding Hood, now grown up, was making beds and looked out of the window and saw them.

"Look what's after you!" she cried, sticking her head out of the window. "It's a dreadful wolf."

"Oh, please ma'am, I'm not dreadful," said the wolf. "If you'll only let me come inside I'll be as good as gold and sit in a corner."

"Well, if you sit ina corner, you may," said Red Riding Hood. "Come in, everybody."

So they all went in and Red Riding Hood ran down to meet them.

But when she got there the wolf had vanished. And there stood a handsome young man in his place. The fifteen years were up that very minute, and the prince was himself again!

How did it end?

With a wedding, of course, and Nancy and Nick and Mister Muggs stayed to see it.

And this is the real way the story about Red Riding Hood ends!

Some of the Indians has been writing the Indian Department re the franchise and the Indian Department wants to pay them off at one hundred and thirty dollars out of a capital of over one hundred thousand dollars. Indians numbering two hundred more or less. Now if this ain't beating the poor Indian, I don't know what you call it. This is one of the reasons the Indian is appealing to the government for justice. The Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs won't listen as he leaves everything to the local agents who are not qualified to deal with the Indian people. ST. PAUL'S CHURCH CONCERT

(By Jeannette).

Particularly appropriate to the day, yesterday being the national fete of the French heroine, the Maid of Orleans, was the rendition last evening, in connection with the anniversary celebrations of St. Paul's Presbyterian congregation, of the historical cantata, "Joan of Arc," by the choir of the church. Under the direction of the church organist, Mr. Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., the choir of sixty voices painted a tone poem of varying colors and gradations, epitomizing in song the tender and tragic story of the Maid of Orleans. This is one of the most beautiful cantatas presented in the city in some time. Its artistic appeal is paramount, both by reason of the exceptionally good treatment by the composers of the theme and score, and because of the adequate handling by the choir last evening. The interpretation of the music was of the very highest order. The tireless voices of the chorus rendered the charming music in finished style. There was some outstanding work in their fine shading of choral intervals. Their crispness and accuracy in attack and release and their attention to tempo and rhythm had ample scope in the varied intervals of a somewhat exacting cantata, which demonstrated a type of graceful, melodious choral work suited to the character of the piece, the composer of which had evidently sought to emphasize the spiritual victory of the Maid. A quality of ethereal charm is manifest throughout the cantata, whose beginning introduces the Maid of Domremy, and whose story progresses through the tale of her advance to arms at the head of her followers, on to the final tragedy, which is touched lightly, the end epitomizing the spiritual victory of the martyred girl, and ending on a final note of hope and faith. Particularly effective throughout was the work of the voices, their pianissimo feminine sweetness calling to Joan, accompanied solely by the thready sweetness of the violoncello. The ladies of the chorus were garbed in white.

The inclement weather of the evening lessened the attendance, which was quite good, however, with a total of nearly six hundred people making an appreciative audience for the cantata by the choir, assisted by three splendid musicians from Toronto: Miss Nellye Gill, soprano, as Joan; Mr. Gladstone Brown, tenor, as Philip, her squire, and Mr. Ernest Caldwell, baritone, taking the dual part of Robert de Baudricourt and Jean de Novelonpont, lieutenants in the cause of the Maid of Orleans. On this, his first appearance in Peterboro, Mr. Caldwell made a very fine impression on his hearers, while his two companions duplicated the favorable opinion that followed their initial visit to the city in the concert given this year by the Peterboro Male Voice Choir. At the conclusion of the cantata, the visiting singers gave a supplementary programme of solo numbers.
